SYRIAN MISSIONARY TO BE AT CHESTNUT CREEK

Rev. Osmar Jacobs will lecture at Chestnut Creek Church Saturday night, October 7, at 7 o'clock.

Rev. Osmar Jacobs, Syrian Missionary to Brazil, has accepted an appointment here for next Saturday night and will lecture on the Holy Land.

The people of Cooper feel that they are fortunate in having Bro. Jacobs with them, and extend to the people of our neighboring churches an invitation to come and hear him.

He stated that he would wear the costume that is worn by his native people in his homeland, and give us some history of the Asyrian religion

We insist that you avail yourself of the opportunity to hear this man of Holy Lands.

A TONIC Laxative

CONSTIPATION, with the annoying symptoms that usually come with it, cuts down organic force and disturbs normal health and well-being. A thorough cleansing of the digestive tract is of great assistance in the removal of sickening constipation symptoms.

When excessive accumulated waste matter disturbs and strains the muscles of the large intestines, rendering them temporarily unable to perform their wave-like evacuating movements, Thedford's Black-Draught is useful in stimulating them to activity, which, again started, should continue regularly until some future disturbance interferes. In this way, Thedford's Black-Draught is one of the TONIC laxatives, tending, as it does, to establish a regular habit of evacuation.

"free ELECTRICITY.. for Mrs. JONES"

SECOND of a series of advertisements explaining the effect of our new rates.

A CONVERSATION between MRS. JONES (who is typical of several thousand customers of this company whose use of electricity has been averaging only 5 kilowatt hours monthly) and a REPRESENTATIVE of this company who is explaining to her the effect of our new low rates on her use of the service:

REPRESENTATIVE: "Good morning, Mrs. Jones. Have you heard about our NEW LOW RATES on electricity for home use?"

MRS. JONES: "Yes, I have. But I haven't paid much attention to them. We only burn one electric light in each of our 5 rooms, so our light bill never ran over the one dollar minimum."

REPRESENTATIVE: "Then you'll be surprised to learn, Mrs. Jones, that our new rates entitle you to use three times as much electricity for that dollar a month minimum you've been paying! In other words, for that dollar a month you can now use 15 kilowatt hours of electricity instead of just five! Compared with our old rates, these new rates give you ten more kilowatt hours per month absolutely free!"

MRS. JONES: "Will those ten free kilowatt hours enable me to use an electric iron without increasing my light bill?"

REPRESENTATIVE: "Yes. You can now use an electric iron or any of several other small appliances. For instance, those ten free kilowatt hours will operate an electric iron for 20 hours, or a waffle iron for 20 hours, or a 10-inch electric fan for 200 hours, or a percolator for 20 hours, or a vacuum cleaner for 100 hours. Or you can add twice as much electric lighting around your home. There are just lots of ways you can use your free electricity. But you know best. Choose the ways that will help you most."

MRS. JONES: "Well, that is good news. Suppose you just let me talk to Mr. Jones about it when he comes home tonight—then you call again tomorrow. In the meantime, we'll decide just how we will use the extra electricity and just which appliances we'll want first."

REPRESENTATIVE: "All right, Mrs. Jones. The sooner you begin using more electricity, the sooner you get the benefits coming to you under our new low rates. Good day, Ma'am."

Our new low rates enable small users of electricity to enjoy additional benefits of electric service either at no additional cost whatever, or at a negligible increase, depending on the use of the service. Get what's coming to you! If our Representative hasn't already called at your home, please come to our office or telephone and we will send our Representative immediately.

ALABAMA POWER CO.

Our advertisement in this newspaper next week will explain how the new rates affect our customers who live in 5-room homes and have been using from 6 to 30 kilowatt hours of electricity per month. Watch for it!

European, Game, Bantam and Miscellaneous Breeds of Chickens

A number of breeds of Continental European origin are recognized as standard breeds in the American Standard of Perfection. Very few of them, however, have gained great popularity nor have they become of considerable economic significance and because of these reasons they will be mentioned only briefly. For a more complete description of the European breeds and varieties the reader is advised to consult the "Standard of Perfection" published by the American Poultry Association (1930), Robinson (1924-25) and Jull (1926). Also, for further information concerning breeds not included in the Standard of Perfection the following should be consulted: Brown (1929).

The Houdan is a French breed and, like the Dorking, is five-toed. The Houdan gained considerable prominence in France because of its laying and meat-producing qualities. In America, however, it does not hold a very prominent place in the industry. It has a well-developed crest, a beard and a V-shaped comb. There are two varieties, the mottled and the white.

The Faurerolles originated in France from crosses involving the Houdan, Brahma, and possibly other breeds. In France it has proved to be a good table bird, but has not gained prominence elsewhere. It has a beard, muffs and feathered shanks. The Salmon is the only standard variety recognized in America, although in France there are the light and the black.

Other Continental European breeds of less importance are: The Creuecoeur, Fleche Campine, Buttercup, Polish, Hamburg, Malay and the Summatra.

The Game breed includes a number of varieties, but as a group it has certain definite characteristics. The birds are very striking in appearance, close-fitting plumage, stand upright, great width of the shoulders, sloping backs and drooping tails, single comb, and lay brown-shelled eggs. Are classed as broody breed. The varieties of the Game class include the black-breasted, red, brown-red, golden duckwing, silver duckwing, birchen, red pyle, white and black.

Bantams are kept by many to whom the type appeals and who take pleasure in working out the breeding problem that it presents. The development of various color patterns is also an incentive in bantam breeding. Also, many young boys and girls may readily keep a pen of bantams, which in turn frequently leads to an interest in larger fowls. The breeds of bantams include miniatures of the varieties of Games and a number of ornamental breeds.

Three miscellaneous breeds recognized as standard in America include the Frizzle with its peculiar development of the feathers which show a tendency to curve outwards at their ends, the Silkie, with its blue skin and silky appearing feather formation, and the Sultan, with its V-shaped comb, a crest, muffs, beard and vulture beaks.

Of the many other miscellaneous breeds in the world today, only two will be mentioned because of their peculiar characteristics. The Yokohoma of Japanese origin, is interesting from the fact that some of the tail and saddle feathers are developed to extreme length, sometimes as long as 20 feet. The Araucana, of South American origin, is of interest because it has a peculiar growth of feathers on each side of the neck, is frequently rumpless, and lays a light blue tinted egg.

Next week's topic: "Judging Chickens on the Basis of Standard and Production Qualities."

ANTIOCH

Since I haven't seen any news from this place in quite a while, will let everyone know we are still on the map.

Our Sunday school and C. E. are both improving. We invite everybody to come to Sunday school every Sunday morning at nine o'clock and C. E. every Sunday night at seven o'clock. Every member of the C. E. is urged to attend each meeting.

There was quite a few from this place attended the singing at Pilgrim Rest Sunday afternoon. Everyone reported a real good singing, and a nice time. The Antioch singing society will meet next third Sunday afternoon, October 15th, as it is our regular singing afternoon. We cordially invite all good singers to come and help sing. We are expecting to have the Pilgrim Quartet and also the Liberty Quartet with us. Everyone is invited.

Misses Lizzie Mae Lewis, Melda Sansom, Laler Headley were the guests of Miss Mary Owen Saturday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Billie Atkinson of Birmingham spent the past week end with the latter's mother, Mrs. Emma Ratliff.

Mr. and Mrs. Alonza Hayes were the dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Ratliff Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. N. L. Owen and daughter, Fannie Mae, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Gandy Sunday.

Mrs. N. L. Owen was the spend-the-week guest of her sister. Mrs. Charlie Mims, the past week.

Miss Audra Ratliff had as her guest Sunday Miss Ruth Kate Ratliff.

Miss Mary Owen was the dinner guest of Mrs. Emma Ratliff Sunday.

Misses Anne, Claudell and Ola Ratliff were the Saturday afternoon guests of Miss Mattie Ratliff.

Everyone remember the Barbecue Supper and ice cream supper at the home of Mr. N. L. (Nonde) Owen Saturday night, October 7th. Plenty of refreshments and entertainment for everyone. The proceeds will go for our piano fund. Everybody come!

Sunday school and B.Y.P.U. are progressing nicely. We had several visitors Sunday. We invite them back.

Several from here attended the singing at Pleasant Grove Sunday. All reported a nice time.

Saturday night, September 30, Miss Jewell Williams gave a weiner roast and picnic in the oak grove near her home in honor of "Aunt" Nannie Bone, who was 64 years old October 1st. After the weiners were roasted a very delicious and bountiful lunch was spread, which was very much enjoyed by all present. Then games were played until a late hour. Everyone returned home after enjoying themselves very much, wishing "Aunt Nannie" many more happy birthdays.

Mrs. Helen Hagan and children spent last week in Clanton as the guests of her sister, Mrs. Webb.

Mr. and Mrs. John Burnett and Mr. and Mrs. Julius Edwards and children visited Mr. and Mrs. Barney Wilkins.

Mrs. Lula Jones and children, Mrs. J. F. DeVaughn, William and Lela DeVaughn motored to Birmingham Saturday.

Mr. Alton DeLoach spent Thursday night with Mr. Charlie Burnett.

Come to Sunday school Sunday at 10 o'clock. All are invited.

JACKSON CHAPEL

Our singing was called to order by the chairman, Mr. Fonza Clackler, and prayer was led by Mr. Popwell. The following directed one or two songs each: Miss Myrtice Traywick, Miss Ruby Jones, Mr. Harvey Parker, Mr. Morris Clackler, Miss Martell Blankenship, Miss Marywill Smith, Miss Willie B. Jones, Miss Loudelia Clackler, Miss Wilodene Smith, Mr. Leonard Burnett, Mr. Virgil Robinson, Mr. C. C. Traywick, Mrs. W. L. Sanders, Mr. Johnnie Miner, Mrs. Fonza Clackler, Miss Lillie Mae Weldon. The organists were Mr. and Mrs. Fonza Clackler, Miss Lillie Mae Weldon and Miss Mittice Duncan. Mr. Clackler sang the closing song and we were dismissed by Johnnnie Miner. We want to thank everyone for coming out and helping us, also want to thank the organists for their playing, and want to thank Mrs. W. A. Smith for her organ. We will meet next first Sunday at 2 p.m.

I want to call attention to one that is carrying on a little ungodly act at Jackson Chapel. Please stop it, as we don't approve of it, and the trustees of the school don't either.

We have a fine Sunday school here, and also have a good singing class. So we don't want anything like this to interefere with it. I also want to call your attention about the window pane being broken out. Be careful about this for you know they don't give them away. Winter is coming and you know the wind will blow mighty cool through them.

V. G. SMITH, Secretary.

MT. PISGAH

Our singing society met here last Sunday afternoon, October 1, with a large class. After the opening song we were led in prayer by Mr. Jake Henley.

Directors for the afternoon were: (Indian Grave) Misses Zitma Wilkins, Maudie Jones, and Ella Mae Jones; (Bethsalem), Clarence Billingsley. (Pleasant Valley), Marvin Huett, Marshall Burkhalter, Howard Boockholdt, Bernard Stroud and Mrs. Clara Boockholdt; (Maple Springs), Reuben Devaughn; (Mt. Pisgah), Jake Henley and Cecil Yeargan.

We appreciate the help from the visiting churches, together with all the visitors and welcome them back on the first Sunday in each month.

The closing song was sung by the chairman and we were dismissed with prayer by Albert Edwards.

On next Sunday afternoon, October 8th, this society will meet with Pleasant Valley at two o'clock. Everybody is invited to meet with us.

—Cecil Yeargan, Chairman; Agnes Rollan, Secretary.

SHILOH

Our Sunday school and B.Y.P.U. are progressing nicely.

We wish to announce that our preaching day has been changed from the first Saturday and Sunday to the second Saturday and Sunday. We invite everyone who will to come and be with us next Saturday and Sunday.

Several from this place attended the singing at Pleasant Grove last Sunday. All reported a nice time.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Neal Baker spent Sunday night and Monday with Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Dobbs.

Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Wyatt spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Dobbs.

Miss Jettie Mims spent last Saturday night with Miss Era Scott.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Baker spent Sunday with Mr. Fred Baker and children.

Mr. J. I. Bice and family visited Mr. Flemy Gray Sunday.

Leroy Dobbs spent Sunday night with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Mims.

Messrs. Toy Mullins and Lonnie Watts spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Harvie Dobbs.

Mr. W. F. Dobbs and family wish to thank the people for the kindness shown and for picking cotton during his illness. May God bless everyone who lent a helping hand.

APPROVED ROAD PROJECTS TO GIVE WORK TO 148,000

Washington.—Public Works Administrator Ickes has announced that 1,841 road-construction projects already have been approved, involving expenditure of $116,209,604, and the estimated employment will be 148,000 men. Contracts have been awarded for 905 projects, and of this number 464 actually are under construction. A total of $400,000,000 has been appropriated for highways. Of new roads approved, 1,114 are Federal-aid highways, 406 are into or through municipalities, 215 are feeder roads, 26 are in national parks, 75 in national forests, and 5 on public lands. Approvals from district engineers are being received at the rate of 40 per day.

Responsibility for prompt approval of roads is in the hands of the several State highway departments. Secretary Ickes points out that in 16 States no construction can begin, although the projects have been approved by the United States district engineers. Georgia has just completed a long-delayed plan. States where no work is under way are Alabama, Arkansas, Connecticut, Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Louisiana Maryland, Michigan, Mississippi, Missouri, New Jersey, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, and South Carolina.

Pleasant Hill-Billingsley

The 4th quarterly conference of Verbena charge, Methodist Protestant church, will convene with this church on Saturday before the 2nd Sunday in October. Every official of the conference is expected to be present. Two delegates have been nominated, one from Mt. Pisgah and Kingston, Stanley Davis, and D. P. Niccard. Each church has voted on delegates. The votes also carry the name of the choice preacher for 1934. The votes are to be counted at conference. The pastor is near the close of his fifth year as pastor of Mt. Pisgah, Pleasant Hill and Kingston.

Bro. Culp desires to have a good delegation from each church. Visitors are always welcome. Remember the date and place. — E. D. Coggins, Circuit Steward, N. H. Culp, Pastor.

CONTINUED FOR ANOTHER 6 MONTHS Over Entire L. & N. System

In April, this railroad announced that it would conduct a six months' experimental period of drastic passenger fare reductions, lowering its rates to 2¢ per mile in coaches and 2¢ per mile each way for round trip tickets for transportation in parlor and sleeping cars, and 3¢ a mile for transportation in Pullmans where one-way tickets are bought. (When parlor or sleeping cars are used cost of space is extra). Announcement was made that the continuation of these experimental fares would be dependent upon their reception by the traveling public and the management is now glad to say that due to the encouraging response given to these fares the experiment will be continued for another six months beginning with October 1st and ending with March 31st.

These fares apply between all points on the L. & N. Railroad, and afford the most satisfactory and economical method of transportation providing similar comforts and conveniences.

Wells-Walton Wedding Is Of A Wide Interest

A marriage characterized by stately dignity and impressive beauty and one of outstanding interest throughout Alabama, was that of Miss Nell Wells and Mr. Clifford L. Walton, which was solemnized Wednesday evening, September the twenty-seventh, at half after eight o'clock, at the Methodist church, in the presence of a small company of relatives and friends. Dr. R. F. Walston, pastor of the bride and groom, officiated using the impressive ring ceremony.

The marriage is of added interest both because of the personality and prominence of the high contracting parties and their families.

Specimen dahlias with their soft green foliage, arranged in ivory baskets decorated teh chancel posts and the altar where the sacred vows were pledged

The bride who is a beautiful woman. was alluring in a black triple sheer crepe with French touches of white and accessories to harmonize.

Miss Nell Wells came to LaFayette in January as Director of the Social Service, coming direct from Jasper where she capably held the same position. Since coming to LaFayette she has won the love, friendship and deep admiration of all the county by her graciousness and charm, her strict devotion and splendid capability in the lines of duty, her sympathy as counselor and friend to many throughout the length and breadth of Chambers County.

She is a graduate of Womans College, Montevallo, where she received her B. A. degree, later had graduate work at the University and Social Science at New York City. She is a member of the Chi Delta Phi sorority, was a member of the Pilot Club at Clanton where she was of the high school faculty. She was a member of the Business and Professional Womans club at Jasper. As Associate Conductress of The Eastern Star she was a charter member of the chapter at Jemison, her native city.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Wells, of Jemison, a member of one of Chilton County's most prominent families, from both parents she inherits intellectual and executive ability. Her father is a leading lumber merchant of Jemison and her mother is a member of the Child Welfare Board of Chilton County, president of the P.-T. A. at Jemison, and Worthy Matron of The Eastern Star.

Matching intellect, ability, prominence and aristocracy of family is the bride and groom

Mr Walton is of old Chambers aristocracy. He is a graduate of Birmingham-Southern. The men of the family have sustained the honor and dignity of the name. He is owner and editor of The LaFayette Sun. A leader in all civic activities of uplift. He was a member of the local school board for years, until duties of his business caused his resignation, during his terms as a member of school board, the splendid new school buildings were erected. He is a member and steward of the Methodist church, a scholar and gentleman.

Of great interest to the town and county is the acquisition as a permanent resident of Mrs. Walton. With her husband she will fill a wide field of usefulness in literary, social, civic and church activities.

Mr. and Mrs. Walton are at home at his handsome residence in LaFayette.

SERIES OF MEETINGS OVER COUNTY FOR LEADERSHIP SCHOOL OPEN

Accomplishments And Benefits Of 4-H Club Work For Girls Given By Demonstration Agent; Much Interest Is Also Being Shown

A series of seven leadership schools in home demonstration work, taking up the outstanding steps of the project year, was begun here Friday, when Miss Ruth Pardue, home demonstration agent, conducted the first meeting. Thirty-five attended the meeting, at which B. H. Bailey, poultry specialist of Auburn, was the principal speaker.

Miss Pardue also lectured on Fall and Winter Gardens and County Agent C. E. Stapp spoke on the advantages of organized leadership in the pursuance of demonstration work.

The following resume of the accomplishments and benefits of 4-H Club work for girls has been prepared by Miss Pardue:

4-H CLUB WORK FOR GIRLS

Organization

4-H Club work is an opportunity to bring home economics training to rural girls, and also an opportunity to form a club for the development of various community activities.

A 4-H club may be organized where there are five or more members who wish to work on the same project. The best results have been obtained through organizing in the schools since the larger group of girls are there. It is hoped that 4-H clubs can be organized in Chilton county schools this month. Although most of the meetings are held at schools, it is urged that as many meetings as possible, social and otherwise, be held in homes in order to promote community spirit.

If clubs are organized in your schools, a satisfactory schedule with the teachers will be worked out. It will be impossible to organize more than 15 clubs in this county due to the other work the Home Agent has to do. If there are more communities than this who are interested in 4-H club work, they will be reached later. The best results are always obtained where the teachers cooperate.

Girls from 10-20 years of age, inclusive, may enroll in 4-H club work. The club motto "To make the best better" should always be before a 4-H club member.

The following officers are elected: 1. President, who shall preside. 2. Vice-President, who shall assist the president. 3. Secretary-Treasurer, who shall keep a record of attendance and activities at all meetings. 4. Reporter, who shall report all meetings to the county newspapers. 5. Song and yell leader, who shall lead all 4-H songs and yells at each meeting. 6. Club advisor, or Local Leader, who has various duties. This is usually an interested older person in the community.

Monthly club meetings are held by the Home Demonstration Agent and one by the local leader. A clothing project will be taken up this year. The aim of which is to round out the life of our club girls so that they will be better equipped for homemaking. To do this they must know the principles governing healthful living for themselves, their families, and their community. They must know how to select, construct and care for their clothing in relation to health and beauty; and they must appreciate the meaning of a well-dressed club girl, all of which aims to equip them for better homemaking. From our clothing project this year it is hoped that Chilton County Club girls will be able to do these things.

In addition to their project there will be county club rallies, camps, and community, county and state fairs. These activities are always interesting to 4-H club girls and are truly worthwhile.

A 4-H Club girl's pledge: (This is the reason for the 4-H's)

I pledge—
My Head to clearer thinking,
My Heart to greater loyalty,
My Hands to larger service, and
My Health for better living
for
My Club, my community and my country.

It is hoped that by the cooperation of you teachers and the home demonstration agent that a good organization can be worked out in Chilton County this year.

The Leader, one of Clanton's largest business establishments, declared this week that his business is approximately 25 or 30 per cent better than last season. He also notices a decided improvement in the general attitude, even during the past few weeks.

Other business men in the Chilton county metropolis are equally as optimistic regarding the future. All express confidence in the success of the President's gigantic NRA program. Too, the guaranteed price of ten cents for cotton under a recent government provision has done much to stimulate the people's confidence, is the expressed belief of financiers here.

Every day cotton checks are being received by the county agent's office and distributed to farmers in every nook of the county. Approximately $200,000 will flow from this source into the county and into the pockets of more than 3,000 farmers, who plowed under 13,000 acres of their cotton crop as their part in the cotton acreage reduction program.

Renfro Mullins, of the Mullins & Moore establishment, estimated that the farmers of Chilton county are in better condition than they have been for the past two years. The cotton crop this year will amount to approximately 12,000 bales, he estimates, for which the farmer will receive $550,000, compared to a 15,000 bale crop last year which brought about $450,000. In addition to this $200,000 will be paid for cotton that was taken out of production.

Although prices have advanced, Mr. Mullins said, that the present price of cotton will go much farther toward paying debts that were contracted during the production of this crop, which he declares was produced on the smallest possible amounts. Too, there is much more feed stuff in the county that at this time last year, he avers.

Under the provisions of the NRA code several hundred dollars have been added to the weekly payrolls in Clanton and nearly 200 men have been given employment during the past six weeks.

MASS MEETING

people of the county to attend the meeting. Everybody will be given an opportunity to express themselves on the proposition.

The County School Board already has been making a study of the proposal, and they desire that the people generally have a chance to understand the program before they proceed further. It has been stated that the money proposed to be borrowed, is to be used for building and equipping school houses, and that it will have to be paid back to the Federal Government over a period of twenty years, with interest at 4 per cent. Payments each year to be made out of the general school budget.

At the mass meeting next Saturday there will be a speaker who is able to explain every detail of the proposition to the people, and it is hoped that a fully representative attendance of citizens will be present, learn about what is involved, and express themselves on the subject.

present at the all-day session. Dr. A. F. Harman, state superintendent of education, and John E. Bryan, president of the Alabama Education association, were the principal speakers.

Dr. Harman emphasized the importance of impressing and moulding the child's character by worthy examples in the class room, declaring that the teacher has a great possibility in moulding the generation of tomorrow by the exertion of the proper influence during the school period.

Mr. Bryan spoke on the subject, Forward in Alabama Education Thru Intelligent Leadership and Informed Teaching Professions. He asserted that teachers have every reason to believe that this period of chaos into which education found itself during recent years has ended and a more brilliant period than has ever been known in the educational field looms just over the horizon.

The following representatives of colleges and universities were present and outlined extension courses that are being offered this year:

Dr. R. E. Tidwell, University of Alabama; Dr. J. L. Brakefield, Howard College; Miss Olivia Lawson, Alabama College, A. C. Shelton, State Teachers College.

Superintendent Luther E. Little was presented with a handsome monogrammed brief case by teachers in the county in appreciation of his untiring efforts for their welfare in the county.

ment. This board is not to give jobs.

All complaints must be in writing and full and explicit as to the violations complained of, the Board stated. They must be signed but the complainant's name will be held in strictest confidence if such is the desire of the complainant.

The Board will acknowledge receipt of each compaint and the Board will act upon the complaints immediately when there is just cause for complaint. If there is no cause for complaint or the matter is one not within the jurisdiction of the board the complainant will be so advised.

The Board is empowered to deal only with violations of the President's Re-employment Agreement or what is termed the "blanket code" and has no authority to receive complaints of violations of separate codes for various industries. Violations of other codes should be reported to the National Recovery Administration in Washington. The first meeting of the Board will be held soon, it was stated.

ENGAGEMENT OF LOCAL INTEREST ANNOUNCED

An engagement that is of wide interest appeared in The Birmingham News last Sunday and is as follows:

"Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Williams, of Clanton, announce the engagement of their daughter, Lloyd Delene, to Grover Lloyd Williams, of Birmingham, the marriage to take place at the home of Dr. Horace G. Williams in Tuscaloosa on October 7."

Miss Williams is considered one of the most popular young ladies of Clanton.

Here And There

Montgomery is staging a huge NRA day and parade down there October 19. Clanton has received an invitation to be represented in the parade, and this is one time Clanton should show some mighty bright colors as would be in keeping with our town and county, in the capital city. It would not be amiss for the Pilot Club or the Kiwanis Club, or any other local organization to get behind this. The Mayor has received the invitation.

We were visited last Saturday by our friend H. H. Armstrong from Jemison, Route 3, and enjoyed a nice chat with him. Mr. Armstrong is not to be confused with the other men of high standing such as bank presidents, of the same name. But he could walk right along with them, as far as that is concerned. Mr. Armstrong possesses a receipt of a year's subscription to the News also.

These cool mornings and evenings bring our mind to the thought that we would like to exchange a good electric fan for some wood or a heater. Nope, don't take us seriously there, however. We'll need the fan next summer.

But speaking of wood. The News force is needing some pine and would be glad to exchange a subscription, or more than one, for some good pine and the sooner the better.

We received a good supply of potatoes and sugar cane Saturday from one of the county's fair ladies, Mrs. Wash Scott of Route 3, who will receive her first copy of the News this week. And we hope she will enjoy the paper each week hereafter.

Overheard at Dief's Cafe: "Lady, will you give us some more of those good biscuits? You certainly ought to let the people know how good your cooking is." Dief's Cafe is operated by Miss Dessie Robinson who as this column stated once before, knows her cooking.

We were pleased to have Arthur Brown call in to see us Saturday. Arthur is one of our young friends in the county and we are certainly for him.

H. S. Lee, of Route 6 was a recent visitor to Clanton and a pleasant caller at the News office.

Clifford Foshee, another one of our young men who will make some real citizens for the county, was a caller at the News office the other day.

George E. Wilkerson, of Lay Dam, was in Clanton Saturday, and dropped into the News office where he was given a subscription receipt. We don't see Mr. Wilkerson very often but he has been reading the News for some time.

Monday morning brought us a visit from our friend, B. W. Tyus, who took advantage of the News one dollar a year offer.

J. R. Hall, of the Chestnut Grove community was a caller at the News office Saturday and we are glad to number him among our friends. Mr. Hall is a progressive citizen of our county.

"Uncle Bud And His Boll Weevils" are coming to this county, but don't be alarmed about the boll weevils. They are not the cotton eating kind. They are very musical and will be at Jemison high school tomorrow night.

Our good democratic friend, W. B. Corley, surprised the News Tuesday by visiting the office. Mr. Corley hasn't been out much lately and it was sure a treat to see him. We hope he won't stay away so long and visit us often.

We have been wanting to go to one of the box suppers that are being held over the county now. We've never attended one and understand it is very entertaining. We woder if the Pilot Club of Clanton couldn't sponsor a box supper in Clanton sometime.

Our young people will gather at Jones, Ala., on Sunday, October 15th, for the Unity Young Peoples Rally. We feel a great delight in the work that is being done among young people.

And we certainly hope we can go to the chicken supper that is to be held at Union Grove's new school building on Saturday night of this week. They say there will be plenty of good eats and good music, and in a new building, too.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. V. G. Smith of the mill village. They are the proud parents of a fine young girl, born last Friday.

Congratulations to Broadhead's Market on their moving to their new store where Hill's was formerly located. Mr. Broadhead says he is exceedingly well pleased with the new home and that business is certainly getting better.

And let us mention right here with emphasis that those barbecue sandwiches and milk served by Mr. and Mrs. Ben Simms at their stand on the highway just north of Clanton, are most delicious. We know because we have tried them.

We were pleased to have Shelley Gilliland to call on us the other day.

And Cornelius Caton of Route 5 made his appearance in Clanton Saturday and was a caller at the News office.

Harrison Smith, our good friend from Coopers, was in Clanton Saturday attending to business matters. We were glad to have Mr. Smith drop in to see us while he was in town. He is a man who is in favor of those things that are worthwhile and we like his progressive spirit.

FARMERS MAY RENT LAND TO GOVERNMENT

$3 To $11 Will Be Paid On Idle Cotton Land As A Part Of Program

Washington—Cotton growers will be paid rentals of from $3 to $11 an acre to let their lands lie idle next year in the government's newest program for trimming surplus farm production.

The scale of payments will be based on the potential yields of the land under the control program made public Saturday by the farm adjustment administration which aims to bring down to 25,000,000 acres in 1934 as compared with about 41,000,000 this year.

It was estimated the cost would be about $100,000,000. This will be met by continuing the processing tax of 4.2 cents a pound for another year.

Campaign Set

Farm administrators said they intend to launch within two weeks their campaign to obtain agreements for reducing the plantings. The first step will be organization of county associations of growers.

Speed is necessary to make the control campaign parallel the government's program of making loans of 10 cents a pound on cotton held by farmers. The latter will be put into operation soon

A picture that has drawn crowds in large cities is coming to Clanton under the auspices of the Parent-Teachers Association of the Clanton grammar school. This picture, "The Kid From Spain" starring that fun provoking Eddie Cantor, will be a treat to old and young.

It will be shown at the Wadesonian Theater on Friday night and Saturday night, October 13th and 14th. "The Kid From Spain" has been selected as one of the most outstanding pictures of its kind of the season and those seeing it at the local theater this week end are assured of some real laughs, as well as aiding the P.-T. A. in its work.

CHICKEN SUPPER TO BE HELD AT UNION GROVE

There will be a chicken supper at Union Grove new school building Saturday night, October 14th, at 7:30 p.m. There will be plenty of good music and many other interesting events, such as pretty girl and ugly men contests. Everybody come and bring someone with you, and let's all have a good time.

HIGH SCHOOL GRID PLAYERS GOING STRONG

Gain Victory Over Strong Team From Columbiana On Last Friday

By Dan Smith

True to their form the Chilton County High School football team defeated a strong Shelby County High team, 13 to 0, in a fast and tight game at Columbiana last Friday afternoon. This was the team's first game under their new coach, J. T. Searcy, who filled the vacancy left by T. H. Walker. This victory is the second of the season with only one defeat.

Led by the brilliant and spectacular plays of their captain, Jesse Frank Foshee, at fullback, Joe Moore and Cecil Jones, fleetfooted ends; Carl Jones and James Tiffin, quarterback and halfback respectively, the Chilton team pushed aside the stubborn heavy Shelby team to put over two thrilling touchdowns, one in the second quarter and one in the last quarter. One of the best plays of the game was made by Sidney Reynolds in returning a punt up the field for over twenty yards.

Several new and tricky plays were put in practical use by the team which netted considerable yardage. Only one substitution was made during the game, Grady Reynolds for U. L. Baker at right tackle in the last quarter. Many yards were covered by fast end runs of Tiffin and Carl Jones protected by the splendid blocking of the ends and Foshee and Sidney Reynolds in the backfield.

The first touchdown of the game was made in the second quarter on a twenty-yard pass from Tiffin to Moore on Shelby's thirty yard line, Moore running the remaining ten yards to cross the goal line standing up. Foshee at fullback bucked the line for the extra point. During the first quarter Chilton threatened the Shelby goal several times but were held scoreless for the quarter by the hard fighting Shelby team. Both teams played brilliant and spirited football during the third quar-

CITIZENS GIVE APPROVAL OF SCHOOL LOAN

Supt. Little Gives Out Full Information As To How Money Will Be Used

Citizens, representing every section of Chilton county, at a mass meeting in the court house Saturday afternoon endorsed a proposal, 78 to 2, to make application for funds under the Public Works Fund to promote a $66,000 school building program in Chilton county.

Supt. Luther E. Little explained how the money is to be obtained and under what provisions it is to be expended, declaring that regardless of whether or not Chilton county secures its share the money has already been allotted to the State of Alabama and this county will be responsible for its repayment. No taxes are levied by the United States Government to apply to certain sections. Too, Mr. Little explained, 30 per cent of the proposed $66,200 will be in the form of a federal grant and will not have to be repaid, so over a period of 20 years principle and interest would not amount to the sum received.

The proposed building program is composed of nine projects and will directly benefit 61 communities in the county. It was explained by the several speakers who championed the proposal that securing this fund will prevent the various communities from being penalized to construct necessary buildings in which to carry on the education of their children.

Mr. And Mrs. Simms Reopen Lunch Stand

The barbecue stand located on the highway just north of Clanton, "on top of the hill" is back under the able management of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Simms. This announcement will be received with a great deal of interest and pleasure by the many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Simms.

The stand has been thoroughly renovized throughout, with new paint and fixtures. Mr. Simms stated they will serve their usual delicious barbecue sandwiches and other sandwiches, hot coffee and drinks. Those who have already visited this place since Mr. and Mrs. Simms took it over, are expressing delight at the excellent manner n which they prepare the barbecue.

Mr. and Mrs. Simms, who are widely known here, invite their friends to visit them at their place of business. Curb service is rendered with pleasure.

10-CENT COTTON FOR FARMERS THROUGH LOANS

U.S. Credit Corporation To Be Formed Quickly; President Reveals Plan

Washington, Oct. 6—President Roosevelt announced today that the first concrete move in his latest effort to raise commodity prices and increase farm purchasing power would be the immediate creation of a Credit Corporation to lend farmers on crop security.

The corporation, whose personnel is now being considered, will have an initial capitalization of $3,000,000 and its first duty will be to carry out the administration's promise to lend cotton farmers ten cents a pound on their present crop if they agree to join in the campaign designed to reduce acreage by 40 per cent next year.

The corporation will have authority to lend on other commodities but cotton is the only crop now being considered for benefits.

The agency will be responsible to the President and Secretary Wallace probably will be a member.

The loans, to bear interest at four per cent, will be made at the nearest acceptable warehouse on all cotton above low middling grade of 7-8 inch staple.

LOCAL FIRE DEPARTMENT EVER ON JOB

Urges Observance Of Fire Prevention Week By City Residents

Ever alert to minimize fire hazards and better serve the residents and property owners of Clanton, William H. L. Smith, chief of the Clanton Fire Department, in cooperation with the National Fire Prevention program which is being staged throughout the country, has requested the cooperation of everyone in lessennnig fire dangers in the city during this week.

With Jack Frost and the windy days of Winter mobilizing fire hazards are greatly magnified, Chief Smith declared in a statement issued Monday requesting housewives and property owners to help by destroying trash and dead grasses about the homes, which are a constant menace not only to their own homes, but to surrounding properties.

An envious record has been made by the Clanton Fire Fighters during their decade of existence. Nine of the original members still answer when siren screams forth its challenge. Residents of Clanton can aid in keeping this record intact by cooperating with Chief Smith in promoting this program.

ICE CREAM AND SANDWICH SUPPER NEAR FLOYD CHURCH

The News has been requested to announce that there will be an ice cream and sandwich super Saturday night, October 14, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ocie Taylor near Floyd church, west of Verbena. Proceeds will go for the benefit of Floyd church. Everyone has an invitation to attend.

"UNCLE BUD AND HIS BOLL WEEVILS" AT JEMISON

DISTRICT PARENT-TEACHERS MEET TO BE HELD IN THORSBY SATURD'Y

President Of Alabama Congress Of Parents And Teachers To Be Principal Speaker On Program To Be Held In Auditorium Of Public School

Mrs. James Fitts Hill, president of the Alabama Congress of Parents and Teachers, will be the principal speaker, Saturday, October 28, when a district parent-teachers conference will be held in the public school building at Thorsby.

In writing to Superintendent Luther E. Little in regard to the proposed conference, Mrs. Hill stated that the organization is putting forth every effort to improve conditions of schools in the state.

Following is an excerpt from Mrs. Hill's letter:

"The Alabama Congress of Parents and Teachers is putting forth every effort to improve school conditions in this State. The Know-Yourself School Program for the regular parent-teacher meetings as outlined by a joint committee from the Alabama Education Association and the Alabama Congress of Parents and Teachers, dealing as it does with problems of vital concern to both parents and teachers, should challenge the interest of every member of both groups. The work we are doing with Citizens Councils throughout the State is attracting nationwide attention. The plans of work outlined for the standing committees are just the kind of help the local associations have needed for carrying on the activities sponsored by our organization for the welfare of childhood.

"On Saturday, October 28, a district parent-teacher conference will be held at Thorsby. The program will be in the nature of a school of instruction based upon the material and activities mentioned above.

"The Alabama Congress of Parents and Teachers is fighting for better schools. The stronger the organization, the greater will be its influence. With unity of effort and unity of purpose, we can get unity of result. Our goal is a parent-teacher association in every school with that association belonging to the State and National organization."

Sincerely yours,
ELIZABETH BALDWIN HILL.
Pres. Ala. Congress Parents-Teachers.

Superintendent Little urges every school in the county, whether it maintains a parent-teachers association, to have representatives at the Thorsby conference.

Extension Men Will Be In Clanton Soon

Announcements have been received by the office of the county superintendent of education to the effect that representatives from the University of Alabama and the State Teachers College of Jacksonville, will be in Clanton this week to enroll extension students.

The announcements follow:

"The extension department of the University of Alabama wishes to announce to the teachers of the county and any others who would be interested in taking extension work from the University, that Prof. S. J. Hocking will meet with those who are interested at the office of the County Superintendent of Education at 7:00 o'clock, Thursday evening, October 12."

"The extension department of the State Teachers College at Jacksonville wishes to announce that the first meeting of the extension classes will be held in Clanton at the County High school building next Saturday, October 14, at 10:00 o'clock. Two teachers will be present at this meeting and everyone present will have an opportunity to choose between the two courses which will be offered from this institution."

NEW MEMBERS ARE ADDED TO BOARD OF NRA

Making Preparations For Receiving Of Any Complaints

Four additional members have been added to the Chilton County NRA Compliance Board, which was organized and set into motion last week to hear complaints arising out of violations of the NRA code under which practically all of the business men in Clanton and other towns of the county are operating.

The new members were added, it has been explained by charter members, because of requirements which demand at least seven members to each board, representing seven classes of industry and employment.

Composing the local board now are: H. G. Popwell, Clanton, ginner, employe in industry; B. W. Burnette, Clanton, bookkeeper, employe in retail or wholesale trade; J. D. Rockett, Clanton, planing mill operator, employer in industry; A. E. Reagan, Thorsby, manager of retail store, employer in retail or wholesale trade;

C. Fenn Jones, Clanton, retired merchant, L. E. Diefenderfer, service station operator, representatives of consumers; G. C. Walker, Clanton, lawyer; M. A. Gore, Clanton, broker, permanent chairman of the Chilton County NRA organization. The original members of the board were: Mr. Diefenderfer, Mr. Rockett and Mr. Reagan.

The Board is empowered to deal only with violations of the President's Re-employment Agreement or what is termed the "blanket code" and has no authority to receive complaints of violations of separate codes for various industries. Violations of other codes should be reported to the National Recovery Administration in Washington. The first meeting of the Board will be held soon, it was stated.

CHURCHES TO PUSH PAY-UP WEEK IN OCT.

City - Wide Objective Will Open October 22 And Run Through 29th

The Baptist Church of Clanton has accepted the challenge of the Methodist, and has announced that it will join in on the Pay-Up Week that has already been declared by the latter. The date of the campaign will be the week from October 22 to 29.

A definite objective is therefore set by each of the churches to pay up all outstanding church obligations during this period. The major portion of these obligations is for back dues on salaries of the pastors.

An outline of the plan of the Methodists for Pay-Up Week was given in the papers last week. The Baptists and all other denominations in the city were invited to join in the plan and make it a city-wide church objective. Very promptly the Baptists, through the Board of Deacons, declared their willingness to get in the game.

The official Boards of these two churches now urge that each and every church member begin at once to arrange for participation in the pay-up program. It is pointed out that no member need wait until that week to pay up. It may be done right now, any time, if any member desires to do so. But it is urged that every member be prepared to do his or her bit surely not later than the end of the week, October 29.

Further details of a systematic approach to the question may be arranged by the Stewards and Deacons, as they find most appropriate. If any such further plans are found advisable, full information will be announced next week. Such should not be necessary, however. If the individual members of these churches would get upon their hearts the importance of paying their church obligations, and do only that part which each one is able to do, the job would be easy, and could be accomplished even before the pay-up week arrives.

HARDY MAY GET IN RACE FOR SHERIFF HERE

Chief Of Police Being Urged As Candidate By Friends In Both Parties

The first one to step out and make a public statement that might tend to show he is considering entering the election in this county next year is J. R. Hardy, chief of police of Clanton.

Mr. Hardy has been urged by his many friends in both the Democratic and Republican parties of Chilton county to enter the race for sheriff of this county, and pledging their support, and in a statement to the News Mr. Hardy showed an inclination to seriously consider the race

He served as sheriff of [illegible] county for one term and his friends there are also interested in seeing him enter the race in this county, it is understood.

In commenting on this Mr. Hardy said, "If the situation continues to develop as it has during the past and my friends in both parties continue to pledge their support, I shall be inclined to make the race." Mr. Hardy's definite statement will be awaited with interest by the voters of this county.

Several other persons are being mentioned as prospective candidates for the various offices in the county in the election next year

CLANTON ASKED TO TAKE A PART IN NRA PARADE

No Steps Taken As Yet To Have City Represented In Huge Parade

Thursday, October 19, will be a big day in Montgomery! A big day over all Alabama! For 'tis then that delegates from almost every municipality and hamlet throughout the state will congregate and vie with each other in a mammoth parade, paying tribute to President Franklin Delano Roosevelt and the NRA Blue Eagle that spreads its protecting wings over the country.

Little more than two months have passed since the President's address, pleading for cooperation, was broadcast into every nook of the Union. Since that time Business America has lined up behind the Blue Eagle almost 100 per cent, demonstrating a greater degree of patriotism than history ever before has known.

Millions of men and women have been given employment, payrolls have been doubled and trebled a feeling of optimism and cheerfulness has surged throughout the land—thus the idea of the State NRA Parade, testifying the appreciation that every true American must feel toward a President who is making such a gigantic effort to restore prosperity.

Invitations have been extended to every municipality in the state, asking that individual delegations be entered in the parade.

Wednesday morning no definite action had been taken by the city government to see that Clanton, often alluded to "as the best little town in Alabama," be entered. Mayor J. Lee Smith said that he received an invitation several days ago.

County Chairman M. A. Gore expressed the opinion that it would be nothing short of tragedy for Clanton to miss this opportunity to show its patriotism and loyalty. He declared that the expense of placing a representative float for the Chilton county metropolis would be practically nothing

Suggestions that some of the local organizations be requested to plan a program were made, but there seems to have been a lack of appreciation of the opportunity among those in charge; and county boosters of the NRA expressed fear that Clanton, which has been boasted "100 per cent," will fall down on this great chance to demonstrate to others its loyalty and patriotism.

COTTON CHECKS STILL COMING TO FARMERS IN CHILTON CO.

Cotton checks continue to bring smiles of welcome to the faces of Chilton county farmers. Tuesday afternoon reports from the county agent's offices showed that 2,086 checks, amounting to $126,186, have been paid to farmers in this county for plowing under a part of their cotton acreage. Approximately $200,000 will be received in this county by October 17, according to information received by the county agent.

Spiritual Stagnation

After the assassination of Julius Caesar, Marcus Cicero, silver tongued statesman, placed himself at the head of the republican party of Rome and denounced Mark Antony. This cost him his life. Antony's proscription list contained the name of the gentle, amiable, scholarly Cicero. Old and feeble, he fled, pursued by Antony's soldiers. He was caught and his head and hands were chopped off and the gruesome relics were carried back to Antony who caused them to be nailed to the Rostra in the Roman senate where they rotted on the spot which had so often been the scene of Cicero's triumphs.

Human nature is today as it was yesterday, but try to imagine a political leader in the United States having the head and hands of a deposed political rival chopped off and nailed to the desk of the speakers platform in the Congressional halls in Washington. The thought is preposterous.

The difference in these situations lies in the progress of ideals. America is a Christian nation. The vaulting progress of American ideals is attributable to the church of Christ. That every citizen of this nation, regardless of how humble or how great, is a beneficiary of these ideals and the standards of justice and freedom that they afford, is as clear as the simple facts of elementary arithmetic.

The perpetuation of these ideals, and the church that sponsors them, is a responsibility as great as that defined in the patriotism to our flag. As we look about us we are prone to believe that many of our people are completely unmindful of the extent to which the church has shaped our constitution, our freedom and our progress. We are grossly ignorant or grossly ungrateful.

Clanton is recognized as a church-going and church-loving community. But judging by the size of the average church congregation in Clanton one would be forced to conclude that we have a citizenship indifferent to church responsibility. We have a handful of faithful church workers, and church rolls that are swelled with names of members that manifest about as much interest in church work as a hog has in Sunday.

We admit that we have beautiful churches. But the small percentage of our people who are actually paying for them is appalling. And in mentioning this fact we repeat that the community is one hundred per cent beneficiary from the church as already shown.

We talk, think, act in terms of economics. We dream, meditate, conjecture in terms of politics. We forget that happiness comes from within and that wealth, position or promise cannot bring happiness if there is a dearth of the necessary ingredients within the heart. There is a soul in man, and when all thought centers away from the soul there is spiritual depression which is far more deadly and destructive than a depression of business and industry.

The great trouble in Clanton, and probably in thousands of other American communities, lies in the fact that we kid ourselves into believing that we have the proper degree of respect, esteem, love, and devotion to the church that has given our nation the ideals that are basic in our welfare. Time is the cheapest thing we have today, that is, measured in the scale of employment. Yet, as a people we are grossly selfish with our time so far as church work is concerned. Possibly five per cent of our people give liberally of their hours. The other ninety-five per cent give one hour to the church for every fifty or seventy-five given to material things. As for money, well, the way we gloat over our miserly gifts is disgusting, absurd, ridiculous and painful.

A church-loving people in Clanton? Think twice, brother, think twice. A quick answer may make it seem that we are jesting with a tremendously serious matter.

—The above editorial was taken from The McComb, Miss., Enterprise and we thought it so good we changed the name of the town to Clanton as we believe it might find some place here.

The Death Glare

In a Kentucky cemetery there is a grave stone erected for P. H. Nolan, Assistant State Game Warden. After reciting the facts of his career, it is stated on the marble, "The accident was caused by the glaring lights of a passing automobile."

The time is coming soon, says the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters, when glaring lights will be outlawed. Many municipalities, and some states, are prescribing rules for the regulation of the lights.

In a recent survey conducted by the Travelers Insurance Company, it is set forth that from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. in 1932, there were 409,100 accidents in which 13,500 persons were killed, or 32 for every 1,000 accidents. From 6 p.m. to 6 a.m. there were 336,200 accidents, but 15,500 deaths, or 46 per 1,000. In other words, the death rate per accident was 43.7 per cent worse during darkness than in daylight. The figures would have been still more unfavorable if they had started at 5 p.m. instead of 6 p.m., particularly in winter.

Automobile accidents during dusk and darkness are more likely to result in serious injuries and death because vision is reduced by inadequate illumination and because headlights glare from approaching cars momentarily blinds drivers.

Engineering societies are working on headlight codes and automobile manufacturers are working out devices to prevent direct rays of headlights from striking eyes of motorists, the object being to reduce the "glare hazard" to a minimum. If this problem can be solved, an important contribution to safety will have been made.

Do Your Part Now

Production, continued production, is necessary if our manufacturing plants are to keep men employed. Buying power must be built. Buying power must be used. Only through consumption which demands increased production can payrolls be built up. No plant can continue to operate beyond consumer demand.

A dollar spent now for building does two things. It helps the construction industry put back to work thousands of skilled and unskilled workers; it buys needed materials now cheaper than they can be bought later. Even though the cost is now higher than it was a few months ago this merely proves that costs are increasing. To save money and create jobs, act NOW.

Statistics show a shortage of over 1,000,000 houses. This figure is based on a definite survey in 257 cities. Millions of homes already built are sorely in need of modernizing—a concrete driveway, a basement, a paint job, a new roof, refurnishing.

A dollar will buy more for you today, do more for your country, than later. Analyse your building needs. Ask yourself, "How can I best do my part?"

Caution On Winter Fires

The past week end brings to our attention through the newspapers of over $260,000 damage by fires within a distance of 100 miles of Chilton county. So we deem it quite in line now to warn our people against carelessness in building fires in homes and other places.

Flues that have not been used since last winter are great dangers now with the advent of cold weather and the desire to have fires in the homes for warmth. Chimneys and flues should be given a thorough examination and cleaning before a fire is built in them.

Mr. Hardy's Possible Candidacy

We were not in the least surprised this week when we secured a statement from Mr. J. R. Hardy, chief of police of Clanton, saying that he would probably consider entering the race for sheriff of Chilton county. We were not surprised because we have heard his name mentioned quite often and in many places by Democrats and Republicans, as the man for the office.

We do not hesitate in saying that Mr. Hardy's past record in such an office is worthy of commendation. Our good friends in Coosa county are even interested in seeing their former sheriff become sheriff of this county. Mr. Hardy's definite announcement of entering the race is awaited with interest.

Here Is Something For All Of Us

Figures published in Railroad Data for September 8, contain information that should cheer millions of people.

Net railway operating income was shown to be $216,704,345 in the first seven months of 1933, compared with $120,900,560 for the same period in 1932. This was a return of 1.64 per cent on the properties, instead of 0.91 per cent in 1932.

While the return so far this year is far below any reasonable figure, the fact that it is more than 50 per cent above last year, is an encouraging sign.

Just think what it would mean to this country if the railroads were placed in a position where they could earn a "fair return." Hundreds of thousands of new jobs would be created on railroads and in other industries which furnish hundreds of millions of dollars worth of supplies annually to our transportation systems.

Every citizen in the United States has a very definite interest in railroad prosperity for it affects the earning power and pocketbook of each of us.

o-o-o-o

Candidates and the People

As nearly as we can tell about 90 per cent of the people, so much loved by all the politicians, do not give a tinker's what-have-you about the principles and miseries of the average vote-beggar.

They love a good show and they enjoy seeing candidates sweat and hearing them pant and make grandiloquent professions of heroic devotion to the public interest.

They enjoy the scramble that politicians make and they like to be courted by candidates.

Otherwise they do not care greatly who wins the average office, if only respectable men are running for it.

This accounts for the attitude of 90 per cent of the people. The other 10 per cent are people who will vote as they are told to vote. They are controlled by this influence or that.

Perhaps our figures are too precise to tell the exact truth about the attitude of the people. After all, there is a small percentage of people whose souls are stirred only by the sound of silver, no matter how winsome may be the manner of the candidate in abasing himself before them and beseeching them to give him a public job.

Perhaps we should not be stastical in classifying voters.

Certainly it would be useless to ignore the fact that right here in the proud old county and city of Montgomery there are men of some standing in their precincts who have no more moral character with reference to politics than a strumpet of the city streets.

They will sell their votes as readily as the strumpet sells her smile, and in no sense is he superior to her morally, nor is the candidate who pays him any better than either.

The man who sells his vote, no matter how the transaction may be disguised, is the sorriest man in his community no matter what other men in his community may have done.

He would betray his own mother for 30 pieces of silver. He is a lout. He is the strumpet of American politics. May God have mercy on his soul!

Many Americans will have a disease this fall that will break out on Saturday afternoons. They will ride miles to see 22 men fight over a pigskin and spend two days afterwards explaining how the game should have been run.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

A neighbor of mine locked her door and went out for the afternoon. On her return she discovered that she had lost the only key that would open the door. In my house there was a ring that had forty keys and I took them and went to help her out of her trouble. I tried key after key and the lock would not yield. When I was about exhausted trying, she said to me, "Just quit and do not try longer." I counted the keys that had not been tried and replied, "When I try nine more keys then I will quit." It so happened that the last key of the forty turned the lock and her home was open. If I had quit with the thirty-ninth key, she could not have entered. I like the "Never Give Up Spirit." It may be the last key that will open the door to your treasure. It pays to try every key on your ring before you say, "It Can Not Be Done."

A farmer stood looking over his ten-acre field of corn. He called his four sons to his side. He addressed them thus, "Sons, the corn in this field is mature. The weeds are growing and will soon choke down the corn. I want you to gather in the corn, and then plow under the weeds." That farmer was my father and I was one of the boys who helped to gather in the corn and plow under the weeds. We have a Father in heaven who is ever looking over this world as His field. He knows when his saints are mature. He is saying to the angels, "Gather my saints into my house, but plow under the sinners." In this world we have to live and grow with sin and sinners on every hand, but there is a day coming when God will bring about a separation. The day is coming when it will matter as to whether you are lifted up, or plowed up. Look out, my sinner friend. When you see God gathering up his saints, He is fixing to plow you up.

I saw a great crowd of people standing near a well filled table. The time to eat arrived. The crowd was hungry. I observed that no man urged the crowd to eat. When a man is hungry and the food is in sight you do not have to beg and persuade him to eat. Why is it that people do not attend the feast of the gospel every Sunday? Answer, They are not hungry. They are filling their souls with the trash of life, and they are not craving the Living Bread that comes down out of heaven. When men and women become hungry for the food that God is offering to the world, then our churches will be crowded. Blessed is the man who has a strong hunger after righteousness.

By the roadside in North Carolina there was a flourishing apple tree. Its leaves were rich and green. It was the season for fruit and I observed that it was so heavily laden until the limbs were bent to the ground. It carried so much fruit until the limbs lowered it to where the children could feast and enjoy. Even the chickens and the pigs could enjoy and profit from the fruit that was within reach. If you are a flourishing Christian, you are going to be heavily loaded with the fruit of the Spirit, and this fruit will bend you so low that children, and even sinners, can feast from the fruit of your soul. "Scrawny, worm-eaten, Christians" never produce enough fruit to bend them low.

If you smoke Cigarettes I want to suggest the following as exercise for your will power and manhood. Take a Cigarette and place it on a table before you and address it thus, "Who is master, you or me? If you are master, then continue to force me to be a partner with you in your dirty work. I bend my will power to your will. I will let you burn my fingers yellow. I will let you fill my lungs with your filth and poison. I will allow you to transmit your poison into the blood of my babes. I will give you permission to lead me to pneumonia and tuberculosis, and to fill my chest with a cough that will not go. You are master, sir, and I, a big man, a mature woman, will obey you. I know that you are a little imp of death, but you are master. I am a servant to you and I must obey." If you will thus exercise your manhood and your will power for a week you will stand up like a man and say, "I am master sir, and I will not join you in your dirty work."

LARGE LOANS AVAILABLE ON LIVESTOCK AND SEED

Washington.—Loans up to a maximum of $100,000 each will be made to the National Live Stock Marketing Association for moving feeder cattle and lambs from western range area to feeding areas of the Middle West, according to announcement of Gov. Henry Morgenthau, Jr., of the Farm Credit Administration. The plan is designed to aid growers of feed crops as well as cattlemen. Loans from the Central Bank for Cooperatives will be made at 4 percent interest. Funds advanced to the association will be loaned by it to member sales agencies which will make loans to individual farmers to pay freight and feeding-in-transit charges on movements to the feeding areas. The member agencies are located at Indianapolis, Sioux City, and Des Moines. Livestock coming under the loan provisions will be marketed within 6 months.

Governor Morgenthau reported also that sale of 560,000 bales of cotton, pledged as collateral for seed and crop production loans prior to the 1933 crop, will be completed by November 30. Proceeds will be pooled for account of the borrowers, who will receive credit on whichever of three bases is most favorable, average net sales proceeds, collateralized value of cotton at the time of collateralization, or 9½ cents per pound for middling seven-eighths-inch July cotton in the New York futures market. For every bale of spot cotton sold, a bale will be purchased in the futures market for the use of the Secretary of Agriculture in carrying out the acreage-reduction program.

Judging Chickens on the Basis of Standard and Production Qualities

Score card judging is the most practical and accurate method of judging poultry yet developed. Each fowl, by this method, is examined, and a certain number of points allowed for each section. The value of the various sections upon their relations to egg and meat production. Score card judging is of great value in teaching the merits and demerits of the different shape and color sections.

While the score card method of judging is best for amateurs, professional poultry judges use the so-called comparsion methods. Each bird is handled individually, but they are compared among themselves rather than judged to a certain standard. This is the method also used on horses and cattle.

There are five factors entering into the selection of laying hens, namely: (1) temperament, (2) head type, (3) body type, (4) changes in color and (5) the time of molt.

We shall consider first, temperament in relation to egg production. The very good layer is industrious, always scratching. The poor layer is lazy, less nervous and is on the roost much longer.

The head of a good layer is broad, of fine quality as compared with the narrow, coarse head of the poor producer. The eye of the good layer is bright and full.

The body of the good layer must be of good width and depth in order to give room for abundant digestion.

The skin of the laying hen is more soft and pliable than that of the poor producer, and there is less tendency to the accumulation of fat because the layer turns fat into eggs.

The public bones are more soft and pliable in the good layer. Their distance apart is a good indication as to whether a hen is laying. The public bones of the laying hen should be at least two, preferably three, fingers apart.

When a hen starts laying, the yellow pigment in the beak, legs, tends to disappear, hence when a hen is laying her beak, shanks, etc., tend to have a bleached appearance. This is not a true guide as some breeds of chickens lack the yellow pigment.

Lastly, the heavy layer is a late molter while the poor producer is early and requires a longer period. The poor layer sometimes starts molting as early as July or August.

Next week, "Breeding Practices and Records Relating to Poultry."

ASSERTS NRA WILL CHANGE METHODS OF ADVERTISING

Chicago.—Merchants and manufacturers must advertise more and in a new way, according to Maj. A. Heath Onthank, chief of the code control division of NRA, in an address before a convention of the Direct Mail Advertising Association. He said that as a result of the setting up and enforcement of standard cost-accounting systems by industries, and the likelihood that through their governing boards industries will prohibit members selling below their own costs, the price factor, which has been "almost the sole determinant," will be supplanted by other factors of more importance. "The good old-fashioned selling factors of quality, service and salesmanship will again have a real influence," he declared, and added: "It is safe to state that there will be a large increase in all advertising. It will be necessary to tell the revised sales story of quality and service in addition to the hackneyed theme of price. Advertising will change in both appeal and kind. Copy standards may change to reach new markets with the most productive message."

A FEW WORDS CONCERNING ORGANIZED LABOR

Brother Editor:

Will you let me have a few words in a P. S. to explain just a little bit c cerning labor unions of the tex workers here in Clanton. We are organizing a labor union here to contradict our employers. Some seem to th we mean to fire our overseer, or tak a club and go onto our superintendent and drive him into doing things; but I say to everyone, we are proud of this mill. We are proud of our supervis staff, and I want to say to all of co-workers, let's strive to work peace and harmony with our supervis staff. Let's try at all times to giv them the best of satisfaction for the money they pay us. Organized labor means we do our part; and just want others to do the same. Let's make textile mill one of the best industries of its kind this side of the Mason and Dixon Line. I hope everyone will at all times strive to do his or her part make this true.

Thank you,
I. L. SMITH.

Concord-Billingsley

Last Saturday night Rev. A. S. Bentley of Billingsley brought us a very helpful and inspiring message. We were very glad to have him preach for us.

Sunday school met Sunday morning and elected new officers for the coming year.

On next Saturday, October 14, there will be a home coming day at the church. We urge all the members to be present. The fourth quarterly conference will also be that day. All members of conference are asked to be present. There will be a lot of business to be attended to.

The program for the day is as follows:

10:00 a.m. Devotional by pastor, J.S. Johnson.

10:15 Talks by former pastors and visitors.

10:55 Song, and offering.

11:00 Preaching by Rev. A. S. Bentley.

12:00 to 1:30 p.m. Lunch.

1:30 to 2:15 Talk by members of the church.

2:15 Quarterly Conference.

Everyone is invited to be with us.

Mrs. H. J. Turner spent the latter part of last week with her uncle in Selma. Miss Gussie Lee Henley returned with her for a few days visit.

Miss Kynard of Selma is visiting her sister, Mrs. W. A. Williams. Mrs. Williams has been sick and was carried to Clanton Hospital Wednesday. She was able to return home Thursday. We are very glad to hear that she is improving.

Misses Mildred and Elsie Herrod of Haynes spent Thursday night with their grandmother, Mrs. W. W. Williams.

Mr. and Mrs. Olin Williams spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Pike.

Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Williams and children, Misses Sallie and Linnie Pearl Shaw, Mildred Stanford and Elaine Tindol were the dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Little and son and daughter, Claude and Virginia, Sunday. They were joined in the afternoon by Miss Eula Belle Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Williams and Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Little.

Mrs. J. F. Waites spent Sunday afternoon with Mrs. Willie Tindol.

Miss Eula Belle Williams spent the week end with her sister, Mrs. Clyde Little.

Compare THE FARES IN COST AND COMFORT

Ask your nearest L. & N. passenger representative to quote you one way or round trip fares in clean, safe, comfortable coaches or in parlor or sleeping cars—anywhere on this railroad. You'll find that they afford a material saving in money as compared to driving your car and that you'll enjoy all the comforts of rest, relaxation, moderate priced dining service, smoking and toilet facilities,—not provided in other forms of transportation.

NO SURCHARGE ON THE L. & N.

These fares apply as indicated for transportation in coaches or Pullmans—the only additional charge in parlor or sleeping cars being the cost of space occupied, with added comforts afforded by the Pullman Company.

NO LIMITATIONS

These fares apply any day, on any train, between any points on the Louisville and Nashville Railroad system.

RE-ROOF for all time

DON'T take chances with an old roof when it is so easy to have Careystone applied right over it. Made of asbestos and cement formed into shingle-shaped units, these roofs have all the advantages of slate or tile without the heavy weight, high cost and tendency to crack.

Permanent and Fireproof

Careystone is a permanent roof—first cost is last cost. And it is as fireproof as stone.

Roof Beauty

Careystone is made in five attractive colors. And at no extra cost you can have the "Weather-Age" finish—made only by Carey.

Low Cost...Free Estimate

Careystone costs much less than many roofs which do not approach it in appearance or durability. Let us give you a free estimate on reroofing your home. Call, phone or write.

MANY GRAVE HAZARDS ACCOMPANIED FILMING OF "CENTRAL AIRPORT"

In the production of an air thriller, such as Richard Barthelmess' latest starring picture for First National "Central Airport," which opens at the Wadesonian Theatre on October 18-19, every person connected with its making undergoes grave hazards. Casualties lurk in the path of players, director, cameramen, technicians and particularly professional stunt actors.

Every precaution was taken in the making of this picture to prevent achidents, but even with the utmost care exercised, three planes were destroyed, and that no one was seriously injured seems little short of miraculous. The net result of human casualties was one broken shoulder with several persons severely bruised.

Paul Mantz, a stunt flyer, cracked up his plane, but escaped with a broken shoulder. A big passenger plane carrying Richard Barthelmess, Tom Brown, Glenda Farrell and others, miscalculated a landing, flirted with a telegraph pole and a lot of wire, overturned and was smashed, but fortunately no one was injured beyond bad bruises and a severe shaking up.

Another plane, unoccupied, went up in smoke when a mechanic applied a blow torch to a gadget which was stuck.

At another time Mary Wiggin, a professional parachute jumper, got in front of a whirling airplane propellor with her parachute strapped to her shoulders, and was blown across the field. Although considerably messed up, no bones were broken.

The nearest to a very serious calamity came when a twelve foot lighting machine, which blows fire into the air to light the sky, fell into the studio lake aiming directly at a float on which were stationed Director William Wellman, his assistants and several cameramen. Had it not been for the quick action of a prop man in pushing the falling column of fire sideways as it fell, changing the direction of its landing, Wellman and his crew would have been blown into the lake by a blast of fire.

Why Hospitals Use a Liquid Laxative

Hospitals and doctors have always used liquid laxatives. And the public is fast returning to laxatives in liquid form. Do you know the reasons?

The dose of a liquid laxative can be measured. The action can be controlled. It forms no habit; you need not take a "double dose" a day or two later. Nor will a mild liquid laxative irritate the kidneys.

The right liquid laxative brings a perfect movement, and there is no discomfort at the time, or after.

The wrong cathartic may keep you constipated as long as you keep on using it! And the habitual use of irritating salts, or of powerful drugs in the highly concentrated form of pills and tablets may prove injurious.

A week with a properly prepared liquid laxative like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will tell you a lot. A few weeks' time, and your bowels can be "as regular as clockwork." Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is an approved liquid laxative which all druggists keep ready for use. It makes an ideal family laxative; effective for all ages, and may be given the youngest child. INK DROPS FROM C. C. H. S.

By Dan Smith

"He who loveth a book will never want a faithful friend, a wholesome counselor, a cheerful companion, or an effectual comforter."
—Isaac Barrow.

This is quite true. Books are the ever-burning lamps of accumulation, they speak to us, teach us, arouse us, terrify us, comfort us and open their hearts to us as brothers. The students of the Chilton County High School may now prove the truth of these statements. Through the efforts of our faculty and others we have now in our library, the treasure chest in the island of education, a large number of new and refined books. These books have been purchased for instructive, entertaining, and enlightening reading. They are of the finest subjects.

Let's take good care of these books so that those students that will follow fur footsteps may enjoy this advantage that we have now. The library has been repaired in order to keep these books in good condition. A new and more proficient library system will be installed in a few days.

Fighting with a spirit that was laudable, the Chilton Tigers marked up their second victory of the year when they defeated a hard and stubborn Shelby High team 13 to 0, at Columbiana last Friday. And there were some pretty plays made by our boys. Joe Moore, Cecil Jones, Carl Jones, Sidney Reynolds, James Tiffin and our captain, Jesse Frank Foshee, not to mention the entire team, played a splendid game, giving several tense moments with their spectacular plays. The Shelby High team put up a good fight, but our team had what it takes to win a game. And tomorrow they will chalk up the third victory of the season when Prattville comes up to play. Come on team, let's make this a great year for football at C. C. H. S.

Hats off to that band of loyal supporters who followed their team to the enemy's ground and rooted for them, even though they will get a deduction in their grades. That's spirit.

And folks, guess who was present at the game. None other than Mr. T. H. Walker, our former coach and faculty member, who is on duty at Fort McClellan. He came all the way from Anniston to see this game. Our hats off to him. We knew he wouldn't forget us.

Wouldn't it be a great thing if all the students could be present at at least one home game. I think it could be arranged. Let the entire student body in free and have the trucks to wait for those students who live out of town. This could also be helped by calling the game earlier. It would not hurt to lose one afternoon's recitations in order that the entire student body can see a game. What does the faculty say? We students want it.

I wonder how the students would like to form a student government? Let's be thinking it over and be ready to vote on it in a few days.

A class pin from Chilton County High for the year 1925 was found the other day. If the owner will call by the office of the principal he may obtain it.

The writer wishes to apologize for an error occurring in last week's column. In an article about Lieutenant T. H. Walker, it was mentioned that he is a first lieutenant in the Reserve Officer's Training Corps, but this is erroneous. Lieut. Walker is a first lieutenant in the Officer's Reserve Corps. The writer apologizes for this error since there is quite a difference in the two.

The Senior Two World History class under Miss Smilie held a class debate last Thursday. The subject of the debate was: "Resolved, That The English Were Unjustified in Taking the Lands Away From the Indians." The affirmative side was argued by Dixie Johnson and Walter Kelley Gillespie and the negative side was supported by Dorothy Waite and Alice Petty. A number of good points were presented by both sides and the debate was both interesting and instructive. The judges, Roberta Cochran, John Ezell and Dan Smith, awarded the decision to the affirmative side; the decision being based on their speech, number of points and presentation.

Debating is a fine and unexcelled art. It is very, very practical. Let's have more debates and learn to think and speak on our feet.

Girl's basketball practice starts here next week under the coaching of Miss Bonnie Clyde Griffin. Let's put our support behind our girl's team and be able to boast of a winning basketball team this year. I'm talking to the faculty as well as the students.

We regret to lose two of our football boys. Oscar Mims has ceased reporting for practice due to the fact that he lives too far from school to report for practice regularly. He's a good enough player to warrant someone seeing that he is provided a way home after each practice. There is T. H. Walton, no one knows his reason for stopping, or someone else's reason for having him to stop. What can it be? I don't think that the rumor that got out about him is true and justified. He's all right.

Just try and imagine Sara Lawrence without Gertiwyl Vinson or vice versa. Helen Roberts without Dolly Bell Harris; Joe Moore without Ova Lee McCutcheon; Cecil Jones without his wisecrack; John Ezell with a girl on his mind; "Punchie" Jones without his ladies; Elizabeth Gragg without her red hair; "Gabby" Tiffin not helping Grace with her geometry; the cemetery corner vacant at recess and dinner or even without "lovesick lads"; Jesse Frank not playing football; Wilson with his hair uncombed; Joe Hall walking to school; and imagine a certain student keeping his nose out of other people's business; but maybe I asked for too much information on some things. Sorry.

Did publicity cause "Punchie's" secret admirer to cease her anonymous correspondence?

The actions of a certain group of students may cause the school to put restrictions on students attending out-of-town football games. Only a few may be guilty but in order to punish them the entire school will have to suffer. It is reported that these students left for the game but for some reason did not reach their destination.

Calling a game at two o'clock and holding the school buses until after the game would not delay them over thirty or forty minutes. What are you going to do with the Grammar School students on the trucks? That's easy let them into the game gratis also. The amount of money lost by this plan on the game would not amount to much.

What about acquainting the students with the faculty a little more. A little article on each teachers life might be a good idea. May the writer be bestowed with this honor and pleasure.

Principal: You say when you finished college you had 87 degrees? Unbelievable.

Thorsby Institute News

On October 7, the Helen Keller Literary Society gave an interesting program which everybody enjoyed. The meeting opened with C. B. Jean, President, in charge. The program was divided into two parts, the first of which was devoted to October and Columbus; the second part, to Hallowe'en. We wish to thank the Chorus for their first appearance and tell them how much we enjoyed the beautiful Hallowe'en song which they sang.

After the program, a report on attendance was given by the Secretary, Lorene McGlawn. The Philomathics won the banner for having the best attendance.

Our enrollment has reached 86, and we are expecting another student soon.

Three-Minute Talks by Laymen.

Song: "Blest Be The Tie."

Benediction: Rev. J. D. Hughes.

The committee on resolutions recently adopted the following relative to the life of the Rev. Martin:

Report of Committee on Resolutions On Life, Work and Character Of Darius S. Martin

Whereas, God in His infinite wisdom called from the walks of men, on the 14 day of April, 1933, Rev. Darius S. Martin, a Godly Father, a good neighbor, an upright and patriotic citizen, a consecrated and beloved Minister, the clerk of this association for 35 years, and Moderator of this body at the time of his death and for many years prior thereto; and

Whereas, his life and his life's work were spent within the bounds of this association, enriching the lives of the thousands of people that came in contact with his upright life and untarnished character; and

Whereas, his best efforts were made for the welfare of the Baptist Churches of this association and for all the people, regardless of creed;

Therefore, Be it resolved by the Central Baptist Association, in annual meeting, assembled:

1. That in the passing of Brother Darius S. Martin, this body has lost one of its most useful members, fair eminent Moderator; the community and the State a useful and patriotic citizen; and the family a kindly, tender and loving father;

2. Though Brother Martin's counsel is sadly missed, his voice of praise, song and exhortation is stifled, yet, he lives in the lives and hearts of thousands who came under his benevolent influence;

3. That at least one page in the 1933 Minutes be set aside and dedicated to the life and work of the deceased, and that a suitable picture be printed in the 1933 Minutes;

4. That Wednesday, October 18, 1933, be and the same is hereby set aside for suitable services commemorating the life, character and works of Brother S. Martin; and that the Moderator, together with the clerk of this body, conjunction and cooperation with th relatives of the deceased take such measures as necessary to consuma fitting memorial exercises; and that t commemoration services be held at old Bethesda church where he was pastor for more than thirty years and whe the deceased is interred;

5. That the Elmore County Association and the East Liberty Associati and the Tallapoosa County Associatio be officially invited to participate in the memorial exercises herein provid and that the Moderator appont a special Messenger to each of these Associations to extend an invitation to be present;

6. That a copy of these resolution be spread upon the minutes of this association as a memorial for our deceas moderator; and that a copy be furnished each of our county papers, and a copy be furnished the Alabama Journal The Montgomery Advertiser, The Birmingham Age-Herald, The Birmingham News and the Birmingham Post, and the Alabama Baptist.

Enterprise School News

Hello folks; How's everybody? Well, we are just here. Everyone has that "good ole school spirit." We are making mighty good progress with an enrollment of about one hundred and thirty-five. But the best part of it, we are going to keep up our "pep" and make this our best school term.

You should see our school yard since the "canyon" at the rear of the building has been filled up. The whole yard has been graded down to almost a perfect level. It sure looks a lot better.

Hey, you tramps! Listen to this! There will be a "Tramp Party" at the home of Mr. J. A. Boockholdt Friday night, October 13. Sandwiches will be sold for the tramp bag. This is for the benefit of the girls athletics. So dress like a tramp (your girl too), and come. No bums allowed. Everybody is invited. Come!

The ice cream supper was a grand success.

The basketball team will soon be ready to start playing.

BIG VAUDEVILLE TO BE SHOWN AT WADESONIAN NEXT WEEK

Cast Of Thirty-Five Talented People; Three Shows To Be Given Same Night; Singers, Musicians, And Chorus. No Increase In Price

The management of the Wadesonian Theatre takes pleasure in announcing that on Monday night, October 16th, they will present the famous "Maxine's Ballyhoo Revue" the vaudeville with a galaxy of dancers, singers, musicians and a beautiful chorus.

Thirty-five people make up the cast of this show which will be presented on the stage at the local theatre. With this show will be Red Spradlings ten-piece recording orchestra, and the Wadesonian Theatre considers itself fortunate in being able to secure this show for Clanton. Three shows will be staged. The first show beginning at seven o'clock, another at eight-thirty and the last show at ten-thirty Monday night. There will be no advance in the price of admission, which will be ten and twenty-five cents.

PATES CHAPEL B. Y. P. U. COMING TO REFUGE SUNDAY NIGHT

The B. Y. P. U. from Pates Chapel will present a program at Refuge Sunday night, beginning sharply at six o'clock.

Rev. M. Lockhart is pastor of both churches, and useless to say, he is interested in B. Y. P. U. work.

You will recall that less than a year ago, the B. Y. P. U. from Refuge went to Pates Chapel and rendered a program for the purpose of assisting in organizing a B. Y. P. U. at this place. There are some of the best talents at these churches to be found anywehere And it took B. Y. P. U. work to reveal this fact in many cases, says the pastor

Those who miss this program will miss a real treat. Be there on time!

EVENING SCHOOL FARMERS HAVE TERRACING DEM'ST'N

On Friday afternoon, October 6, the evening school farmers in Pates Chapel community attended a terracing demonstration on the farm of Mr. Enoch Hayes. There were 18 farmers present

The first thing taught was how to level the instrument and next how to test the instrument for accuracy. Oftentimes the instrument is level but the telescope is not in line with the level bubble. This test, which should always be made, was demonstrated.

Terraces were laid off, some on a level and others with a variable grade. With four machines present the farmers really learned by doing.

Mr. Montgomery, vocational teacher at Jemison, was assisted in holding the terrace demonstration by two Jemison F.F.A. boys, Frank Nelson and Ervin Beasley.

On Wednesday evening, October 4th, Mr. C. E. Stapp, county agent, spoke to the evening school on Planting Winter Legumes. He urged the planting of Austrian peas and hairy vetch and presented convincing data from work accomplished here in the county and experiment station records on the value of thees legumes. He urged for higher yields of corn which could be obtained by growing these crops.

The evening school at Pate's Chapel is growing in interest and in numbers. There are now enrolled thirty adult farmers.

Among the out-of-town visitors this week we noticed Mr. and Mrs. Will Broadhead and daughter, Jessie Lee, Mr. Eugene Littleton, Mr. Carl Glasscock, Mr. J. A. Carroll, Mr. Murry Glass

Everyone in the community wishes Mr. McKinley (better known as Mr Mac) a speedy recovery as he has had his tonsils removed.

Our community has begun to feel the "Icy Fingers" of winter, but we are prepared—corn in our cribs, hay and fodder in our lofts, good ole sorghum syrup in our smoke houses, and it won't be long before we can stack ribbon cane syrup right in the smoke house beside the sorghum, and we have hundreds of jars of canned produce, and soon as "Ole Jack Frost" appears the smoke houses will be lined with sides of meat and down beneath the salt good ole juicy "Xmas" hams. Now then, folks, don't you all agree that "ole Minooka" is prepared.

THIRD OF A SERIES OF ADVERTISEMENTS EXPLAINING THE EFFECT OF OUR NEW RATES

ELECTRIC COOKING for 3⅓c a Meal

A CONVERSATION between MRS. SMITH (whose family of five is typical of some 40,000 families whose use of our service has been averaging from 6 to 30 kilowatt hours per month) and our REPRESENTATIVE who is explaining to her the effect of our new low rates on her use of our service.

- REPRESENTATIVE: "Good morning, Mrs. Smith. Have you heard about our new low rates on electricity for home use?"
- MRS. SMITH: "Yes, I have, I understand our monthly bill will be smaller in the future."
- REPRESENTATIVE: "Yes, if you continue to use the same amount of electricity. How much has your bill been averaging?"
- MRS. SMITH: "About $2.25."
- REPRESENTATIVE: "Then if you continue using the same amount of electricity, your future bills should average about $1.80. That's a saving of 45 cents a month or roughly 20 per cent. And you get two more kilowatt hours of service per month absolutely free!"
- MRS. SMITH: "I'm certainly glad to hear it. All my other bills are going up these days. It's comforting to learn that at least one item of household expense is coming down!"
- REPRESENTATIVE: "We appreciate your attitude, Mrs. Smith. You'll be even more pleased to learn that you can operate an Electric Range for surprisingly little under the new low rates. Although I can estimate only approximately how much it would cost, I believe you could add an Electric Range to the appliances you are now using for $3.11 a month more than what you've been paying. This additional electricity for cooking would cost you only 2c a kilowatt hour, or about 3 1/3c a meal!"
- MRS. SMITH: "An electric range would be a godsend to me, but I'm afraid we haven't the money to buy one right now."
- REPRESENTATIVE: "Lots of Alabama families are in the same fix, Mrs. Smith. That's why our company arranged a Rental Plan whereby you can rent an Electric Range. The rental for the first year is only $2 a month and then decreases annually. That is all you contract to pay. By using this plan you can begin enjoying low-cost electric cooking right away, without having to invest in a range!"
- MRS. SMITH: "My, but I'm glad to know that! I do believe we could afford electric cooking at that low price. I'll speak to Mr. Smith about it this very night."
- REPRESENTATIVE: "That's fine, Mrs. Smith. The sooner you get the range, the sooner you get the benefits of the new low cost electricity. With your permission I'll call again tomorrow to answer any further questions you may wish to ask, and bring the Rental Plant contract for you to sign. Good day, Ma'am."

MORE than half the customers of this company are in Mrs. Smith's class. Our NEW LOW RATES enable this large group of customers who have been using lighting and "small" appliances to add the "large" appliances like the Electric Range, for surprisingly little additional expense. If you are in this class, ACT NOW. We have only 500 ranges for rent, and they're going fast! Come to our office, or telephone and we'll send our Representative to your home immediately!

ALABAMA POWER CO.

Our advertisement in the next issue of this newspaper will explain how the new rates affect our customers who have been using 100 kilowatt hours of electricity per month. Watch for it!

MAPLE SPRINGS

Health has greatly improved, and everybody is still busy; some finishing picking cotton and others are gathering their corn.

We are very sorry to say, but our crowd both Sunday morning and Sunday night was very small. Wake up, people, don't go to sleep on your job now. Let's everybody come back next Sunday and bring someone with you. I'm sure you don't want your B. Y. P. U. and Sunday school here to go dead. Come on, let's not disappoint our teachers next Sunday and Sunday night. Remember, next Saturday and Sunday are our regular preaching days, and it will be Bro. Robinson's first messages to bring to us since we elected him for our pastor for another year. Let's not disappoint him. We would be badly disappointed if we went to church and our pastor wasn't there, wouldn't we? And Bro. Robinson would too, if he came down here expecting to preach to a house almost full and didn't anyone come to church. Come on and you your party.

TELLS HOW SHE TOOK 4 INS. OFF HIPS 7 INS. OFF WAIST

In 40 days by taking Kruschen Salts, Mrs. Helga Blaugh of New York City reduced 26½ lbs.—took 4 inches off hips 3 inches off bust and 7½ inches off waist. She writes: "I haven't gone hungry a moment—I feel fine and look 10 yrs. younger."

To get rid of double chins, bulging hips, ugly rolls of fat o nwaist and upper arms SAFELY and without discomfort—at the same time build up glorious health and acquire a clear skin, bright eyes, energy and vivaciousness—to look younger and feel it—take a half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast.

One jar lasts 4 weeks and costs but a trifle at any drugstore the world over. Make sure you get Kruschen because it's SAFE. Money back if not joyfully satisfied. — Adv.

Vermont Jr. High School News

On October 3, the Vermont Jr. High School opened for the 1933-34 term. A large number of parents and friends were out for the opening exercise. Revs. Jones and Lowery from Thorsby were present, both making a highly encouraging and inspirational talk to those entering school. We are deeply grateful for their presence and hope they may again visit our school.

One hundred new chair desks were installed in the building on Monday before the school opened on Tuesday.

Quite a large number of boys and girls are being detained from enrolling due to sore eyes and whooping cough. We hope care and precaution will soon bring them back to their normalcy, where they may enroll and not fall too far behind in their studies. Those entering school are all glad and happy of the opportunity of attending school in the newest and one of the most beautiful buildings in the county.

The boys are busy cleaning off the grounds for the basket ball court. We are trying to get the goals arranged and the ball ordered this week, so the team can get organized and playing in earnest by the latter part of next week. Prospects bid fair for a good team, even though the boys are all new at the game, they seem keenly anxious to learn and willing to build from the ground up.

Plans are now in order for staging a good lively entertainment about the first or middle of November. Keep a close watch-out for further announcements. Proceeds from the entertainment will be used for adding more new equipment to the school.

The entire faculty attended Sunday school and church services at Sardis last Sunday.

We plan and hope to have "Uncle Bud and His Boll Weevils,' popular and widely known radio entertainers, from Nashville to stage a program at our school early this fall. Definite announcements will be forthcoming soon.

Announcements will be made in next week's paper about the initial meeting of our P.-T. A.

PLEASANT VALLEY SINGING SOCIETY MET LAST SUNDAY

The regular second Sunday singing society met at Pleasant Valley church last Sunday. We are very glad to report a large crowd of singers and listeners. Representatives of Maple Springs, Mt. Pisgah, Eastview and Indian Grave and Clanton were present. Special numbers were rendered by Messrs. Auburn Gray, Marvin Huett, G. C. Weldon, Sr., Marshall Burkhalter, O. L. Devaughn, J. M. Williams and C. M. Billingsley, accompanied by Mr. Culp of Clanton. These numbers were enjoyed by everyone.

The society will meet at Indian Grave next Sunday afternoon. Everyone try to be present so that we may organize. We wish to thank those who helped us and invite them back.

THOUGHTS FROM BAKER JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL

Dear old Baker school swung open its doors last Tuesday morning, October 3rd to a crowd of bright, smiling girls and boys. They all seemed glad to be back in school again, and went to work with nimble fingers and a happy heart. If you could only take a peep into the school rooms you could hardly believe your eyes. The girls and boys work as if they had been in school a month, instead of only one week. Not only the girls and boys seem glad to be back in school, but the teachers were all smiling too. They seemed to think they were at home and went right to work.

Miss Mims seems to know her business. You should take a peep at the first and second grades when they go marching through the rooms from chapel. You would think they had had months of practice, but we will have to give Miss Mims credit for that. Just one lesson in manners from her is worth lots to anyone.

Miss Harris is back in her place with the 3rd and 4th grades again. She has only to smile when she walks into the room and the "blues" are gone for the rest of the day.

Yes, Mr. Baker seems to know where he is too, though he does have to wear his necktie to keep people from thinking he is one of the boys. He can keep the 5th and 6th grades quiet and teach them a lot, too.

By the way, I have heard several say in the last few days that he sure makes a grand science teacher. When you go through the book with him as teacher, you get a lot out of it.

Here comes the principal. "Good morning, Mr. Parrish," is what he hears each morning as he hits the top steps where he always gives his bow with a smile.

The next thing he knows here comes someone with a math book or algebra. They come with a long face, but always face the crowd again with a smile for when they leave Mr. Parrish they have the right idea in their heads.

Papers! Papers! Papers! Oh my! I have never seen the like of lunch papers but there is one thing to remember: boys and girls, please don't leave them on the campus. We have a waste basket, so place them in it as you pass by and our grounds will be nicer and it is no trouble at all. We must remember the school belongs to "us" which includes all. So try to keep it as nice as you would your own home, then you will feel proud of it.

Boys, remember, you don't want to be picked up some day after you have been bumped by a car. The best way to prevent this is to always look before you cross the highway. If there is a car coming do not cross, but wait until it passes. The bigger boys should take this to heart and give the smaller ones warning if you see them start to cross at the wrong time. Obey the laws of school and there will be no accident. A good motto is "Better be safe than sorry."

MAPLE SPRINGS

(Too Late for Last Week)

We were very glad to see such a large crowd out at Sunday school and B. Y. P. U. Sunday. Everyone was given a new book so let's everybody come back next Sunday with a good lesson.

SARDIS HOME DEM. CLUB

The club held its regular meeting September 21 at the home of Mrs. G. W. Sansom. The president being absent and vice president being late, Miss Ruth Pardue, home demonstration agent, presided. Roll called and minutes read and approved. Miss Pardue gave the club the program work for the year to be carried out.

The project for October is Fall Gardening and Storage of Vegetables.

Miss Pardue talked to the club of methods of canning beef and chicken. She had on exhibit canned fried chicken, minced chicken, chicken a-la-king, and chicken giblets.

We had an addition of three new members, Mrs. J. S. Kendrick, T. M. Donovan and G. K. Minor.

It was decided that the next meeting would be October 19th at Mrs. G. W. Sansom's. Let all members meet with us. — Mrs. W. H. Trammell Reporter.

A&P HAS NEW COFFEE PACKAGES IN NEWSPAPER CAMP'GN

One of the first to come in under the NRA, with an annual increase in wages of more than $10,000,000 and the addition of more than 10,000 to its payrolls, A&P takes another forward step in the stimulation of purchasing by inaugurating the largest newspaper campaign on any one single product in its history.

Beginning today A&P's three coffees appear in their new packages and are presented to the public in A&P'c 16,000 stores and through leading newspapers all over the country.

"These new packages," says Berent Friele, President of the American Coffee Corporation, A&P's coffee subsidiary, "are designed in the spirit of the times. They are a new deal in beauty and usefulness. They dramatize to our millions of customers our desire to give them the freshest and best coffees at the lowest possible prices. We are telling the story of our new packages and low prices through the newspapers, so that we may reach the largest number of people in the quickest time."

MAY RENT LAND

under the plans approved by President Roosevelt with loans being extended by a commodity credit corporation to farmers who agree to join in next year's reduction program.

In addition to rental payments, producers joining in the 1934 control plan will be paid a benefit on the domestically consumed portion of their crop if the average price during next season is below the "parity" price for the staple based on pre-war averages. Any rentals that have been advanced by that time will be deducted from the benefit payments. About one-half of the cotton produced is ordinarily required for domestic use.

The administration completed distribution Saturday of $71,706,035 in checks to producers who joined in this year's program by plowing up from 25 to 50 per cent of their growing crop.

In all, 661,060 checks have been mailed and 832,000 of 1,010,000 certificates of performance providing proof that the grower did plow up a definite portion of his crop, have been received and approved for payments. As many as 48,000 checks are now being issued each day.

Rental payments will be paid next year for land producing as little as 75 pounds of cotton per acre. In this year's program land producing less than 100 pounds was not eligible for consideration.

Payment Schedule

The schedule of payments in the 1934 program follows:

For land producing approximately 75 to 125 pounds per acre, a rental of not over $3 an acre; from 150 to 200 pounds, a maximum of $5; 225 to 300 pounds, a maximum of $7; 325 to 400 pounds a maximum of $9 and for land producing 400 pounds and over a maximum of $11.

The amount of the cash rental will be determined by the county associations, subject to the approval of the Adjustment Administration.

Secretary Wallace, in an explanation of the program, said:

"The current price of cotton is below its fair exchange (parity) value. The administration recognizes that further efforts to aid the cotton farmer in solving this problem are imperative.

"The advance of 10 cents per pound on the current crop will enable the producer to market his crop in an orderly way and he will not be forced to sell at prevailing low prices because he needs the money now. The government is providing the means to carry this cotton so that the man who produced it and who will cooperate in the production control program, will benefit from any increase in price that may result from our efforts to obtain fair exchange prices for farm commodities.

"It was evident after the record production this year that cotton adjustments should continue. It would have been manifestly unfair to the producers if any improvement in prices resulting from next year's program had come after the present crop had passed out of his hands. The 10-cent loan will tend to prevent this.

"It should work to the advantage of the cotton farmer and we have assurance that they will not only seize this opportunity but continue these cooperative efforts to insure success for the 1934 cotton adjustment program."

DR. COLLEY TO FILL PULPIT AT LOCAL CHURCH

To Preach At Baptist Church In The Absence Of Local Pastor

Dr. Ezell is away holding a meeting in Port Royal, Kentucky, this week. His pulpit next Sunday morning and night will be filled by Dr. J. O. Colley, Superintendent of our Baptist Orphanage at Troy, Ala.

Dr. Colley is an unusually good speaker, and also has many friends in this county. We are expecting many to come out to hear him.

The revival will begin the 29th of October. Dr. W. P. Reeves, Tuskegee, formerly of Decatur and Jackson, Tenn., will do the preaching. We are fortunate in securing so cultured and consecrated a minister. It is not too soon to get ready for our Revival.

It is hoped that many Baptist women are already planning to attend the District W.M.U. meeting which is to be held in Wetumpka October 26, 27. Mrs. E. L. Clarke, Wetumpka, is Hospitality Chairman. All desiring homes for the night should send their names to her. Some excellent speakers have been secured and we are thinking this will be one of the very best meetings of its kind ever held. Don't forget that the W.M.U. of Unity Association meets at Ebenezer, Stanton, October 18, beginning at ten o'clock. Dr. Merrill D. Moore of Selma is to bring the address of the day and many other attractions are added to the program.

The Spigener Funeral Home in Clanton will be under a new manager in the future since E. J. Brand, the former manager has been transferred to York, Ala. He is succeeded by W. A. Daniels, who comes here from Birmingham. Mr. Brand will be connected with the same concern in York.

farmers will be eligible for loans and no loans will be made after June 30, 1934.

The effect of the loans will be to assure farmers a minimum of ten cents a pound for the cotton they still hold. It has been selling somewhat below that for some time.

There will be restrictions as to the time of sale to prevent a runaway market. For example, if the price reached 15 cents, farmers would be compelled to sell.

Amplifying President Roosevelt's oral statement, Secretary Wallace said:

"Loans will be ten cents a pound at the warehouse on cotton classing low middling or better as to grade, 7-8 inch or better as to staple; and eight cents per pound on cotton classing low middling or better as to grade and under 7-8 inch as to staple.

"The loans will be available to farmers who agree to abide by the regulations and cooperate with the Secretary of Agriculture in 1934 cotton acreage reduction program, provided a reduction of not more than 40 per cent of the average acreage will be required of any farmer. Farmers who sign and fulfill contracts to cooperate in the program will get their benefit payments in addition to the loans.

To Step Up Loan Value

"The loan value will be stepped up at the rate of 45 cents a bale for each month after October. This will cover carrying charges and interest. The interest rate to farmers will be four per cent."

he following statement was issued tonight by Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the reconstruction corporation:

"Following the President's announcement there is being organized a commodity credit corporation with power to buy, hold, sell, lend upon or otherwise deal in such commodities as in his discretion seems for the best interest of the recovery program.

"The corporation will have an initial capital of $3,000,000 to be allocated by the President from his emergency fund.

"The corporation will be operated in connection with the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and its first activities will be to provide credit for lending ten cents a pound on cotton.

"Efforts will be made if possible to employ the normal channels and agencies for lending upon, handling and storing the cotton.

"It is the intention of the R. F. C. if possible to arrange a form of guarantee that would be acceptable to banks and others lending directly to the cotton producers that will enable such banks and lending institutions to make loans under regulations to be prescribed by the R. F. C. so that the loans may be carried by the banks or other lending agencies and rediscounted with the Commodity Credit Corporation without recourse any time prior to July 1, 1934.

Interest 4 Per Cent

"The interest rate will be four per cent to the farmer and loans will be made at ten cents a pound at the warehouse on low middling or better as to grade and 7-8 or better as to staple; eight cents per pound on low middling or better as to grade and below 7-8 as to staple. No premium will be allowed on account of variations in grade and or staples above low middling 7-8 and no variations in the rate of loans will be made on account of the variation of location of warehouse in which the cotton is stored.

"The producer will be permitted to store in or ship his cotton to any available warehouse that is satisfactory to himself and the R. F. C. and in making loans the rate will be ten cents per pound at the acceptable warehouse.

"Loans will be made to those producers who agree to conform with the requirements of the United States Department of Agriculture with reference to cotton acreage reduction of 1934.

"Assuming that approximately 7,000,000 bales of cotton are still in the hands of producers and that all will avail of their privilege to borrow under this plan and hold the cotton, approximately $350,000,000 will be required on the part of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation."

ter with Columbiana coming under the shadows of Chilton's goal several times only to be pushed back by Chilton's strong line. The second touchdown was made in the last few minutes of the play, by a line plunge over center with Tiffin carrying the ball. An attempt for the extra point failed and the game ended with the score 13 to 0 in favor of Chilton.

Chilton plays Autauga County High from Prattville here at Clanton tomorrow. This promises to be one of the best games of the season. The probable line-up is as follows:

CLANTON TO TURN OUT IN FULL STRENGTH FOR BIG NRA PARADE

Here And There

By Crackie

Smile, darn you, smile. And get ready to peruse the News next week. We understand that next week's News will bring to Chilton County folk an announcement that will carry a great deal of interesting things.

Possibly one of the most interesting things one could tell someone else would be a way to make money or save money, these days. And possibly that is what will be in the News next week.

News was received in Clanton Monday morning that struck at the heart strings of many. It was the news of the untimely death of Mr. Carl Peterson, Mayor of Thorsby, president of the Bank of Thorsby and a man worthwhile. His passing brings a loss to Thorsby and the county.

"Groceries, fresh meats, feeds, meal, and we buy country produce." That is the slogan of J. H. Broadhead's store in West End. And we must add here that "Service, quality, and satisfaction," go along with that slogan. If you are one of those who have "to be shown" don't take our word, try it.

Hip, hip, hooray! And we go to Montgomery this afternoon to get in step with thousands of others in the gigantic NRA Parade. Congratulations to Clanton, the ladies who worked to make that beautiful float. Get ready, you Clanton people, and let's show Montgomery how Clanton turns out.

And we must mention here that the Montgomery Advertiser called attention Monday morning to the fact that Clanton, in the heart of a Republican county, is backing the NRA, the Democratic recovery program. Congratulations again. Let's keep it up.

Yes sir, those barbecue sandwiches up at the stand operated by Mr. and Mrs. Ben Simms, north of Clanton, are getting better we do believe.

Turkeys, turkeys. The News wants some prices on these birds. Good prices of course. Nope, they are not for Thanksgiving, so far as the News is concerned.

So we see our former governor, Bibb Graves, is breaking records by announcing as a candidate for Governor again. And it looks like he may really break the record and be elected. If he is elected, it will be the first time in the history of the State that a man was re-elected as Governor.

"New Deal Inn" reads the two big signs up at Jemison on the side of a building. And those words look good. That is where Mr. R. P. Bryan has opened his place of business and is giving his customers a taste of the "New Deal."

Looks as if Billingsley is going to put the big pot in the little one tomorrow with that bg program of a barbecue, ball games and other things. We hope to be there.

That dollar a year offer of the News is going like wildfire these days. It won't last much longer, and the free theatre tickets are still being given.

We were certainly glad to have that visit from J. D. Scarbrough, of Route 6 the other day.

Another resident of Route 6 and a good farmer was a caller at the News office last Friday. This was F. J. Thomas.

And from way over at Billingsley comes O. H. Lawrence to have his name added to our fast growing subscription list in that section of the county.

Our good friend R. C. Hand, who resides on Route 5 was a pleasant visitor to our office Friday. Mr. Hand is perhaps one of the oldest readers of the News in the county, and he says he wants it every week.

We were pleased to see Mrs. J. P. Nix, formerly of this county, but who now resides in Ensley. Mrs. Nix dropped in the News office Saturday while down here visiting relatives.

You all know Leonard Burnett. Leonard is one of the county's promising young men who is a go-getter, and we like to have him call on us when in town. He resides with his people on Thorsby, Ala., Route 1.

Speaking of our fine young men, we must also mention our good friend Cecil McKee, from that fine family of McKees in the western part of the county. Yes, he is a brother to that big Legionnaire, Vaughn McKee. Or perhaps we should have said that "Tall" Legionnaire. Vaughn takes a great deal of interest in Legion work and in fact in everything that is progressive and worthwhile.

Just look at the bargains in the ad this week from J. D. Broadhead's Market in their new location, the former Hill Grocery store, on the highway.

And we must say that Mr. Lande is cutting loose again this week with a hatful of real bargains in dry goods.

GOVERNMENT EXPERT VIEWS AIRPORT SITES

Clanton Business Men Join In Effort To Promote Local Project

Declaring that within a few years a county without an airport will be considered equally as backward as one without a railroad would have been a decade ago, Marshall C. Hoppim, government airport specialist of Washington, D. C., who with several local business men studied sites within a few miles radius of Clanton, Friday, preparatory to constructing an airport here.

Clanton and Chilton county cannot afford to overlook the rapid advancement that is being made in aviation; the future of this locality depends largely on its promotion of local interest in aeronautics, was the expressed opinion of the aviation specialist.

During the first six months of 1933, Mr. Hoppim cited figures showing that more than 263,000 were transported over the regularly air routes, approximately 2,500,000 miles are flown daily in the United States. Not only have planes become safer during the past few years, but are much speedier. Only 21 hours are required now to cross the Continent, from San Francisco to New York City.

In 1926 the average speed of the

THORSBYMAYOR WIDELY KNOWN CITIZEN PASSES

Carl C. Petersen, One Of The Pioneers Of Thorsby Is Laid To Rest

Thorsby, Chilton county, and the State of Alabama suffered a great loss Sunday night, in the death of Carl Christian Petersen, 66-year-old Mayor of Thorsby.

He died at the Norwood hospital in Birmingham, where he had been undergoing treatment for more than a month. His health began failing several months ago.

In his death Thorsby has suffered an irreparable loss. For the past thirty-two years, he has worked faithfully and tirelessly for the upbuilding of the little Chilton county hamlet, of which he was one of the founders.

Serving his sixth term as Mayor, the progress of Thorsby was to be reckoned

W. D. Burnett Died Last Monday Morn

Funeral services for William Daniel Burnett, 63-year-old resident of the New Cedron community, who died Monday morning at his home following an extended illness, were conducted Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock from the New Cedron church.

Mr. Burnett had been a resident of that community for many years and was prominently known over all the county. Surviving him are his widow, Mrs. Alice Burnett, and several sons and daughters.

Burial was in the New Cedron cemetery, with Spigener in charge.

THREE-LEGGED CHICKEN IS THRIVING AND DOING WELL

Curtis Bryant, who lives two and one-half miles south of Clanton in the Mt. Pisgah community, related one of those Ripley "Believe It Or Not" stories to members of the News staff a few days ago.

It seems Mr. Bryant set a bantam hen on seven big hen eggs (which might ordinarily be considered over-loading, or something) but the faithful little hen made no complaint. A few days ago, a chirping was heard in the bantam nest—seven peeps; but here's the story!

One of the chicks possessed three legs, the third leg being between and back of the usual two pedalers. Mr. Bryant said that the "freaky" chicken seemed all right and used the third leg to sit back on when contemptuously regarding its poor brothers and sisters who have to make their way through the world with only two legs.

NOTICE TO CORRESPONDENTS

The Editor of the News asks all correspondents and others sending in news next week to please mail it as soon as possible, due to special work that will go into the News next week. A day ahead of time will not be too early for your news letters.

Selma Highway May Be Hard Surfaced

Something Worthwhile Is In Store For The People Of This Section

Prices on foods, clothing and other commodities are not up to the high level they are going to be, is the opinion of many experts and others who are studying the present economical situation.

Many items in clothing, etc., have advanced a great deal in price during the past sixty days, and local merchants are advising everyone to do everything possible to buy now at the present low prices.

An Associated Press article in the daily newspapers of last Sunday had the following to say:

> "The American Government, it was learned tonight on high authority, does not yet consider prices high enough to warrant stabilization of the dollar."

That statement alone coming from "high authority" is enough to make the wise buyer get busy now. We say "now" because the American Government is out of the old way of waiting months and years to do anything. The American Government in Washington does things now and on short notice as has been illustrated during the past few months.

In view of the possibility of another rise in prices, merchants of Clanton are sending out urge after urge, invitation after invitation, to the people of this section to take advantage of the present low prices and bargains they have to offer while their present stocks hold out.

Next week's issue of the Chilton County News will bring a special message to the people of Chilton and surrounding counties. It will be a message that will be of the utmost interest to everyone in this territory surrounding Clanton.

This message from business houses of Clanton will not merely be a message urging the people to "Buy Now" but will be a message that carries something of interest to young and old. A message full of good news, good things, and when you receive your Chilton County News next week you will take time to read carefully every page that it contains.

'Leggers Still Using Rails For Business

Again the transportation via rail method for 'leggers getting their wares into Clanton received a black eye, when a few nights ago Elmer and Tiny Wallace, said by officers to be peddlers of intoxication beverages, leaped from a midnight freight train into the arms of Deputies James and Lews Gillispie and Night Policeman Billy Foshee.

The boys and their six gallons of liquor landed in jail and the railroad company lost two more patrons.

EZELL TO RETURN FRIDAY SERVICES AT BAPTIST SUN.

News was received here Tuesday that Rev. S. J. Ezell, will return to Clanton Friday from Port Royal, Ky., where he has been conducting a series of meetings. Regular services will be held at the Baptist church here next Sunday.

There were 7,554 bales of cotton ginned in Chilton County of the 1933 crop prior to October 1, as compared to 6,213 bales ginned prior to Oct. 1, 1932.

Bibb Graves Enters Race For Governor

The many friends and supporters in this county of former Governor Bibb Graves are receiving with a great deal of satisfaction the announcement that he has announced as a candidate for Governor of Alabama, subject to the action of the election next year.

In commenting on this, Mr. Graves said, "At this time all I have to say is that I am for Bibb Graves for Governor and a New Deal for Alabama. The people of Alabama know I will keep my promises."

PLEASANT VALLEY B. Y. P. U. WILL GIVE BENEFIT PARTY

A benefit party (something on the order of a Hallowe'en party) will be given by Pleasant Valley B. Y. P. U. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Burkhalter on Saturday night, October 21st. Proceeds from the party will be used for the benefit of the B. Y. P. U. and finish paying for piano. Everyone who is interested is invited to be present at the party. There will be fun for old and young.

FIDDLERS TO GATHER HERE ON SATURDAY

Convention Saturday Night Is Sponsored By Circle No. 3, M. E. C.

The ladies of the Clanton Methodist church are sponsoring a fiddlers convention to be held at the court house in Clanton Saturday night of this week. The affair will begin at 7 o'clock. Prizes will be awarded all fiddlers. All fiddlers of the county, and all others interested are asked to take notice, remember the date and be there. There will be lots of fun and good wholesome entertainment.

The business houses of Clanton have donated about twenty-five prizes, all of which will be awarded the fiddlers. An admission of 10 cents will be charged to everybody.

Big Day Planned At Billingsley

Tomorrow, Friday, October 20th, promises to be a big day in Billingsley, Ala., since the program of entertainment for the day there has been announced.

The activities of the day will take place at the high school, with a big barbecue, ball games among the features on the program. Those in charge stated that this day of entertainment should not be mistaken as the usual day of fun, but that it is to be something out-of-the-ordinary. The program is under the auspices of the Billingsley High School.

DIXIE CAFE ERECTS LARGE AND ATTRACTIVE SIGN

One of the most attractive electric signs erected in Clanton is that of The Dixie Cafe, well known restaurant of this place. This sign is of the large type of "Neon" with colored wording, making quite an addition to the main thoroughfare of Clanton's electric signs.

LEON KEMP INVITING TRADE IN FRUITS OF ALL KINDS

Leon "Bull Dog" Kemp, widely known and well liked throughout the county is extending an invitation to the people of this section to visit his new fruit store in Clanton.

Leon's store is located next door to Matt's Lunch Shop, and a full line of apples, oranges, grapes, etc., can be had at the right price, Leon stated.

ANNOUNCE BIRTH OF A FINE BABY GIRL

Mr. and Mrs. Silas Oden are the proud parents of a fine baby girl, born October 13. They have named her Betty Jeane. Both the mother and baby are doing nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Tyus, daughter, Billie Ruth, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Tyus, all of Birmingham, were the guests of their father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Tyus, Sunday.

PRACTICALLY ALL BUSINESS HOUSES CLOSE

Banks, County Offices Will Take Half Holiday In Clanton Today

A LARGE BAND WILL ACCOMPANY CLANTON

Not only will Clanton participate in the State NRA Parade in Montgomery, Thursday, October 19, when the citizenship of Alabama will pay tribute to President Franklin D. Roosevelt and the "Blue Eagle", but the entire county of Chilton will be well represented, judging from the enthusiastic acclamation accorded the invitation tendered members of the Commissioners' Court in behalf of the county.

At a special meeting, Monday morning, of the Court final plans were discussed for the entrance of a delegation that will number perhaps six or seven hundred persons, coming from every community in the county. Circulars, announcing to the entire county its intention of taking part in this function and demonstrating to the outside world its loyalty to a worthy cause; and petitioning individual cooperation that Clanton, Chilton county—"in the heart of Alabama"—not fail to heed this call of patriotism, were circulated in every section, Monday and Tuesday.

Declaring that it would be nothing short of tragedy for Clanton, often alluded to as the best little town in Alabama, to fail to have representation in this state-wide tribute to the effort that is being staged to restore business and individual confidence, Mayor J. Lee Smith issued a proclamation, Saturday, declaring a half-day holiday Thursday afternoon in Clanton, and urging business men to close their establishments and join the Clanton delegation. It was also decided at the Commissioners' Court meeting, Monday, that all county offices would be closed Thursday, permitting county officials and their staffs

Mrs. F. A. Gulledge Died Tuesday Night

Mrs. Cordelia Ann Collier Gulledge, wife of F. A. Gulledge, prominent merchant and retired business man of Verbena, one of the oldest and most prominent citizens of that section, died Tuesday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock at her home, following an illness of long duration.

For the past five years Mrs. Gulledge had been an invalid, being entirely helpless since a fall almost three years ago resulted in a broken hip. Since that time she has been unable to even propel her wheel chair about the home.

In her death Verbena lost one of its most revered citizens. Mrs. Gulledge was prominently known throughout the entire state because of her interest in old Indian remedies, which were taught her by an old Indian herb doctor during her girlhood in Coosa county.

Especially had she been successful in the treatment of cancers. Until her health began failing scores of persons from all sections of the state sought her advice and treatment for this malady. Mrs. Gulledge was instrumental in the accomplishment of much good, physically and morally, during the fourscore years she lived.

Born October 30, 1845 at Buyckville, in Elmore county, Mrs. Gulledge lived to the venerable age of 88. She was the daughter of William W. Collier and Mrs. Mahaley Brooks Collier. Her father died when she was very young and she removed with her mother to Coosa county when she was 11 years of age.

She was married December 21, 1868 to F. A. Gulledge; they continued to make their residence in Coosa county until 1877 when they removed to Verbena. Mr. Gulledge engaged in the mercantile business and the Gulledge family has long been one of the most prominent families in the county.

Funeral services were conducted Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the Verbena Methodist church, of which she was a member, with the Rev. Cecil Ellisor officiating. Burial was in the Verbena cemetery.

Surviving Mrs. Gulledge are: Her husband, F. A. Gulledge; two daughters, Mrs. H. B. Oliver, and Mrs. Samuel Scott; three sons, J. H., W. A., and C. E. Gulledge, all of Verbena She is also survived by eight grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

The following friends served as active pallbearers: Hugh Champion, Red Rutland, Charles Lewis, Hubert Hammell, Jesse Jones, and Hobson Rutland.

Honorary pallbearers were: E. B. Williamson, R. L. Williamson, G. H. Caffey, D. I. Deramus, Barnett Deramus, F. A. Rutland, J. M. Hurtt, and Floyd Irvin.

The Farmers And The Election

What part will those citizens living in the rural sections of this county play in the election next year? They will play a great part. In fact they are the ones who are looked to by the candidates for votes. The farmers are the main attractions in political campaigns in Chilton County.

But how long are they the main attraction of the candidates? Is it just long enough to get the vote? With conditions as they are, there is not time for any candidate for any office to forget the people who are the backbone of the nation—the farmer. Without the farmer business would be at a standstill.

Voters should look a candidate through and through, up and down, before they agree to cast their vote for him. They should demand of him his platform. What will he do after he is elected. Will he let politics get into the conducting of his office. Will he have political pets, favoring a few and forgetting the many? The example being set by President Roosevelt is good enough for any candidate to follow, if he wants to follow a good example. The President is putting the farmer and the working man to the front. He is forgetting political differences and placing his effort behind the wheel to better conditions for us all.

But his efforts are hard unless he can secure the cooperation and support of holders of smaller offices in state, county and city. These office holders must carry out the same spirit, and the farmer has the right to demand on what platform a candidate stands before casting a ballot for him. Make them cough up, because next year will be no time for voters to be dallying around with candidates who do not have the interest of the working class of people out in front.

And The News Is Honored Again

Below we publish a letter received from Hon. Arnold Kruckman, a representative of the Tennessee Valley Authority, of Washington, D. C.:

TENNESSEE VALLEY AUTHORITY
Washington

October 12, 1933.

"Mr. Billy Smith, Editor, Chilton County News, Clanton, Alabama.
"Dear Mr. Smith:

"I noticed recently you have entered the twelfth year of your usefulness.

"Any human thing that survives so long has something of permanent value in its composition. I have pleasure in wishing you well and in telling you I read your paper regularly with lively interest."

Very sincerely yours,
ARNOLD KRUCKMAN.

We are indeed appreciative for the sentiments expressed in Mr. Kruckman's letter. We attribute in a large measure to our continued success the statement on our front page, "Community Interest in Its Editorial Policy Is the Cornerstone of This Newspaper" and the carrying out of that thought in our editorials and news articles.

Hiding Behind The Blue Eagle

Hanging up the "Blue Eagle" in the window and on the walls of stores, offices and plants with the cryptic words inscribed on it "We Do Our Part" is a public confession of faith in the N. R. A. and a visible sign that the owner of the "Blue Eagle" has solemnly pledged his word of honor to the President of the United States that he will "do his part" in the N. R. A. program.

It is a public profession of faith.

But as every school boy knows, profession and doing are two very different things. Until the people of the United States square their business economic practice with their "Blue Eagle" profession and do the things they ought to do, and promised the President they would do, the N. R. A. will be in grave danger of becoming a national joke.

The purpose of the New Recovery Act was and is to increase employment by shortening the hours of work and increasing salaries and wages to new high levels so that the purchasing power of the wage earning worker would be increased and business improved.

The question is soon going to be asked of these "Blue Eagle" professors who advertise to the world "We do our part," What have you done? How many extra workers have you added to your payrolls and what increase have you made in your wage rate?

These questions are vital. They will be asked in the very near future and they will have to be answered.

Here and there a few loyal souls are "doing their part" but the general majority of the employers are looking at the "Blue Eagle" and wondering what it is all about. A rude awakening awaits those triflers with the bird of Jove. The American eagle when aroused is a fighting terror—fearless, relentless and terrible in its wrath.

In this war against depression and unemployment, the slackers and the "conscientious" objectors to the President's Recovery program must be as sternly dealt with as were the slackers and "conscientious" objectors in the great world war. F. D. R. says the American people can win this war against depression and unemployment, and they are not going to let slackers, the profiteers, the low wage employers and the conscientious objectors to the NRA hide behind the "Blue Eagle" and give aid and comfort to the enemy by pretending to do their part, and not doing it. —Marion Times-Standard.

A Great Loss To Thorsby And Chilton County

One of the county's most beloved citizens, Carl Peterson, passed away Sunday night following a brave battle for his life. This brings a great loss to Thorsby and to Chilton County.

We pay tribute to Mr. Peterson whose life of unfailing service has been an inspiration to those who were associated with him. His passing causes us to bow our heads in sorrow.

Holding the positions as he held, Mayor of the Town of Thorsby, president of The Bank of Thorsby, active in all religious and civic activites, pioneer of his wonderful little town, one would easily be impressed with Mr. Peterson's ability and faithfulness. But there was more than the material things that made this man worthwhile and made his death a blow to this community. His heart was open to the needy, and he was a friend to man.

We cannot find ourselves master of words to express our deep sorrow at his passing. The News joins with the countless friends of Mr. Peterson and his fine family, in extending heartfelt sympathy. Memories of his life and kindness will be with us at all times, and we shall cherish these memories, holding them as priceless.

Clanton Will Make A Good Showing

Clanton will make a good showing today, as usual, in the NRA Parade that is being staged in Montgomery. The committees in charge of the decorations, floats and so forth went into the work with a great spirit of cooperation and determination. Determined that Clanton should be represented in the parade and represented in style.

Now we are getting right, and if interest in the NRA and its purpose continues in Chilton County as it has been going for the past few days, we will be proud of our achievements. Let's keep it going. Keep it moving. Keep up the spirit, and we'll come out the winners.

Prices Going Up

The Federal Government does not consider prices yet high enough for the stabilization of the dollar, we learn from a copyrighted Associated Press dispatch.

This then, must mean that prices are going higher. Not that prices are not higher today than they were a few months ago. A glance at almost any price list will show that prices are higher now.

Of course, it would have been better if one had purchased needed articles at the lower price. Or that is it would have been better for the individual buyer's pocketbook.

But there is still a chance to save by buying today instead of waiting until prices are boosted again.

Big Mules Again Hitched Up

The big team of mules that were hitched up and worked by former Governor Bibb Graves, are again to be hitched and probably worked for the people and the State of Alabama. We learn just before going to press that this popular former Governor has announced to serve the people of Alabama as their Governor another term.

Mr. Graves has many friends and supporters in this county who will be interested in learning that he has announced his candidacy for Governor—Look out mules—you are in for another working.—Luverne Journal.

Our Government And Our Natural Resources

Dozens of notable public and private careers in our history have been dedicated to the principle of conservation of our national resources. Greeley and Grady and Watterson and other great editors thundered anathema at many administrations for neglect of the riches with which nature has endowed the country. More than one Cabinet crisis resulted from determined attempts to safeguard the Nation's mineral and timber supplies.

It remained for the National Recovery Act to bring about this fundamental economic reform. In a manner that to one unfamiliar with the high purposes of our President, the accomplishment may have seemed almost incidental. Yet, like child labor and sweat shops and racketeering and other obnoxious evils, protection of public wealth in the President's mind is a major matter and he gave it immediate concern.

As the 300,000 young men in 1,500 forest camps are engaged in scientific preservation of timber on Government reserves, so there is now mandatory provision in the code of fair competition of the lumber industry which definitely lines up the owners of all private forests in the United States behind the fixed policy of forest conservation. Secretary of Agriculture Wallace said of this code provision: "It strikes at the heart of the problem of forest depletion by destructive lumbering."

Five millions is being spent in checking soil erosion to provide for reforestation. Destruction of forests by fire, plant disease, and insect pests is being fought by the Civilian Conservation Corps. Under the operation of the codes of the oil and coal industries already there is assurance that there will no longer be waste, so recently wanton, of those irreparable resources. These seemingly secondary phases of the national recovery program will restore incalculable national wealth and re-create confidence in the efficacy of government.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

With a friend of mine I was strolling through his field of corn. We were admiring the large stalks and the maturing ears that hung at arms length. Finally we came to a stalk of corn that was larger and taller than the other corn around it. It had good distance and showed that it was well fed and nourished. We looked up the stalk to see its maturing grain, but did not even find the sign of a shoot. There stood a big stalk of corn right in the midst of other corn that was laden with grain, but it did not so much as give hopes for a nubbin. In the field of human life we find many men and women who dress well, who make a good appearance, who have good advantages, but there is nothing to them but looks. They produce no fruit, they help no one and they, like the stalk of corn, are a parasite on the soil of our civilization. They are a big stalk of corn, "Without a Nubbin."

A devoted little girl knew that her father would come home at twelve o'clock tired and famishing for a cool drink. Before his arrival she went into the dining room to prepare him a glass of lemonade. She hurried so that she could meet him at the door with the refreshing drink, but he entered before the drink was ready. Then she hurried the more and in her haste she upset the glass and it shattered to pieces on the floor. The tears came to her eyes as she hastened to remove the broken glass. On hearing the crash the father hurried back to investigate. He saw and he knew what had taken place. He lifted the little child to his bosom, wiped away her tears and said, "Never mind darling, your father is not mad because the glass is broken. I know that you were trying to bring joy to your old Dad, and forget the glass that is broken." Often we want to do something nice for God and our fellowman, but we make a blunder and there is a crash. God understands, and He is not going to scold us because of our blunders. Blessed be His name, He will lift us lovingly to His great heart, wipe our tears away and tell us that it does not matter about the blunder that we made. When we try we will sometimes make blunders, but God understands.

In the Camp Meeting at Indian Springs, Georgia, I saw a great old saint as he called sinners to the altar. Curiosity came over the great audience and in mass they crowded the aisles to see who was coming. They blocked the way so that a penitent spirit could not reach the altar. The old Apostle of God stepped up on a table and waved his hands and shouted, "You saved people get out of the aisle and stop this blocking the passage way of sinners to God." Soon the aisles were clear and sinners by the score rushed to the altar crying, "God be merciful to me a sinner." They had been wanting to reach the altar, but the saved people filled the aisle and blocked the way. How often is this true in other places than at camp meetings. Right here in your county there are good people, who, in one way and another, are blocking the way of sinners so that they are not able to reach God. You stand between the sinner and God and the sinner can not see the way because you are there with your example, your indifference, or it may be your clouded life. If you are a Christian be sure that you do not block the way of a sinner as he is trying to find God.

I was riding along on a train through a beautiful section of hills and vales. The sun was shining and there was sunlight in every face on that coach. While I was thus traveling I was thinking how beautiful it was to be in the midst of such surroundings. Without warning the train plunged into a tunnel and it was dark, dusty and stuffy. The change was so sudden that all in the coach uttered a cry of horror. Being plunged into the darkness of the tunnel what did we do about it? Did we stop the train and get off? Like good passengers we sat still and waited for the light. It was not long in coming. I have seen many a child of God on the train that is heaven bound. The sun was shining, happiness was seen and felt in every heart, but all at once there was darkness and heartaches. Their travel had brought them to the tunnel. What did they do about it? Stop the train and get off? No, they held on by faith and waited for the light. The tunnels of sorrow on the road to heaven are not very long. Hold on and the light will soon come.

WOODEN CAR TRAGEDY

Railroad accidents have been few in recent years, at least so far as death or injury to passengers is concerned. Now and then a train is derailed, but such accidents are rare, and recent statistics show that train travel is about 25 times as safe as that by automobile.

But a few days ago a wreck occurred on the Erie Railroad in which 14 persons were killed, and 25 were seriously hurt, as the result of placing a wooden coach between two heavy steel ones. When a milk train rammed a fast express in a rear-end collision that wooden coach was crushed like an egg shell between the steel cars which made up the rest of the train. In the steel cars no one was hurt.

This demonstrates the fact that wooden coaches should have no place in modern railroad transportation for passengers. While it would be a hardship on the railroads to do away with the many wooden cars now in service, no more cars of this obsolete type should be built. And when wooden cars are used they should not be sandwiched in between steel ones. A train should be either all steel or all wood.

An all-steel train is the safest means of rapid transportation ever devised by man. In all the millions of miles traveled by steel Pullmans not a single passenger has been killed in more than a year.

A WORD OF WARNING TO BOTH YOUNG AND OLD

October 3, 1933.

Beware of those that come to you in sheep's clothing, but inwardly they are as ravening wolves. Be ye therefore, ready, for you know neither the day nor the hour wherein the Son of Man cometh.

Search the Scriptures, for in them we think we have eternal life. Many false prophets will arise in the last days saying, lo, here is Christ and lo there He is. But I say to you in the name of Jesus, and in the fear of God, believe them not, for as the lightning flasheth from the east and shineth even to the west, likewise, therefore, shall also be the sign of the coming of the son of man, which is Jesus Christ. Every eye shall see him as he comes in the clouds of glory that will be the time, my friends, spoken of in the Bible. That so many will be praying for the rocks and mountains to fall on them, to hide them from the face of God.

That will be the time, my friends, when every knee shall bow, and every tongue shall confess to God, but it will be entirely too late, my friends: for those that reject Him here, and refuse to hear his voice, and his message, and his blessed and perfect plan of salvation. We had better hear and take heed to His voice while we have time and opportunity. There will be a time my friends, when it will be entirely too late for those that the Bible speaks of that will believe a lie, and be damned.

So I say to you, my sinner friend, and also to my back-sliden friend, will you hear? Will you take heed Will you accept the true gospel of Jesus Christ, which is being preached by a faithful few of our land and country today?

And please take heed, and search the Scriptures closely on the subject of eternal punishment, or eternal Hell fire. And be sure, my dear sinner friend, that you understand thoroughly, for this is one of the most important parts of the Bible. Let's think more seriously about our soul salvation, and the beauty of Heaven, and the harrows of hell.

I close with this remark and question: Eternity—Where will be spend it. Thank you for this space and hoping this will be the means of lending a helping hand to those in need of a personal Saviour. I can only point you to one and that is Jesus Christ of Nazareth, the one that poured out His precious life blood on Calvary's rugged cross for you and me; that through His blood we are, and you can be, redeemed from under the bondage of sin.

I close with a prayer for all that need a Saviour, and for all that have a Saviour, let us contend earnestly for the Great Faith that was once delivered to the saints, is my fervent prayer for all.

Yours for right and for God,
IRIE L. SMITH,
Member, Church of Christ, Clanton.

MILK CONSUMPTION

Like other products of the farm, milk and cream have suffered a decline in price during the last three or four years, with the result that dairymen and small producers have had difficulty in marketing these products at a price which would pay the cost of production.

An official of the Department of Agriculture has pointed out that the encouragement of a greater use of milk would benefit both the producers and the public. The per capita consumption of milk in the United States is much lower than in several other countries.

Although much valuable work has been done by health authorities, home demonstration agents and parent-teachers associations in the direction of educating the public to the nutritive value of milk and milk products, we still use far less milk than would be good for us. This applies to adults as well as to children.

By drinking an extra pint of milk a day nearly everyone might enjoy personal benefits, in addition to aiding a most worthy national industry.

A THRILLING SPORT

Recent feats of several young Americans in gliding have stimulated interest in that thrilling, but not necessarily dangerous, sport. There are already about 50 glider clubs in the United States, while more are being formed.

The glider, as is well known, is a light flying machine without motors, whose operator keeps it in the air for varying period, sometimes several hours, by taking advantage of the natural air currents. The start of the glider from the ground has been thus described:

Ten or 12 men run against the wind with a long rubber cable attached to the glider, while others hold the glider until the cable is stretched, and then let go. The operation is similar to that of getting a kite into the air. The glider is cut loose by the pilot when the desired altitude is reached.

Gliders are usually launched from the top of a hill so that the beginner may make a gradual descent into the valley below. With proper instructions, gliding can be learned with little risk, as the first flights are made at heights of only 10 or 12 feet. At one glider school more than 800 flights were made in a year without injury to a single student.

Besides the attractiveness of gliding as a mere sport, it is a most desirable preliminary to learning the operation of motored airplanes. Some air transport companies require their pilots to have glider licenses in addition to those for the operation of airplanes.

FIRST OPPORTUNITY FOR CONSUMERS IN HISTORY

Washington.—"For the first time in history, provision has been made for consumers to organize in their own protection," Mrs. Charles Cary Rumsey, chairman of the Consumers' Advisory Board of NRA, told a Farm and Home audience over a national radio hook-up. "These provisions are contained in both the NRA and the Agricultural Adjustment Act." She said the spread between what the farmer receives for his products and what he has to pay for goods has lessened considerably since last March. Industry, better organized to maintain prices than farmers, has an enormous responsibility not to advance prices too much and too fast "if the NRA stimulus is to keep the country on its upward spiral to recovery." The Federal Trade Commission and the Bureau of Standards are cooperating with the Consumers' Board, she said, the first to guard against unfair competitive trade practices, the second to maintain quality standards in consumers' goods.

"Manners,—the final and perfect flower of noble character."
William Winter.

There is indeed a great bit of truth in the above quotation. Sure, we come to school to gain knowledge and learn how to apply it. But we should also watch our manners, if they need polishing, do so. Some people's manners are admirable while others, it is disgusting to know, are horrible to behold. Let's create good manners. Be polte and courteous and people will speak well of you which is a fine compliment. Under this comes talking while another is talking. This rule is probably violated in school more than in any other place. Watch that, it not only makes one think little of you, but to cut down that conduct grade, which means a lot later in life.

The Senior Three class of 1933-34 at a class meeting last Thursday elected their officers for the year. The office of the president will be filled by John Ezell, the vice-president's office will be occupied by Jeanette Tiffin and the office of secretary-treasurer went to Pauline Plyler. The Senior Class made a fine selection when they elected the above officers. All of them have those qualities which go to make praiseworthy officers. With these students at the helm and the entire class putting all their effort behind them. with that splendid cooperation of which they are highly capable, there is no reason why the ship of the Senior class will not have a prosperous and happy cruise.

According to the compiling of the votes this election was one of the closest in the history of this school. This should be a good thing. Because, those students who were also nominated will be helpful in committees because of their influence in the class.

Another victory for dear ole C.C.H.S. the third of the season and it's not the last one either. Last Friday our winning football team, clicking like a machine, "spanked" a fast, but befuddled Autauga High team 24 to 0. The entire team played as they have never played before. And did "Punchie" (Carl Jones) sweep around those ends, behind the perfect blocking of Jesse Frank and "Gabby" (James Tiffin). We're proud of you other players, too, and we don't mind saying so.

Some of our students bet against Chilton. Well, I hope they are satisfied.

Mr. Warr received a letter this week from C. W. Daugette, president of the State Teachers College at Jacksonville informing him that that school would be able to offer assistance to not more than two of last year's or the year before graduates who are interested in obtaining a college education. These students are to be recommended by Mr. Warr. If there are any students who desire this offer please get in touch with Mr. Warr before October 23, the next date for entrance to the college. For more details drop by the school office.

Was that a real pep meeting in chapel last Friday? It was and how. That makes our football boys feel good. So let's yell for them and support them. They deserve it and more too. Cecil Jones helped in the cheer leading last Friday, that may have been a reason for the sudden outburst of school spirit. Nevertheless, we want him up there again. Come on Clint!

How about the class elections in the other classes?

There was a record crowd at the football game last Friday and the gate receipts were the highest in several years. Boy, that sounds good. Let's advertise our next home game and put our athletic department out of the red.

FOURTH OF A SERIES OF ADVERTISEMENTS EXPLAINING THE EFFECT OF OUR NEW RATES

"An ALL-ELECTRIC KITCHEN for Mrs. BROWN"

A conversation between MRS. BROWN (who is typical of more than 6,000 customers of this company whose use of electricity has been averaging between 80 and 130 kilowatt hours of electricity a month) and a REPRESENTATIVE of this company who is explaining the effect of our new low rates on her use of our service.

- REPRESENTATIVE: "Good morning, Mrs. Brown. Have you heard about our new low rates on electricity for home use?"
- MRS. BROWN: "Yes, and I've been hoping they would make it possible for me to have an all-electric kitchen."
- REPRESENTATIVE: "I believe they will, Mrs. Brown. Let's see, you already have an Electric Refrigerator and some small appliances, haven't you?"
- MRS. BROWN: "Yes. We used 100 kilowatt hours of electric service last month. The bill as I recall was $4.75."
- REPRESENTATIVE: "Then if you continue using the same amount of electricity, Mrs. Brown, your bill will drop to $4.05—a reduction of 70 cents a month. The new rate also entitles you to use 17 more kilowatt hours of electricity per month absolutely free!"
- MRS. BROWN: "What will those 17 kilowatt hours do?"
- REPRESENTATIVE: "On your rate, Mrs. Brown, 17 kilowatt hours will operate an electric iron 30 hours, a waffle iron 30 hours, a 10-inch fan 340 hours, a percolator 30 hours, or a vacuum cleaner 170 hours. Or you can increase the lighting in and around your home about 50 per cent."
- MRS. BROWN: "More electricity for less money—that's good news!"
- REPRESENTATIVE: "And here's better news: your new rate will enable you to add an Electric Range to the appliances you are now using for an average monthly cost of $1.61 more than you've been paying, or an Electric Water Heater for an average monthly cost of $3.49 more than you've been paying."
- MRS. BROWN: "What do the range and water heater cost?"
- REPRESENTATIVE: "We have ranges from $100 to $300, and at present, water heaters for $99.50 and up."
- MRS. BROWN: "I wish I could go ahead and make my kitchen all electric, but I'm afraid we can't afford to invest in any more equipment just yet."
- REPRESENTATIVE: "You needn't decide to buy the equipment now. We'll rent it to you for a small sum per month. The rental is all you contract to pay. In this way you begin at once to enjoy the benefits of Alabama's new low-cost electricity without having to invest in the equipment."
- MRS. BROWN: "How much is the rental?"
- REPRESENTATIVE: "The range rents for $2 a month—or slightly less than 7c a day; the water heater for $1.45 a month, or less than 5c a day. In other words, you can rent and operate an Electric Range for about 12½c a day, or an Electric Water Heater for about 16½c a day!"
- MRS. BROWN: "I never dreamed it could cost so little! Will you please call again tomorrow? I'll talk this over with Mr. Brown this very night, and we'll decide whether we will order the range or the water heater or both."
- REPRESENTATIVE: "Thank you, Mrs. Brown. I don't wish to hurry you, but we have only 500 ranges and 250 water heaters to rent, and they're going fast. The new low rates already are in effect. So you can't lose, except by putting off your decision. Good day, Ma'am."

ALABAMA POWER CO.

Our advertisement in the next issue of this newspaper will explain how the new rates affect our customers who have been using a monthly average of 200 kilowatt hours of electricity. WATCH FOR IT!

ARE you in Mrs. Brown's class? If so, you are in a position to get astounding bargains in electric service by increasing your use of electricity on our new low rates and Rental Plan. Get what's coming to you! Come to our office, or telephone and we'll send our Representative immediately.

School Gets More Books

Mr. Orman T. Headley of Wolfboro, New Hampshire, gave to the County Training School 125 additional books last week. This is the second set of books given the school through Ben Brown in honor of the memory of Mr. Orman's father, who for many years lived in Chilton county. Just how much the school and community appreciate these books can't possibly be expressed in words. We feel it our duty to so live in Chilton county that even strangers our praise might tell. Somehow, we would like to be cherished here in memory, not as those whose skills were great; not as those who conquered fate but as those who served some needs with some kindly and truly deeds. Long live the giver.

Dr. Hayes Gives Table

On September 4, Dr. Hayes made his first official visit to the County Training School to see a baseball game. On the second of October he made a second visit. This time he came to see if we could use a large twelve foot table for laboratory experimental purposes. This table was very much needed and came in to alleviate some of our limited facilities for performing experiments. We feel that it is our work and our good name that makes it possible for us to reap such blessings as these. It is our effort to continue such work in our school and community. Thank you, Dr. Hayes. We not only appreciate this, but anything else that may be given in the future.

P.-T. A. Donates Money On Note

The local P.-T. A. donated in its meeting ten dollars ($10.00) last Friday to be paid on the long past due note at the Peoples Savings Bank. The P.-T. A. made plans to continue raising money for school purposes. If everyone would line up with the "New Deal" and "do his part" this debt would soon be paid, and nothing would stand in the way of the new building that is being planned.

Hard To Beat

Up at Lomax Richard Turpin is setting the pace in corn production. Seventy-five and one-half bushels were produced on one and one-half acres of land. Of course his corn followed vetch and it wasn't bottom land. Otho McKinney produced 120 bushels on three acres which followed Austrian peas. There is no mistake whatever, that winter legumes increase the yield. Now, I want all of you to plant winter legumes this year, and it must be done right away. Last year only two tons were planted in our community. Let us double that this year.

Still More Books

Mr. Warr, principal of the Clanton High School, gave to the County Training School last week, a number of good books which are to be added to the collection of books received a few weeks ago from our friend in Wolfboro, New Hampshire. In behalf of the faculty and student body at the County Training School, I wish to express our sincere appreciation for the gift coming from Mr. Warr. We are glad that he was interested in us to the extent that he has manifested his interest by giving us such a fine collection of books. We thank you wholeheartedly for this gift and for any other you might give us in the future.

Special Drive for P.-T. A.

The P.-T. A. is sponsoring a membership drive at the Training School Friday afternoon. We are urging all parents, particularly the patrons of our school, far and wide, to come out Friday and renew your membership in the P.-T. A. We don't want money. We simply want your presence. We want you to become active members of this organization for the interest of your children. There is going to be a surprise in store for you. Come out and see what it is Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Three years after a thief in Chicago stole Miss Amy Thornton's purse containing $40 he sent the money back with a note signed "Repentant."

MT. NEBO

Rev. Ellisor delivered a very good message last Sunday. Wish everyone in the community could have heard it.

Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Culp were the guests of their daughter, Mrs. Johnson Maddox, of New Cedron, last Sunday.

Misses Louise and Sallie Jo Cox and Mr. Maurice Keen spent a while with Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Williams Sunday night.

Mrs. Johnson Maddox spent last Tuesday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Culp.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Williams spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Owen.

Mr. Carl Culp celebrated his eighteenth birthday last Tuesday evening at the home of his parents. There were thirty-seven present and a number of beautiful and useful presents were given him. Everyone enjoyed it very much.

Mrs. Dock Broadhead and Mr. J. C. Culp are confined at their homes with flu and pneumonia. They are improving slowly.

As Our Guests.

DIEF'S CAFE

CENTER HILL

Hello Folks! Did you know you had a new reporter from this place? Well, you have. I don't know how you are going to like it. Can say for myself, I don't like it.

Our Sunday school and B. Y. P. U. are real good. Could be better if more of the people would come out and help us.

Next Sunday afternoon is our regular singing evening. Everybody come that can.

Rev. J. E. George will preach for us next Sunday night after B. Y. P. U. Come and hear him.

The wedding bells have been ringing around here again. Mr. Hal Curry and Miss Lexia Watson were married October 6th. The ceremony was performed by Judge B. L. Cobb at his home here. Mr. Franklin Miller and Miss Sudie Crowson were married October 7. Rev. R. M. Honeycutt performed the ceremony at his home in Jemison.

Miss Avon Thornbro is spending some time with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Thornbro, in Birmingham.

Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Cobb and Mrs. J. W. Collum were delegates to the Association at Mineral Springs. They attended on Wednesday and reported a fine time.

Mr. Leo Cobb spent Saturday night with his sister, Mrs. Louis Gillespie, in Clanton.

Miss Lucile Merchant spent Sunday with Misses Irene and Olleen Miller.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Scott were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Cobb Sunday.

Several from here attended the singing at Mars Hill Sunday p.m. and reported a good singing.

Mr. and Mrs. Buster Scott visited his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Green near Providence Sunday.

A Quarter Billion More

Alabama farmers are smiling as they receive checks for cutting the cotton surplus.

They should, because economists of the Department of Agriculture have calculated that the 1933 cotton reduction program has added around a quarter of a billion dollars to the prospective income of Southern cotton producers this season.

This calculation is based on the fact that, had there been no crop reduction program, producers would have been forced to sell their cotton at probably 5.5 cents per pound. Economists find ample statistical justification for this assumption, as a 16-million bale crop piled on top of a 12-million bale carry-over would have resulted in a record supply more than two million bales larger than last year's 26-million-bale supply. The low point reached in the farm price for cotton was 4.6 cents per pound in June of 1932.

But, based on 5.5 cent cotton, the gross income from the potential 16,500,000-bale crop as forecast by the Crop Estimating Board would have been $454,000,000. The gross income from the present prospective crop, after the 10,304,000 acres have been taken out of cotton production, is estimated to be exactly $100,000,000 more than the income from the full crop of 5.5 cents per pound. This calculation is based upon the present farm price of cotton of around 9 cents per pound which, on 12,300,000 bales yields a gross income of $554,000,000. Added to this is the estimated cash payments of $110,000,000 and potential profits on government-held cotton which has been optioned to the producer at 6 cents per pound. On the basis of present market prices, these profits would approximate $36,000,000.

So the income to the South from its 12,300,000-bale cotton crop this year is estimated at around $700,000,000. This is $246,000,000 more than would have been received if the potential crop had been harvested and sold at 5.5 cents per pound. It is also greater than the income from the 1932 crop, which was $431,000,000. The producer received an average of 5.7 cents per pound for the 1931-32 marketing season.

MEDICAL ADVICE

If you want to

. . . keep the bowel action regular and comfortable

. . . make constipated spells as rare as colds

. . . avoid danger of bowel strain

—use a liquid laxative

Can constipation be overcome? "Yes!" say medical men. "Yes!" declare thousands who have followed their advice and know.

You are not apt to cure your constipation with salts, pills and tablets, or any habit-forming cathartic. But you can overcome this condition just by gentle regulation with a suitable liquid laxative.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has the average person's bowels just as regular as clockwork in a few weeks' time.

Why Hospitals use a liquid laxative

The dose of a liquid laxative can be measured. The action can be controlled. It forms no habit; you need not take a "double dose" a day or two later. Will not irritate kidneys.

The right liquid laxative will bring a perfect movement, with no discomfort at the time, or afterward.

The wrong cathartic may keep you constipated as long as you keep on using it!

In buying any laxative, read the label. If it contains a doubtful drug, don't take it. If you don't know what is in it, don't chance it. The contents of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is stated plainly on the label; fresh herbs, pure pepsin, active senna.

Its very taste tells you syrup pepsin is wholesome. A delightful taste, and delightful action. Safe for expectant mothers, and children. Drugstores have it, ready for use, in big bottles.

To Spend Winter In Clanton

JACK HAYES

Chilton County's own inimitable Jack Hayes is back in Clanton for the Winter months. He invites all his friends to come to see him at the Hayes Chevrolet Company where he will be glad to see them and discuss baseball or automobiles with them.

Besides being one of the outstanding baseball players of the country, Jack is a partner with his brother, Dick, in Hayes Chevrolet Company and he declares that he is equally as enthusiastic for a successful service to Chilton county Chevrolet owners as for his high standing in the Big League.

His second season with the Chicago White Sox just ended, and indications are that Jack has only begun to play baseball. The White Sox trounced the Cubs in four successive games of a prospective seven-game City Series. Jack said they were just in a hurry to get back home for some real, old home-cooking.

Seven years ago, Jack launched forth in his baseball career. That he has been repeatedly lauded as one of the best second basemen in the big time is indicative of the degree of his success. The Chilton County News joins with his many Chilton County friends in wishing a like success as a local business man.

BETHEL

Mr. and Mrs. John Dennis of Wetumpka and Mr. and Mrs. Philip Eiland dined with Mr. and Mrs. B. D. Dennis Sunday.

Mrs. Charlie Mims spent Saturday night with Mrs. Ben Blalock.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Davis and Misses Getaline and Elaine Mims were the guests of Mr and Mrs. Ben Blalock Sunday.

Miss Delene Davis had as her dinner guest Sunday Miss Jessie Davis.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Davis spent Sunday night with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Davis.

Elder A. T. Davis attended preaching at New Home Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. Rena White spent Friday afternoon with Mrs. Bettie Davis.

Mrs. Iola Cleckley spent Friday night with Mr. and Mrs. Lett.

A. J. JONES HONORED ON EIGHTY-FOURTH BIRTHDAY

A large crowd of relatives and friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Jones in honor of his eighty-fourth birth anniversary Sunday, October the 15th. Two brothers attended, nine children, twenty-three grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

A bountiful and delicious dinner was enjoyed by everyone at twelve o'clock. The birthday cake was made by Mrs. W. C. Smith and beautifully decorated with eighty-four pink candles. There were three layers. The layers were tapered so that the candles were on each layer.

In the afternoon games were enjoyed by all, both young and old.

Rev. J. T. Nelson, age one hundred and one years, attended and told many interesting things that happened long ago. He performed a marriage ceremony in the afternoon. The bride was Miss Mary Brown and the groom is Mr. Russell Hayes of Thorsby.

The relatives attending the birthday dinner were Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Smith and children, Vera and Peggy Jean; Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Jones and children, Jack, Nathaniel and Whitmer; Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Bossie and children, J., Polly, Johnnie, Kathryn, Arthur and Floyd; Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Chasteen and children, A. J., Elizabeth Ann, and Ruth; Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Culp and son, John Evans.

Friends attending were: Rev. and Mrs. J. T. Nelson, Mrs. Eula Smith and chilren, Forest and Mildred; Mr. and Mrs. A. Bussie, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. M. Jacks, Mrs. Marrah Henley and Mrs. Vester Causey.

—A Granddaughter.

SHILOH

We are glad to say that our Sunday school, B. Y. P. U. and prayer meeting is still progressing very nicely. Our prayer service was conducted last Sunday night by Mrs. J. B. Mullins and she is a faithful church worker and she sure enjoys doing something for her Lord and Master. Prayer service will be conducted next Sunday night by Miss Agnes Mullins. Lets all pray that our service will be a success and continue to grow.

Rev. Paul Oden will preach here next Sunday at eleven o'clock. Let's everybody come, for I am sure he will bring us a good message.

We want to announce the birth of an eight-pound baby girl to Mr. and Mrs. Cary Mullins. She arrived last Thursday. Both mother and baby are doing nicely.

Mrs. J. B. Mullins spent part of last week in Thorsby.

Miss Agnes Mullins spent Tuesday night with Mrs. W. L. Henderson.

Mrs. Estelle Norris of Birmingham is visiting her sster, Mrs. John F. Poole.

Mrs. J. E. Ray and children of Enterprise were the Sunday afternoon guests of Mrs. J. D. Mullins and children.

Mr. J. E. Ray was the Sunday afternoon guest of Mr. Henry Dobbs and family.

Mr. Russell Silas of Cordova attended our church services here Sunday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Watts of this community were visiting in the Temple community last week end.

Mr. G. W. Nelson and family were the all-day Sunday guests of Mr. L. C. Keen and family.

Mrs J. D. Mullins and little daughter, Mavis, spent last Friday with Mrs. J. I. Bice and daughter, Minnie.

Don't forget preaching next Sunday and our serivce Sunday night. You are welcomed to Shiloh at all times.

THE NRA AND ELECTRIC POWER RATES

Editor, Chilton County News:

Will you please give me a small space in your valuable paper to ask a few questions in regard to the NRA and the Blue Eagle. First, does the NRA discriminate against the people out in the rural district in favor of those who live in towns and cities? My reason for asking the above question is because the Alabama Power Co. has decreased their electric rates for the good people of Clanton and increased on us at Lomax.

The former rates gave us at Lomax a minimum of $2.00 for 20 KWH and 10c a KWH for all over the minimum used. The new rate is $2.00 for 5 KWH minimum and 5c per KWH for all over the minimum. This is an increase on us at Lomax from 10c to 40c on the KWH for the minimum, and is equal to an increase of 300 percent. Does the NRA do this kind of business? Will someone who knows tell me what about it.

Yours for an honest NRA.

A. A. JACKSON.

Mrs. J. C. Johnston of St. Paul pulled a burglar from under her bed and marched him to the police station.

Robert Gilkins of Belfast was sent to prison for making his children eat with his pigs.

Charged with bigamy, Mrs. Elsie Sorgen of Duluth, declared that she had been divorced from her first husband by her "guiding spirits."

HOME-COMING AT MT. SPRINGS ENJOYED BY A LARGE CROWD

The Home-Coming at Mt. Springs Sunday was enjoyed by quite a large crowd. The estimated attendance was three hundred or more, with plenty of dinner for all. The program began with prayer and songs in the old books, led by Mr. Sanders. Several numbers by quartets were rendered. The history of the church was given by E. W. Butler, Mr. Pete Weldon, Tug Willis. Amos Moatts, Mrs. T. H. Rutherford, Mrs. Martha Davis, Mrs. Mollie Gentry, Mrs. Mary Davis, Mrs. G. W. Golson, Mrs. A. C. Nelson. Sermon by E. W. Butler. Beginning in the afternoon there was singing in the new books.

Out-of-town visitors were Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Golson of Fayette, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Golson, Mr. and Mrs. Fox Grantham and children, Mrs. Mary Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Davis and family, all of Montgomery; Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Rutherford and children of Chelsea, Ala.; Mrs. Lucinda Rhodes of Wetumpka; Mr. and Mrs. Wilkes and little daughter of Bessemer; Miss Davison from Thorsby; Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Rutherford and son, Howard, of Tuskegee.

We wish to thank everyone that helped to make our Home-Coming a success, especially the table and barbecue committee, M. A. Rutherford, Ervin Williamson, Oscar Williamson, O. D. Rutherford, O. A. Vermont Jr. High School News

—o—

The Parent-Teacher association will meet at 3:00 o'clock on next Tuesday afternoon. This will be the first meeting since the opening of school. All members and those who are interested in our school and community activities are requested to be present. Plans of vital importance, concerning this year's school program, will be discussed.

The players began practice this week on a 'tip-top' comedy drama play which will be presented at the school building about the middle of November. This is a play for all classes, both young and old to enjoy. The best talent available has been drafted to present the play, and a good time for all is assured.

Miss Cagle, our sixth grade teacher, and instructor of Jr. High English, called the large girls together last week and drew up plans for organizing a girls' athletic club. We hope to get our ball by next week and get our team organized for playing.

The boys have erected their basket ball goals and hope to begin practicing this week. Even though the boys are inexperienced, they are highly enthusiastic and are working hard to build up a new, yet good team.

We are proud to have T. J. Ratliff, a former student of the Isabella school, to join our ninth grade class.

Miss Dorothy Manning, primary teacher, spent the week end at home with her brother, Oliver, who is back home for a brief visit. He is a student of the State Agricultural College at Auburn, Ala.

The Liberty Hill Quartet has promised to present a musical program for out school in the near future. These boys are real talented singers, and we trust that plans can be completed for them to be with us.

We are glad to announce that many of the pupils who have been withheld from school on account of sore eyes and whooping cough are now enrolling.

MT. CARMEL

Editor, Chilton County News:

Will you please allow me a small space in your paper as I have not seen any news from this place in a good while.

Rev. A. S. Bentley filled his regular appointment here Saturday evening and Sunday evening. He sure preached two excellent sermons. We were glad to have Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Cobern and Miss Catherine Deramus of Maplesville out in services with us Sunday. All visitors have a hearty welcome to any service at Mt. Carmel church.

Our Sunday school is progressing nicely. We would like to have more come and be with us in our Sunday school. All visitors will find a welcome in our Sunday school any time they will visit us. We think all churches should visit and work together by being together and worshipping together. We will learn to love each other more and we are commanded to love one another. We have Sunday school every Sunday, but those who would like to be with us on preaching days, come the third Sunday evening, and Saturday evening before at 2:30 o'clock.

Health of this community is very good at present.

People are about through gathering. We are in need of a good rain. Some of the farmers are wanting to sow oats, but it's too dry.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Minor visited the former's sister, Mr. and Mrs. E. Smitherman, of Prattville Saturday night and Sunday.

Mrs. Evie Thompson has returned to Selma after spending a while with her sister, Mrs. Bertha Roper.

Well, if this misses the waste basket will write again some other time.

PLETCHER DEMONSTRATION CLUB MET LAST FRIDAY

—o—

Members of the Pletcher community club were entertained at the home of Mrs. L. H. Ratliff, on last Friday afternoon at our regular monthly meeting. We had with us as visitors Mrs. R. G. Hall of Billingsley. Mrs. M. L. Williams of Sardis communty, our teacher, Miss Leila Belle Smith, and Miss Madge Williams of Pletcher. Several of our members were absent on account of sickness. However, all present had a nice time and were made very welcome by Mrs. Ratliff

After our regular business Miss Pardue gave us our lesson for the month on poultry raising. Our club certainly endorses Miss Pardue's work, and after our lesson we were made to realize the necessity of planning our work in order to get better results from our back yard flocks.

Our lesson included several angles of poultry raising such as housing, furnishing, feeding, common diseases and preventatives. Miss Pardue, also gave us an outline of our work for the year. After a round table discussion, we adjourned to meet with Mrs. J. H. Turner for our next meeting on Nov. 10th.

Our Sunday school is progressing nicely, and we invite everyone to attend each Sunday.

Rev. Abel Howell and Rev. Andrew Davis were the Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Columbus Ratliff.

Mr. and Mrs. Ranie Jones and children visited Mr. and Mrs. Hannon Owen Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Bavar visited Mr. and Mrs. Columbus Ratliff Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Plato Deason and Mrs. Sellers of Ensley visited Mr. and Mrs. I. M. Deason Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Poole spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. DeShazo.

Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Scott spent Saturday night with Mr. W. A. Pool.

Mrs. H. E. Bavar and Mrs. Wash Scott and children visited Mrs. Henry Patterson Sunday evening.

Rev. Abel Howell spent Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs. I. M. Deason.

CHESTNUT CREEK

Our Sunday school is still progressing. However, some seem to think that cold weather will soon be here and they must quit going to Sunday school if it turns off cold, but let's hope that somebody is doing a little missionary work here in Cooper. We had a large attendance as long as we had on the red and blue contest, but as soon as that was over and the blues won and got disappointed at the same time ('cause they were looking for a big entertainment of some kind and did not get it) they just quit coming. Don't know if that is the reason or not. Anyway, here's hoping you'll soon enroll again.

Chestnut Creek church as a body sends their prayers to God for Bro. J. S. Hand as he is awfully ill. We miss him and his work. Hope God will soon see fit to give him strength to be up and about his Father's business, as the harvest is white.

Our B. Y. P. U. is fine, but the help and cooperation of more of the young people would improve it. We want to remind the older people that we still have their B. A. U. Class, so there is a place for everyone. So, bring your boy and girl and put them in B. Y. P. U. It trains them to be church workers who need not to be ashamed.

Our singing society met Sunday afternoon. It was fine. We had a large crowd. We wish to thank the quartet from Montgomery for their splendid help, and invite them back any time. We meet again first Sunday afternoon.

Our W. M. U. meets next Saturday afternoon. All women are invited and men, too, if you wish.

— A Small Worker.

CONCORD P.-T. A. MEETING

A meeting will be held at Concord Junior High School Friday afternoon at three o'clock for the purpose of reorganizing the P.-T. A. All parents and others who are interested in this work are urged to be present.

YOUNG PEOPLES PROGRAM AT JEMISON

The quarterly meeting of the young people of Chilton County Association meets next Sunday afternoon at Jemison Baptist church at 2 o'clock, October 22, 1933. All young people of Chilton county are invited. We need your help and your prayers. I realize as the young people's leader, I have not done what I could have done, but one can not run this alone. I need the cooperation of the young people and the prayers of the older people; so you meet with us next Sunday afternoon, and you can tell what we are trying to do. I wish to urge all Y. W. A., R. A. and G. A. leaders to send in your report. I have only received two S. B. reports. Our program for the afternoon is entitled, "Honoring God With Our Money." We are putting on a playlet, also have a quartet with us, so help us out with your presence.

LOUANNA JONES,
Young People's Leader.

FORMULA FOR A COMPOUND TO USE IN KILLING TREES

(Adopted from a circular by the Department of Agriculture - Office of Farm Management, Washington, D. C. —C. E. Stapp).

Many inquiries have come to the Department asking for a formula for a compound that could be used in killing trees and sprouting stumps. Several farmers have reported that a concentrated form of the well-known arsenite of soda weed killer that has been used for several years in destroying noxious weeds will, if properly applied, kill trees. Since the Department has not tested this method, or observed its effects for an extended period, it is not recommended, but simply sent to you for what it may be worth. It may be prepared with either sal soda or caustic soda and white arsenic. Following is the formula and directions for using:

To one gallon of water add one pound of white arsenic and bring the mixture to the boiling point. Then add two pounds of sal soda and boil until mixture becomes celar, which will be in twenty-five to forty minutes.

In case caustic soda is used instead of sal soda, use only one pound for each pound of white arsenic. To prepare the compound with caustic soda, buy the granulated form which can be obtained from dealers in laundry supplies or large wholesale druggists. Put the required amount of water in a barrel and pour the caustic soda in. The action of water upton the caustic soda generates sufficient heat to dissolve the arsenic which should be poured in slowly as soon as the water begins to steam. Stir vigorously with a wooden paddle until the mixture cools. If all the arsenic has not dissolved, heat until it goes into solution, but if done correctly all the arsenic should dissolve the first time.

If a little whiting is added to this solution it will be easy to tell which trees have been treated.

Both the arsenic and the caustic soda are exceedingly poisonous and great care should be taken not to inhale or swallow any of the dust or fumes arising when the preparation is being made. Do not prepare this compound in any vessels that may afterward be used in the house or for feeding stock, and it should not be left where irresponsible persons or stock can have access to it. It might be well not to turn stock into the field where it has been used until several days have elapsed.

To use the preparation, cut gashes through the bark in the trunk of the tree and pour a large spoonful of liquid in each cut. An old teakettle with a long spout is a satisfactory vessel to use in apply it to the tree.

Generally it us used during the early part of the growing season, but some claim it is most effective if used in the early fall when the sap begins to go down in the tree.

The species of trees which seem most susceptible to the poison are the hardwoods, including elms, maples, oaks, locust and ash. Gums, persimmon, hickories, pines and cotton-wood are less liable to be killed.

Mt. Pleasant School News

By 9th Grade

Our school began another happy year of work Tuesday, October 3. We have only one new member in our faculty, the principal, Mr. J. L. Wilson. We were glad to see most of our old faculty back with us. All working together we hope to have the most successful school year ever. We have an enrollment of approximately 200.

Mr. J. C. Merchant from Birmingham spent the week end at Thorsby with his wife, Mrs. Lera Bean Merchant.

Miss Celia Baldwin spent Sunday in Montgomery.

Miss Nell and Edna Tracy were the Sunday night guests of Miss Mary Will Smith.

Mr. Carl Glasscock attended the "Ole Miss" and Alabama football game in Birmingham Saturday.

Miss Gladys Turner visited Misses Myrtice and Jewell Cost Saturday night.

Miss Everee Smith spent the week end in Thorsby with her aunt, Miss Myradine Martin.

Misses Myrtice and Jewell Cost spent Sunday with Misses Luettie and Callie Cooper and attended the singing at Liberty Hill Sunday afternoon.

Messrs. Lloyd and Clifford Traywick spent Sunday in Sylacauga.

Miss Ruth Cox spent Saturday night with Mrs. Mary Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Smith enjoyed a Sunday school party given at the home of Mrs. E. R. Piper at Thorsby on Friday night.

All parents and any who are interested are urged to attend the P.-T. A. meeting at the school building on next Tuesday afternoon, October 17. The hour of the meeting is three o'clock. The purpose of this meeting is to elect new officers and discuss business for the new year. Everybody come!

When Adolph E. Adkins of Allerton, Ill., went to a doctor a week after a head-on automobile collision, complaining of a "crick in my neck," the physician discovered that it was broken.

Liberty Hill B.Y.P.U.

Our B. Y. P. U. is progressing very nicely. We need more good Christian workers who do not mind talking hold and carrying things on as God would have us do. We are put to the test, but we sometimes fail because we shirk our duty. So come on boys and girls, let's do our part, and not be called a shirker, but a worker for God. We were very glad to have one of our fellow workers with us Sunday night, Mrs. Odine Hallman. She is one that we all learned to love. We just welcome her back anytime.

There will be preaching at eleven Sunday morning, B. Y. P. U. at six-thirty and preaching at seven by a young minister, Rev. Warren Riggins. Let's have the house filled to its capacity at both services, for I am sure he has something fine to tell us.

Outline of the Program:
Freedom—Sunday night, Oct. 2nd.
Introduction: Mack Gray.
Discussion No. 1: Political Freedom, Earl Lowery.
Discussion No. 2: Social Freedom, Willis Baker and Luettie Cooper.
Discussion No. 3: Economic Freedom, Glenn Bradberry and Ottis Gray.
Discussion No. 4: Physical and Mental Freedom, Amy Gray and Eula Deason.
Discussion No. 5: Moral Freedom, Jewel Cost.
Discussion No. 6: Religious Freedom, Gladys Turner and Pauline Chambers.

CHESTNUT GROVE

Mr. Herbert Williams of Mt. Creek spent the week end with his wife.

Mrs. J. C. Jones is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edd Hughes, of Montevallo.

Judge and Mrs. Cage Head of Columbiana are visiting relatives here.

Mrs. John Little returned home last Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Mack Nabors visited her parents Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Hubbard Lucas.

Mr. Syd Norris of Wilton spent the day with his aunt, Mrs. Nannie Moore, last Saturday.

Mr. Clay Lucas was a visitor here Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Holcombe visited Mr. and Mrs. Mack Meeks Sunday.

Miss Gladys Mae Jones visited relatives here last week.

Mr. George Croxton has plowed up the largest potatoes here this year. He has the prize on potatoes.

Mr. and Mrs. Felton Brown of near Randolph visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hubbard Lucas, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Denson visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hyde, near Ashby.

At the regular meeting of the P.-T. A. Friday night they have planned on having a cake guessing on Nov. 3. They will have a cake for the prettiest girl there. Come on, boys, and bring your girl with you; maybe she will win the cake.

Mr. and Mrs. Hal Curry spent the afternoon with Mrs. N. C. Moore Monday.

HIGHLAND

Last Sunday evening was our regular singing evening. We had a large crowd. We were really glad to have the visitors with us and invite them back again. The openng song was led by the chairman, Mr. G. B. Billingsley, after which prayer was led by Mr. W. R. Baker. Directors for the afternoon were Miss Agnes Rollan and Mr. Jake Henley of Mt. Pisgah, Mr. Mack Durbin of Pleasant Grove, Miss Loyce Daniel of Jemison, Mr. Cornelius Hand, Miss Ruby Weldon. Miss Willie Merle Lockhart, Miss Myrtle Powell, Mr. Herman Culpepper, Miss Gladys Wyatt, Mr. Coy Lockhart and Miss Eddie Bell Wright. Organists for the afternoon were Miss Dessie Wyatt and Mrs. Eddie Bell Wright. Closing prayer was led by Rev. T. W. Billingsley.

Don't forget next Saturday and Sunday are our regular preaching days. Everyone has an invitation to come and be with us and remember, we have our singing every third Sunday evening. We invite all visitors to come and bring someone with you. You are welcome at Highland any time.

Concord-Billingsley

Several attended the Home-Coming Saturday. A wonderful message was brought to us by Rev. J. H. Limbrick at the 11:00 o'clock hour. There were several good talks made by Prof. Griffin of Billingsley, Rev. Harvey Culp and others.

Rev. J. S. Johnson filled his regular appointments Sunday and Sunday night.

Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Williams entertained at their home Saturday night in honor of Miss Mildred Stanford, of Lawley, Mr. and Mrs. Olin Williams, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Pike, Misses Sallie and Linnie Pearl Shaw, Thelma Stewart, Mildred Stanford, Mildred Herrod, Virginia Little, "Tot" Kynard, Ruth Williams, and Messrs. Philip Mills, Howard Williams, Hudson Williams, Porter Williams, Claude Little and Elwin Stewart. All reported a very nice time.

Miss Mildred Stanford returned to her home in Lawley Sunday.

Miss Kynard returned to her home in Selma Sunday.

Mr. Hudson Williams spent the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Williams.

Miss Mildred Herrod is spending a while with her grandmother, Mrs. W. W. Williams.

TIMELY SUGGESTIONS

By C. E. Stapp

Peach Tree Borers

Now is the time to put paradichlorobenzine, or crystal gas, around your peach trees for effective control of the worms that cut your trees so badly just beneath the surface of the ground.

Sweet Potatoes

You should dig your sweet potatoes before frost. They keep in storage better if dug prior to frost.

Vetch and Austrian Peas

At our meeting at Auburn in August, Director Funchess advised planting Austrian peas in central Alabama from the 15th of October to the 15th of November, but preferably the last half of October. Every farmer in the county should try to get some vetch and Austrian peas planted during the next 20 days. Get your seed and inoculation and be ready to plant as soon as you get a rain.

Weevils in Corn

If you expect to treat your corn for weevils, close up the cracks in your corn crib before you store the corn. If your corn crib is tight, 1½ gallons of carbon disulphide, or High Life, for each 1,000 cubic feet of space may be expected to control the weevils.

MAPLE SPRINGS

We were very glad to see such a large crowd out Sunday. Saturday and Sunday were our regular preaching days. Both services were well attended, but Sunday we had an unusually large crowd, and everyone present seemed to enjoy the message Bro. Robinson brought to them. We had several visitors with us from other churches. They know they have a welcome at Ole Maple any time.

There will be preaching here next Sunday morning at eleven o'clock by Bro. Billingsley from Highland community. Everybody come and bring someone with you.

B. Y. P. U. Sunday night was not so well attended. Our subject was, "Good Works," but there is a little group that seems to be saying: We are determined to carry this B. Y. P. U. through in spite of everything. People, show your good works. James, the second chapter and the twentieth verse, tells us that faith without works is dead. So let's everybody hold out faithful in this little B. Y. P. U. and Sunday school and show your good works.

Mr. O. L. Devaughn and family had as their Saturday dinner guest Rev. W. E. Robinson.

Mr. W. F. Glenn spent a few hours Saturday night with Mr. J. R. Mitchell.

Miss Delene Davis had as her Saturday night guest Miss Myrtle Lee Baker.

Messrs. Arthur Mitchell, Joe Lansford and J. C. Mims spent Saturday afternoon with Mr. Arnold Glenn.

Mrs. W. F. Glenn and sons, Virdie and Virgil, and daughter, Delene, are spending a few days of this week with her brother, Mr. J. M. Stroud of Deatsville, Ala.

Mr. Oliver Glenn spent Saturday night with Mr. Elmer Rollan of Highland community.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Wells were visiting Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Blalock Sunday.

Several from here reported a very enjoyable time at the wiener roast near Boswell's Filling Station Saturday night.

Miss Evelyn Downs had as her Sunday afternoon guests Miss Lera May Mitchell, Mr. Alton Harris and Mr. Bill Wise.

Mr. Bonnie Miller was the dinner guest Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Downs.

Mr. Lester Davis spent Sunday night with Mr. Elzie Davis.

Mr. Evan Mitchell had as his guest Sunday Mr. Mike Pickens.

Mr. W. F. Glenn had as his dinner guest Sunday Mr. J. M. Stroud of Deatsville, Ala.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Downs spent a few hours Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Jim Mims of near Verbena.

Mr. John Wilson has been visiting in Columbus, Ga., this week.

Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Devaughn, Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Devaughn, Misses Bernice and Marie Devaughn, Messrs. Oliver Glenn and Elmer Rollan attended the singing at Chestnut Creek Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Merrett Wilson spent Saturday night with her mother, Mrs. Cox, near Clanton.

Twelve small boys went to court in Manhattan and had Henry Christ sent to jail for five days for throwng their pet poodle out of a second-story window.

Baker Jr. High School

Well we were very glad to see the rain Monday, especially those who ride the buses to school; although it was only a shower, it settled the dust for a few days at least.

Everyone seems to think there will be a short term of school this year for they work with a free will and are trying to gain all there is within the lessons. This is a good idea, too, for we are now working on our third week of school and everyone knows the fourth week brings examination days along with it.

Let's everyone work hard and see who will rank highest. If you are unlucky and make a low grade, do not give up the race, but "try, try again."

Make each month's report better than the one before. If you will work by this rule you will be proud of your report card at the end of the school year.

Some of the smaller boys seem to forget fighting is one of the forbidden rules in school; it is not only breaking the laws of school, but it makes those around you dislike you. Let's all be ladies and gentlemen and try to emulate our teachers or someone else who does the right thing and shuns the wrong.

The boys are working to get money enough to buy them a basket ball. Every boy who is interested in basket ball should pay some on it, for it is a very interesting game. The girls should also help pay some on it as the boys were nice enough to help them get one last year. "Turn about is fair play," you know.

The Junior II and III grades were sorry indeed to give up two of their members to another school. Miss Mary Lois Culp and Mr. Zolan Broadhead enrolled from this school to Isabella high the first of this week.

We will miss them in classes and in basket ball, but hope they will like their school and school work. We hope they will make much progress and show they have had the proper teaching.

The Jr. Twos put on a short play in chapel Thursday morning representing "Columbus' Discovery of America." It was very good and gave some helpful thoughts in history.

We had our school well cleaned out last Thursday and now we can get our drinking water without having to go across the highway. Let's all be careful and keep our well of water nice and not drop our drinking cups into the well or scatter trash around the well or anywhere else on the grounds for that matter, so we may never be ashamed for our superintendent or any other visitor to come unexpectedly.

"I WANT MY TELEPHONE PUT BACK IN"

By T. E. Harris,
DISTRICT MANAGER

SOUTHERN BELL
Telephone and Telegraph Co.

As general business continues to improve and prices for agricultural products and manufactured goods continue to rise, people who have discontinued their service are asking to have their telephones put back.

These folks tell us that trying to get along without a telephone was mighty difficult, and even embarrassing at times, and that they were doubtful if the small amount they saved justified the annoyance and trouble they experienced when doing without a telephone.

Not having a telephone, they say, made it too difficult and inconvenient for their friends to keep in touch with them. As a result, they found themselves and especially the younger members of the family being left out of things.

Many of these people also mentioned that not having a telephone they found themselves using some neighbor's telephone and although the neighbor was willing, still it was embarrassing to be continually borrowing something from a neighbor that couldn't be paid back.

Of course, numbers of people have been forced by circumstances beyond their control, to give up their telephones, but as soon as their financial condition improves they are quick to order them put back. As some have expressed it, "the telephone is such a convenience and protection in emergencies and all-round handy thing to have in the home that it just doesn't pay to try to get along without it."

If you are one of those who is still trying to do without your telephone, is it really necessary, when the cost is so small?

Call the telephone office and find out how inexpensive it is to have this service in your home.

Last year but one passenger out of nearly five hundred millions transported by train lost his life in a train accident—whereas—twenty-nine thousand persons were killed in automobile accidents, and an average of 90 per day were hurt. Can you afford such chances? Not a single passenger has been killed in an L. & N. train accident during the past 15 years.

Consider the comfort of traveling in large roomy coaches or Pullmans, providing dining, smoking and toilet facilities—without roadside delays or the fatigue of driving—and figure the costs as compared to using any other form of transportation.

Let an L. & N. passenger representative give you further facts and figures.

"Pay Up And Keep Paid Up" Slogan Of Churches Next Week

Methodists And Baptists Will Carry Through Campaign Here Next Week

The Methodist and Baptist churches of Clanton will start into their Pay-Up Campaign on next Sunday determined to put all their debts behind them in a week's time. Not only will they advocate that church members pay up what they owe, but also they will urge that everyone stay paid up in the future.

"We ought not to have to put on these high-pressure pay-up drives every year," said a member of the Methodist Board of Stewards. "We keep our business obligations paid up and we can keep our church obligations paid up if we would only do it."

In preparation for the drive to be made next week the Methodist Stewards have sent out a letter to their membership which says:

"At a recent meeting of the Board of Stewards we decided to make Oct. 22 to 29 Pay-Up Week.

"Our church pledged itself to pay our pastor $1500, and $300 for general conference benevolences. Our budget ran only about $2600 for the year. We are very anxious for these causes to be paid. If each member will only pay what he can, after much prayer, and with a sacrificial spirit, we feel like we can pay out.

"The Board is of the opinion if we can't support a preacher at this salary, we shall have to go back to a half station with some other charge. Are you willing for your church, with its present standing, to make such a backward step? The NRA is stepping everything else up. Why let our church be last?

"Bring or send your offering to John Armstrong, treasurer, or to any member of the Board of Stewards."

Apparently that puts the case square up to the Methodist membership. Facing a two-way proposition of pay-up or cut down to half-time, the response of the church next week will decide the course.

With a similar call to arms the Baptist Deacons have sent out the following letter to their membership:

"By the end of October we will owe about $1100 on our running expenses. This should not be so. Even after our pastor gave back to the church about $1400 of his salary last year, we had to bring over into this year part of our debt.

"Our pastor has been very patient with us and has borrowed money for his running expenses. The time has now come for us to do our part in paying our debts."

That is the Baptist status. The pastor gave back to the church last year $1400 of his salary, and even then the church did not pay him up.

The Deacons and Stewards hope that the members of the churches will volunteer to pay up without having to be solicited further. If they do not, a systematic personal canvass will be made to bring the matter to the attention of every member of the two churches.

LOCAL GRIDDERS DEFEAT FAST AUTAUGA TEAM

Game Here Last Friday Ends With A Score Of 25 To Nothing

By Dan Smith

Clicking like a well-oiled machine, Coach J. T. Searcy's Chilton County High School football team defeated a fast and fighting eleven from Autauga High in Prattville last Friday afternoon at Clanton, the score being 25 to 0. Throughout the entire game the Chilton team showed an advantage over the Autauga team in their plays. The game was Chilton's from the beginning of the first quarter to the last of the fourth quarter when the game ended with Chilton in possession of the ball on Autauga's nine-yard line.

Not once during the entire game did Autauga get any nearer Chilton's goal than the thirty-yard line. This speaks well of the fast and heavy line of the Chilton Tigers. Only a few times during the game did Autauga make any gains of great length while Chilton's backs skirted the ends and slipped thru holes in the line for ten, fifteen and twenty yards. Autauga made quite a bit of yardage on her passes but Chilton's few passes netted them results in the form of two touchdowns and considerable yardage. Fumbles by both teams, though few in number, cost the teams ground.

In the first few minutes of the game before Autauga could start playing good, Sidney Reynolds on a line play crossed the goal line standing up for the first touchdown. Following a long end run by Carl Jones, quarter, James Tiffin, half, hurled a pass to Jack Gillespie, end, over the goal line, making the second score of the game. The first two touchdowns were made in the first quarter.

Chilton kicked off in the second quarter and no score was made by either team during the second quarter. Several times Chilton neared Autauga's goal line, but fighting with determination the Autauga team held. Several long and beautiful punts were made during the second quarter by Sidney Reynolds. A number of nice tackles were made by Emanuel Cooper, guard, who caused havoc in the backfield of the Autauga team by crashing through the line to stop runs before they got started.

Prattville kicked at the second half and the ball was received by Tiffin on his fifteen-yard line. Here was made one of the prettiest and exciting plays of the game. After Tiffin had been downed the next play was a trick pass from Tiffin to Jones on the fifty yard line who ran the remaining fifty yards with no following tacklers for the third touchdown of the game. The remainder of the quarter was passed with the exchange of punts and several long runs by Chilton.

The last quarter netted the fourth touchdown of the game on an end run by James Tiffin. And the whistle blew with Chilton headed for another goal with the ball on the nine-yard line.

Starring in the game Friday were Emanuel Cooper who played one of the best games at guard that Chilton has seen. Emanuel seemed to be in Autauga's backfield more than on his own line; also was the long end runs of Carl Jones protected by the superb blocking of Capt. Jesse Frank Foshee and James Tiffin, full and half backs, respectively. The punts and line runs of Sidney Reynolds drew the comments of the onlookers while James Tiffin in spite of his injuries gave the Chlton onlookers something to cheer about when he started through the line and around the line. Also playing a good game was Joe Moore, end, who gave Autauga fits when it came to breaking up those end runs and not to be overlooked is Jack Gillespie on the other end who proved his mettle. Holding down their positions in the line in a way which deserves praise were Oscar Mims, tackle, Osmond Glenn, tackle, and Carson Eiland, guard; while pivot of the line was filled by D. H. Wylder, who played as a real center would.

The substitutes in during the game were Grady Reynolds, Jr., tackle; Morgan Reynolds, half; Willis Baker, half; U. L. Baker, guard, and others. These boys showed that there was no gap between the playing ability of the varsity and the second team.

to participate.

At a special meeting, Monday night, in the Mayor's office, the committee on arrangements for the NRA Loyalty Parade to be staged in Montgomery voted unanimously for Miss Corinne Polk for "Miss Liberty" to serve as Queen on the Clanton float. Other girls designated places of honor on the float are: Misses Helen Moore, Mary Courtney Jones, Dixie Johnson, Celia Gerald, Lillian Smith, Ruth Gowan and Elizabeth Gragg.

Miss Polk recently won wide popularity, when she was crowned "Miss Chilton County" in a beauty revue at the Wadesonian Theater in Clanton. She competed with a score of other Chilton county beauties, honoring the Chilton County News as its candidate.

Members of the arrangements committee are: M. A. Gore, local chairman of the NRA, Judge L. H. Reynolds, L. C. Warr, principal of the Chilton County High School, Luther E. Little, Superintendent of Education of Chilton County, J. Watts Moore, member of the Town Council, J. Lee Smith, Mayor of Clanton, Claudie Pipes, city clerk, and L. E. Diefenderfer.

The following ladies of the Pilot and Study clubs acted as decorating committee to prepare the float: Mrs. C. E. Stapp, Miss Bonnie Clyde Griffin, Mrs. Hugh Jones, Mrs. Grady Heflin, Mrs. J. M. VanDerveer, and Miss Kitty Clyde Austin.

Almost every place of business in Clanton, including banks, barber shops, stores and county offices, cooperated by agreeing to close during Thursday afternoon.

Arrangements have been made for a thirty-five-piece band from Sylacauga to be a part of the Chilton county representation. Fifty-one seniors of the Chilton County High School, at Clanton, will march with banners and flags in the parade. It had not been learned Tuesday whether other schools would be represented, but indications are that approximately one hundred-fifty car loads of people will assemble at the court house at 11 a.m. Thursday to take part in the celebration.

The hearty cooperation given this loyalty celebration demonstrates the fairmindedness of the people of Chilton county. Although considered a Republican county, the people and officials of Chilton recognize the gigantic effort the Democratic administration, without partiality, is making to restore normalcy in business and contentment in the minds of its subjects; and their loyalty in this is a barometer, indicating that petty politics sways not the minds and hearts of this section.

transport plane was only 96 miles per hour. The average speed of the present-day transport is around 150 miles per hour, Mr. Hoppim revealed; and he expressed the opinion that within the next decade the average speed will range from 250 to 300 miles per hour, thus drawing closer and closer the once-distant places.

For sometime Dr. V. J. Gragg and others have been instrumental in the promotion of aeronautic interest in Clanton and Chilton county; and Mr. Hoppim visited Clanton at an invitation from Dr. Gragg, who is a private licensed pilot and a flying fan.

In discussing the advantages of a local airport, Mr. Hoppim stated that Clanton lies between two established routes: Atlanta to Montgomery, and Atlanta to Birmingham. Aside from the advantages to local flyers, a field here would mean much in a commercial way within a few years, according to Mr. Hoppim.

head bridge and continuing west.

This money, it is understood, was appropriated from a recent emergency federal aid appropriation and is not to be matched by county funds. Contracts will be let by the state highway department for this construction.

Information that an ample appropriation has been made to Dallas county for the paving of the other end of the road between Selma and Plantersville, or to the Chilton and Dallas county line. It is believed that another appropriation will be made in the near future to complete the remaining 20 miles through Chilton county, according to local business men who have been instrumental in obtaining the appropriation.

One of the greatest advantages of the paving of this piece of road, it is understood, is that it will greatly relieve the traffic on the Montgomery-Birmingham highway, south of Clanton. Many motorists en route to Mobile will go by way of Selma when this project is completed.

It is not known just when work will begin, nor how many men will be afforded employment as a result of this work, but according to local advocates of the project, work should be well underway by Christmas.

WORLD-FAMOUS AUCTIONEER TO BE IN CLANTON SATURDAY

Clanton is to have a very distinguished guest next Saturday, in the person of Mr. Lee Chrisman, champion hollerer of the country. He is from Danville, Ky., and has won renown as an auctioneer and hollerer at the Century of Progress, Chicago, and at Cincinnati, Ohio.

Mr. Chrisman is being brought here by Circle No. 3 of the Clanton Methodist church, and his business is to auction off cakes, clothing, etc., for the circle. Also he will auction off anything that anybody has to sell if they will bring it to him here Saturday. He will do this auctioning in front of the place on main street recently vacated by Broadhead's Market.

Lee Chrisman promises to be very interesting and entertaining, as well as the best auctioneer in the country. Be in Clanton and look out for him whether you want to sell or buy anything or not.

by the number of his years. He was also one of the founders of the Thorsby Fruit Growers' association, one of the largest organizations of its kind in the state, serving as its president for twelve year.

Thorsby Institute, the pride of the city, too owes much of its success to the efforts of Carl Christian Petersen, who served the institution for many years as trustee; and was ever alert for its welfare and for the welfare of the future civilization of Thorsby and Chilton county. President of the Bank of Thorsby and a trustee in the Congregational church, his interests and efforts encompassed almost the entirety of the Town's activities.

Born in Denmark July 28, 1867, Mr. Peterson migrated to the United States when he was only thirteen years of age and settled in Wisconsin. In 1901 he removed to Alabama and was instrumental in the founding and building of Thorsby.

Surviving him are: His widow, Mrs. Marie Hanson Petersen; four sons, Nels Petersen, Thorsby, Albert, New York City, Harry, Tuscaloosa, and Jack, of Thorsby; and one daughter Miss Rachel Petersen, of Birmingham.

Funeral services were conducted Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock from the Thorsby Congregational church, preceded by a short service at the home. The Rev. J. E. Each and the Rev. E. W. Butler officiated.

Honorary pallbearers were: C. A. Peterson, G. F. Harper, M. J. Soberg, Martin Peterson, E. N. Dyrhovd, J. O. Johnson, T. J. Martin, A. E. Reagan, J. L. Foss, J. M. Smith.

Active pallbearers were: J. L. Mixson, E. R. Piper, Donald Merchant, M. E. Willis, S. M. Pate, and John Childress. Interment was in the Thorsby City Cemetery with Martin & Sons in charge.

CHILTON COUNTY POSSIBLE POLITICS

By Victor Norris

The calendar of 1934 holds much in the way of entertainment for local political fans. Chilton county promises to be the arena for some of the warmest political bouts ever staged in this section.

With fourteen titles to be won, candidates are being groomed on every side. Almost every day additional names of prospective contenders are mentioned. Old masters of the ring are assuming that cocksure attitude, intended as a deterant to any possible opposition. Novices are being taught to glower from their respective corners; and it is understood that detailed instructions in the art of mudslinging are forthcoming.

With the titles of probate judge, circuit judge, circuit solicitor, state senator from this district, representative from this county, sheriff, tax assessor, tax collector, two members of the board of education, two county commissioners outstanding, there seems to be no lack of prospective materials for the anhilations.

Although most of the principals approached feign surprise that their names have even been suggested in connection with a political race, there seems to exist no fear on the part of the promoters at the possibility of not being able to arrange matches for the several titles.

Probate Judge

For the office of probate judge fully nine possibilities loom. County Agent C.E. Stapp disappointed the Stapp rooters, when he announced recently that his monicker would not appear on an election ballot next year. W. A. Gulledge, Verbena merchant, uttered a strong denial when informed that he had been mentioned as a possible candidate, but there are a great many others who have not so expressed themselves. In fact they have very successfully refrained from expressing themselves at all.

For several years supporters of J. Z. Mims, circuit court clerk, have awaited impatiently the time when they could cast a vote for Mims for probate judge: Perhaps Mr. Mims has been waiting with an equal degree of impatience. Dr. P. T. Hinkle has that political look lately; J. Lee Smith doesn't seem to get mad when his name is mentioned as that of the next probate judge of Chilton county. Party friends of J. N. Dennis, Clanton business man and member of the Republican executive committee, expressed the opinion that he is the logical Republican candidate.

The name of H. S. Shaw, a member of the Town Council of Clanton, has also been among those receiving mention. But there are those who believe that it will take more than one trick hold to get both of Judge Reynolds' shoulders on the mat at once.

Circuit Judge

No information has been had from Judge Tate relative to his making the race to succeed himself. On the other hand there have been no rumors that he is tired of his job. Arthur Glover, defeated by Judge Tate last year, shakes hands with everyone when he comes to Clanton, but maybe he just feels friendly. J. B. Atkinson, local attorney, is understood to have a hat that he expects to throw in the ring for circuit judge.

Circuit Solicitor

Of course it just wouldn't be according to past records for that vigorous, red-headed prosecutor, Winston Huddleston, not to be out there tongue-lashing opponents. If you have any doubts concerning the tongue-lashing, one case in his circuit will convince you. At this date no opposition has been announced.

Superintendent of Education

Who will oppose Luther E. Little for this capacity has not been learned. Luther was the first Democrat to be elected to an office in Chilton county for forty-four years, so it isn't reasonable that the G. O. P. really liked the idea, but we understand that Luther's idea of not playing any political favorites is winning approval from both Democrats and Republicans alike.

Sheriff

J. R. Hardy, chief of police of Clanton, is the only expressed contender so far for this office. However, it is believed in certain circles that James Gillespie may be a successor to his dad, but there appears to be a possible catch in this arrangement. Dudley Collins, former sheriff — and father-in-law of young Gillespie, it seems wouldn't mind

LOCAL BAPTISTS, METHODISTS PUSHING 'PAY UP' CAMPAIGN

CHILT'N COUNTY HAS A SPLENDID PARADE ON NRA

Took Place Last Saturday With Large Band Leading Procession

Emulating that patriotism that carried through to success the State NRA Loyalty Parade in Montgomery, last Thursday, the citizenship of Clanton and Chilton county staged one of the most inspiring celebrations in the history of the county, Saturday afternoon, when more than five hundred persons marched through the streets of Clanton in one of the longest parades the Town has ever sponsored, signifying that the residents of Chilton county are 100 per cent behind the administration and its efforts to better conditions.

Heading the procession was Moses Simpson, carrying a huge U. S. flag. The entire procession was almost a mile long and 20 minutes were required for it to pass a given point. Immediately behind the flag came a large banner with the inscription "Chilton County—in the heart of Alabama." Next came the Sidney Lanier High School Band, followed by officials of the Town and County.

One of the most outstanding features of the parade was the Chilton county float, which won wide-spread distinction in the Montgomery parade. Miss Corinne Polk, recently crowned "Miss Chilton County" when she competed with 20 other county beauties in a local beauty revue, was a replica of the Statue of Liberty, holding aloft the torch. Miss Polk is the daughter of

CONFERENCE OF P.-T. A. WILL BE IN THORSBY

All Schools Urged To Have Representatives At The Meeting Oct. 28

Chilton countians interested in the promotion of education have a fete in store next Saturday, when Mrs. James Fitts Hill, president of the Alabama Congress of Parents and Teachers, will appear as the principal speaker on the program at the district conference of parents and teachers in Thorsby.

Superintendent Luther E. Little is making an extensive effort to secure a wide representation from all sections of the county. He urges all schools in the county, regardless of whether a local parent-teachers association is maintained, to have representatives at the conference.

Closer harmony between the teachers and the parents with the single purpose of increasing the benefits to be derived by the pupil will be the keynote of the program, it is understood. Each person requested to bring lunch.

MISS GRACE EZELL UNDERGOES APPENDICITIS OPERATION

The many friends of little Miss Grace Ezell, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. S. J. Ezell, of Clanton will be glad to know that she is doing fine following an appendicitis operation last Friday at St. Margarets Hospital in Montgomery.

One of the several freaks that were brought to town the past week was a most crooked potato, grown by V. G. Smith, of the Jackson Chapel Community. The potato was small in body and curled considerably at one end.

Drive To Clear Up Debts Of The Churches Is Underway This Week

Methodists and Baptists of Clanton are reminded that this week is the time set for "Pay Up and Stay Paid Up" campaign of those two churches. The drive was officially begun last Sunday, and will end next Sunday.

Teams of workers have been organized by the official boards of the two churches. These workers will go out this week with an allotted list of church members to see and to solicit payment of church obligations.

In the window at Upchurch Drug Store there is a big sign showing pictures of two thermometers. One represents the Baptists and the other the Methodists. Daily reports will be made from the financial secretaries from which the "temperature" in the thermometers will rise to show the progress that is being made.

Church members are urged to take

CULVER'S I. G. A. SHOWING NOVEL KIDS SPEED BIKE

One of the most novel get-ups in bicycles is being displayed at Culver's I G. A. Store in Clanton. This bike is called the "Speed Byke" and is built on the order of a small motorcycle, with real tires and all.

This bicycle will be given away by this popular grocery store in the near future, according to Mr. Mack Culver, owner of the store.

PROGRAM

FOR

Blue Eagle Trade Days

IN CLANTON

Friday, October 27th

When the merchants who are taking part in these two big bargain days open their stores Friday morning, the Blue Eagle Trade Days begin. Bargains are ready for thrifty buyers.

Don't wait until Saturday, come to Clanton both days.

Free Theatre Tickets

Tickets to the Wadesonian Theatre will be given both days by merchants whose ads state this in the News this week, with each $2.00 cash purchase or paid on account.

Saturday, October 28th

This is the big day — 35 fowls bearing 35 tickets with valuable prizes will fly from the top of The Leader store on main street at the following hours:

10:30 O'Clock In The Morning

2:30 O'Clock In The Afternoon

Be on hand at these hours. Watch the top of the two-story building for the fowls. Catch one, keep it, and get a valuable prize. See list of prizes elsewhere in this issue.

These two big trade days are sponsored by Merchants of Clanton and the Chilton County News.

LOCAL BANKS TO LEND AID ON ALL LOANS

Plans Mapped Out At Meet Tuesday Night; Urged To Keep Cotton Here

PLANS FOR LOANS ARE COMPLETED

Final plans were completed at a meeting Tuesday night in the offices of County Agent C. E. Stapp, whereby Chilton county farmers may borrow 10 cents per pound on their cotton, under the provisions of the Government Cotton Cooperative Parity Plan.

The plans became effective in the county Wednesday morning allowing farmers to borrow from the Government 10 cents per pound on all individually produced cotton and at the same time retain rights in the product with a prospect of receiving 15 cents per pound later.

Attending the meeting were representatives from every bank and warehouse in the county. Arrangements were made by which clear warehouse receipts, with samples of the cotton, may be brought to Mr. Stapp's office for grading and making application for loans. Any bank in the county will handle the loan, Mr. Stapp stated.

FIDDLERS CONVENTION TO BE HELD AT SHOULTS

There will be a Fiddlers Convention at Shoults School House Saturday night October 28. Admission, 10c and 15c. Good fiddlers come, and bring your family or girl friend. There will also be chicken sandwiches for sale.

PRIZES, FOWLS & SHOW TICKETS

Few Auto Licenses Have Been Sold Yet

With the dead line for buying automobile licenses without the additional 15 per cent penalty little more than two weeks away, there are still more than 2,200 auto owners in the county who have not purchased '34 tags, according to information from the probate office. With approximately 2,500 automobiles in the county, only about 300 licenses have been paid, it was reported.

More than 900 huntsmen have purchased licenses, and with the bird season opening November 20 it is expected that the number of hunting licenses will reach 1,200 this year.

BAPTISTS OPEN REVIVAL HERE NEXT SUNDAY

Visiting Preacher Will Give Fine Sermons Through Next Wednesday

Beginning Sunday morning, October 29, and continuing until Wednesday, Nov. 8th, revival services will be conducted at the Clanton Baptist church, according to an announcement this week from Dr. S. J. Ezell, pastor of the church. Both morning and evening services will be held.

Dr. W. P. Reeves, formerly pastor of the First Baptist church of Jackson, Tenn., and now of Tuskegee, will conduct the services; and Mr. Fred Bond, evangelistic singer of Birmingham, will have charge of the singing. Mr. Bond needs no introduction in Clanton, having assisted in a revival here before.

The public is cordially invited to attend.

GOOD REPORTS ARE MADE ON VETCH & PEAS

Farmers Using Legumes Are Pleased With Results Being Obtained

This week Mr. J. L. Smith, Clanton Route 2, called at Mr. Stapp's office and reported that he gathered and weighed in 325 bushels of corn from eight acres where vetch was turned under last Spring for the first time. This is an average of better than 40 bushels per acre. Mr. Smith is one of the farmers who thinks that every farmer should plant five acres of vetch or peas per mule.

Mr. Alf Mims, of near Thorsby, called at Mr. Stapp's this week and reported 112½ bushels of corn weighed in from 2¼ acres where a growth of vetch was turned under last Spring for the first time. This is an average of fifty bushels per acre. Mr. Mims says that he is well pleased with results of same and expects to plant more peas and vetch in the near future.

HAS EXCELLENT SPECIMEN OF TWIN PEANUTS

An excellent specimen of a twin peanut was brought to the News office Saturday by little Miss Bessie Pearl Scott, twelve-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Scott. The peanut was grown on the Scott place near here and was left at the News office.

Mr. Jesse Jones, a popular barber of Clanton, is confined to his home this week on account of illness. His many friends regret to learn this and hope for him a speedy recovery.

PRICES DROPPED FOR 2 BIG DAYS OF FALL BUYING

Trade Days Open On Friday Morning With A Lot Of Bargains

TWO BIG, UNUSUAL DAYS FOR BUYERS

That same characteristic patriotism that prompted such whole-hearted cooperation with President Roosevelt in the launching of his gigantic recovery program and the establishment of the Blue Eagle is being manifested here this week by the merchants and business men of Clanton, when for two days their customers will be offered the greatest bargains of the season.

"Blue Eagle Bargain Specials" will be in evidence at almost every business establishment in Clanton during the two "Blue Eagle Trade Days"—Friday and Saturday, October 27-28, and the several hundred persons who congregate here during those days will have an opportunity to avail themselves of bargains such as they perhaps will not see in many seasons.

Prices during the past few weeks have advanced more rapidly than have most people's incomes. The business establishments of Clanton realizing this fact seized this opportunity to illustrate their sympathy for the homefolk, by offering merchandise, old and new, at prices that are far below present-day quotations. Prices are still advancing, so the merchants of Clanton are urging their customers to take advantage of this chance to get some real high class merchandise at depression prices.

Throughout the entire Nation there is an urge to buy now as a stimulus to business recovery. The success or failure of the campaign depends largely, we are told, on this method of cooperation from the consumer. Most business establishments have whole - heartedly declared themselves in accord with administration and have manifested their willingness to lend support by signing the code and exhibiting the Blue Eagle.

In most cases their costs of operation has been increased and to maintain their determined cooperation with the President and his program for the restoration of normalcy, they must have the cooperation of their customers. By buying what you need now—and buying from the home merchant—you can greatly help in the success of the recovery program.

The business men of Clanton have been equally as loyal and patriotic as any in the Nation. The consumers of Clanton and Chilton county have an opportunity to perpetuate an improved condition, and help to maintain higher wages for employes of these firms by trading with the home-county establishments.

During the Blue Eagle Trade Days visit the stores of Clanton and see for yourself the real bargains that may be had. There will also be plenty of fun and entertainment. Music, gay colors, and, too, you'd always regret it if you failed to see the local sprinters doing notches in the wake of a frightened chicken or guinea over the streets of Clanton.

This issue of the News is filled with ads, proclaiming the existence of bargains. "Blue Eagle Specials" scream at you from every page of this big, sixteen page paper.

The educational value of railroad travel is well known. But the importance of the railroads in making another kind of education possible, is not.

According to a recent survey, the railroads pay annually the sum of $148,041,456 in school taxes. Federal statistics show that, in 1930, the average expenditure on public elementary and secondary schools came to $90.22 for every pupil—a figure which includes money spent for new buildings as well as operating costs. As a consequence, the school taxes paid by the railroads were enough to furnish a year's education for more than 1,600,000 children.

The figures show that railroad school taxes grossed enough in Illinois to educate 98,000 children; in Michigan, 86,000; in Ohio, 80,000; in New Jersey, 79,000; in Virginia, 70,000; in Kansas, 51,000; in Oklahoma, 70,000; and proportionate numbers in other states.

Every public improvement—roads, buildings, parks, streets, docks, etc.—was partly built with railroad money. If the rails went out of existence, either we wouldn't have these improvements—or we'd have to find some new property to tax for them.

It will be a long time before any comparable industry is able to take the place of the railroads as a national asset. They are still the backbone of the country's transportation, and still one of the major contributors to national development.

Back To The Farm

National interest has been aroused in a suggestion made a short time ago by Editor Walter P. McGuire of the Southside Virginia News, Petersburg, Virginia; the suggestion being that farm boys keep on the farm.

It's a simple suggestion, and a very sound one. How much unemployment has been caused by the trek from farm to city is problematical—but it would make an impressive total. These young men, for the most part, are untrained and inexperienced and unfitted for factory work. They rarely find jobs above the common labor level. They are the first to be dismissed when times get hard—and the last to be taken back when recovery starts.

They know farming—and the farm is where they belong, for their own good and for that of the nation. It is on the farm that they have their chance to prosper and live happy useful lives. Its time the trend was reversed—with the farms-boys-turned-city-boys going home again.

The Blue Eagle Pledge

I PROMISE:

1—To support the code and cut the arguments.

2—To give the iron ear to the fellow who has all the reasons why it won't work.

3—To remember that we are in a war, and that if it was all right for the Government to ask a few million boys to give their lives to settle a disturbance in Europe, it must be fairly reasonable to request a few million merchants to endure a little discomfort for the common good.

4—To bear in mind that, after all, this time Uncle Sam is not asking me to leave my home and my family, and show a machine gun squad that I can take it.

5—To realize that patriotism is patriotism, even when there are no bugles.

6—To regard the Blue Eagle as a Blue Eagle, and not as a Chisel-beaked Woodpecker.

7—To remember that I have an obligation to do something more than to stick a picture of a bird in a front window.

8—To realize that the slogan is "WE DO OUR PART" and not, "WE DUPE OUR PARTNER."

9—To develop a rousing hatred of trickery, chiseling and the old "run-around."

10—To have no time for the fellow who would rather obstruct a plan that might cost him $500 a year loss, than to support a plan that would enable ten million people to eat regularly.

11—To stop talking about "interference", with natural economic laws, "inevitable business cycles," etc., and to realize that nobody ever got a wrecked truck out of a ditch by citing precedents.

12—To remember that we were all demanding action—and that finally we got it.

13—To realize when in a critical mood towards Little NIRA that nobody has suggested a better plan for quick action.

14—To be willing to take it on the nose for a year, (if absolutely necessary), to cure a national headache.

15—To keep ever foremost in the mind, when talking about the sacrifices being asked of me, that, after all, I'm not asked to put on a uniform, go to France, dodge shrapnel, sleep in mud, and get what comfort I can out of the fact that a girl named Nellie is knitting me a pair of socks.

16—To work more and talk less, always realizing that it is impossible to pull a drowning man out of a well by throwing him a plate of boloney.

17—to remember that the only difference between a slacker in this crisis, and a slacker in the World War, is that the slacker in the World War had more good reasons for being scared stiff.

18—To remember that we were all shouting for a "President who would do something."

Clanton And Chilton County Go To The Front Row

Clanton and Chilton County certainly occupied the front row of attraction in the huge NRA Loyalty Parade staged last Thursday afternoon in Montgomery.

Our citizens are to be congratulated on their splendid spirit of loyalty to the President and his program. On every hand one could hear comments from Montgomerians and others that Clanton certainly had one of the most attractive floats and representations of any town out of Montgomery, in the parade.

Congratulations to the ladies who took such a keen interest in seeing that Clanton's float was properly arranged, fitting to represent our fine little town. Congratulations to those men who gave of their time and money to make Clanton's part in the parade a success.

Congratulations to Clanton and Chilton County in general, anyhow. And congratulations to Montgomery and the other towns that took part in this NRA Loyalty Parade.

We wish that every person in this county could have seen this great show of cooperation and loyalty from the small working man, school children up to the large corporations. We believe that if President Roosevelt could have seen that demonstration Thursday afternoon he would have gone back to Washington with a great feeling of pleasure and satisfaction that the people of this country are with him.

Closing The Door Of Hope

There are two sides to the question of closing the door of hope on desperate criminals who have been caught in the meshes of the law. Attorney General Homer Cummings has arranged to send these flagrant offenders to Alcatraz Island in San Francisco Bay where all possibility of escape would appear to be removed, as the island is one of nature's fortifications set in a roaring sea, but the effect of such improvement on the minds of men convicted of crime is bound to be one of poignant depression and abandonment of all hope.

Does a man, no matter how steeped in vicious ways, ever become irredeemable? We are unable to answer. Many governments act on the principle that they do. Punishment should be swift and sure where the legal safeguards which society has erected for its own protection are ruthlessly trampled upon but on the other hand clemency in an effort to reclaim the most depraved miscreants has at times proven efficacious. All prisons should be regarded as correctional institutions, in the opinion of many criminologists, but on the contrary the dangers of escape should always be looked after. Recent jail-breaking throughout the country has become almost a public scandal. Sending our worst characters, such as "Machine Gun" Kelly to Alcatraz Island may be the right treatment for a bad man, but on the other hand it would seem to be a sound principle of guidance to treat all lawbreakers, even the most fallen and depraved, as being susceptible of reclamation and restoration to decent citizenship.

Unity Getting Results

When historians of the future come to relate the events featuring the troubled years between 1929 and 1933, they will not attribute the final triumph over adverse conditions either to this administrative measure or that piece of legislation.

What these students will say is that while some administrative measures were of immense assistance and that some laws were of real assistance, the actual mastery of existing difficulties was due to a spirit of cohesion which finally developed among the people.

They will say that whereas there was utter confusion as late as March, 1933, with powerful but uncontrolled cross purposes flowing in all directions and a state of complete demoralization obtaining, this gravest of all situations was met and mastered within sixty to ninety days —and then the march back to better things actually began.

In March, they will say, America in its demoralization, had approached something resembling a mob, but they will add that by midsummer the need for cooperative action had been so thoroughly impressed that unity of purpose became the rule rather than the exception.

And once this spirit developed, the worst was over, these observers will declare, and in so stating they will be absolutely correct.

Legislation is helping to shape conditions for the better, administrative policies are helping along the same lines, but the thing that is putting an end to the depression is a unified determination upon the part of the American people to assert their rights to a happier state of affairs and to labor shoulder-to-shoulder in bringing about such an improved state. In brief, Americans have become aroused to the imperative necessity of putting their house in order and are going about the task with unity and determination. And this means the job will be done.

Prices Are Rising Too Fast

The common people are complaining bitterly of the rapidly rising price of commodities and are openly expressing their resentment.

They think—and with reason—that wages and salaries should be at least one jump ahead of commodity prices.

As a matter of fact, everybody knows that the purchasing power of the masses is not keeping pace with the steadily rising cost of the necessities of life.

Despite gain in employment and wages under the NRA incomes are still generally low and wage and salaried workers are finding it difficult to make both ends meet. The workers—those of them who are working—are exhorted from all sides to buy to the limit of their capacity and they are perfectly willing to do so.

But their capacity to buy is very limited. Small wages mean small buying power. There is a growing certainty in the minds of the masses that many prices of commodities are higher than increased costs under the codes warrant.

This feeling has been voiced not alone by the man in the street but by high Recovery Administration authorities. Though desirable, it is doubtful if prices can be kept down to enable purchasing power to catch up with them.

In the emergency, the only quick and sure remedy is shorter hours and higher wages than have been set in the code. This is organized labor's program for coping with the situation.

The sooner it is adopted the quicker will the recovery be. Cut the working hours in half and double the wages and watch the country romp back to prosperity.

Everybody, think it over. —Centerville Press.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

With our eyes half shut we can locate wives by the score who watch their husbands dress with relentless vision. If there is a thread on his coat she is there to pick it off. If there is dandruff on his shoulder she is there to brush it away. If she can find dust in his ears she is there with a wet rag. One day I saw such a wife as she discovered a pimple on her husband's nose and she proceeded to pick it. Like any other husband who resents being picked and brushed, he objected to this form of publicity, and he spoke this proverb, "My Dear, when you go to pick pimples, for goodness sake, do not pick them in public." That kind of employ seems to be the pass-time of some folks. The most of us have pimples in one form or another, in one place or another, and for folks to pick them in public is publicity that no one craves. It is the common practice of pulpits, printers and politicians to pick pimples in public.

My experience with Diamonds is rather rare, but I have been told that you can determine the value and the reality of a diamond by placing it under water. Those who know say that you can take a Kress diamond and a real diamond and place them side by side in the hand. Looking upon them above the water you can not tell which is real and which is the fake, but lower them beneath the water and the light in the fake stone goes out, while the light in the real stone shines more brilliantly. In a like manner the fake Christian and the real Christian can be determined. When a "Make Believe" follower of Christ is faced with persecution, sacrifice and sorrow, the light goes out of the heart, but when these are thrust upon the real child of God, the light shines brighter than ever before. Blessed is the child of God whose light is bright under test and temptation.

I saw an ordinary musician sitting at the piano. She knew a few hymns and a few chords, and she allowed her fingers only to touch the keys in the center of the instrument. She had no use for the keys on either end of the board. So far as that musician was concerned the keys on either end of that piano had just about as well have been in the heart of Africa. A little later a sure enough musician sat down at this piano and her fingers moved coaxingly up and down the keyboard for a moment, and then all of a sudden that piano began to ring out in laughter and song, in prayer and praise, in love calls and bird trills, in melody and music, that only a master hand could produce. Every key on the piano made its contribution to the joy of music, and all because a master was touching every key. We have all too many half-trained men and women today who are trying to produce leadership. They are not bringing out of our lives half of our endowments. O for masters in the pulpit, in the school room, and in every walk of life. Men and women who know the keyboard of real living. Men and women who can play the entire keyboard and put a song into every heart.

I sat in the waiting room of a prominent eye specialist and all about me were men and women, boys and girls who had something wrong with their eyes. One man came in with a foreign substance in his eye and he was suffering untold agony. The patient in the doctor's chair stepped out, and all of us gladly gave our places to the man who was suffering, that the physician might give him immediate attention. The foreign substance in the man's eye was a sharp piece of steel, and he was blind until it was removed. We were glad to wait while the good doctor relieved the suffering man. Jesus is the great soul specialist in the world today. We are all waiting before Him for needed treatment, but when a man comes before our Christ with the heart filled with foreign substance, suffering untold agony because of sin, we gladly wait that the Great Physician may heal the broken heart. How tenderly Jesus removes the world out of the human heart and brings back to us the vision of the soul.

I was too late in coming for the water had already frozen in the mouth of the jug and no water would pour out. Blessed is the Christian who freezeth not over at the mouth.

ENTERTAINMENT FOR CHURCH PURPOSES

Editor, Chilton County News:

Will you please allow space in your valuable paper for this little publication? I'm hoping you will, anyway, as this is my second attempt.

"The Church As An Entertainer"

I wonder if it is not that we spend too much time on bringing into the church things of the outer world, to attract people instead of devoting our time to teaching the things that the church is supposed to stand for. How many places of entertainment would stay in business if at the time of their service they would substitute church service instead of their entertainment. None, as they would be sailing under false colors, giving that which they did not represent.

Is it not true that people look on the church work as something that God has planned and would have carried out when then is there a place in the church for amusement? Especially when it sets aside the hours of worship when we set aside the true functions of the church for entertainment and to make money, we place it on the same level of the outside worldly business.

Taking the church away from the service of Christ. It is true that we need money to operate the church. However, I believe that by using the church as God meant it to be used to teach and lead his people to the true way of living it would be a far greater benefit, both spiritually and materially, we should go back to God's plan. Listen to the words of Malachi: "Bring ye all the tithes into the store house that there may be meat in mine house."

All that I ask was that you give me one-tenth of your income. No matter how great or how small, thus saith the Lord of Hosts. I did not excuse the poor or the rich. All I desired and requested was that you would recognize my goodness, by giving me one-tenth of that income. If you and I desire great spiritual blessings, then we must give a tenth to the Lord and there would be no need of church suppers and plays.

AN ECCENTRIC'S WILL

By the terms of his will, Rufus Barlow, American-born jockey, horse trainer and bookmaker, who died in France not long ago, virtually made monkeys of the 18 employees on his farm to which he retired some 15 years before his death.

Barlow had taken up the hobby of collecting costumes from the many countries he visited during his racing career. Although he finally settled in France, he held the French peasants in contempt because of their "close-fisted money grubbing." He often declared that these peasants would submit to any indiginty for the sake of a few dollars.

To prove his point after death, he provided in his will that his 18 farm workers should each have a legacy of 10,000 francs. But he also left to each a fancy costume which he must wear about the farm for a year before the cash would be paid over. Now, according to magazine Time, the Barlow farm presents these picturesque figures:

A peasant clad in a Hawaiian grass skirt driving an ox team, another plowing in the gold-laced costume of a Spanish bullfighter, a gardner in the garb of a Chinese mandarin, a stable cleaner dressed in Scotch kilts, and so on. All are feeling foolish and are sullen, but each will probably stick it out in order to get that 10,000 francs at the end of the year.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK?

By

Edwin S. Friendly, business manager of the New York Sun and chairman of the bureau of advertising of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, says:

"Newspaper advertising is a speedometer as well as a barometer of business. It tells how far and how fast trade is moving.

"Many business men will not spend money for advertising until they see some definite signs of life in business—until the ultimate consumer discloses an interest in buying. They then employ newspaper advertising to awaken and to develop that interest and to turn it into actual sales across the counter.

"Just now, authentic buying signs appear on the business horizon, and as a result some classifications of newspaper advertising show a greater volume than in the corresponding period of 1932. This, like many other favorable signs of the times, demonstrates the widely acknowledged belief in the selling power of newspaper advertising and the desire of business organizations, both great and small, to use it as the important instrument it is in the stimulation of business.

"Newspaper advertising is a fundamental sales instrument, because everybody who reads at all reads a newspaper. One cannot advertise anywhere without reaching newspaper readers, because no matter what other kinds of advertising some of the people see, all literate people see newspapr advertising.

"Therefore, it follows that the most complete job of advertising—one that will reach the greatest number of prospective customers of any merchant or any manufacturer—can be accomplished only through the columns of the newspapers."

IS THE SUN COOLING?

If the sun is getting cooler, as some scientists assert, not much evidence of that fact is supplied by 1933 summer temperatures. Still, most astronomers believe the sun is gradually, but very slowly, losing heat.

Among those who hold this view is Dr. E. L. Trevine, president of the Mexican Astronomical Society, who points out that thousands of now extinct suns are known to have existed in the dim past. In lectures at the University of Edinburgh, Prof. A. S. Eddington also expressed the belief that the universe is slowly running down, although he admits the possibility that the heat thrown off by our sun and other stars may in some manner be gathered again to form new suns.

Anyway, Old Sol appears to be good for a few billion years more, so his ultimate end has little practical significance for the earth's present inhabitants.

But it is fascinating to contemplate what may be the final fate of mankind when, if ever, our solar system undergoes the marked changes which these astronomers predict.

OAK GROVE

We would like to have just a small space in your paper to say just a few words about this community.

Our B. Y. P. U. and Sunday school services were rather small Sunday because of the bad weather, but hope it will be better next Sunday.

A few weeks ago our B. Y. P. U. elected new officers. They are as follows: Seniors—President, Charles Nix; vice-president, Mr. W. J. Northcutt. Secretary, Mrs. Leonard Pierce; vice-secretary, Mary Jim Sutley; treasurer, Mr. Lassie Northcutt; pianist, Mrs. Lonnie Northcutt; chorister, Sam Collins; Bible quiz leader, Miss Rosie Lee Martin; group captain No. 1, Roberta Satterwhite; No. 2, Mrs. Lester Northcutt. Intermediates elected Mr. J. C. Seay as their leader, and the Juniors elected Miss Loy Mae Glass as their leader. We are sure all the officers are striving to be A-1 for Christ. Everyone has a most cordial welcome to come and worship with us at all times.

Mr. Forrest Glass of Birmingham visited relatives this week end.

Misses Irene and Pauline Lessley spent the week end with Mrs. Luther Varden.

Mr. Jack Middlebrooks, Misses Jettie Mae Anderson and Pinola Middlebrooks of Autaugaville spent Sunday with Miss Mary Jim Sutley.

Mr. Mark Nelson of Thorsby spent Sunday p.m. with Mr. Tom Lessley.

Misses Virginia Glass, Dorothy Dees and Nannie Sammons were business visitors in Clanton Saturday.

Mr. Frank Lessley of Calera spent the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Lessley.

Miss Rosie Lee Martin spent Saturday afternoon with Mrs. J. C. Seay.

James Foy Nix and Troy Cobb spent Sunday with Curtis Satterwhite.

Mrs. Orb Martin was hit last Thursday morning by a truck, but was not seriously hurt.

Mr. and Mrs. M. V. Deerman, son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Deerman, of Birmingham spent this week end visiting relatives.

Miss Gladys Cobb and Mr. Charles Nix, members of the Senior III Class of Jemison High School, report a wonderful trip to the NRA Parade held in Montgomery Thursday. They are really proud of the county which they represented in Montgomery.

Mr. Leonard Pierce left last week for Detroit, Michigan. We greatly miss him in our B. Y. P. U. and Sunday school, but hope he has a wonderful time.

Miss Gladys Cobb spent last week end in Birmingham visiting friends.

You parents should take more interest in your child in school; take interest in what he does; the kind of a report card he brings to you at the end of each month. Parent's interest will not only be of great benefit to the child but will help in a large way the school. The members of the Parent-Teachers Association see this. If you have a child in school and do not belong to the P.-T. A., join it and you will be well repaid. Sometimes it's not the student but the lack of his father or mother having any interest in his struggles for an education in school.

The writer begins this week a brief biography of each teacher. Mr. L. C. Warr, our well loved principal, will have the honor of being first and the teachers will be taken in alphabetical order in the following weeks.

Mr. Warr was born in Clayton, Alabama on August 11, 1889. He attended the Third District Agricultural School at Abbeville and graduated from there in 1912. For several years he taught in order to earn money to further his studies and in 1918 was awarded his diploma from the State Normal School at Troy, Ala. Following this and after a few years of study he received his Bachelor's Degree from Peabody College in 1921. Mr. Warr also studied at Vanderbilt University. Not being satisfied to stop, Mr. Warr went further into education and in 1930 was given his Master's Degree from Columbia University in New York City. Mr. Warr has also served in the United States Regular Army, having enlisted in February, 1918, and was given an honorable discharge in February, 1919.

He is principal of the Chilton County High School now also teacher of sociology. Mr. Warr has been principal here for five years, this term beginning his sixth year. Before coming to Clanton he served as principal of the schools in the following towns: Dothan, Ashford, Headland, Enterprise and Luverne. When asked to give a statement on advice to those who desire to reach high goals, Mr. Warr responded with, "I have learned through life's experiences that you earn all you get. That nothing is given you; that truly we are all the architects of our own fortunes, and to be happy we must keep busy. A fairly good measure of success in life might be built around one who has lived well, laughed often and loved much; who has gained the respect of intelligent men and the love of little children and who has left the world better than he found it."

The Senior class, with John Ezell as president, has been busy discussing plans for making money so they may leave a worthy memorial to this school. There is talk of a post-season football game; a mid-term play; and candy selling. So you freshmen, Sophs, and Juniors and teachers, too, save your money for the senior class activities. Remember (not you teachers tho) that you will be seniors some day.

We hope all this talk will also be practical and not just "hot air and dreams."

* * *

Imagine if you can: Grady Reynolds not blushing; Roberta Cochran not studying; Joe Moore and Carl Jones not arguing with their teachers and don't forget John; Dorothy Waite without her friendly smile; Willis Baker not knowing his memory work; Jesse Frank Foshee, James Tiffin, Wilson Maddox and some others not at the corner of the cemetery at dinner and in the morning; a certain senior with two "wimmen"; a certain junior with personality; Morris Popwell not amusing others at the teacher's expense; Emanuel Cooper without his team loyalty; and a particular couple "busting up".

Don't Overdo The Thing

Quite a number of people have come to me for recommendations to Miss Austin for Red Cross aid. Some of those persons were recommended because they actually needed help. Others were not because they could make it without help. Please don't come to me for help unless you actually need it. I know every person in the community, and I know his condition. If you are in need of help, I shall be glad to do what I can for you; if you do not need help it would be well for you to spend the time coming to see me for something more profitable

This Is A Good Paper To Read

Reading maketh a full man. Have you ever heard that statement? Well, it's very true. If you would find plenty of reading material it would give you plenty of time to attend to your own business and let the other fellow's business alone. Why not invest one dollar in a year's subscription to this paper? It will pay you many, many times. Then you will get the news of the week and should you have occasion to go visiting, plenty of good news will be yours for discussion. The "Chilton County News" is a county paper and should be patronized.

SUNBEAMS TO HOLD FINE HALLOWE'EN PARTY SATUR.

Hallowe'en is here and look out for the ghosts, witches and spooks. The Sunbeams are having a real Hallowe'en party at the Clanton Baptist church, Saturday evening, October 28, at 6:30 o'clock.

All children are invited to come. Just bring five cents and then enjoy all the party. Oh! No. It will take one penny to have your fortune told by the fortune teller. She will be there. Come and let's all have a good time.

Those assisting the Sunbeams are Mrs. Willie Bean, their leader, and Mrs. J. B. Atkinson. They promise a spooky time.

SINGING AT COURTHOUSE NEXT SUNDAY AFTERNOON

There will be singing in the new books at the court house in Clanton next Sunday afternoon. The hour to begin is 1:30, and the singers of the county have an invitation to attend and lend their help in the singing. There is a supply of both the Stamps and Henson books on hand—plenty of either kind for a large class; so do not stay away for fear of not having a book all to yourself. And there will be books for sale, in case someone wants to carry a copy home with them.

This is a kind of adjourned session of the county convention to be held jointly with the Central singing society, in which all societies of the county are expected to participate. The election of officers for the county convention will be had at some time during the afternoon. Don't forget, the singing will begin at 1:30 o'clock.

10c Cotton Loans

Farmers who have cotton stored in Selma will get necessary papers from there, it was explained.

Following is a letter being sent to farmers over the county by Mr. Stapp:

To All Cotton Farmers of Chilton County:

In a meeting of Chilton County bankers and warehousemen held at my office Tuesday night, those assembled voted unanimously to cooperate 100% in making loans of 10c per pound to the farmers of the County. Arrangements were made for all who so desire to come to my office and execute the necessary papers and present same to any bank in the County and draw the 10c per pound, less 15c per bale. (This 15c is for postage, exchange, etc.)

Cotton can be handled through any warehouse in the County. See your warehouseman and he can tell you about your receipt and sample.

The loan is available to any producer. The term "producer" is defined as meaning any person, partnership, association, or corporation, producing or acquiring cotton either as land owner, landlord, or tenant.

All charges on cotton on which money is to be borrowed, have to be paid October 1st, 1933, or dates of the warehouse receipts, whichever are later.

The producer has to name and get the signatures of all lien holders before he can draw the 10c.

I will put on extra help in my office to work these loans out just as fast as possible. I will appreciate it very much if you will not rush us too fast for the first few days.

Assuring you of my desire to cooperate in every manner possible to get the loans through fast, I am

C. E. STAPP, County Agent.

The declared policy of the National Administration and the Seventy-Third Congress is to restore pre-war exchange value of basic agricultural commodities. At the request of the President, Congress provided legal authority and the means through the Agricultural Adjustment Act to that end. With the cooperation of the farmers, the Administration has within its power the ability to complete the task at will.

While prices of basic agricultural products have been improved, operations of the NRA have resulted in increased prices, which largely offset these gains. The exchange value of cotton in terms of food and clothing is less than a year ago, according to the reports of statistician. Furthermore, the present price of cotton is said to be only 59.4 per cent of its pre-war price, while necessities which the cotton producer has to buy have advanced to 116 per cent of pre-war prices.

Bearing these facts in mind, the Administration leaders are bending every possible effort toward bringing about a more normal comparison. Farm prices can be returned to pre-war level in the same manner that prices have been maintained by industry—by controlling production, is the plan upon which the Cotton Cooperative Parity Price Plan is based.

The plan consists of four steps as follows:

1. Loan 10.60c per pound on all cotton grown by and in the hands of actual producers, basis 7-8" low middling or better, or 8.60c per pound on similar grades, with staples less than 7-8", at port or Group "A" mill points. This is with relatively few exceptions in round numbers the natural price of cotton based on ten cents interior at points farthest from consumer markets.

Warehouses must be used, as warehouse receipts are required as collateral for loans.

The ten cent loan is the first step in the Parity Price Plan. It is contingent upon the agreement to cooperate in the acreage control plan of the Government in 1934 and 1935, and is intended as a means of preventing the dumping of cotton on the market and stopping further decline in the price pending the inauguration of the other phases of the plan.

2. Advance four cents per pound on all "plow-up options." There are 2,400,000 bales of such options held by 660,000 farmers. These options may now be exercised at any time cotton is nine and a half cents or above. The dire need of many of these option-holders is such that they will be compelled to dump their options on the market as fast as the market will take them at that price—thus tending to prevent the market from getting much above that level.

An advance of four cents will bring the options to ten cents, same as the ten cent loans, and with the other features of the plan will make it possible for the option-holders to benefit by the advance in price resulting from the assured success of the acreage control plan. This does not prevent option-holders, however, from exercising their options at will.

3. The Government would enter into agreements with producers to increase the loan to 15.60c per pound.

After July 1st, 1934 the loans would be increased twelve points per month to cover interest, storage, insurance, handling charges and all other expenses. Whenever the price level shall be high enough to net the farmer the pre-war parity price at interior points with due allowances according to quality of cotton, the Secretary of Agriculture may at his discretion sell the cotton and remit any equities of the borrowers to them.

4. Bona fide cotton farmers who have sold a portion or all of their this year's production shall have the right to buy in the open market an equal number of bales to that which they have produced and sold this season. This would give the benefit of the increased selling price resulting from the success of the plan to both those who have and have not disposed of this year's production—and assure the participation of all in next year's acreage reduction program.

PATES CHAPEL

We want to announce that there will be a special program put on by the Intermediate Class next Sunday morning at this place at 10:00 o'clock. Everybody that is interested come.

We want to thank the people of Refuge for their praises they have showered upon us, although it should have been them getting the praises. We can never thank the people enough.

Mr. and Mrs. Mose L. Maddox of Tallassee were visitors in this community the past week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Woodard and children of near Bessemer were visitors of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Hayes and family Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Cleckler and children spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Champion.

Misses Lucile and Lorene Cleckler and Miss Mildred Hayes were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. Maddox.

KEEP YOUR COTTON IN OUR COUNTY

The undersigned LICENSED COTTON WAREHOUSES OF CHILTON COUNTY have been designated as satisfactory places to store cotton to participate in the ten cent loan from the government to producers.

It will not be necessary to carry any cotton out of your county to secure these loans.

Patronize home warehouses, keep the cotton in our county.

We are prepared and ready to assist you in every way possible in making out documents as required and in securing prompt service on these loans without any extra cost to you. Bring us your cotton or your warehouse receipts and let us help you.

We are anxious to co-operate with you and our government in the cotton program. Let's work together.

THANKS TO THE PEOPLE TAKING PART IN P'RADE

Parade Committee Expresses Appreciation For Fine Cooperation

Following is a letter from the NRA Parade Committee, which expresses the thanks and appreciation of the committee for the splendid cooperation of the people of the county in making it possible for Clanton to have a representation in the parade in Montgomery:

October 23, 1933.

To The People of Clanton and Chilton County:

I want to take this opportunity in behalf of the NRA Parade Committee to express our appreciation to those who made possible the wonderful showing this community made in the NRA Loyalty Day Parade in Montgomery last Thursday and also the parade here in Clanton last Saturday. Everyone who was called upon to assist in any way responded wholeheartedly. The committee especially wants to thank the County Commissioners, the Town of Clanton, the Study Club, the Pilot Club, the Kiwanis Club, and the Merchants and Business Men of Clanton for the wonderful assistance they rendered in making these affairs a success.

The people of Clanton and Chilton County are to be congratulated for their spirit of loyalty and patriotism to the President's National Recovery Program. The Committee feels that we have been helped by our participation in these patriotic affairs to the end that a better feeling and understanding exist.

Sincerely yours,
NRA Parade Committee,
J. Lee Smith, Chairman.

Clanton Party Enjoys Some Fine Fishing

Large fish stories were the vogue in Clanton this week, having as their incentive accounts from Samuel Martin of a fishing excursion on the Mobile Bay during the past week end, in which he and several others from Clanton participated.

Bringing back a huge fifteen-pound stingaree as proof of his assertions, Sam recounted how a party of seven "hooked" some three hundred poor fish within just a few hours. The Clanton party was composed of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Martin, Miss Elizabeth Harris, and Grover Harris, Jr.

Mrs. Martin captured the prize when she landed the big stingaree.

EASTERLING-SIMS WEDDING SOLEMNIZED RECENTLY

—o—

interest throughout the county is marriage of Miss Mary Allison of Jemison to Clarence Easterling Clanton. The wedding was solemnized Thursday evening, October the nineteenth, at eight o'clock at the home of the Rev. Jones, pastor of the Baptist church of Thorsby, who officiated in the presence of a small company of relatives and friends.

The bride was beautiful in a costume of eel grey crepe with brown satin trim accessories to match.

Immediately after the ceremony the parents of the bride entertained with an informal reception at their attractive home in Jemison.

The bride is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Sims. She attended Jemison High School. She has host of friends who love her for her unselfishness and charming personality.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. D. Easterling, a graduate of Chilton nty High School and holds a position with the Woco-Pep Company.

After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Easterling will be at home in ton. The many friends of the bride groom wish them much happiness success.

UNIQUE SHOWER HONORS BRIDE

—o—

Mrs. Clifford Jones, a bride of recent date, was the honoree at a miscellaneous shower Friday afternoon, Oct 13th, at the home of Mrs. H. H. Spear with Mrs. Cecil Spear, Mrs. B. I. Hughen, Miss Grace Ruff, and Miss Marge Spear assisting hostesses.

A profusion of smilax and lovely autumn flowers was tastefully arranged the living room where the guests assembled. Misses Grace Ruff and Marge Spear in beautiful afternoon dresses of satin presided over the bride's book where the guests registered as they entered.

Mrs. H. H. Spear, Mrs. Cecil Spear, and Mrs. B. I. Hughen received the guests who were welcomed with a background of delightful music. Mrs. A n Bradley rendered a piano solo, Barcarolle, from Tales of Hoffman. Mrs. Nina Nafter in her usual charming manner gave two readings addressed to the bride. Mrs. Manford McRee offered a vocal solo, "I Love Thee," Greig. Little Virginia Sue Bradley dressed in full bridal attire entered to the strains of Lohengrins Bridal Chorus played by Mrs. Glenn Bradley.

The little bride presented a golden key to the bride with the instruction to walk across the room with her and unlock the door to happiness. As this door swung open a large red heart was visible with a miniature door in the center through which the many lovely gifts were drawn. This was a symbol of the love and esteem "From the hear o' friends."

At the conclusion of the display of gifts the hostesses served tempting refreshments to many guests.

Mrs. Jones wore an attractive dress of brown crepe with accessories in gold. Mrs. Jones, who was formerly Miss la Kent, has a very charming personality and was unusually popular in all al activities where she will be greatly missed. Mr and Mrs. Jones will re in Clanton, Ala.

Thorsby Institute News

On Saturday night the newly organized Commercial Club of Thorsby Institute gave an interesting program, the proceeds of which were for purchasing a much needed roll for the Ditto Machine, which is a duplicating machine for circular letters, examinations and other school purposes.

Miss Boring, who is the Commercial teacher, had charge of the program. She, herself, gave a reading entitled "The Sacrifice of Naoman" and did it very well. There were two one-act plays that were amusing. Edith Johnson, who is an honorary member, sang a solo: "Gypsy Love Song." She was dressed in a Gypsy costume and Lloyd Howard, who played the accompaniment, was dressed in a Gypsy costume also. The number was very much enjoyed.

One young person unable to be present gave the price of admission later. Six dollars was cleared. The new roll will cost over six dollars.

At the first Literary Society one of our patrons was unavoidably prevented from coming till after the program was over, yet he insisted on paying for himself and for others he had expected to bring.

We appreciate such generosity. We thank very much Mrs. Martin Peterson who recently presented the Dining Hall with some plants. Also she made a donation of potatoes. She has often given the school plants and potatoes.

We wish to thank Mrs. M. J. Soberg, Mrs. J. W. Jones, Mrs. W. H. Raybon, Mrs. C. N. Williams, Mrs. Irene Martin, Mrs. E. W. Butler, Mrs. J. E. Each for canned fruit and vegetables given the dormitory this school year.

A week from Saturday night the second open meeting of the Literary Society will take place to which everyone is invited. The predominant interest will center around Thanksgiving.

November 25 will be the annual stunt night of the classes.

—o-o-o—

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hammack of Springville and Mr. and Mrs. Guy Roberts of Calera and Mrs. Sam Box and daughter, Betty, of Birmingham were week end guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Reynolds.

Mrs. Jimmy Taylor, Mrs. Arthur Taylor and Mrs. Guy Higgins motored to Montgomery Monday and spent the day.

DIZZINESS

relieved by Black-Draught

"I decided to take Thedford's Black-Draught, as I had been having bilious spells," writes Mr. Charles E. Stevens, of Columbus, Ind. "When I get bilious, I feel sleepy and tired and do not feel like doing my work. It is hard to tell how I feel, but I do not feel good. I get awfully dizzy. I know then that I had better take something. After I found how good Black-Draught is, that is what I have used. Vermont Jr. High School News

—o—

A large number of new students have enrolled the past week. This makes our present enrollment about one hundred and forty-five.

On Saturday night, November 11, the favorite play, "A Poor Married Man," will be presented at the school building with a select cast. This play has proven popular at many schools and on numerous occasions, and we feel that this will be no exception. Everyone who possesses a sense of humor and enjoys good wholesome entertainment cannot afford to miss seeing this delightful little comedy drama. A small admission, in reach of everyone, will be charged. Proceeds go to school equipment.

Mr. Johnson, Miss Grant and Miss Cagle spent Sunday with the latter's parents at Mitchell Dam. While there they were carried through the different units of the plant.

Examinations are in full blast this week. We are all working diligently to make as high a mark as possible. We trust no one meets the sad fate of being set back a grade because of careless work or an indifferent attitude.

The girls completed their sales of candy in five days, which is a real record for salesmanship. They now have a new basket ball on the way and are anxious to begin their training in basket ball lore. Miss Cagle will coach them.

Supt. Little was a visitor to our school last Friday morning.

A large number of the students went with their parents to Clanton last Saturday to witness the NRA Loyalty Parade.

The faculty is arranging a Thanksgiving program to be given on the last day of school before the holidays. This program will be presented by the student body.

The boys have erected one goal and are now drilling in the technique of goal shooting.

Helped By Cardui

Here's the true story of how Cardui helped Mrs. H. E. Dunaway, of McComb, Miss., as written by herself:

"I was sick and rather discouraged. I was so weak and thin, I was not able to do my work as it should be done. This made me fret a good deal, and did not help my condition.

"I had pains across my back and lower part of my body. My nights were spent in rolling from one side of the bed to the other, hoping I would soon go to sleep. Then when morning would come, I would be just as tired as when I went to bed. A neighbor, seeing how badly I felt, told me to try Cardui. After I had taken one bottle, I was much better. I kept on taking Cardui, and I was stronger and slept much better at night."

New Thrill Picture Exposes Racket In U. S. Oil Industry

Although the racket, devastating in its scope and often leaving terror in its wake, has forced itself upon the American economic structure during the past decade, its far-reaching effects are realized by comparatively few. How it has spread its influence to the lives of the men in the street is embraced by the Columbia production, "State Trooper," a story of wilful sabotage in the gigantic oil industry, which comes to the screen of the Wadesonian Theatre Saturday, October 28th, for matinee and night showings.

According to the major premise of the story the petty racketeer is unimportant, but when great combines plan vicious attacks upon industries which deal directly with the public, at times they will stop at nothing in an effort to accomplish their ends.

With this story thread, Columbia has produced a photoplay crammed full of action, showing the various attempts of gangsters and hired thugs to lay an entire oil refinery in smouldering ruins, with utter disregard to life and property.

The ingenious and often diabolical contriving of the renegade oil trust to artificially boost gasoline prices to the detriment of the general public is frankly and melodramatically portrayed by a sterling cast of Hollywood film players.

To guarantee authenticity in detail the exteriors for the production were filmed at the El Segundo Refinery of the Standard Oil Co., of California of the largest of its kind on the Pacific Coast.

This heroic dramatization of the blight of the racketeer on American industry is courageously presented in swift moving, entertaining motion picture.

"State Trooper" was directed by D. Ross Lederman from the script by Stuart Anthony and Lambert Hillyer. Regis Toomey and Evalyn Knapp head the stellar cast which also includes Edwin Maxwell, Matthew Betz, Walter McGrail, Barbara Weeks, Raymond Hatton and Don Chapman. Columbia Pictures are the producers.

DIZZINESS

relieved by Black-Draught

"I decided to take Thedford's Black-Draught, as I had been having bilious spells," writes Mr. Charles E. Stevens, of Columbus, Ind. "When I get bilious, I feel sleepy and tired and do not feel like doing my work. It is hard to tell how I feel, but I do not feel good. I get awfully dizzy. I know then that I had better take something. After I found how good Black-Draught is, that is what I have used. Why the Sudden Change to Liquid Laxatives?

Doctors have always recognized the value of the laxative whose dose can be measured, and whose action can be controlled.

The public, too, is fast returning to the use of liquid laxatives. People have learned that a properly prepared liquid laxative brings a perfect movement without any discomfort at the time, or after.

The dose of a liquid laxative can be varied to suit the needs of the individual. The action can thus be regulated. It forms no habit; you need not take a "double dose" a day or two later. Nor will a mild liquid laxative irritate the kidneys.

The wrong cathartic may keep you constipated as long as you keep on using it.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a prescription, and is perfectly safe. Its laxative action is based on senna —a natural laxative. The bowels will not become dependent on this form of help. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is at all druggists. Member N. R. A.

Concord-Clanton News

Our Sunday school and B. Y. P. U. are progressing very nicely. We need lots more Christian workers who do not mind taking hold and carrying things on as God would have us do. We are put to the test, but we sometimes fail to do our part. Come on folks, and let's get to work, together, that what we are here for is to carry out God's plans.

Listen, boys and girls, "Hallowe'en Party" Friday night, October 27, at Concord school house, 2½ miles east of Clanton. Everybody invited to come and take part. We will have lot's of entertainment.

Mr. Will McCarroll from Birmingham spent Sunday with his brother, Mr. and Mrs. William Rhodes.

Mr. Barrett from Coosa was seen in this community Sunday.

Mr. A. L. McDowell and family attended preaching at Poplar Springs Sunday.

Mrs. Roy Collins spent Saturday night with Mrs. Billy Clackley.

Mr. and Mrs. Olie Easterling spent Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Roberson.

Mr. Elbert Limbrick, Mr. Preston Limbrick, Miss Launa Downs and Mr. Cleveland Bowman from Indian Grave spent Sunday afternoon with Misses Ollean and Lavern Terrell.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Miner from Sylacauga spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Matt Johnson.

Mr. Roy Collins and son, Lamar, spent this week end with his sister, Mrs. Ocie Mims, of Culp community.

Miss Laverne Terrell, Mr. Grady Miner spent a few enjoyable hours Saturday p.m. with Miss Louise Headley of South Clanton.

Miss Everee Miner and Mr. Clarence Baker were the Sunday dinner guests of Miss Gertis Collins.

Mr. and Mrs. I. O. Blalock spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Steve Blalock.

Don't forget the Hallowe'en Party, the place, and date, October 27. Come out, folks.

Why Liquid Laxatives Do You No Harm

The dose of a liquid laxative can be measured. The action can be controlled. It forms no habit; you need not take a "double dose" a day or two later. Nor will a mild liquid laxative irritate the kidneys.

The right liquid laxative will bring a perfect movement, and with no discomfort at the time, or afterward.

RACKET PICKS COIN OFF FAMILY TREES

Despite Warnings Hundreds Fall for Swindle.

London.—Americans in search of a family tree should take warning from the latest of many statements about bogus genealogists issued by the United States consulate general in London.

For, according to the consulate general's office, these fly-by-night gentry this year are reaping a richer harvest than ever from the United States at the expense of those people who believe they are missing heirs to vast fortunes or have claims to noble birth.

Sixty letters a week are being received at the consulate general from Americans who believe they are missing heirs. As usual, most of them have no legitimate claim to any fortune and are told so by return mail, but for those who write to the consulate general there are hundreds of others who place their claims—and their dollars—in the hands of bogus genealogists.

At the consulate general's office there are hundreds of cases on record of people who have been defrauded of their hard-earned coin by these men.

Only recently a trickster living in London started—or claimed to have started—to compile the history of the Bennett family. Hundreds of Bennetts in America and Britain were circularized by this man, who said he thought they were associated with this "noble family." He promised to have a record of all the Bennetts privately printed. The dollars rolled in but the subscribers are waiting for their book.

The ancient Society of Genealogists is up in arms at this traffic, which, they contend, is dimming the fair name of all latent genealogists, but the authorities have a hard time in catching the swindlers, who move from one address to another with great rapidity.

Total Ages of London Family Thousand Years

London.—That he has the biggest family in London is the claim of Frederick Henden. Henden has had 21 children, 10 of whom are still living, 61 grandchildren (as far as he can remember), and 10 great-grandchildren.

Himself one of twins, Henden had 23 brothers and sisters, and as far back as the family history can be traced the Hendens have always had large families. His children are carrying on the tradition, for one daughter has 15 children and another 12.

Next year the total ages of the family will reach 1,000 years, and Henden, who will be seventy-three, has only one ambition—to give a party and invite all his family, so that they could all be together. The Hendens have the distinction of being the biggest family mentioned in the London Roll of Honor, for 47 sons and grandsons are mentioned as having fought in the world war.

Ruler of Irak Confers Order on King George

London.—King Feisal of Irak believes in a sort of royal tit-for-tat in the conferring of orders. He has been given many orders in his time and now he has some of his own to confer as a kingly ruler in Arabia.

King George conferred upon him the Grand Cross of the Bath and he conferred upon the British monarch the chain of the Order of Hashimi. He also decorated the duke of Gloucester with the Order of Rafidain.

Silver Dollar, Addressed, Stamped, Put in Mail

Hood River, Ore.—Various and novel ways are used in mailing articles through Uncle Sam's mails, it was revealed here. Recently authorities at this city's post office were somewhat interested and amazed to find a silver dollar, a 3 cent stamp on one side and the address pasted on the other, lying in a mail sack.

Farley's Name Costs Taxpayers $10,000

By W. L. BRUCKART

Washington.—Post Master General James A. Farley's name is going to cost the taxpayers of the country some $10,000, about which there was no advance planning or codes or anything. It comes about in this fashion: The new building that is to house the Post Office department will have a couple of gigantic blocks of stone near its entrance on which are engraved the names of all postmasters general since the first. The contract for the building and, of course, for those two engraved stones, was let during the administration of President Hoover, so that the last name on the list was Walter F. Brown of Ohio. But along came a change in administration and a new head of the Post Office department, and his name had to be included.

The two great stones carried an equal number of names when they were shipped from the Indiana quarry. To include the name of Mr. Farley, the names on one stone have had to be shaved off because they exactly filled the space. They are now being relocated in somewhat closer proximity to each other so that Mr. Farley's name may be placed in the list. The contractors said that the cost was approximately $10,000.

What Scouts Are Doing

Billy Popwell, Ted Reynolds, Marshal Lee Ware, Guy Alred, Bill Hodges, John Thomas Marlar, Phillip Nelson, and Sidney Reynolds were the scouts that went to Montgomery Thursday to take a part in the big NRA Parade. The boys were at the place where the old city hall burned keeping parking places for the people from Chilton county. They marched in front of the band and float and helped direct traffic up to the Capitol Grounds. Then they took part in the parade following the grown people of Chilton county. The boys want to thank Mr. Ware, Mr. Luther E. Little, Mr. Mack Wyatt and Judge Reynolds for letting them out of school. They also want to thank the people that they went to and from Montgomery with.

All Scouts be at Scout Meeting at the Baptist church at 7:30 o'clock Friday night and all boys that are interested in Scouting.

Move Stop Unfair Rise In Prices

Auburn, Ala.—Definite action to protect consumers and the farm recovery program itself from possible unfair price increases in textile goods has been started by George N. Peek, Agricultural Adjustment Administrator, according to information received here.

Similar effort to prevent gouging on bread prices from offsetting farm benefits of the national wheat campaign has been directed by Dr. Fred C. Howe, consumer's counsel for the administration, who is co-operating with Mr. Peek in the present step.

Current study of textile prices, made by economists of the Adjustment Administration, has shown examples of apparently unreasonable profit-taking, although a large proportion of the textile trade is said to deserve praise for its efforts to play fair with both the farmer and the consumer.

Manufacturers or dealers who represent that an unjustifiable share of increased prices for cotton goods is due to the cotton processing tax are exposing themselves to prosecution, Dr. Howe points out. This tax, which raises funds to finance the important cotton campaign, amounts to only 4.2 cents per pound on the net weight of raw cotton.

"When a farmer or laborer buys a pair of overalls for $1.41," says Dr. Howe, "he makes a contribution of about 8 cents as a tax toward the Administration's cotton campaign, which has helped to add close to a quarter of a billion dollars to the southern farmer's income this year.

"Misrepresentation of the tax is not only unfair to the public but it is also an unwarranted attack upon the cotton program and the cotton farmer.

"We are going to continue our check of retail prices, and are going to continue to tell the public what part of these prices goes to pay toward our program for aiding the cotton farmer."

Maplesville To Stage Live Stock Sale Soon

According to information given the News, something different is in store for people of Chilton county and Maplesville. Plans are underway for the staging of a big live stock auction sale. Fifty head of beef cattle, 12 milk cows, 10 good farm mules, farm implements and household goods will be included.

Farmers desiring to dispose of live stock should take advantage of feed stuff left n fields since gathering to put their stock in sale shape. Buyers from Birmingham, Tuscaloosa, Selma and Montgomery are expected to attend this sale, which means good bids.

Anyone wanting to either sell or buy should consult Col. W. W. Fox or Bob Little for further details of this sale.

Date will be announced later, it was stated. Col. W. W. Fox and Bob Little will call this sale and invite their many friends to attend.

CENTER HILL

Health in this community is very good at this writing.

Our Sunday school and B. Y. P. U. are doing fine. The attendance at both services was small Sunday because of the bad weather.

The crowd at the singing Sunday afternoon was small also. Directors were Lonnie Cobb, J. W. Northcutt, Russell Scott, B. L. Cobb, Sam Collins, Mesdames Howard Roper, J. W. Collum, J. D. Scott.

Two special songs were sung by Sam Collins, Russell Scott, Rip Northcutt, and Mrs. Howard Roper.

Organists were Mesdames Russell Scott, B. L. Cobb and Howard Roper.

Rev. J. E. George preached a wonderful sermon Sunday night.

There will be singing here next Sunday afternoon in what is known as the Old Books. Everybody come and bring your Christian Harmony and Sacred Harp Books.

Mrs. Russell Scott entertained Sunday with a birthday dinner in honor of her husband's birthday. Those enjoying Mr. and Mrs. Scott's hospitality were Mr. Scott's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J.D. Holsomback, and George Thornbro, brother of Mr. Scott.

Mrs. Louis Gillespie and sons, Snooks and Berney Wayne, of Clanton spent part of last week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Cobb.

Mr. and Mrs. Bitsy Brewer of Doerun, Ga., are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Sammons.

Among those from here that attended the NRA parade in Montgomery were Commissioner and Mrs. J. E. Cobb and Miss Mildred Cobb.

Mr. and Mrs. Claudie Scott visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willie McGraw, in Jemison Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Price spent part of last week in Birmingham visiting their son, Ewell, and his family.

Mrs. L. A. McGraw spent several days last week with her granddaughter, Mrs. B. O. Lowery in the Providence community.

Mr. and Mrs. Lem Sims and children, Marvin and Luvern, of Sylacauga spent the week end here visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Sims, and Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Scott.

Mrs. J. P. Montgomery and son, Joe Pressley, of Jemison spent part of Saturday afternoon with Mrs. B. L. Cobb.

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Miller and son, Sewell, and Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Miller spent part of Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Cobb.

Miss Addie Collum was the dinner guest of Mrs. Buster Scott Sunday.

Mrs. Ida Ray has returned home after spending several days with her mother, Mrs. Thompson, in Clanton.

Misses Mary and Eula Price are visiting in Birmingham.

Remember the singing next Sunday afternoon.

MAPLE SPRINGS

—o—

In spite of the rough weather Sunday we had a nice little crowd at preaching Sunday morning and at B. Y. P. U. Sunday night. As you know, Bro. T. W. Billingsley was to preach here last Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. He brought us a very interesting message, which everyone enjoyed. We were very glad to have him with us. We invite him back again.

There will be a Sunday School Teachers' Training School taught here beginning on Monday night following the first Sunday. The class will meet at 7 o'clock ad will be dismissed at 8:45.

This course is a very beneficial one and we hope to have a large class. We invite those from other churches who wish to take the course. All students completing this course will be awarded a certificate.

The course will be taught by Bro. W. E. Robinson of Birmingham. We will assure all those who wish to take up this study with us that you will find it interesting and your time will be well spent.

Mr. Oliver Mims spent Friday night with Mr. and Mrs. Jim Mims of Verbena.

Mr. Roy Wilson spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. Virgil Dennis.

Mr. Elzie Davis had as his week end guest Mr. Evan Mitchell.

Miss Christine Driver spent Sunday afternoon with Mrs. Eunice Sandlin.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Downs spent Friday night with Mr. and Mrs. Tom Miller.

Miss Elsie Glenn, Mrs. W. F. Glenn and Mrs. Wallace Watkins spent Saturday afternoon with Mrs. Jessie Yates.

Mr. Emmett Wilson spent a few days of last week visiting friends in Birmingham.

Miss Lera May Mitchell was the Sunday afternoon guest of Misses Bernice and Marie Devaughn.

Miss Pearl Davis spent Wednesday night of last week with her cousins, Misses Lillie May and Lois Davis.

Miss Lera Glenn spent a few hours Saturday afternoon with Mrs. Merritt Wilson.

Mr. Jim Miller was the Saturday dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Downs.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Downs spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Wells.

Mrs. Lillie Wilson and children, Evelyn and Cecil, spent the week end with her sister, Mrs. Lester Pate, of Clanton.

Mr. Reeves Tindol spent a few days of last week visiting friends in Thorsby.

Mr. Glaucus Baker and family had as their Sunday dinner guest Rev. T. W. Billingsley of Highland community.

Miss Bernice Devaughn spent Thursday night with her sister, Mrs. Robert Davis.

People, don't forget Maple Springs needs your help in this little B. Y. P. U. and Sunday school. However, some think cold weather will soon be here and they think they must quit coming to church if it turns off cold, but listen, we have a brand new stove now, so we can build a fire and be very comfortable. What we need is more good Christian workers who do not mind taking hold and carrying things on as God would have us to do. So come on, boys and girls, and let's do our part and not be called a shirker, but a worker for God. We were very glad to have Miss Mamie Downs, Messrs. Elbert and Henry Sandlin, Raymond Gilliland and Raymond Jones as our visitors, and we are hoping to get to put their names on our list before long. Remember, we need your help and also your prayers. Sunday school at 10:00 a.m. and B. Y. P. U. at 6:30 p.m.

BUY NOW IS URGED ALONG WITH THE PLEA TO TRADE AT HOME

Business Houses Are Making An Extra Effort To Show Their Cooperation By Offering Special Reduced Prices For Two Days

When President Franklin Delano Roosevelt sent his S O S call out over the air a few weeks ago, asking the cooperation of every citizen in the United States in the promotion of the most gigantic recovery program ever launched by a government, there was no place where more whole-hearted cooperation existed than in the little Chilton county metropolis of Clanton.

Especially have the merchants and business men shown themselves cognizant of the great need for cooperation with a President and an administration, who are bending such streneous efforts toward the restoration of normalcy in this country. Not many days passed before almost every business establishment in Clanton exhibited the Blue Eagle, indicating to their customers their desires for a New Deal—in which both merchants and customers would share.

In many instances people were given employment where there was no special demand for increased staffs, in an effort to speed the return of prosperity. The least the citizenship of this town and county can do to show its appreciation is to "Trade at Home"—with those merchants and business men who are cooperating with our President in his mammoth program.

Business men in all lines are making an extra effort to show their spirit of loyalty to home interests. Their concern for the welfare of their customers, their town and their county is as their concern for themselves and their families. In this issue of the News will be found bargains galore which demand the attention of everyone interested in taking advantage of prices that may not be prevalent for many a season. Prices are fast advancing, so in the name of wisdom—Trade Now—and Trade at Home!

Perhaps you would be astounded if you could see the sums of money that are sent out of Chilton county to mail order houses in eastern and northern cities every year. These sums are in cold cash, too, while the home merchant strains every nerve in his business system to favor customers with credit. It would not be exaggeration to say that the property values of Clanton and Chilton county are being endangered by this form of drainage of the people's resources. With a decrease in business in the county, property values are sure to toboggan.

Buying and selling in Chilton county should be just one big cycle, enveloping the farmer—the producer, the merchant, the business man, and the consumer. The more money spent by any member of this cycle (Spent at home with home folks) means more money in circulation, thus more money for the farmer, the public working man, the merchant—and everyone. Of course there are many persons who have failed to recognize this, and in continuing to mail their money to out-of-the-county-places are endangering their own welfare. There is little need to go out of Chilton county to purchase any article, and the prices of the home merchant correspond favorably with those that can be secured through catalogues, with the risk of getting inferior materials, poor fits, and misrepresented merchandise. Chilton county is one of the best counties in Alabama—Clanton is often alluded to as "the best little Town in the State." These assertions are true, irrevocably true to those who have taken the trouble to take inventory of our Town and County, so why not do your part toward the perpetuation of these truths by patronizing those merchants who, too, interested in making and keeping Clanton—Chilton County "in the heart of Alabama"—dear to the hearts of its citizenship.

Ever cognizant of the welfare of Chilton County citizens, the News has devoted much space to bringing to the people's attention these existing circumstances in an effort to cause a right about face in regard to trading away from home. It has been estimated that thousands of dollars are taken out of Chilton county annually through mail orders, when equally as good merchandise can be secured at home and for just as reasonable prices.

Your county dealer has your interests at heart, for your interest is his interest, and when you prosper—he prospers. Whenever you unnecessarily send a dollar out of your town or county, you are lending just that much support to its pauperization—and indirectly injuring yourself.

That this matter of trading away from home is entirely unnecessary is clearly illustrated by the attractive prices carried in advertisements in this issue of this paper. Look them over, then decide if it's worthy of your ambitions for you and your posterity to pauperize your home by sending money away to never return.

POSSIBLE POLITICS

wearing the badge of chief law enforcement officer of Chilton county again.

Circuit Court Clerk

H. A. Harris, Grover C. Bice and J. L. Wilson are all accused of being willing to take on the streneous duties of this office, if Mr. Mims should decide to offer his services in another capacity.

Representative

There are a great many persons who are going to be inclined not to vote for Percy M. Pitts for re-election just because he happened to be a member of the Legislature during some rather awkward times. This seems hardly fair though, for anyone is likely to get in bad company once in a while. Percy has sponsored some constructive measures, so it wouldn't be a great surprise if his friends persuade him to overlook the hard things that have been said.

W. L. Sanders has been practising up on his speech-making for a long time; and there are those who believe that an effort is underway to change the name of the Representative from Chilton county. They suggest that a certain member of the board of education might be induced to allow the use of his name.

Commissioners

Not much has been said on this score so far. The idea of changing commissioners lost some of its popularity about a year ago. The terms of Commissioners J. L. Cobb and J. M. Mims expire next year. It is understood that Mr. Cobb has been getting some prices on corn remedies, preparatory to a little foot work. But for several months Mr. Mims has suffered from high blood pressure and it is not known yet whether or not he intends to make the race. Whether any others in the county are ambitious to be commissioners is not known either, but the game is young yet.

Other Titles To Be Won

Two vacancies on the board of education; tax assessor; tax collector, and state senator from this district are all offered as inducement to persons who are willing to make "personal sacrifices" for the great good of the Party.

Talk has got around that Earle Thomas, vocational instructor at Isabella, is willing to assume the duties of senator from this district. It is not known if this meets with the approval of Senator J. G. Duncan, of Autauga county.

PAY UP DRIVE

seriously this effort to pay up the current operating expenses. The bulk of our church deficits constitute unpaid salaries we owe our pastors. It will not take much to square the accounts. Just a small bit from each member will do it. Then if each member will do his or her part regularly, it will be easy to keep the finances of our churches out of the red.

Lots of us church members get aggravated because somebody is always talking about money. The reason somebody has to keep talking about money is because so few of us pay our part regularly. Remember this. If you pay your part there will not be anybody worrying you about paying. You will not even have to worry yourself.

"Pay Up and Stay Paid Up" and you will enjoy your religion a heap better. Try it this week and from now on.

Mr. and Mrs. George Polk, of Clanton, and honored the Chilton County News as its candidate in the recent beauty revue, in which she was crowned.

Surrounding Miss Polk on the float were the following girls: Miss Ova Lee McCutcheon, "Miss Clanton," Misses Elizabeth Gragg, Helen Moore, Dixie Johnson, Mary Courtney Jones, Celia Gerald, Lillian Smith, Ruth Gowan. Thorsby also sponsored a float.

Students of the Chilton County High School, the Thorsby Public School, the Clanton Grammar School, and several other schools in the county participated in the parade. The Clanton Fire Department was also an attractive addition.

Last Thursday Clanton and Chilton county won distinction as the best represented Town and County outside the Capitol City to participate in the State Parade.

Although it was not decided to stage a parade in Clanton until Friday after the participation in the State Parade; and there was a lack of advertising—the streets of Clanton were lined and the enthusiasm was general.

Dr. V. J. Gragg is to be especially commended for permitting the use of his eagle. Dr. Gragg recently shot the bird, an American bald eagle, and one of the largest birds of this species ever seen in this section, in the county near Clanton and had it mounted.

The Kiddie Bad of Thorsby, too, was an outstanding feature in the celebration. Dressed in uniforms, featuring the colors of the flag, they made an imposing contingent.

SERIES OF SERVICES TO BE HELD AT COURT HOUSE

o

"Seven Special Messages," based on the messages of John, directed to the seven churches in Asia, is the program of special services which began at the court house in Clanton last Monday night, by the Rev. D. W. Griffin, evangelist.

There is no admission charge and the public is invited. Begins at seven o'clock each evening. The closing services will be held Sunday afternoon.

Emergency Relief Pork Has Arrived

o

The first allotment of pork for Chilton county under the emergency relief program has arrived in Clanton and will be distributed Friday and Saturday of this week to families, who are already on active relief, according to a statement from Miss Kitty Clyde Austin, county social director.

This meat is given in addition to other relief as a direct grant because it has not been possible to meet the adequate needs through the county program, Miss Austin explained.

She also requested that application be made only by those already on relief, and that application be made at the centers listed below respective to beats:

Friday, October 27—9 a.m. to 12 — Thorsby, Beat 9; Coopers, Beat 10; Maplesville, Beat 7; Jemison, Beat 2.

1 to 4 p.m. — Raspberry's Store, Beat 14; Verbena, Beat 5; Stanton, Beat 8; Shaw's Store, Beat 13.

"BUY NOW"

(AN EDITORIAL)

Seldom has there been such sound and wise advice as is contained in the words "BUY NOW." These two words are being emphasized by our President and by the head of the National Recovery Administration.

"BUY NOW" is ringing throughout the country today. It is being done throughout the country. By buying now is one of the surest methods of bringing the country back to a normal condition wherein everybody will be benefitted.

Merchants of Clanton, cooperating with the Chilton County News, are sponsoring two of the biggest trade days ever held in the county, on Friday and Saturday of this week. These merchants who are taking part in this event are offering the best bargains they possibly can for these two trade days, and you can be assured that they are extending everyone a welcome to take advantage of these bargains in all lines.

Do not merely get the idea of the two trade days by this issue of the News, but read every ad that this newspaper contains this week. Every ad will bring to you some money-saving values that will be hard to find elsewhere. Read them, bring them to town with you when you do your shopping. Trade with the stores that are lending a cooperating hand in this event and "Doing Their Part" to increase business and work.

"Bread cast on the waters * * * ." It won't be long before the bread that is cast on the waters now in increased buying, increased wages and shorter hours will come back in the form of PROSPERITY. We are making our own conditions, and one of the surest steps is to "BUY NOW."

Come to Clanton Friday and Saturday of this week. Don't wait until Saturday. It is not necessary, because the prices that are contained in the advertisements in the Chilton County News this week will be in effect Friday and the first choice is always the best. See the program on the front page of the first section of the News.

35 LIVE FOWLS WILL HAVE PRIZE TAGS TIED TO LEGS FOR CATCHERS

Novel Plan Will Give Away Many Valuable Prizes During Trade Day

MERCHANTS DONATE GIFTS; NEWS, FOWLS

A most novel feature will take place during the two big Trade Days in Clanton this week. Thirty-five valuable and useful prizes are being given away absolutely free, and with each prize goes a fowl, a real live one. Or perhaps, it should be said that with each fowl goes a prize.

From the top of The Leader building on main street these birds will be turned loose, one at a time, at a given hour. On the leg of each bird will be attached a tag bearing the name of a store in Clanton and the prize that store is giving. Whoever catches the birds can have them, take the tag to the store and get the prize. Come on, join in on the fun. Catch one of the chickens, keep it and get a prize.

Following is a list of the stores giving the prizes and the prizes they are giving. See the program on the front page of the first section of the News:

Teeth Put In NRA Act By President

A two-edged executive order designed to force compliance with the Blue Eagle provisions of the Presidential agreement was issued Tuesday by President Roosevelt.

The order called for a fine of $500 and six months imprisonment for any person falsely representing himself to be operating under the agreement or displaying the Blue Eagle insignia while not complying with its provisions.

The Presidents order, issued under specific authority of the industrial law, also authorized Hugh S. Johnson, the recovery administrator, to prescribe further rules amplifying those laid down by the Chief Executive.

It followed closely upon removal of the Blue Eagle from the first establishments that were reported to have been violating the Presidential agreement.

A supplementary order issued by Johnson covered specific rules for display of the eagle, said that any person might display the emblem so long as he complied with the President's reemployment agreement and that when in the judgment of the administrator, any person had failed to comply it should be surrendered on demand and be not again displayed without written permission.

Brief Rural Topics

A farm without good terraces is like a tub without a good bottom.

India's cotton production last season was the lowest in ten years, amounting to 4,046,000 bales.

The world carry-over of American cotton is estimated at 11,597,000 bales. This compares with 12,961,000 bales last year.

Where fence-posts are low in first cost, and money is not available for better treatments, the durability of the posts is increased by soaking them in used motor or cylinder oil.

Oklahoma's Cooperative Council has obtained passage of an "anti-discrimination" bill which makes it unlawful for a purchaser to pay more for a farm product at one point than at another. Allowance is made for actual cost of transportation to locality of manufacture or sale.

"Doplex" fabric is cotton's latest bid for new markets. This textile is faced with cellophane, laminated to the fabric by a special process. In the household, Doplex is used for bags to hold garments, hats, and shoes. It is also used for stage and window displays, being highly decorative in costumes, drops, and hangings.

For the first time in 12 years the pink bollworm has appeared in the main cotton belt. Members of the destructive insect tribe were discovered at Enigma, Ga., in mid-September in gin trash by plant quarantine inspectors of the U.S. Department of Agriculture. An effort is being made to exterminate the desperado.

News In Brief

The amount of fertilizers used this year by Alabama farmers is estimated at 322,000 tons compared with 241,000 tons for 1933.

The Alabama cotton crop is now forecast at 962,000 bales on 2,423,000 acres, with an average acre yield of 190 pounds 810,000 acres having been plowed up.

Negotiations now underway may result in the sale of 2,000,000 bales of American cotton to Soviet Russia. It may be necessary for the United States to recognize the Soviet Union before the sale can be made

Cotton cloth is being used more extensively for sugar containers. It is estimated that 50,000,000 square yards of cotton cloth will be used this year to sack sugar from the Nation's crop of sugar beets.

George White, beggar of Philadelphia, was sent to jail for a month for cursing women who refused him alms.

IMPORTANT MESSAGE GIVEN OUT BY NRA BOARD TO PEOPLE OF ALA.

Urges Citizens To Be Loyal To President And Their Agreement; And 'Buy Now" Is One Of The Most Important Steps Toward Recovery

The State N. R. A. Board held a meeting recently in the City of Birmingham, and issued the following statement:

"After a thorough canvass of the situation, we find that the State of Alabama is fairly well organized in every requirement to make a success of the N. R. A. There are a few counties not yet thoroughly organied in the one matter of Compliance Boards. Plans were worked out, however, at this session to complete this phase of the work at once. The Compliance Boards that have been established are functioning well.

"In order that our people may do their best in this most important movement, we felt it worth while to issue the following appeal:

"First, we urge upon that group of citizens, who have taken an interest in the N. R. A. work thus far in the Counties that are not now completely organized, that they see that a Compliance Board is established in their county at once, and to see that the names of that Compliance Board are forwarded as soon as possible to Mr. J. E. Addicks, Chairman of the Department of Commerce, 257 Federal Building, Birmingham. It is absolutely necessary that these Boards be set up and that they function properly at once. One Board in each county is sufficient, except where there are cities or large towns in the county.

"Second, we most urgently appeal to all of our citizens throughout the State to support the entire agreement 100%. The one thing that will make the movement a success is to have public opinion back of it and public sentiment with it. We must demand that every business and institution now flying the Blue Eagle shall live up to their agreement with the President, and that we shall whole heartedly support those institutions known to be living up to their agreement.

"Third, we now urge as one of the most important of all of the steps in this program that our people join in the "Buy Now" campaign. The success of the entire movement depends upon this one phase of it. and merchants and manufacturers and business and industry in general cannot long continue to live up to requirements of N. R. A. unless they have our support in the "Buy Now" campaign. If our people will buy what they can buy now, and what they should in order to meet their reasonable requirements, business will be so stimulated that we feel that this Country will be far on the road to recovery in a few weeks.

"Fourth, we urge all of our leaders in business and industry to continue to be loyal to their agreement with the President, and to be patient a little longer until business in general has improved as the President expects it to do. We are warranted in predicting better business in the immediate future because of the success of N. R. A. to date.

"We feel that on the whole, the Country has been patient, and that we have achieved as much success as could be expected in so short a time for such a tremendous undertaking.

"The State Board respectfully asks that the press of the State give the widest possible publicity to this appeal, and we here now express our appreciation to the press for the tremendous support they have given us thus far.

"We likewise appeal to all the citizenship of the State to lend every possible aid to make this movement a real success."

IN MEMORY OF W. D. BURNETT

Our hearts were saddened and broken indeed when we received the message that our dear husband, father and friend, Mr. W. D. Burnett, had passed to his reward on Oct. 16, 1933. All was done for him that loving hands could do, but all in vain. We loved him, but Jesus loved him more, and He has called him to yonder shining shore where the golden gates were open and a gentle voice said, come, and with the farewell unspoken he calmly entered home.

He leaves to mourn his going his loving wife, three sons, five daughters, two sisters and one brother, and a host of relatives and friends. Weep not, dear wife and children, for the Lord giveth and the Lord taketh away. It is God's will that we must die, so, let us look to Him who is able to soothe our sorrows and heartaches. He is too wise to make any mistake, too great to be unkind.

Over yonder in the graveyard,
Where the flowers gently wave,
Lies one we loved so dearly,
In his cold and silent grave.
As his loved ones, broken-hearted,
Stood aside to weep,
Safely in the arms of Jesus
He gently fell asleep.

He is gone, but not forgotten;
Never will his memory fade.
Loving thoughts forever linger
'Round the grave where he is laid.
A precious one from us is gone,
A voice we loved is still;
A place is vacant in the home
Which never can be filled.
Some day we will meet him
In that sinless, summer land
Where we will be with him forever
When we join that happy band.
There in the sweet eternal union,
In mansions bright on high,
Where we will be free from pain and parting,
And we'll never say good-bye.

IN MEMORY OF ANDREW BONE

In the good year of 1898, God in His all wise plan and purpose brought into this world as it were, a young and tender bud, which began to grow and very soon blossomed into young man-hood. This was in the person of the late Andrew W. Bone.

Mr. Bone was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver D. Bone and the grandson of the late Rev. Bone whom a great host of friends in this county cherish with fond recollections.

Mr. Andrew Bone was a fine young man whom to know was to appreciate. The weather was never too cold nor the night too dark for Andrew to go to the relief and rescue of a friend. Andrew was very thoughtful of other people. He did not live to himself. He was a loving husband and a good father.

We cannot understand just why his stay here was so short except that he worked the works of his Father in Heaven and then God saw fit to call him home. Andrew chose to good part, he did the wise thing in that he gave himself to God when a young man.

His sudden going was a great shock to his many friends and relatives, but God was in the going and He doeth all things well to them that love and serve him.

Andrew knew he was going and at the last told his wife that he was going but that he was ready, so my friends, weep not as those that have no hope for God is able to take care of Andrew and at the same time care for and comfort you.

Therefore, I commend you to Him who knoweth all things and doeth all things well.

A friend of Andrew.

"Hands Off" Editors Mrs. Perkins Orders

Washington.—Agents of the Department of Labor were notified by Secretary Perkins Wednesday that they must not attempt to interfere in any way with newspaper editors.

"Please keep in mind always in your work of adjusting industrial disputes," said a department order sent to conciliators in the field, "that you have no right to tell any editor what he may or may not print in his news or editorial columns. There is nothing in the NRA or any other federal statute which gives you such a right."

The action came as a result of alleged activities of Eugene H. Dunnegan, a conciliator who was sent to Tallassee, Ala., to settle a strike. Dunnegan was charged by Dick Thompson, editor of The Tallassee Tribune, a weekly newspaper, to have informed the newspaper man that articles he was writing on labor unions were in violation of the NRA and to have threatened prosecution.

Dunnegan was said at the department Wednesday to have denied making threats against Thompson, but claimed he merely told him he thought his editorials were in violation of the NRA.

Breeding Practices And Breeding Records in Relation to Poultry

Breeding practice, with a view of increased production of poultry products, is of much significance to the successful poultryman, hence this discussion will be devoted largely to topics concerning better breeding practices used today.

According to statistics available, the average egg production per hen per year, taking the United States as a whole, is 80 eggs. Sixty-five percent of these are produced during the months of March, April, May and June, hence, the price is lowest at this time. It can readily be seen that breeding should be carried on to produce winter layers. Ten eggs are worth as much in the winter as twenty are worth in the summer months, usually.

It is clearly evident that there is much room for improvement of poultry by better breeding methods. But what are the better methods?

Select for Standard quality. When breeding a standard bred poultry, adhere closely to the standards of the breed. Eliminate all fowls that do not comply to the breed standard from the breeding flock.

Select for vigor. Heavy egg production is a great drain on the birds' systems.

Select good body type. This has been discussed in a previous article.

Select for factors affecting production. This means select only the best layers for breeders.

Select for early maturity. Use for breeders the pullets that start laying at the earliest age. This can be done by leg banding, and keeping accurate records.

Select for heavy laying. This can be done by ordinary culling practices.

Select for non broodiness. Never use a hen that is inclined to "sit" much in the breeding flock.

Select for persistency. Get the hens that lay through every month if possible.

Practice system of banding. Do this in order that individual records may be kept of each fowl.

Take special care in selecting males for breeders. The offspring of any one male are many more than from any one female.

Select for hatchibility and livability.

Inbreeding is the mating together of relatives. Most people look upon inbreeding of poultry as bad, but carried out carefully, with elimination of inferior fowls, inbreeding is a fine method of developing a favorable characteristic in a breed. Inbreeding should not be closer than tenth cousins, as the practice closer than this persistently followed results in birds of low vitality and poor hatchability.

Out breeding is the opposite of inbreeding. It is done with a view of increasing hatchability, livability and vitality. It is also used to combine desirable qualities of different breeds.

The age of breeder has a vital effect on the fertility of hatching eggs. Fowls, both male and female, should not be used for breeding after the age of one year old has been reached. A chicken is a comparatively short lived farm creature.

Next week, "Incubation Principles and Practice Relating to Poultry."

CARD OF THANKS

We want to express our heartfelt thanks to our neighbors and friends during the sickness and death of our dear mother, Mrs. Dolly Abernathy, and also thanks to the doctors and especially the funeral director, Spigener. May God's richest blessings be upon each and every one is our prayer.

FAIRVIEW

We are sorry to report that Mr. John Cox is confined to his bed this week. A mule ran away last Thursday and threw him out of the wagon on his head, and the wagon ran over his neck, injuring him considerably. He can not turn his head at all, but we hope for him a speedy recovery.

Miss Letha Bonnett was the all-day guest of Miss Louise Cox Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Cox and little son of Isabella spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Cox and family.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Cox and family, Mr and Mrs Crit Jones and two daughters visited their brother and uncle, Mr. John Cox, who had the misfortune of getting hurt last week.

Mr. Clarence Cox of Hackleburg spent the week end with relatives and friends.

Miss Marietta Foshee was the guest of Miss Letha Bonnett Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Keen and children, Elouise, Warren and Louise, spent a while with Mr. and Mrs. J. N. McKee and Mr. and Mrs. Lee Billingsley Friday night.

Mrs. Tommie Wright and little daughter are spending a few days this week with her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Henley.

Miss Thelma Stewart was the guest of Miss Lottie Henley Friday night.

The community singing at Mr. S. A. Henley's Friday night was enjoyed by a large crowd. We have a choir practice every Friday night. We will meet with Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Devaughn next Friday night and invite all singers that will to come and help us.

Miss Ruth Cox spent last Tuesday night with her sister, Mrs. J. D. Williams.

Mr. and Mrs. Comer Durbin spent the week end with Mr. Monroe Headley of the Pleasant Grove community.

Grandma Durbin was the guest of Mrs. M. F. Wagoner Sunday afternoon.

Miss Letha Bonnett, Messrs. Morris Keen, Henry Bates spent a while with Miss Inez McKee Sunday night.

NEW CEDRON

There will be preaching at this place Saturday night, Sunday and Sunday night. Bro. Robinson will do the preaching, so everybody come. I'm sure he will bring us a good message. We will have Sunday school at 10 a.m. and preaching at 11, so everybody come. You are always welcome.

Miss Delene Owen and Shelton Owen are visiting relatives in Wetumpka this week.

Mr. Oscar Cox spent a few enjoyable hours with his brother, Mr. Litt Cox, of Bethsalem Sunday afternoon.

Miss Allie Williams spent the day with Miss Louise Smith Sunday.

Remember the preaching services and come. You will always find a welcome at New Cedron.

by L. L. STEVENSON

A huskily built colored man wearing a 10-gallon hat is a familiar figure to New Yorkers and visitors. He makes his living by selling snakes and has been in that business for the last 10 years. He works all over the city, picking up dimes down in the financial district, uptown and in Harlem. He does a lot of business among his own race in Harlem. Some believe his snakes are lucky. Others believe they bring bad luck. The first buy them for charms for themselves. The second buy them to give to enemies. His snakes aren't real. He makes them himself, whittling out the pieces and doing a two-color paint job. To customers, he tells a tale of learning the art of stringing pieces of wood together so that they wriggle while doing a six-months stretch for drunken driving. Privately, he admits that that is merely a bit of color to speed up the snake selling business. His name is Jim Dixon and he came here from Dallas, Texas. Hence the hat, which cost him $50 in Fort Worth.

The snake business has its drawbacks. The worst is flower pots which drop from window sills. When Dixon first came here, a stick fell out of a third-story window, hit him on the head and brought a temporary end to the snake business. He thought the Yankees had it in for him. Later, he learned it was an accident. The woman who had caused it apologized and he was so pleased that he gave her an eight-foot snake. He's not afraid of real snakes. But he doesn't care for elephants. Down in Texas, as a joke, he handed an elephant a plug of tobacco. The elephant couldn't see the joke. Then a white man told him elephants remembered wrongs for 20 years. Recently, up in the Bronx, while he was selling snakes, something that looked like a piece of dirty rope reached for the demonstrator. Seeing that it was an elephant's trunk, Dixon told his feet to do their duty, the tobacco incident having taken place only 15 years ago! When the snake business is bad, he tells fortunes and preaches.

Shrill screams coming from a small sedan being driven down Broadway at the height of the morning rush hour attracted the attention of pedestrians who suspected that a girl was being kidnaped. Finally two policemen leaped on the running board and the driver brought the car to a stop. Immediately, a menacing crowd surrounded it. Then it was discovered that the screams came from a crate. In the crate was a big, green parrot all packed for shipment to Chicago. The policemen got off, the crowd fell back, and the driver proceeded with a very red face.

Street scene. Tenement children grouped about an organ grinder on Delancey street. Atop the organ, a wizened little monkey in a gray uniform. The monkey extends a battered tin cup to the children and a couple of pennies drop into it. The monkey doffs his hat and the organ man, with a grin, grinds out a merry tune. The children dance and the monkey, with what looks like a smile, hops about the top of the organ.

Always something to make it tough to keep at a task in New York. For instance, right at the moment, down below in Forty-third street, there is wild music—a violin throbbing, cymbals crashing and now and then the thumping of a great drum. Instead of New York it seems like the steppes or the mountains of Hungary, and as I write I vision swart, black-eyed men and dark, lithe women. And the darned street is so narrow that only seven floors up I can't see what's going on down below!

The other day, an organ grinder stopped out in front of the house and played a lively air. "'La Marseillais,'" exclaimed May as she threw down a dime. "Oui, 'La Marseillais,'" returned the musician showing a fine set of dental equipment. And didn't he play it through three times more! I'm wondering what the 124 other families in the house thought.

Dog Would Adopt Pigs

Breckenridge, Texas.—When Lady, eight-year-old German police dog, lost her litter of pups, she attempted to adopt, by theft, a litter of pigs from Mother Sow. So persistent was Lady in her efforts that her master found it necessary to tie her up to keep her out of the pig pen.

Junk Shop Removed From Man's Stomach

St. Gallen, Switzerland.—A miniature junk shop has been extracted from the stomach of a man arrested here recently for theft.

When taken into custody he was so ill he was taken to a hospital.

"My stomach," the man moaned, "pains me."

A doctor operated. He found:

Two broken silver spoons.

A safety pin.

A wood screw 1½ inches long.

Two sash window fastenings.

Five pieces of iron 2 inches long.

Two nails.

An X-ray, taken after the operation, showed several other metal objects remaining.

EASTVIEW

Rev. A. C. Nelson returned home last Thursday evening from Crestview, Fla., where he had conducted a 10-day revival meeting.

Mrs. Carnelia Coggins who has been visiting her mother, Mrs. A. C. Nelson, for several days has returned to her home near Clanton.

The social given last Thursday night by the Busy Bee Sunday school class was enjoyed by all present. Several games were played and peanuts, hot chocolate and cake were served.

The music entertainment at Mrs. Sallie Strength's last Friday night was enjoyed by a large crowd.

The Christian Endeavor social committee invites all who are interested to meet Thursday morning, November 2nd, to cut the under brush and clean up the grove on the church lot just above the parsonage. This will add much to the beauty of the church property, and it can be used for socials and games.

Mrs. Rubie Strength spent last week visiting relatives in Birmingham.

Misses Gulma and Maudie Ree and and Odis and Howard Traywick spent a few enjoyable hours with Mrs. A. C. Nelson and Osmond and Herman one evening last week.

Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Nelson spent Friday night with Mr. and Mrs. Sam Gray.

Mr. Emery Estes of Seman, Ala., was visiting relatives here last week.

Our Christian Endeavor is putting on some real good programs now. Why not join us and attend each Sunday night.

Rev. A. C. Nelson left Saturday evening for Eclectic, Ala., where he will be engaged for a few days in a church building program.

Mrs. Zora Dobbs visited Mrs. Lewis Friday evening.

Mr. John Lett of Verbena visited Mr. Sam Gray and family Sunday.

The C. E. put on a good program Sunday night. Miss Gulma Traywick was leader. Mrs. Lala May Nelson will lead next Sunday evening. Don't forget our Sunday School each Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. We invite everybody to attend our Sunday school. Let's make it Glow, Go, Grow—Let's make it So.

Mr. Ottis Coggins is visiting friends and relatives here this week end.

Completing his 31st year in the Methodist ministry, the Rev. J. W. Zerbe, of Moravia, Ia., also attained a record of 1,656 consecutive Sundays of church attendance.

Clanton Grammar School News

Annie Cordelia Smith, Mgr.

It is the desire of our sixth grade class to read as many good books as possible during the year. It is not sufficient that we read. We must select for our reading those books that will elevate our minds and give us a bigger and better view of the interesting things of the world.

These poems were composed by two fifth grade girls in their study of Alabama:

Alabama

From away up north to the shores of Tampa,
Just give me dear old Alabama.
Now Tennessee is good, you see,
But it'll never mean so much to me.
There's Texas, too, with ropes and cattle,
But milk cows are great in Alabama.
Take all the states with their talk and tattle,
Then give me dear old Alabama.

—Nellie Grubbs.

My State

To me dear Alabama is the best state of the South,
From her hills and valleys to the Mobile's mouth.
Next is Mississippi which is by her side,
Then there's Tennessee with laws Georgia cannot abide.
Florida with her soft waves is lying just below,
But to give up my own dear state, I'd be very slow.

—Sarah Price.

There are about fifty-four pupils in the sixth grade, about twenty-six in the A class, and about twenty-eight in the B class.

We shall enjoy our reading now very much because we are taking the Weekly Reader. The story that is the most interesting is Byrd's Second Trip to the South Pole.

This poem was composed by a sixth grade boy in his study of language:

One Hallowe'en Night

One Hallowe'en night
I had a fright.
As I stepped out upon the street,
Down went my head and up my feet.
There, just a bit behind the gate
I nearly got into a scrape.

My feet were tied;
I could not move.
I turned my head to look about,
And saw them run and heard them shout.
I bet they were sad when I got loose
For they scattered like down from an old dead goose.

I turned around and there "It" stood,
Something tall like Lonnie Wood.
Wrapped in sheets with a pumpkin head,
Out of its mouth these words "It" said,
"Who, my boy, O, who are you,
Just another likeness of Little Boy Blue?"

Then in its arms it grabbed me.
Where I fell fast asleep.
These were the happenings and horribles scenes
That I behold on a Hallowe'en.

—Kenneth Thompson.

STUDENTS AND BEER

Citizens who are neither fanatical drys nor fanatical wets, but who desire to promote real temperance by whatever means seem best, are watching with interest the results of the legalization of beer by the recent session of Congress.

Some expressions by college and university authorities on the subject, in the light of their observations since the new law became effective on April 7, seem pertinent at this time.

President Hopkins of Dartmouth College, where beer is permitted to be sold on the campus, declares that "there would seem to be a tendency for beer to displace hard liquor in undergraduate consumption."

Similar views are expressed by Dean Hawkes and Professor Pitkin of Columbia University, Dean Works of the University of Chicago, President Britt of Knox College, and Dr. Fairchild of New York University, to name only a few who have given special attention to the reaction of students to the new dispensation.

Needless to say, all the educators named desire to see drinking of intoxicants in their institutions reduced to the minimum. Every good citizen desires to promote temperance. If harmless light beer can be substituted for vile bootleg liquor, a decided gain in the desired direction will have been made.

Most of the estimated billion dollar increase in the gross farm income in the United States thi syear is attributed by the Federal Bureau of Economics to be due to better prices for crops, since prices of most types of livestock have averaged slightly lower in 1933.

FIFTH OF A SERIES OF ADVERTISEMENTS EXPLAINING THE EFFECT OF OUR NEW RATES

A conversation between MRS. WHITE (who is typical of several thousand of our customers whose use of electricity has been averaging about 200 kilowatt hours a month) and our REPRESENTATIVE who is explaining the effect of our new rates on her use of our service.

- REPRESENTATIVE: "Good morning, Mrs. White. Have you heard about our new low rates on electricity for home use?"
- MRS. WHITE. "Yes. I hear that I'll get an immediate reduction."
- REPRESENTATIVE: "That's true, Mrs. White. How much electricity have you been using?"
- MRS. WHITE: "About 200 kilowatt hours a month. Last month's bill came to $7.85."
- REPRESENTATIVE: "Let's see. This is a six-room home, isn't it?"
- MRS. WHITE: "Yes; we have five persons in our family."
- REPRESENTATIVE: "Then if you use 200 kilowatt hours this month, your bill drops to $6.86. That's a reduction of 99c—or roughly one-eighth of your old bill. But in addition you are entitled to use 69 more kilowatt hours absolutely free!"
- MRS. WHITE: "In other words, I now get 269 kilowatt hours for $6.86, whereas I formerly paid $7.85 for 200 kilowatt hours?"
- REPRESENTATIVE: "That's it. And do you realize that's giving you one-third more electricity for one-eighth less money?"
- MRS. WHITE: "That's just splendid. There are several more small appliances I've been wanting for some time. Now I can operate them on those 69 free kilowatt hours, can't I?"
- REPRESENTATIVE: "You certainly can. There are dozens of ways you can use your free electricity. But most of the ladies who have been using about as much electricity as you, are adding Electric Water Heaters."
- MRS. WHITE: "But my 69 free kilowatt hours aren't sufficient to operate a water heater, are they?"
- REPRESENTATIVE: "No. But on your new low rate, you can operate a water heater for only $1.90 a month more than you've been paying all along. That's just a fraction over 6c a day for automatic hot water! Isn't it worth that much?"
- MRS. WHITE: "Goodness, yes! Water heating is one of my biggest problems. But aren't water heaters high priced? I'm afraid we haven't the money to buy one at this time."
- REPRESENTATIVE: "You don't have to buy one. We'll rent you one for $1.45 a month. On that basis, you pay only a fraction more than 11c a day to rent and operate an automatic electric water heater."
- MRS. WHITE: "Marvelous! I'll speak to Mr. White about it this very night. I'm sure he'll agree—he's so particular about having plenty of hot water, and goodness knows I need it in the kitchen all the time. Call again tomorrow and I believe I'll be ready to sign up."
- REPRESENTATIVE: "Thank you, Mrs. White. Don't put it off any longer than you can help, because we have only 250 water heaters to rent and they're going like hot cakes. Good day, Ma'am."

IF, like Mrs. White, you live in a 6-room home and have been using 200 kilowatt hours of electricity a month, take immediate advantage of your free electricity and the bargains awaiting you in increased use of our service. Come to our office, or telephone and we'll send our Representative to your home immediately.

As Respectful Warnings Are Ignored Blue Eagle's Talons Clamp Down

Washington.—The nether portion of the Blue Eagle is symbolic of the penalties provided for in the National Recovery Act, as demonstrated in the case of Theodore G. Rahutis, restaurant man of Gary, Ind., first to be deprived of the NRA insignia.

H. S. Norton, chairman of the Gary Compliance Board, reported that every one of Rahutis' 40 employees sustained in affidavit form repeated charges that he was violating both the maximum-hour and minimum-wage provisions of the President's Agreement he had signed. One employee was required to work 21 hours in 2 days at 14 cents an hour.

On August 31 he was notified by the local board that "there must be some misunderstanding on your part of the agreement as modified for the restaurant business." He failed to respond to an invitation to a conference and, according to the board, complaints kept pouring in from his employees. In his absence, another notice was handed to Mrs. Rahutis and a third and final formal warning was served on him personally, which read in part: "We hope you welcome this opportunity to make a voluntary statement. If complaints are unfounded, they should be disposed of, so there is no doubt as to your right to the Blue Eagle." All notices were ignored.

National Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson's telegram to Rahutis said in part: "Even if complaints are not true, your refusal to come forward with some explanation when respectfully asked to do so by your local board indicates you are unwilling to cooperate with the President in his recovery program. Therefore, you will immediately cease displaying the Blue Eagle and surrender any NRA insignia in your possession to the postmaster of Gary. You will refrain from using the Blue Eagle in advertising or otherwise."

Following the first disciplinary action, telegrams were sent to Miss B. Wilmer, proprietor of the Crystal Beauty Shop, and Maurice Rapaport, manager of the Shop-town Market, both of New Rochelle, N. Y., ordering them to surrender their insignia to the postmaster instantly and to make no further display in any manner of the Blue Eagle.

Affidavits filed with the compliance board of New Rochelle stated that the owner of the beauty shop had increased prices to her customers 50 percent, attributing the increases to the NRA, but had actually increased her overhead by only $2 per week, bringing the wages of her two girl employees to $9 per week. The board reported various charges against Rapaport. One affidavit charged him with compelling an employee to work 12 to 13 hours daily during the week and 16 to 17 hours on Fridays and Saturdays for $16 a week. The board had been unable to secure any cooperation from either Miss Wilmer or Rapaport and their findings in both cases were acted upon very promptly by the National Recovery Administration.

Chilton Youths In U.S. Marine Corps Service

Macon, Ga., Oct. 16—Ottis Udah Gulledge, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willie B. Gulledge, of Verbena, has been accepted for service in the U. S. Marines, according to an announcement made by Lieutenant Colonel H. W. Stone, Officer in Charge of Recruiting in Alabama, with headquarters in the Macon Auditorium building.

Gulledge was transferred to the Marine Base, Parris Island. S. C., for preliminary training. He graduated from Verbena High School with Class of 1932, where he starred in baseball, football and basketball.

It was also announced that a limited number of applicants are accepted each month at the Macon office. Applications will be mailed high school graduates upon request.

WHAT BANKING WENT THROUGH

By JOHN H. PUELICHER
American Bankers Association

J. H. PUELICHER

BANKING in its long career has been compelled to withstand many serious shocks, but it ran into the most perplexing entanglement of its whole history since the general breakdown of values in 1929. The commercial structure of the entire world seemed to have been shaken from its foundations and the marvel is that the banker, with everything breaking down all around him, was able to come through as he has.

General business failures, agricultural stagnation, income losses, capital losses, inabilities to meet debts and therefore inabilities of bankers to pay back depositors when loans were not paid, were the reasons, in most instances, for the bank failures.

No profession, no department of life is without its weaker elements, but had proper consideration been given to the relatively few instances in banking, had exaggerated and startling headlines been kept in true proportion, had banking not been used as a target for political self-seeking and with vote-seeking motives, had unfounded rumors not been spread the people's confidence might have been retained and far less serious would have been their financial losses, for many bank failures were caused that need not have happened.

There were factors in our banking experience which every earnest banker deplores—factors which many had worked years to eliminate, which it was fearfully recognized would aggravate any difficult days which might arise. One of the worst of these was due to political regulation which chartered many banks that should never have been chartered.

That there have been incompetence and dishonesty in banking is admitted. That the instances that did occur were used grossly to increase fear in the public mind, we affirm. We shall continue to strive for higher attainments in our profession and strive for laws that require competence and ability in management. That we cannot legislate honesty and unselfishness into either a banker or a borrower must be conceded, but dishonesty, wherever found, should be punished. It is as true in banking as elsewhere that no matter how good the law, dishonest and incompetent men can make it ineffective. Good laws are essential. We must strive for ever better ones, but their enforcement will come only as the public recognizes that it is a matter not of laws or codes alone but of the men who administer them.

The Public's Part

Our people must be brought to realize that the welfare of our country depends upon its banking system, that the strength of the banking system depends upon the public's faith and understanding and the vast majority of banks, because of faithful service rendered, even through the whole of this general breakdown, had the right to expect the trust and confidence of the people.

In every great catastrophe, no matter what its nature, no matter what its cause, someone must be crucified. The banker was this time selected. In the late 90's, political agitation started a tirade against the railroads. Some railroads may have done reprehensible things, but the agitation became so general and so violent as almost to destroy one of the fundamental factors in the progress of a country. Today the same thing has been done to the banker. In spite of all that has happened, the fact remains that even most of the banks which failed are paying out infinitely better than are investments in almost anything else.

Bankers Aiding Agriculture

State associations of bankers in many agricultural states are giving time and financial support to encourage practices among their farmers that will bring about better farm results.

The major activities reported from one state to the Agricultural Commission of the American Bankers Association which is nationally active in promoting this line of cooperation are as follows:

1. Drought relief work: Local banks have played a vital part in this work, being represented on the county committees for passing on all seed loans. These committees met practically every day during the spring to pass on the loans in order to get as quick action as possible. A total of 914 applications were received and handled by one committee, 833 being granted.
2. Four-H Club work: Bankers helped stimulate 4-H Club work, financing many members who otherwise could not have enrolled. They also helped finance fifteen 4-H Club delegates to the state club convention.
3. Livestock feeding: The banks co-operated with the Extension Service in the state and the railroads in increasing the amount of livestock feeding. Assistance was given the feeders in securing finances for their feeding operations.
4. Crop improvement: The bankers took part in the crop standardization program of the Extension Service and encouraged the farmers to use pure seed, and in many cases made loans for this purpose.

IN MEMORY OF CLYDE POPWELL

We miss you, dear Clyde Popwell.
Clyde, we miss you more than we can ever say.
We can hardly bear the sorrow since you have gone away.
We think of you so often
Because you were so sweet.
You never had an enemy,
You had many friends to meet.
Clyde, you were so honest, kind and good,
You never did the wrong.
We all hope to meet you in that sweet and happy home.
Your vacant place can never be filled.
There is no other that can do as you did,
You worked so hard to be a man,
But now you have gone to the Glory Land.
Never more we shall see your dear smiling face.
Never more we shall see your smile.
But some sweet day in Heaven above
We can be forever with you, Clyde.

— A Friend of Clyde.

Nearly 1200 MORE PEOPLE PER DAY are Finding it CHEAPER, SAFER and MORE COMFORTABLE to Travel on L&N TRAINS
During the first 5 months that the new lowered fares have been in effect on the L. & N. system more than one million one hundred forty thousand people have realized how much more comfortable it is to travel in large roomy coaches and Pullman cars—where every convenience is provided and in which they are safe and will arrive at their destination without delays or fatigue.
They have compared the costs in dollars and cents as well as in comforts provided, and an average of approximately 1200 passengers per day more than the same days last year have returned to train travel by L. & N.
Remember that these rates apply any day, any train, anywhere on the entire L. & N. system, without limitation—and there is no surcharge in Pullmans.
Prices have been lowered on famous L. & N. dining service.

3-YEAR HONEYMOON GLOBE TRIP MAPPED

Couple Will Take Ushers as Ship's Crew.

Chicago.—An around-the-world honeymoon cruise in a 50-foot schooner, to last three years, is being planned by two young society people. They will take their wedding ushers along as a crew.

Mary Jane Falcon, a Northwestern coed, and Robert G. Leffingwell, well-known commercial artist, will be married at the bride's home in Evanston in the fall. Then, accompanied by three companions, they will leave for Tarpon Springs, Fla., to outfit their boat, and obtain practical experience in salt water navigation. On January 1 they will begin their three-year trip of following the sun around the world.

To See Shark Fight.

Among the many purposes of the trip is research work, to be done for the Field museum. Deep sea diving apparatus will be taken along, and Mr. Leffingwell has arranged to photograph a south sea shark fight under water. This sport of sharks is similar in nature to a Spanish bull fight. Sharks are starved for several weeks previous to the spectacle, and then a native boy is thrown into the water. Sometimes the boy is destroyed.

Among the important letters of introduction which these young people have obtained, is one to the king of the Fiji islands. Through Washington they are getting other good will messages from the ambassadors of the many countries which they will touch.

The itinerary, as planned, goes from Florida to Jamaica, from there through the Panama canal to the Galapagos islands and other South sea spots, where they expect to spend a year in writing, photographing, painting and deep sea diving.

Will Visit Australia.

From the South Sea islands they are routed by way of the Fiji islands to Australia, where they contemplate a trip to the interior. From there they will sail to Singapore, Siam and India. They will touch on the east coast of Africa and from there sail to Capetown. They will visit the St. Helen islands and pass some time in Rio de Janeiro. On the way home they will cover the east coast of South America and the West Indies and eventually sail up the Mississippi to Chicago.

Because this is primarily an aesthetic cruise the funnel of the boat is to be decorated in various Malaynesian, Fijian, Chinese and Malayan designs. The sails of the boat will be painted in a rainbow of blending colors.

Aside from the honeymoon aspect of the cruise, its chief purpose is educational. All of the members are college students and three of the boys are artists. An exhibit will be held upon their return of water colors and oils made in out-of-the-way places.

Locomotive, War "Hero," Scrapped by the British

London.—A battle-scarred British war veteran and ex-German prisoner of war, with a travel record of more than 1,220,000 miles, has just passed away.

This "hero" was Locomotive No. 2717, believed to have been the only British railway engine to have been captured by the Germans. It has just been withdrawn from service and broken up.

While in use on the British front at Cambrai in 1917, No. 2717 was captured by the enemy and for five months was used as a machine-gun post in "No Man's Land." Following the March retreat the Germans removed the engine, patched up the bullet and shrapnel holes, and used her for railway service until she was recaptured by the British in 1918.

On return to home duties after the war the engine was decorated with a plate recording its war service.

2,000-Year-Old Theater Unearthed in England

London.—A music hall of 2,000 years ago has been excavated at St. Albans. Dr. R. E. Mortimer Wheeler, who is directing the excavations, explains this music hall as being an ordinary classical theater, with semi-circular auditorium and small stage in front.

Doctor Wheeler said: "We are digging on the site of the prehistoric city, where we have found further traces of the defenses, showing that the city before Roman times extended for upwards of half a mile across the hilltop overlooking the River Ver."

Within the Roman city, a series of houses have been unearthed, which throw more light on the street plan of the ancient city. The city itself was built in a number of large blocks nearly 400 feet square, each block containing a large number of houses and shops.

"Death Camas" Plant Takes Heavy Bee Toll

Burley, Idaho.—A plant commonly known as "death camas" kills thousands of honey bees each year, the Minnidoka-Cassia Honey Producers' association was told by Frank Beach, international honey bee raiser.

The flower is one of the earliest each spring and thrives until late summer. Bees gather honey from them and return to the hives where they die. Other bees take the honey from the dead insects and are killed. The plant is further known to be poisonous to cattle and sheep.

Bankers Offer Prizes; County Agent Says There Should Be 2,000 Farmers In County Taking Part In Planting These Winter Cover Crops

Sometime ago the bankers of the County met at Mr. Stapp's office and worked out a program for the stimulation of soil building in Chilton County. At this meeting a soil building organization was formed and Mr. Stapp, as Secretary, was asked to send out a questionnaire or membership blank to farmers of the County who might wish to join in the soil building program. The following is a partial list of those who have notified Mr. Stapp that they wish to become members of the Soil Building Association:

S. A. Askins, D. D. Atchison, C. H. Adams, L. W. Allen, Willie Bryant, J. H. Blankenship, Ben Brown (Colored), T. W. Billingsley, W. J. Bice, R. G. Cook, C. B. Baggett, Mose C. Browder, F. H. Brown, L. B. Broadhead, G. S. Cooper, T. G. Culp, W. D. Caton, W. M. Cox, G. E. Culver, J. W. Cagle, Pete Cooper, J. N. Dennis, C. A. Dennis.

W. F. DeShazo, M. E. Donovan, Tim Donovan, Lulu M. Draper, R. L. Duffy, E. W. Ellison, C. D. Elders, F. A. Ellison, J. N. Erwin, K. A. Ekblad, J. B. Franklin, E. C. Groom, W. L. Henderson, J. W. Hamilton, R. F. Holley, Steve Holley, Harmon Headley, J. H. Jones, W. C. Jones, A. B. Jones, J. A. Jones, I. B. Jones, J. R. Knight, L. C. Keen, George Kyser, O. H. Lawrence.

W. H. Lett, F. M. Littlejohn, E. H. Littlejohn, W. M. Melton, J. H. Jones, W. C. Moore, H. F. McClure, Lindsey McAfee, W. E. Maddox, A. F. Mims, C. S. Mims, C. J. Mitchell, Carl J. McCarty, H. R. Oden, W. M. Oden, W. S. Osburn, Jim M. Parrish, N. J. Pruitt, Joseph S. Parrish, J. Monroe Parrish, W. C. Robinson, W. J. Rollan, Tom Robinson, H. S. Shaw, R. W. Scott.

W. F. Shelton, Norman E. Smith, J. L. Smith, S. B. Smith, Crof Shoults, Lavern Shoults, Henry Smitherman, W. F. Spear, Judson Strock, J. T. Traywick, B. S. Frederick, J. H. Vance, G. W. Walker, H. H. Webb, Allen P. Wilson, T. W. Wilson, W. L. Williams, M. F. Wagner, Bill Ware, Jake Williams, G. W. Willis.

There should be more than two thousand farmers to enter this contest for the splendid prizes offered by the banks.

Mr. Stapp urges that every farmer in Chilton County plant as much acreage as possible to these soil building crops.

IT'S SAFE TO VOTE "NO"

An enviable record might be made by a deaf, dumb and blind Congressman if he would simply vote "no" on every measure presented, according to Congressman Huddleston of Alabama, for such a negative voter would be with the majority most of the time

The Selma Times-Journal, commenting on this suggestion, points out that only about one bill in 100 of those introduced in Congress ever becomes a law. Therefore, a robot Congressman pledged to vote "no" on every proposal made would have a batting average of about 99 per cent.

It might be added that of the one per cent of bills actually passed and approved by the President a fairly large portion could be eliminated without any material damage to the country.

CORINTH - SHADY GROVE SINGING SOCIETY

In spite of the rainy and threatening weather and the muddy roads, a number of people gathered at Shady Grove Sunday afternoon, October 22, for the regular session of the society.

Directors for the afternoon were N. J. Jones, R. Miller, Herman DuBose, Leroy Mims, Luke Calloway, Katherine Pratt and Emma Patterson. The organists were Richard McKinney, Beatrice Pratt and Claudie Hughes.

J. M. Mims led the opening prayer and N. J. Jones led the closing prayer.

Many of the members of the society were absent and were really missed. We who were present hope they will not have to be absent any more. There were visitors from Chestnut Creek Singing Society, Verbena, Midway and Sylacauga. We appreciate their coming and want them to be with us again. All visitors are cordially invited to meet with us at Corinth Sunday afternoon, November 12th. — Secretary.

Isabella High School School

The students are still pepped up over the outcome of the game last week. Much interest was shown on the part of visitors, faculty and students when Isabella played Autaugaville High School here last Friday. Isabella's eleven showed their strength by downing Autaugaville 28-0. Much of the honor can be bestowed on Will L. Martin, captain of the team, for the first touchdown, because it was his hard-hitting and steady running that put the ball over the goal line. Autaugaville came back in the second quarter with the ball in mid-field, but failed to make first down over the line. During this time Plato Chambers, a guard did some brilliant tackling. Isabella's second touchdown was made by a long pass from Homer Morgan to Parnell Ratliff.

Autaugaville came back in the third quarter with the fighting spirit, but again they failed to make first down and lost the ball to Isabella on downs. By the splendid management of Will L. Martin Isabella drove over another touchdown by line bucks and passes. Bill Jones and Leo Deason caught most of the passes and Van Williams did the blocking for the passer.

After losing several yards on a line buck, being penalized fifteen yards and the quarter nearly over, it seemed that Isabella's chance to score again was hopeless. The next play was Isabella's most noted pass. With the end receiving the pass behind the fullback. In less than five second Parnell Ratliff, running at full speed took the ball out of the air and ran for a touchdown. Will L. Martin bucked the line for the extra point and with a few more plays the game ended.

The Senior Class is giving a Hallowe'en festival next Saturday night, October 28th, at the school building. Many enjoyable things are being planned to entertain everyone present. A prize will be given for the person wearing the best Hallowe'en costume. Come to this festival and get more laughs than you got at the community party. The Seniors are going to use proceeds for benefit of school.

We are certainly betting on Isabella being victorious when they play Eldridge at Eldridge next Saturday, October 28th. May the score be even more than last Friday when they defeated Autaugaville's eleven.

A THOUGHT OF FATHER, W. D. BURNETT

Father, 'tis the sweetest word in all the world to me, wherever I may wander, wherever I may be. The very thought of father, his love's enjoining cheer, will always be a comforting thought, be he far or near. A wonderful being is a dear father. Other folks may love you, but only dear father undersands. Father works for us all. He cares for us, loves and forgave us, and when you leave him, like a guardian angel, his memory is always with you.

Accept your father's love and honor him, for it is the most cherished possession in life. How his tears have halted me when I was wrong. How his dear arms have held me like a cradle of love. Father love outlives them all.

Father, when the gaves of heaven moved apart for your coming, earth received its greatest blessing. When the call comes for father, and he must go, heaven holds our benedictions, for I love my father.

Resting in the arms of Jesus in the beautiful land where we will never grow old. Away from this old world of sorrow and trouble, pain and cares.

A thought for father, dear God, only granted him the privilege of going on to heaven, where he could be with his dear daughter and mother and sisters that have already gone on. But there is yet one more thing we can do for him. It is to make him happy and rejoice, and that is to be ready to meet him when God sends for us. If we children and mother will all live as father did and follow the advice he has often given us we will surely meet him again some day.

Isn't it wonderful that God will give us the privilege of meeting our dear father and sisters again to be with them always, if we will only do His will.

As a thought of father our cut flowers so white and peaceful and still, may that precious father's face be the guiding star that will lead us children and guide us to a better life.

Father, it was only a few days ago—
We can never forget the day
When came the silent reaper,
And took our dear father away.
We shall miss him, oh, we miss him!
For our Saviour called him away,
But we are praying to meet him
In a better world some day.
No more on earth we'll see his face.
His voice we'll hear no more.
But let us live to meet him
On that bright and sunny shore.
We all loved our dear father—
No human tongue can tell;
We said good-bye for a little while,
But we didn't say farewell.
Oh, how loving, good and jolly
He was every day by day.
All the sorrows that he gave us
Was when he went away.
He's not dead, just sweetly resting
From his trials and troubles here.

Let us all accept our father's love and honor to be a guiding star for us children and guide us to live a better life.

—A child that loved her daddy. May God bless each and everyone. Written by Mattie Wilkins.

CHILTON COUNTY POSSIBLE POLITICS

By Victor Norris

With the season of the year—"Hallowe'en"—at hand when spooks, ghosts, goblins, and a coterie of other weird, supernatural creatures cause people to have the fidgets, local politicians are finding spectres that disturb their slumbers greatly magnified.

Only a few months now until election time—and quite a few office-holders fear the indignity of hunting a job. With almost every county office to be filled, the number who are willing to make personal sacrifices in order to get on the county payroll continues to grow by leaps and bounds. However, most every man is good for at least one vote, if his poll tax is paid up to date.

Another little, alleged political scheme went awry here this week, when the case of the State of Alabama Ex Rel. J. D. Bean vs. J. M. Mims was quietly maneuvered out of court with some $200 court costs charged to the plaintiff.

The suit questioned the right of J. M. Mims to serve as a county commissioner from the second district, charging that he did not reside in that district at the time of his election. Bean took a non-suit, which allows him the privilege of bringing the case up again.

Friends of Mr. Mims aver that the whole idea was one of personal revenge, dating back some two or three years when they declare that Mr. Mims was responsible for Bean's removal as keeper of the county alms house.

Another quirk in the case was that Percy M. Pitts, county attorney and advisor to the county commissioners, was attorney for Mr. Bean. Peculiar, these politics!

Rumors are afloat that certain county officials are having a little trouble collecting their salaries. Seems they rubbed somebody's fur the wrong way, or words to that effect.

If one is to believe everything one hears, Commissioners Mims, Cobb, Duke, Atchison, and County Attorney Percy M. Pitts, and C. P. Kenedy, clerk for the commissioners, have not experienced that elation that comes with a pay-day for some months now. Cobb and Mims, so the report goes, have missed three monthly checks; and Duke, Atchison, Pitts and Kennedy have not been paid for over two months. With one of the biggest bank balances of any county in the state, of its size, there can be no claims of shortage of funds.

Funny thing about it, no one seems inclined to discuss the matter. In the probate office a hint was received that there's something improper about the filing of the claims, but on the other hand information is had that said claims were filed in accordance with the system that has been in vogue for lo these many years.

When questioned sometime ago, Percy Pitts left the impression that he believed that Judge Reynolds was holding up the warrants, awaiting a decision from the attorney-general relative to the matter. That was about six weeks ago.

A little red tape got twisted a few months ago, when commissioners in open court ordered that $2,000 be retransferred from the general fund of the county back into the fine and forfeiture fund, from which it was taken sometime prior, to pay outstanding obligations to Sheriff Gillespie and Circuit Court Clerk J. Z. Mims.

The money was transferred by Mrs. Gertrude P. Calloway, county treasurer; but alas! by some oversight, it is supposed, the order was not entered on the minutes of the court for that date. And now, only a decision from the attorney-general will prevent Mrs. Calloway being charged with the $2,000.

A few days ago we overheard a party being questioned relative to whether he remembered the commissioners passing that order, so it is supposed that efforts are underway to have that little entry made yet.

Maybe the G. O. P. is just one grand family—but each member seems to be mistaken by his fellow-members for a mother-in-law, or a step-child.

ANNUAL RED CROSS DRIVE TO OPEN SOON

Chilton County Expected To Reach Quota During Two Weeks Drive

Chilton County will be asked again this year to show its appreciation and gratitude for the great aid given it during March and April, 1931, by the American National Red Cross, when the annual Red Cross Roll Call for this county opens on Armistice Day, November 11th.

Approximately $40,000 was expended in this county by the Red Cross in furnishing homes for those families left destitute in the path of the storms in 1931 and considerable other work in distributing clothing, etc., was done by that organization here.

Plans for the annual Roll Call are being worked out, according to Billy Smith, who will serve this year as Roll Call Chairman in this county. Committees are to be appointed to give the county a thorough canvass during the campaign for memberships.

The same percentage of dues will prevail this year as last year. Out of each amount given by an individual, whether it be one dollar or a hundred dollars, only fifty cents will go to the National headquarters to carry on that end of the work. The remainder will stay in the treasury of the local Red Cross Chapter.

The Roll Call this year will open on November 11th and continue through Thanksgiving.

KIWANIS CLUB ELECTED NEW OFFICERS HERE

Luther E. Little Is Named To Head Organization For Coming Year

The Clanton Kiwanis club begins a new year tonight. With the newly elected officials of the organization taking over the reins of government at the regular weekly meeting, Thursday night members are looking forward to much achievement during the next year.

New officers are: Luther E. Little, president; Earle Thomas, vice-president; Dr. C. O. Lawrence, treasurer; C. E. Stapp, secretary; directors, J. Mell Martin, Dan Waite, Bill Barnett, John Hollis, Percy Pitts, Billy Smith, and Dr. S. J. Ezell.

The president, the vice-president, the directors and the treasurer were elected at last Thursday's meeting by popular vote of club members. Stapp was installed as secretary by appointment by the board of directors at a meeting held Tuesday morning.

Thursday night's program will be in observance of the American Educational Week. Dr. James A. Kellar, superintendent of education of Covington county and past president of the Alabama Educational association, will be the principal speaker, when he will discuss the subject "Maintaining Adequate Educational Facilities."

All members are urged to reach the hotel by 6 o'clock in order to complete the program in time to attend the revival services at the Baptist church.

SOCIAL TO BE GIVEN AT MT. PLEASANT SCHOOL

There will be a social given at Mt. Pleasant Junior High School on Thursday evening from 7:30 to 10:00 o'clock. Our program: "A Good Time for All. We promise plenty of good wholesome fun. Admission, 10c. Come Benefits to be used for boys and girls basket ball teams.

CUPID HAS BUSY MONTH IN CHILTON COUNTY WITH LARGE NUMBER ON ROLL

Thirty-three couples in Chilton county succumbed to the elixir of love and heeded the call of Cupid during the month of October, breaking an all-time marrying record in the county, according to data from the probate office, where clerks declared that they did not believe that the number of licenses issued in any one month had even approached this high peak, unless it was during 1917, when sweethearts were determined not to allow their fiances to cross the ocean to face German bullets and the charms of French madamoiselles without first binding their affections with the bonds of matrimony.

The average number of applications for marriage licenses during a month ranges from 16 to 25. October even surpassed June, the month of brides, which only recorded 21 weddings in the county. But maybe the NRA has given the men hopes—and the women breaks, is the expressed opinion of at least one person in the county.

Licenses were issued to the following during last month:

Hal Curry and Miss Lexie Watson, K. G. Smith and Miss Edna Lee Wilder, John Robert Pierce and Miss Leola Strength, Thomas F. Nathy and Miss Euell Pate, Alex Bryant and Miss Lizzie Culp, George Lewis and Miss Lillie Mae Bullard, Henry R. Hayes and Miss Mary Brown.

Ernest Vines and Miss Ethel Belle Mims, Grover P. Rich and Miss Gladys Wilson, Amzie C. Kicker and Miss Hazel Margaret Bachelor, G. M. Hamrick and Miss Daisy Heilpem, Moody Nichols and Miss Willie D. Sewell, James Clarence Easterling and Mary Allison Sims, Johnnie E. Poe and Miss Nellie Fay Cofer, Guy Williamson and Miss Icie Lewis, Roy Hardy and Miss Delene Durbin.

Homer Smith and Miss Addie Pearl Kelley, Raymond Smith and Miss Mary Scarbrough, Cyrus Thrash and Miss Vera Ellen Busby, James Richard Hayes and Miss Thelma Newman, Howard D. COURT DOCKET IS CLOGGED BY OLD CASES

203 Criminal Cases Are Now Awaiting Trial After Civil Docket

The regular fall term of Chilton county circuit court convened Monday morning for a two weeks session with Circuit Judge F. Loyd Tate presiding. This week is being devoted to the trial of civil cases, with fifty-five scheduled for trial. Two-hundred-three criminal cases, ranging from petty larceny to first degree murder are docketed for next week.

TRADE DAYS ARE CLAIMED A BIG SUCCESS

News Is Complimented On Event Of Last Friday And Saturday

Friday and Saturday of last week week were two extraordinary days in Clanton, not only for business houses but for those thousands of persons who came to town to take advantage of the many bargains offered by merchants of Clanton for those two days, known as "Blue Eagle Trade Days" and sponsored by merchants of Clanton and the Chilton County News.

Friday was an exceptionally busy day, report merchants who took part

Damage Suit Ends, $450 Awarded Negroes

A total of $450 damages was rendered against Dr. W. A. Sellers, Montgomery physician, by a Chilton county jury Monday in three $5,000 suits in connection with an automobile wreck near Clanton about two years ago.

C. E. Lee, Alice Lee, and Annie Gross, all Birmingham negroes, asked for $5,000 each for injuries suffered when the automobile in which they were riding collided with Dr. Sellers' car in August of 1931 on the Birmingham-Montgomery highway three miles north of Clanton.

The jury's verdict gave C. E. Lee $250, Alice Lee $150, and $25 to Annie Gross. The negroes were represented by Hon. Lawrence F. Gerald of Clanton and London, Yancey & Browder, of Birmingham. Reynolds & Reynolds were attorneys for Dr. Sellers.

NEW OFFICERS FOR CHILTON SINGING CONVENTION ELECTED

At the adjourned session of the Chilton County Singing Convention held at the court house in Clanton Sunday afternoon officers were elected for the coming year. The results of the call were: President, O. L. Devaughn; vice president, Ralph Grant; secretary, Marion Easterling. These officers take charge immediately.

The singing Sunday afternoon was a good one. The court house was filled to overflowing, there being some twenty-five or thirty standing in the rear and in the aisles. There was a large class of singers from all over the county and from Autauga and Elmore counties. W. G. Culp presided, and appointed as committee W. M. Devaughn, C. H. Robinson and T. E. Wyatt. The

Revival In Progress At Baptist Church

The revival at the Clanton Baptist church has been drawing large crowds since its beginning last Sunday. The sermons of Dr. W. P. Reeves, of Tuskegee are being enjoyed by those attending the services.

The song services are under the direction of Mr. Fred Bond, who is widely known and well liked here. The services will continue all this week and until next Wednesday. Both morning and evening services are being held.

TEETH OF NRA BEGINNING TO SHOW PRESENCE

Clanton Still Under Code Is The Opinion Of Those In Authority

Considerable misunderstanding has been brought about concerning the matter of whether Clanton is still under regulations of the NRA or not, since recent press reports, according to information reaching the News this week.

It appears that some are of the idea that a statement in the President's speech last week, relieves Clanton from these regulations.

Upon investigation, the News found that those in authority here are of the opinion that this statement from the President referred only to the regulations of hours and wages, and not to other Sections of the code. And that this was being done in order to help the smaller employer who was finding hardships in taking care of any additional expenses in wages and salaries.

However, the fact remains that the pinch of the NRA is being felt by violators over the entire country, and the considerate, lenient and patient manner heretofore shown by the Administration in carrying out the NRA, is fast disappearing.

The "claws" of the Blue Eagle are being clamped down, so to speak, and it might be advisable for anyone contemplating disregarding the provisions of the code, to thoroughly investigate the matter before acting, because the NRA is no passing fancy.

It seems to be the opinion of those in authority that Clanton is still affected by the NRA insofar as fair competition is concerned.

In the future, all complaints of violations of individual codes are to be sent to Hon. J. E. Addicks, Dept. of Commerce, Birmingham, Ala. This announcement was sent out recently by Mr. Addicks, and takes the place of the first order to send complaints to Washington.

O.E.S. TO BRING PICTURE HIT TO CLANTON

"Air Hostess" To Be Shown At Wadesonian On 8th-9th Of November

Under the auspices of the Clanton Chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star, one of the most outstanding motion picture hits of the season will be brought to the Wadesonian Theatre Wednesday and Thursday of next week, November 8-9, according to an announcement from the chapter's publicity committee.

The story is a stirring drama of the air, filled with danger and thrills—Air Hostess—featuring Evalyn Knapp in the title role. The tenseness of the drama is relieved to some extent by the absurd capers of that one and only Thelma Todd.

599 FARMERS HAVE ALREADY SECURED LOAN

$13,117.50 Received For Cotton On Loans Above Price Quoted On Market

Often has it been said that the farmers receive no benefit from governmental regulations, but the Democratic administration has scored a bull's eye with the Cotton Cooperative Parity Plan; and the farmers of Chilton county are taking advantage of it.

Within a week, since final [illegible] were completed for the extension [illegible] 10 cents per pound on cotton under the plan, approximately [illegible] has been loaned to farmers in Chilton county.

Through Tuesday, 599 farmers had received $89,277.76 on 1747 bales of cotton. From early in the morning until late at night, clerks in the office of County Agent Stapp are kept busy taking applications and filling out necessary papers for cotton loans. With the market price of middling staple ranging around 8½ cents, or with a gain of 1½ cents per pound, the 599 farmers in the county who have taken advantage of the government loans, have received approximately $13,117.50 more for their cotton than market price, and still own an equity in the product.

Landowners who have taken in cotton for less than 10 cents and would like for their teants to have advantage of the increase may do so, according to Mr. Stapp. The October ginning report for Chilton county is 10,349 bales, compared with 8,988 last year. However, the surplus has already been removed from the market through the loans.

THORSBY CHAPTER OF O.E.S. RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

Whereas, the Almighty God in His wisdom saw fit to call from our midst our beloved sister, Mrs. Cora Gentry;

Therefore, be it resolved that our Chapter has suffered an irreparable loss.

Resolved, that sister Gentry was one of our most ardent and active members and will be greatly missed.

Resolved that our charter be draped in mourning for a period of thirty days.

Resolved that these resolutions be sent to each of our county papers for publication.

—Martha B. Goddard, Lutishie Bean, Charles A. Peterson, Committee.

THORSBY CITY OFFICIALS PASS RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

To Mrs. C. C. Petersen and Family:

We, the Town Council of Thorsby, Ala., in regular session this the 20th day of October, 1933, passed the following resolution:

Whereas, the Supreme Ruler in His all-wise wisdom has seen fit to call our beloved Mayor, Carl C. Petersen, to his reward. Mr. Petersen had served the Town both as Councilman and Mayor for a number of years, and by his untiring efforts for the upbuilding of our Town, and his fair and impartial manner in disposing of all issues coming before him, had endeared him not only to the members of the Council, but to all the citizens of the Town.

We will feel his loss and miss his presence here, but we have the hope that we will meet him in the Celestial City above, and we commend you to the unfaltering love and mercies of our Heavenly Father.

Be it resolved that a copy of this resolution be attached to the minutes of the Town records and a copy furnished each of the county papers for publication.

Very respectfully,

—S. M. Pate, Councilman, J. M. Smith, Councilman, M. E. Willis, Councilman, M. J. Soberg, Councilman, Donald Merchant, Councilman, E. R. Piper, Clerk.

THE ORGANIZATION OF ISABELLA 4-H CLUB

Miss Ruth Pardue met with the Isabella girls on Thursday, October 26, for the purpose of organizing a 4-H Club. The officers elected are as follows: President, Lorene Lecroy; vice president, Ovaline Jones; secretary-treasurer, Elizabeth Mims; reporter, Louise Cox; song and cheer leader, Frances Sexton. Thirty-seven girls signed their names as members of the club.

This is the first time a club of this kind has ever been organized in Isabella community, so let's all get busy and make our club one of the best in the county. Our club will meet on the first Thursday in each month.

In our next meeting which will be on November 2nd, we will elect a local leader who will meet with us twice each month for the purpose of giving demonstrations.

The first phase of work which we are to take up is clothing. This phase includes the study of posture, construction of clothing and several other important things concerning clothing.

Building Chilton County

"Chilton County, In The Heart Of Alabama." That is a slogan that should be spread far and wide and a slogan that can be capitalized on.

By saying capitalized on, we do not mean that it can be used to make someone rich, but we mean that Chilton County, with its unusual location, farm lands, progressive citizens and other assets could increase the speed with which it is becoming known as one of the best counties in the State. And that applies to Clanton as becoming one of the best, if not the best little town in the in the state.

There's one little thing, and yet it is a huge thing when considered properly, that should be and could be eliminated, and help a great deal. It is friendliness. On every hand, one [illegible] m the lips of persons who have stayed in Clanton for a short time, that it is not so friend- [illegible] such a town.

Friendliness is priceless and yet costs not one penny. Give that stranger a smile on the street. Invite that new resident to your home, or better, go to see them. Let's build the friendliness of our town and county.

Our Lovable President

"If we can't do it one way, we'll do it another way," said President Roosevelt in his talk Sunday night over the radio, when he mentioned conquering the depression. Roosevelt is the lovable man, the leader, the one who doesn't claim that his plans are perfect or bomb proof. He is willing to try something for the good of the people and if it doesn't work, is willing to change to something else. This paper believes that Roosevelt is unconquerable. A man with enough sense to try different ways is not a one-track human. He is versatile and smiling, but behind that smile there is a will of steel—a determination to pull the nation out of trouble and place it on a firm basis of happiness and prosperity. Those who cannot love a man like Roosevelt have little love in their souls. Those who refuse to fall in line with his policies fail to see the wide scope of the hope that he holds out for human relief and an early return to permanent prosperity in the United States. — Montgomery Weekly.

An Editor Looks At The Railroads

The following editorial, which appeared in the Fallon Eagle of Fallon, Nevada, shows how vitally the railroad problem affects all communities, all businesses, all individuals. It said in part:

"Just how important the railroad is to this county was emphasized when the Southern Pacific and Southern Pacific Land Co., between them, paid to the Churchill treasurer a total of $58,465.85 for the first installment of 1932 taxes.

"Of course the Southern Pacific has been doing that very thing for years—paying a large share of all the taxes paid in this county. But what made it so noticeable this year was that, with most of Nevada's banks closed, tax payments were comparatively few and the Southern Pacific checks filled a big gap.

"County employes will get their pay, or at least part of it. Other people who have claims against the county will get all or part of what is due them. High school teachers will have payments on salaries two months due. These folks, in turn, will pay merchants who have been carrying them, or will pay their own taxes, which had to be allowed to go delinquent.

"In short, as matters stand, the Southern Pacific and others who have been able to dig up their tax money, are Churchill County's bankers and have had a large share, with creameries and turkey buyers, in turning enough cash loose in this community to keep business from being completely paralyzed.

"An institution which means so much to any community . . . is entitled to fair consideration at the hands of the public. The community betters its own condition by supporting and helping to develop the railroad, which in turn, will maintain and add to its taxable valuation, returning more money to the public treasury.

"Railroads are not faultless. Although they have been hedged about with restrictions which have hampered their exercise of initiative and judgment in coping with modern conditions, they are still at least partly to blame for the situation in which they find themselves today by reason of motor competition. They have found it extremely difficult to alter their methods of doing business, learned in the days when railroads constituted practically the only mode of transportation.

"There is, certainly, a place for the motor truck in the present day distribution setup. If the charges made by the rails are true, however, there is much work to be done by public service commissions in this and other states to render the competition of the truck lines fair to the railroads and to the public.

"Here in Nevada, as was pointed out recently by the state auditor, the gas tax is inadequate to care for maintenance of the roads built with federal aid money and there has had to be a tax levy upon property for this purpose . . . The truck lines pay comparatively little property tax and the railroads, with their enormous valuations, are placed in the ironical position of paying a heavy share of the cost of maintenance of the rights-of-way used by their motor competition while at the same time bearing all of the expense of maintaining their own roadbeds, and paying taxes for the privilege.

"The railroads are entitled to respectful hearing and to fair, impartial judgment of their rights. We can't get along without them and they should be given an even chance to prosper."

Thank You, People Of Chilton County!

The "Blue Eagle Trade Days" sponsored by merchants of Clanton and the Chilton County News last Friday and Saturday, were a success in every way.

We say, from the bottom of our heart, "Thank you, people of Chilton County and surroundings."

The News is pleased with the numerous reports from the business houses in Clanton on the two trade days. The News is pleased with the numerous comments from visitors to Clanton last Friday and Saturday and glad that you all had a good time and enjoyed the many money-saving bargains that the merchants of Clanton offered for those two big days.

Those two trade days were such a success that the demand for more like them is being made to the News.

The News extends thanks to those merchants and business men who took a part in making these trade days a success. We acknowledge the consideration given us by the city in blocking traffic on main street Saturday, so that everyone could take a part in the prize catching.

Those who missed this event of the trade days certainly missed a treat, and we might add here to keep an eye on the News for announcements of other trade days in the future.

The Red Cross Without Chilton County

The Red Cross was at one time a great help to Chilton County. In fact had it not been for the Red Cross, perhaps Chilton County would not be in quite the excellent condition it is now, so far as living conditions in some parts of the rural sections are concerned.

Approximately forty thousand dollars was spent in this county in March, 1931, immediately after the terrible catastrophe struck our county, killing and destroying. This forty thousand dollars came directly from the American National Red Cross, and not from Chilton County.

The Red Cross came to our aid without a question. The Red Cross did not say "We will lend you this money on interest."

The Red Cross did not say, "This is all you can get, it is your share."

The Red Cross without Chilton County, perhaps would function as usual. But, Chilton County without the Red Cross would have found some rough sledding in 1931. No, Chilton County cannot do without the Red Cross. Let's remember this when the Red Cross Roll Call opens on November 11th.

A Dose Of Confidence

President Franklin D. Roosevelt administered another dose of confidence to the people of the nation last Sunday night when he spoke over the radio. His speeches are potent potions which give quick and certain relief to a suffering nation.

Monday morning the clouds which had begun to gather on the nation's horizon had cleared, and all was well with the world. The leader had spoken. He had declared that if one plan failed another would be tried. He summed up the good already done by his projects to relieve conditions, and promised more. He ended all speculation as to the unstable dollar.

Call him a Dictator- He is not, he is a leader. And how this country needed a leader! On March 4th last, a kind providence gave America Franklin D. Roosevelt. America had faith in him, but the most optimistic never expected miracles of a president. And we got a miracle-maker.

For a time we got to expect too much. Things happened so fast that we thought there was no limit to what our President could accomplish and we began to need a soothing dose when a slight lull was seen in the recovery program. The president saw us waver, so he went before the microphone and gave us another shot of confidence.

Again, all is well in America. — Greenville Advocate.

Investment And Employment Campaign Progresses

San Mateo County, California, has embarked on a "Renovize Drive" which seems to be a model of its kind. Success has been far greater than was anticipated, with more than $1,650,000 pledged by county communities, and with the director of the campaign estimating that the grand total will be $2,000,000.

The beautiful part of San Mateo's campaign is that the residents haven't simply adopted a slogan and issued a little publicity and then let it go at that—as has happened elsewhere, when well-conceived build-and-repair campaigns passed gradually into coma and died. Instead of that, teams made up of representative citizens go from door to door and office to office soliciting promises from other citizens that they will spend a definite amount for needed property improvement. A form card is made out which indicates the type of work to be done and its minimum cost. When the work has been completed a coupon attached to the card is filled in by the property-owner who sends it to campaign headquarters.

This is an example of what aggressiveness and public spirit is doing in San Mateo County, California—and what is being done there can be done, to a greater or lesser degree, in every county and state and municipality in the nation. Property-renovation on a colossal scale would be the greatest possible impetus to industrial recovery—it provides jobs in all industries, brings needed revenue to thousands of business concerns, large and small, ad stimulates commerce and trade. The person who builds and repairs now is demonstrating his faith in the patriotic axiom that employment and investment are better and cheaper than charity.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

A farmer was on his way to church on Sunday morning and to his astonishment he saw his neighbor out in his field plowing his corn. He waited at the end of the row that he might have a word with the one who was breaking the Sabbath. After a heated argument the man following the mule replied, "You go on to church and next fall I will show you a better field of corn than you have and we will see who has acted wisely." The man in the buggy jerked his lines and said to his faithful family horse, "Get up, Sam," and as he rode away he said out loud to the man in the field, "Remember Partner, God does not always collect His rent the first of October." Men and women today can break the Sabbath and get by with it, but it should not be forgotten that God does not always collect the first of October. There is one thing that is certain, God will collect for every broken law, some day, some where.

I was down town on Saturday afternoon and passed a place where beer was being sold in open violation of the laws of Alabama. Countrymen who had brought their cotton, chickens and eggs to town had made their sales and were lined up at the counter drinking beer and talking loud. No, they were not drunk, but they were under an alcohol stimulant that made them boisterous, blatant and repulsive to any man who wishes to go quietly on his way. When a man or a woman, has put a bottle of beer under the skin just one swig of corn rye will produce drunkenness, and drinkers of beer have already learned this easy road to a drunken revelry. I am not an alarmist, but I am frank to speak it from the house top—we are in for the old time revelry and drunkenness that cursed our civilization during the days of the open saloon. During the last three months signs of drinking, automobile accidents and night revelry have increased tremendously. There is no use talking to people who drink beer, "Ephriam is joined to his idol,' but I would like to beg the good people of Alabama to stay off the streets and the highways at night. When they kill, let them kill one of their own number.

As I stepped to the ground from the street car, two young men stepped down by my side. I heard one say to the other, "I beat that conductor out of my fare." I adjusted my glasses and looked the young fellow over. I declare unto you, there was a human monstrosity. I verily believe that if I could have clipped his nose from his face, I could have slipped a quart milk bottle down over his head to his shoulders. Poor fellow, he did not carry brain space enough to make him realize that he had injured himself more than the company that he had "bummed" for a ride. When a man will bum his way, or cheat somebody out of a nickel, he is so small above his shoulders until he can wear a shot gun barrel for a stove pipe hat. Blessed is the man who is honest through and through.

I saw a man walk up to a slot machine and slip a penny into an oblong space. I heard a buzzing sound on the inside of that machine, and when the sound ceased a small piece of candy dropped into a cup. That is about all the use some folks have of God. Ever and anon they feel the need of a piece of candy, and so they will attend church, pray a little, do some act of kindness and then wait for their candy. To such folks God is a slot machine and they drop in a little prayer and wait for their piece of candy.

The judge gave his charge to the jury and sent them to their room. They were out for hours. Finally the judge sent for them and wanted to know why they could not reach a verdict. Finally he said to the men, "If you do not reach a verdict in another hour I will be forced to have twelve dinners sent to your room." The foreman arose and addressed the judge, "Your honor, if you please, send us eleven dinners and one bale of hay." St. Louis Post Dispatch

IN MEMORY OF A FRIEND— W. D. BURNETTE

Our hearts were saddened and a very serious thought comes to us of the death we must meet when God calls us, just as Mr. W. D. Burnett did by answering his Lord's call. Some of us are saying to ourselves, that we will take his death as a warning to us and we are going to give our hearts to God and accept Him as our personal Saviour, because we love the Lord and Mr. Burnette also. We want to join him, the angels and Christ in a land where sorrow never comes. With the same farewell unspoken we want to calmly enter into His mansions as Mr. Burnette did.

Some of us want to be ready to answer the call, but not enough to try, pray, or be sorry for our sins. Still others are waiting till tomorrow, but tomorrow may never come. Everyone should take warning.

We must not weep or wish him back with us because it was the Lord's will for him to leave this earth, but we must strive and work forward to the time when we can meet him.

Among Mr. W. D. Burnette's friends six of the older ones acted as pallbearers. They were: Messrs. C. D. Foshee, J. W. Cox, W. J. Moatts, A. S. Johnson, G. B. Jones, O. H. Lawrence, all of Billingsley. Acting as flower girls were: Mary Etta Lawrence, Louise Smith, Ernestine Johnson and Lera Mae Franklin. The beautiful flowers show the respect of Mr. Burnette's many friends. Let us not forget to give flowers on such an occasion, but also remember to give them to our friends while they are living and can enjoy them.

Mr. Burnette leaves to mourn his death his wife, Mrs. W. D. Burnette, Clanton, Route 3, three sons, John, Charlie and James of Clanton, five daughters, Mrs. Lena Beaner, Florida; Mrs. Bell Edwards, Clanton Route 3; Mrs. Mattie Wilkins, Billingsley Route 1; Mrs. Ernestine Turner, San Antonio, Texas; Mrs. Lillian Edwards, Clanton Route 3.

The remains were laid to rest in New Cedron cemetery. Rev. A. S. Bentley of Plantersville conducted the funeral, assisted by Rev. B. Lawrence of Clanton. The Concord choir was in charge of the singing.

Spigener of Clanton was in charge.

Written by his friends, Misses Pauline Collins, Audrey and Edna Johnson.

IN MEMORY

September 16, 1933, Mrs. Martha Irene Campbell, wife of Mr. T. H. Campbell, was called to her heavenly home, just as the twilight entered into the darkness of the night, an unseen angel entered into the Central Alabama Hospital, the silver cord of life was loosened and her beautiful soul was gone to live with Jesus, where streets are paved with gold, and sorrow never comes.

Her devoted husband was by her bedside. All that doctors, kind nurses, loving hands could do was done to restore her health, but Jesus wanted another beautiful soul in glory to live for him and praise him there. She was a true Christian. She was 43 years old, and had united herself with the church early in life. It was so sad; a dear wife was gone, a loving mother, a kind friend. So hard it is to give her up.

The poet must have wanted all to get a vision of the Christian home when he wrote:

"We read of a place called Heaven,
It is made of the pure and free,
The truth in God's word he has given,
How beautiful Heaven must be."

It was so sweet for her to always see a silver lining to every cloud. We had the plasure of being with her often and it was wonderful what faith she had in God; and the love Jesus has for those who trust him. We know she lived a pure Christian life, for we never met her without a smile on her face. She was always so glad when time came for the weekly prayer services to be at her home.

She was laid to rest in Mulberry cemetery. Brother G. G. Williams spoke words of comfort to her loved ones and friends. Her friends were numbered by those who knew her. To her family we can only say: Comfort your hearts by knowing Jesus, who does all things well, and let the sweet memory of her life help guide you, and in the sweet after now you can meet again, never to say good-by; for the song she loved so well was "Tell Mother I'll Be There."

She leaves her husband, six children, two grandchildren, three sisters, two brothers and father; many friends, but let us meet her where we will never have to shed a tear, where all will be joy. We loved her.

Production Control Is Still Necessary

The fundamental need of controlling production of some basic farm commodities, especially those that were formerly sold in large quantities to foreign countries, has not been removed by the new national program of direct Federal buying of foodstuffs for use in feeding the needy, according to officials of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

The plan of direct purchase and distribution will help to remove present surplus of some products in the best possible way—by feeding them to people who need them. It has "rediscovered" a market for farm products within the boundaries of the United States, and will result in marked increase in food consumption by the three and one-half million families who are receiving unemployment relief through public funds.

The problem of over-production of farm commodities, however, still must be faced. Exports are largely restricted through closed foreign markets, and even the fullest possible domestic consumption will fall far short of using up all of many basic farm products which we have been producing.

"Of course, the program of relief buying does not solve the surplus problem," says Secretary of Agriculture Wallace. "It really offers a new means of attacking that problem. For even in years like those from 1925 to 1929, when nearly all our people could buy all they needed to eat and wear, the farms of America produced far more wheat and pork and cotton than all the people of the nation could possibly use. That is still true. Therefore, the necessity for bringing production downward in many of our farm communities remains with us."

"The greatest mistake you can make in life is continually fearing you will make one."

—Elbert Hubbard.

This statement has been used by a number of great men when asked what they contributed their success to. Don't hesitate on doing a thing just because you fear it will be a mistake, the chances are, it won't be if you think you are right. Don't be afraid of mistakes, when you make one let it be a big one. A big mistake is always followed soon by a bigger success.

The Junior Three class with Miss Sarah Colley as class sponsor, elected their class officers last week for the oncoming term. They are: Juanita Miller, president; Mary Armstrong, vice president; and Mary Ruth Goodman, secretary and treasurer. Good luck to you officers.

We had two very interesting and instructive addresses at chapel periods last week. On last Wednesday the school was honored by a visit of the Rev. Harry B. Miller, nineteen year old evangelist of Hollywood, California, who is conducting a series of services at the Four Square Church. Besides bringing an inspirational message to the students he also sang several numbers, accompanying himself on the piano and banjo. Both the brief message and musical offerings were greatly enjoyed by the students and the faculty and we cordially invite the Rev. Miller to be with us again.

On Friday of last week at the chapel period, the Rev. E. W. Griffin, evangelist who conducted a meeting at the court house last week gave an interesting talk in which he compared Christianity to a football team. This was a splendid talk and we all thank Mr. Griffin for his visit and extend to him a cordial invitation to repeat his visit.

What's wrong wth a certain boy in the Senior One class? Is he bashful? You girls find out.

A boy rides around with a girl one day. The next day he is told by others that he is in love with her. Now I ask you is that fair? And to make it worse if he happens to be going with another girl, tch, tch, tch, he is doing her dirty. Whispers are heard how dirty he is treating the girl he is going with. What's a guy going to do?

The writer was threatened one day last week for printing a statement about a certain person. Some people are so narrow-minded that they never see but one side of anything. They should stop this since it may hurt them some day.

The mothers of the members of the Senior Class are requested to come to the high school next Tuesday afternoon at 3:15 to be the guests of Miss Gulledge, class sponsor, at an informal "get-together". They will have a chance to become acquainted with the faculty and the school. This will encourage the mothers and the students to take more interest in their school.

Girls basketball practice under the capable coaching of Miss Bonnie Clyde Griffin began this week. We're expecting great things from our girls. Let's encourage them in their efforts to put C. C. H. S. at the top in basketball. With the appearance of the players reporting there is no doubt but that we will have a winning team. Let's go, girls.

Our football team meets the strong Bibb County eleven from Centerville here tomorrow. This promises to be one of the best games of the season and we want Chilton High to win. So let's go out and give the boys the support they deserve and get a victory for the blue and gold in return. Come on Jesse Frank, we're expecting lots from you and the team. And Emanuel, you play as you did against Prattville, and Tallassee. Gabby, ole boy, let's see some pretty passes from you to our fast ends, Joe and Jack. We are sure that the rest of the team will do their duty toward a victory, Carl, Osmond, Sidney, D. H., U. L., Morgan, Carson, Grady, Jr., and you others, we're pulling for you.

And we want our "mystery player" to be in there and put that fighting spirit out there that brings in the touchdowns.

If you can, try and imagine: "Punchie" not trying to see that things are done right in physics; Dixie Johnson not stalling when Mr. Varnell takes the daily census on chewing gum, she's good at it; a certain boy doing without his girl at school; a certain senior two taking her love affair seriously; Miss Griffin's study hall without Roy Wilkinson; Gabby running through advanced algebra as he does through those lines; a science class without Joe Moore; a student getting "B" on biology when he didn't ever meet the class, never studied, in fact doesn't take it; a certain Senior Three in love with a certain fair and beautiful Junior but afraid to tell her, Oh my!

Second in a series of short biographies of the members of our faculty is Miss Sarah Colley, class advisor for the Junior Three class and English instructor. Miss Colley is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. O. Colley. Dr. Colley is the superintendent of the Baptist Orphanage at Troy. Miss Colley was born in the city of Birmingham on April 24, 1910. In the year 1923 the family moved to Troy, and here Miss Colley finished high school n 1927. In the same year she entered the State Teachers College at Troy and received her diploma from this school in 1929. Going further Miss Colley received her A. B. degree from Judson College in 1931. Since this Miss Colley has studied one summer at the University of Alabama preparing herself for higher learning. This year begins the third year of her career as a teacher. Her first teaching was at Brundidge and in 1932 she came to Chilton High and is now beginning her second year here. Miss Colley has won the love and admiration of all those with whom she comes in contact with every day. And the school feels itself proud to have in its faculty a lady of Miss Colley's friendliness, personality, intelligence and school interest.

The members of the Senior One class chose who they considered could serve as officers of their class the best in a class election last week. The officers are as follows: President, Mary Courtney Jones; vice-president, Quentin Kelley; secretary, Jack Gillespie; treasurer, Harriet Esco. Here's wishing the Senior One class a profitable and rich year in every way.

A Laxative that costs only 1¢ or less a dose

NEXT TIME you need medicine to act on the bowels, try Thedford's Black-Draught. It brings quick relief and is priced within reach of all. Black-Draught is one of the least expensive laxatives that you can find. A 25-cent package contains 25 or more doses.

Black-Draught is made of approved laxative plants, firmly ground so you take the medicine into your system just as naturally as you get nourishment from the food you eat.

Refreshing relief from constipation troubles for only a cent or less a dose—that's why thousands of men and women prefer Thedford's Black-Draught.

AMAZING CAR OF 1962 TO BE ON PARADE IN CLANTON TOMORROW

PAN-AM Car of 1962, only one of its kind ever built, forecasts future cars that will travel on land and through air. PAN-AM will have the right gasoline for 1962 cars. Today it's Orange PAN-AM.

Original 1902 model, on parade with the 1962 car, is one of the early horseless carriages. Orange PAN-AM gasoline keeps it running mile after mile.

The people of Clanton will be treated to an amazing sight Friday (tomorrow) when a 1962 model automobile will be driven through the streets of the city.

Automotive, marine, and aeronautic engineers have for years startled the world with their predictions as to the vehicle of the future.

For the first time these amazing predictions have actually been incorporated in a full size vehicle. Pan American Petroleum Corporation, decided to build an automobile that would resemble these sensational cars of the future, as near as present engineering research could forecast them.

The 1962 car, with extreme streamline and lowered wind resistance, has aroused wide-spread interest in the automotive world. It has an overall length of 20 feet (about double the wheelbase of the average present day car). It has wings with a spread of 14 feet, propellor and rudder, since it is believed that the car of 1962 will be able to fly and land on streets or buildings, as well as skim the highways at 150 miles an hour.

The car also has aviation compass, altimeter and tachometer, in addition to regulation automotive instruments.

Accompanying the car of 1962 on its trip through the state is an authentic 1902 model Cadillac, with its crank on the side, old time steering arm, and buck board reminiscent of the old days.

So, tomorrow, at one time the people of Clanton will be able to see one of the first dependable automobiles chugging along behind a vehicle which carries us as far in the future as the imaginations of automotive and aero-dynamic engineers have gone.

Both cars are powered with Orange Pan-Am gasoline and Pan-Am promises the right gasoline for the sensational cars of 1962.

Headquarters for the car Friday will be at Dief's Service Station, local Pan-Am station.

Brief Farm Topics

Good terraces will prevent a farm from washing into the Gulf of Mexico.

Of $17.82 paid by the average family for certain foods on September 12 only $6.61 went to farmers. The remainder paid the high cost of distribution.

When prices are rising the prices of raw products rise faster than the prices of manufactured products.

By planting oats this fall many Alabama farmers will avoid a feed shortage during the crop season next year.

Farm loans outstanding for the United States for 1933 are estimated at $3,479,000,000. This compares with $3,920,000,000 for 1928.

Sheer material like chiffon will not pucker when it is stitched on the machine if strips of paper are placed underneath it and the stitching is done through both fabric and paper.

Save left-over egg yolks by covering them with cold water and setting them in the refrigerator, or by dropping them into boiling water and cooking them until they are hard. The cooked yolk may be pressed through a sieve when cold and used to garnish creamed dishes or salads.

RED CROSS RELIEF AIDS DISTRESSED IN 120 DISASTERS

Help Given in Fires, Floods, Earthquake and Epidemics Part of Year's Task

The American Red Cross has reached into the homes of six million families in the past year with unemployment and disaster relief, Chairman John Barto Payne announced.

"As the year closed the organization continued in readiness to serve in the forthcoming winter at the point of greatest need and to adjust its service to meet the calls of the emergency of unemployment and disaster," Chairman Payne stated.

In a year of greatest economic distress in the nation's history, in which the Red Cross ably discharged a relief task in distributing flour and clothing to distressed families in all but six of the nation's 3,098 counties, the organization also was called into action in 120 disasters, of which 96 were within the borders of the United States.

Earthquake, floods, hurricanes, fires and other cataclysms visited death and destruction upon the lives and homes of thousands of people. Red Cross statistics showed that in the 120 disasters almost a thousand lives were lost, 148,340 homes were destroyed or damaged, 13,275 persons were injured, and Red Cross relief was given to 452,879 individuals.

In giving aid in these disasters, in its unemployment relief and in handling the distribution of government wheat and cotton, the Red Cross expended from its national treasury the sum of $1,070,284.

During one period of twelve weeks, 46 disasters occurred in 23 states. Red Cross disaster workers were hard pressed in meeting all of these needs occurring at once, but everywhere misery was promptly relieved.

Support of the Red Cross work is through its annual roll call, conducted by chapters in the period from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day, November 11 to November 30. Every citizen who joins the Red Cross as a member aids in carrying relief to disaster victims and in other Red Cross services, such as preservation of life, child welfare through the Junior Red Cross, and direct service for the public health.

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY

BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA

To the Customers of
Alabama Power Company:

An increasing interest in municipal ownership and operation of electric utilities in this state has been evinced recently, owing largely to general economic conditions which have prevailed.

There are in Alabama fifteen municipalities that own and operate their electric systems. The following table presents the monthly billing for varying typical uses of electric service in the homes of these towns compared with the cost in the towns served by this company.

Monthly Billing (5 Room House)

Municipal Operations	Minimum or Very Small User 5 KWH	Lighting and Small Appliances 30 KWH	Lighting, Small Appliances & Refrigeration 105 KWH	Lighting, Small Appliances, Refrigeration and Range 255 KWH
Alexander City	$2.00	$3.00	$8.15	$12.05
Athens	1.50	2.25	5.06	8.44
Cullman	1.00	2.70	[illegible]	9.11
Dothan	2.00	4.50	7.45	9.77
Evergreen	1.00	3.00	5.80	10.25
Fairhope	1.25	2.94	6.74	12.44
Hartford	1.00	3.00	4.52	8.27
Lafayette	1.50	3.00	7.50	[illegible]
Lanett	1.00	2.00	7.45	14.40
Luverne	1.50	3.00	7.25	9.47
Opelika	1.00	2.80	5.80	9.00
Piedmont	1.00	2.50	[illegible]	8.84
Silver Hill	2.00	3.30	7.65	14.10
Sylacauga	1.00	2.70	6.45	[illegible]
Troy	1.50	3.25	6.12	10.75
Weighted Municipal Average	$1.35	$2.97	6.26	$10.38
Alabama Power Co. State-wide Rate "A 2"	$1.00	$1.80	$4.18	$ 7.93
Saving by A. P. Co. Rates	$ .35	$1.17	$2.08	$ 2.45
Per Cent Saving by A. P. Co. Rates	26%	39%	33%	24%

These 15 municipal electric systems pay no taxes. Out of each dollar paid for electric service by customers of Alabama Power Company living in 483 municipalities almost 15 cents will be paid back during 1933 to the cities, counties and the state to support the schools and other governmental agencies. Approximately $880,000 of our taxes go directly to education.

There are 42 municipalities in Alabama having populations averaging from 2,000 to 10,000. Of these, 8 operate their own electric systems and 34 receive service from private utilities. Of the 8 municipalities which operate their own electric systems, 6, or 75 per cent, have by special amendment increased their ad valorem taxes above the $5.00 constitutional limit. Of the 34 towns with private utilities, only 17, or 50 per cent, have increased their ad valorem levies above the $5.00 limit.

Municipal electric properties are exempt from all taxes (including the 3 per cent Federal tax on residential and commercial electricity). Notwithstanding these exemptions, municipal rates in Alabama are higher than those of Alabama Power Company.

Yours very truly,
THOMAS W. MARTIN,
President.

Letter No. 2.

Use Lard For Udder Ailments Of Cows

Auburn, Ala.—Home-made lard as a remedy for udder ailments in cows, while old-fashioned, answers the same purpose as many high-priced lotions.

"In fact," says F. W. Burns, extension animal husbandman of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, "many dollars could be saved each year by Alabama farmers if they would use hog lard for these ailments instead of the high-priced patent remedies. Hog lard put up in one-pound containers costs from 15 to 25 cents a pound while the patent remedies put up for special purposes, but which are really no better than the lard, sell for 80 cents to $1.80 per pound."

According to Mr. Burns, there is nothing better for garget than two tablespoonfuls of turpentine mixed with one pound of lard and applied to the udder three times a day. For hot and tender udders the pure hog lard should be used and applied by hand after each milking. Severe cases of chapped teats may also be cured by the application of pure lard, he states. The applications, however, should be thorough and a good coating of the lard left on the udder and teats.

Warts, which frequently appear on the surface of the teats, may also be removed with this remedy. These warts are not only unsightly but often become troublesome through irritation. A generous application of pure hog lard smeared over the surface of the warts after each milking will relieve this irritation and will eventually remove the wart.

Mr. Burns states that hog lard can also be used very satisfactorily on cuts, scratches, and bruises as well as for the udder troubles.

Presents Data On Legume Planting

From all parts of the State farmers are making inquiry as to the best time and method of planting Austrian winter peas and hairy vetch for soil improvement.

Experimental work and the experience of thousands of farmers have shown that the best time for the planting of these legumes is either during the last half of September or the first half of October, according to J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

Mr. Lowery added that vetch should be drilled at the rate of not less than 20 pounds of seed per acre, and Austrian winter peas at the rate of not less than 30 pounds per acre. Farmers have found that drilling is the safest and surest method of planting

They have also learned that it is essential to inoculate these legumes where they are being grown on the land for the first time. Inoculation is accomplished by using soil from fields where good crops of these legumes have grown or with commercial cultures. Many farmers use both soil and commercial inoculation.

"Hairy vetch and Austrian winter peas should have a liberal application of phosphate at planting time," said Mr. Lowery. "Apply superphosphate at the rate of 400 pounds per acre, or the equivalent in basic slag. Basic slag may be mixed with the seed and inoculating soil and put through the distributor without injury to the inoculation, but superphosphate may kill the inoculation if used in this manner. Basic slag also contains lime which has been shown to be very beneficial to winter legumes."

FAIRVIEW DEMONSTRATION CLUB

Members of the Fairview community Club were entertained at the home of Mrs. J. W. Cox on Tuesday, October 17 at our regular monthly meeting. Miss Jewell Foshee, President, took charge. The roll call and minutes were read and approved. After all business was finished Miss Pardue gave us a lesson on poultry, including housing, feeding, diseases and vaccinating for prevention of diseases. Everyone enjoyed her talk very much. We now realize the necessity of planning and fixing for our back yard in order to obtain better results.

Mrs. Comer Durbin was added to our roll. We were very glad to have her and hope we will get more new members next time. Our next meeting will be at the home of Miss Jewell Foshee November 21. Now let's every member be present next time and bring someone with them.

Why Doctors Favor a Liquid Laxative

A doctor will tell you that the careless choice of laxatives is a common cause of chronic constipation.

Any hospital offers evidence of the harm done by harsh laxatives that drain the system, weaken the bowel muscles, and even affect the liver and kidneys.

Fortunately, the public is fast returning to laxatives in liquid form. The dose of a liquid laxative can be measured. The action can thus be controlled. It forms no habit; you needn't take a "double dose" a day or two later.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has the average person's bowels regular as clockwork in a few weeks' time. Why not try it? Some pill or tablet may be more convenient to carry. But there is little "convenience" in any cathartic which is taken so frequently, you must carry it with you, wherever you go!

Its very taste tells you Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is wholesome. A delightful taste, and delightful action. Safe for expectant mothers, and children. All druggists, ready for use, in big bottles. Member N. R. A.

News from Thorsby

Miss EDITH JOHNSON, Correspondent

Death Of Mrs. Cora Lee Gentry

Mrs. Cora Lee Gentry died at the home of her son, Mr. Ernest Porter, Wednesday, October 25, after a few days illness. Mrs. Gentry was born March 2, 1878, making her fifty-five years old when she died.

Mrs. Gentry was married twice, Edward Porter being the first husband, and one child was born to them, Ernest Porter of Thorsby. Mr. D. H. Gentry, who died only a few years ago, was the second husband and one child, Sydney, of Birmingham was their only child. Those mourning her passing away so suddenly are the two sons, Ernest Porter and Sydney Gentry; four step-sons, Dolphus, Arthur and J. D. Gentry; one step-daughter, Mrs. Ida Bean; one neice, Miss Mary Louise Bates, whom she reared; four grandchildren, Mary Sue, Hattie and Frank Porter, and Emogene Gentry; nine step-grandchildren; six brothers, five half-brothers; two sisters; and one half-sister.

Funeral services took place at Collins Chapel church Friday morning at eleven o'clock with Rev. J. W. Jones, Rev. J. E. Each and Rev. W. P. Lowery in charge and Spigener in charge of interment.

Mrs. Gentry was a member of Thorsby Baptist church and Order of Eastern Star and will be greatly missed by her many Thorsby friends and friends elsewhere.

Death Of Mrs. Mary Lou Mims

Another death that took place the day before the death of Mrs. Cora Gentry made the community very sad. This was the death of Mrs. Mary Lou Mims at her home early Wednesday morning. She was taken ill about twelve o'clock during the night and died about two hours later. Collins Chapel had been her home up to about ten years ago, when she moved with her husband to Thorsby and has been living there ever since. Mrs. Mims was sixty-nine years old on her last birthday, which was September 17, had been a member of Collins Chapel church for over forty years, and the twenty-second of this month marked the fiftieth anniversary of her marriage to Mr. John Mims.

Rev. J. W. Jones, Rev. J. E. Each, and Rev. W. P. Lowery were in charge of the funeral services at Collins Chapel on Thursday morning with Spigener officiating. Interment was made at the Collins Chapel cemetery.

Mrs. Mims leaves her husband, Mr. John Mims to mourn her passing away into a higher and finer world, four living children, Mrs. Jim Honeycutt, Mrs. David Childress, Mrs. Earl Marcus and Mr. Sammy Mims; three brothers, John Harrison Collins, Sam and Dudley Collins of Clanton; four sisters, Mrs. John Littleton, Mrs. Bill Vinson and Mrs. Mat Vinson of Collins Chapel and Mrs. Martha Burnett of Thorsby.

Many of the old settlers of Thorsby will be sorry to hear of the death of Mr. Andrew Johnson of Gary, Ind., which occurred one day last week. He and his family moved here in 1902 and remained for about 11 years, after which they returned to the north to Gary, Ind. Mr. Johnson has been ill for a number of years and has been in very bad condition for the past year.

Thorsby Institute News

Last Saturday night the dormitory students, the Faculty of Thorsby Institute and the town students who work for the school had a very enjoyable Hallowe'en party. Miss Phillips and Miss Klingelhoefer planned the games and refreshments. The games were different from those at previous Hallowe'en parties. It had taken a lot of planning and work to prepare for the party, but a good time ensued for all.

There are so many social and wholesome games that we wonder why the town young folks do not plan more of their parties along these lines. There are a good many young people who are very capable of planning games and who have time to do it. The library of Thorsby Institute has some books containing interesting games.

Next Saturday night the second open meeting of the Helen Keller Literary Society will take place. The program is mostly relative to Thanksgiving. A playlet entitled "Hidden Treasurer" will be presented. Also there will be two readings—one, a poem recited by Mary Nell Pate, and the other a story recited by Christine Dopson. In the pantomine, "Up-to-Date Manners," Mary Frances Duke will be the reader; Josephie Billingsley, the mother; Ruth McKee, the oldest child; Mary Frances Harris, the younger sister; Sam Bentley, the young brother.

Everyone is invited. Admission will be ten cents.

MARS HILL

Hello, everyone. We are all still alive yet, if you haven't seen us in the News for some time. Our Sunday school is progressing and hope for it to continue. The ones in Sunday school sure are faithful. We are glad they are interested. Hope for them to hold out.

We sure did have a real good singing Sunday night at the church. Had a fine crowd. Organists were Misses Linnis Dureen and Miss Deafie Smith and Mrs. Sudie Bearden. Everyone enjoyed themselves fine. We are intending to have another one soon. Hope to see all of them out again, and take a part like they all did Sunday night.

Most everyone is about through with gathering around here.

We regret very much that the death angel took away Mr. E. G. Cofer last Tuesday morning at the home of his son, Mr. Tom Cofer. The remains were laid to rest at Mars Hill cemetery on Wednesday morning. He leaves to mourn his loss three daughters and five sons, and a host of relatives and friends. The floral offerings were more than beautiful. To know Mr. Cofer was to love him.

RE-ROOF for all time

DON'T take chances with an old roof when it is so easy to have Careystone applied right over it. Made of asbestos and cement formed into shingle-shaped units, these roofs have all the advantages of slate or tile without the heavy weight, high cost and tendency to crack.

Permanent and Fireproof

Careystone is a permanent roof—first cost is last cost. And it is as fireproof as stone.

Roof Beauty

Careystone is made in five attractive colors. And at no extra cost you can have the "Weather-Age" finish — made only by Carey.

Low Cost...Free Estimate

Careystone costs much less than many roofs which do not approach it in appearance or durability. Let us give you a free estimate on reroofing your home. Call, phone or write.

SURVEYS SUPPLY PROOF THAT "NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY"

Washington.—Reports submitted by numerous widely scattered newspapers, and all of the national advertising agencies, abundantly confirm data accumulated by State and local advisory boards of NRA as to the potentialities of the "Now is the time to buy" campaign now in progress. This view is reflected to an astonishing degree by a flood of letters and telegrams from merchants and manufacturers to NRA headquarters.

Thousands of local and national advertisers in all staple lines are assuring National Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson of their determination to cooperate by offering the people "good goods, fairly priced", in response to his suggestion.

These communications reveal new and improved products to be offered to the public, and all pledge the maintenance of fair prices. The president of a great retail drug organization wrote: "We are carrying out at once your suggestion to submit up-to-date, reasonably priced merchandise and have increased our advertising expenditure over anything we have spent in three years."

The treasurer of one of the largest textile concerns said: "In September we increased production 25 percent and pay rolls 84 percent. For the past 2 months production increase with us was 54½ percent and pay rolls 112 percent. We are assuredly on the upturn, and with fair treatment the people will buy."

In a detailed report, one of the largest cigar manufacturers announced that from August 1 to October 1 their employees increased 31 percent, pay rolls increased 53 percent, and "average weekly sales of our most actively pushed brands of cigars increased 61 percent."

"The housewives of the country are the purchasing agents who spend 85 percent of the family income," said General Johnson in a public statement. "They realize that 'Now is the time to buy', not only to save money, which is vitally important, but also they have decided that every dollar spent now is helping to keep the wage worker in her family on a pay roll." This sentiment has been reported from women in all walks of life, through the far-flung women's organization of NRA, and indicates that, as never before, women are giving deep thought to the psychology of buying home supplies before retail prices get back to normal.

"Hundreds of thousands, even millions, long idle, are back at work," continued the statement of General Johnson. Many millions of dollars have been added to pay rolls. These pay rolls cannot be maintained and new jobs for millions more cannot be made unless every cosumer does his or her best now. Industry is bringing into the market improved, practical products held back for these better times. Prices are going up, they must and will, and buying now is an investment, the safest investment it is possible for any one to find."

EASTVIEW

Miss Getalene Mims, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Mims, was carried to a Montgomery hospital Tuesday of last week where she underwent an operation for appendicitis.

Mr. and Mrs. Newt Vinson, Ealene Mims and Rev. and Mrs. A. C. Nelson were visitors to the hospital last Friday. They reported that Getalene was resting very well. We hope she will soon be able to return home again.

Mr. and Mrs. Gaines Cook of Billingsley were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Rushing Saturday.

Mrs. Sallie Strength had for her Sunday dinner guest Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Rushing.

Rev. and Mrs. A. C. Nelson motored to Seman, Ala, Sunday where he conducted religious services.

Don't forget the working at the church Thursday, November 2nd. Bring tools to work with.

Our Christian Endeavor is putting on some real good programs now. The topic for next Sunday night is "The Awfulness of War." Mr. Silas Nelson will be leader. Be sure to attend. The services will begin at 6:30 p.m.

We have Sunday school each Sunday at 10 a.m. We are always glad to welcome you into any of our services.

The motto of our church is:

No stranger shall remain ungreeted,
No unfortunate person shall go unfriended,
No invalid shall be unvisited,
No needy person shall be unassisted,
No bewildered sould shall go unadvised,
No home of mourning shall be neglected,
No act of needed mercy shall be omitted.

Preaching services here every second Saturday and Sunday. We are always glad to have visitors to worship with us.

A & P RECEIVES A LARGE SHIPMENT OF CANNED GOODS

More than half a million Golden Enamel-lined Cans of Stokely's Finest Vegetables were sent direct to A&P Food Stores throughout the State of Alabama and sections of Mississippi and Tennessee, for one of the bggest canned food sales that the local branch of the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company has ever staged.

In commenting on this large shipment of merchandise, which represents approximately 10 carloads, A&P officials said, "Several months ago when food stuff prices began to increase, we realized the savings that could be effected for our customers in placing quantity orders for future sales.

"The prices on your materials are going up steadily. Wheat has advanced 83% since last February, Corn 110%, Pork 29½%, Fruits and Vegetables 36%. Obviously this is the time for housewives to stock up their pantries for prices today are lower than they are likely ever to be again, and this is particularly true with reference to A&P's sale of Choice Stokely Foods, which takes place today and continues for one week. These stocks of non-perishable foods are priced amazingly low, but such stocks are strictly limited. Now is the time to buy."

Vermont Jr. High School News

Our P.-T. A. met last Tuesday. Twenty-four were present. Election of new officers was withheld until the next meeting which will be today, November 2nd. Each parent and teacher pledged themselves to bring at least one new member. We hope the weather will be favorable and a large number can be present. Quite a bit of interest is felt in P.-T. A. work and we thus hope to stimulate this interest more and get our Parent-Teacher Association quickly organized and working for the common purpose of our school and community.

The girls basket ball arrived this week. We are now working to get our goals set up. After about two weeks practice we hope to arrange some games with other schools.

The boys athletic association is moving along fairly well. The ground is not quite ready and the goals have not yet been fixed, but having to get everything new, even the boards and goal posts, we are greatly delayed in getting started. Any school desiring a game after November 15 is requested to write our principal.

Mr. Johnson, Miss Grant and Miss Cagle enjoyed a fine chicken dinner last Suday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jean Wyatt.

Miss Dorothy Manning spent the past week end at her home in the Isabella community. Her mother and father left Saturday for the World's Fair in Chicago.

Mr. Johnson spent the week end at his home in Jemison.

Little Mary Jo Chandler, popular 12-year-old member of the Jr. 3 class, won as a prize in the candy selling contest of last week, a beautiful Sheaffer's Ladies Fountain pen. She turned in over one hundred sales.

The intermediate boys now have a new regulation playground ball and bat. A great deal of fun is being had by them in this new game.

Our enrollment now stands at one hundred and fifty-seven.

Beginning this week, the bus driven by Mr. Williams will make a double trip instead of one. He has approximately fifty-eight to bring in. Up until now he has accommodated as many as he could, but it is a physical impossibility to bring in the above number at one load. We are proud of the new arrangement as all on his route can now ride.

Don't forget to see "A Poor Married Man" at our school building on Saturday night, November 11th.

Comedy Drama Play At Vermont Nov. 11

On Saturday night, November 11, a rollicking good comedy-drama play will be staged at the Vermont Jr. High School. If you can endure two hours of genuine wholesome laughs you should not miss seeing this breezy little play. The title of the play is "A Poor Married Man." Come and witness the terrible trials he is subjected to at the hands of a critical and dominating mother-in-law. A hasty marriage leads to a ridiculous tangle, which is eventually straightened out, but not until a flood of comical situations have taken place. Black Jupiter Jackson, a negro servant, is a regular bundle of fun, getting everything wrong-end first. A sparkling little play, filled with youth, pep and laughter. You just can't afford to pass it up. Curtain up at eight o'clock. Admission, 10 and 20 cents.

The cast of characters is as follows:

Goodyear Buys Decatur Plant Employing 500

Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company has purchased the Connecticut Mills at Decatur and will give employment to 500 persons, with a payroll estimated at $10,000 a week, as soon as the plant can be reconditioned, T. D. Johnson, Manager of the New Industries Division of Alabama Power Company, announced Saturday.

The property was bought at public auction from the bankrupt court for $251,000, the transaction being conducted by P. E. H. Leroy, Vice-President and Treasurer of the Goodyear Company.

"With the purchase of the Decatur tire fabric mill, Godoyear is enlarging the scope of its extensive manufacturing activity in the south," Mr. Leroy said. "The DeDcatur mill, which will be placed in production as soon as possible, joins the Southern group of the Goodyear tire and fabric mills already operating in Gadsden, Ala., and Rockmart, Cedartown and Cartersville, Ga."

Mr. Leroy said there were three important factors which led to the selection of Decatur for the establishment of the Company's new production unit. These are labor, power and nearness to raw material supplies.

At Decatur, Mr. Leroy said, through the service of the Alabama Power Company, Goodyear was assured of an uninterrupted power supply, with an enforcible contract, and at a rate 20 per cent. lower than could be obtained in the north or east.

"Power at assured low prices and assured, uninterrupted service, is necessary for any section that would attract new industries," he said.

Commenting upon the successful negotiations, Thomas W. Martin, President of the Power Company, said: "We are greatly pleased that the efforts of our New Industries Division and the Decatur Chamber of Commerce have succeeded in again interesting the Goodyear Company to locate in our state with a large industry."

Work of reconditioning the plant, at a cost estimated at $100,000, is expected to begin at once.

Owens Reunion

On Sunday, October 29, the children, relatives and friends of Mrs. E. B. Owens gathered at the home of E. B Owens, nine miles southwest of Clanton, to celebrate her 71st birthday. At 11 o'clock many useful presents were given, after which a bountiful dinner was spread. The table was centered with a beautiful cake, bearing 71 candles.

There were sixty-eight present, ten children and 27 grandchildren. All were present except one, Mr. Carlos Deason, grandson, of Wetumpka.

Those attendng were: Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Owens, Miss Bell Owens, Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Deason and children of Wetumpka, Mrs. Velma Carroll, Curtis, Mary Sue and Julius, Mr. and Mrs. H B. Owens and children of Cross Roads, John Will, Mary Dean, Evelyn and Vernon, Mr. and Mrs. George Owens and children of New Cedron, Delene, Sheldon, Charles, James, Jettie Merle and Ray; Mr. and Mrs. Jean Mims and children of Enterprise, Christine, Mitchlene, Raymon, Ross and Sarah; Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Owens and children of Bethsalem, Woodrow, Annie Maud and Bennie, Miss Ida Owens; Mr. and Mrs. Hayes Owens and little daughter, Louise; Mr. and Mrs. Jim Owens and children, Junior, Billie and S. A.; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Owens; Mr J. R. Owens and daughter, Esther; Mr. and Mrs. Lee Billingsley of Fairview; Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Billingsley of Bethsalem; Mrs. Smith and daughter, Parrie Bee; Mrs. Bertha Tate and nephew of Selma; Mr. and Mrs. Farley Mims and four children of Clanton; Mr. Leonard Henley of Fairview; Miss Elaine Deason of Enterprise; Mr. Clayt Puckett of New Cedron; Mr. R Dobbs, Mr. Oscar Baker and Mr. J k Baker, all of Shiloh; Mr. Newt Driver of Highland.

The day was enjoyed by all who attended. They departed to their homes at a late hour, all wishing Mrs. Owens many more happy birthdays.

Nagging Pains are WARNING SIGNALS

TEMPORARY pain relief remedies may save you much suffering at the moment, but putting a mask over a warning signal does not clear up the condition it was telling you to avoid.

When periodic pains, due to a weak, run-down condition, distress you, treatment for the cause of the trouble should be started without delay.

Our little town is blessed with good health and everybody seems to have the good will spirit.

Some of our farmers are planting wheat and are expecting to have biscuit next year raised from their own soil and avoid paying the high price for flour next year.

Miss Elizabeth Jackson, who is teaching at the Ensley High School, was the Sunday guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Jackson, of this place.

One of the most vital questions that is confronting the best brains of our country today is whether or not we can drink, destroy and borrow ourselves to prosperity.

We often see a certain good looking young man who comes in from the west side of our town and has a most charming smile which resembles the matrimonial smile which often results in the tuning of wedding bells.

Little Lois Cotton, daughter of our good-natured James Cotton of this place, was carried to the Central Alabama Hospital some days ago and had her tonsils removed. She is now back home and doing well.

We often hear someone say, I shall not consider the party as much as I will the man in next year's election. So, Mr. Candidates, whoever you may be, you had better know how to read your titles clear if you gain the mansions that await the winner in November, 1934.

Our new pastor, Rev. W. E. Robinson, delivered three good spiritual sermons Saturday night, Sunday and Sunday night, which were enjoyed by a large crowd at each service.

We still have B. Y. P. U. each Sunday night and prayer services just before B. Y. P. U. except on preaching Sunday.

We have changed our preaching day from the fourth to the first and next Sunday will be our regular preaching day. We will have services Saturday night, Sunday and Sunday night. We cordially invite everyone to come.

Rev. W. E. Robinson was the Saturday night guest of Mr. J. W. Cox.

Mr. and Mrs. George Owen and family attended the birthday celebration of his mother, Mrs. Eff Owen Sunday at her home near Kincheon.

Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Williams and family were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Lawrence Sunday.

Mr. Clarence Williams and Miss Vera Cox were the Sunday dinner guests of Miss Allie Williams.

Mr. and Mrs. Alonza Baker visited relatives in this community Saturday night and Sunday.

Rev. W. E. Robinson was the dinner guest of Mr. Edd Moatts and family Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Olin Williams were the Sunday dinner guests of Mr. O. H. Lawrence.

Messrs. Lloyd Smith and John Cox, Jr., were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. Irby Johnson.

Misses Louise Smith and Elsie Herrod were the Sunday dinner guests of Miss Mary Lawrence.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Stroud were the Sunday guests of Mr. J. F. DeVaughn and family.

Mrs. J. F. DeVaughn visited her son, Mr. Harvie DeVaughn, Sunday.

Miss Pauline Collins was the guest of Miss Delene Owen Thursday night.

Mrs. Barney Wilkins and Miss Pauline Collins were the guests of Mrs. W. D. Burnett Friday.

Miss Delene Owen returned from Wetumpka, where she was visiting relatives. She reported a real nice time.

We are very sorry to learn that Mr. and Mrs. George Owen and family are going to move from our community to Felix. We will miss them very much.

Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Hill and little daughter, Irene, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Johnson, Sunday p.m.

Miss Pauline Collins was the guest of Audrey and Edna Johnson Sunday p.m.

Several from this community attended the Hallowe'en Festival at Isabella Saturday night. They reported a nice time.

Hallowe'en Fun

At Hallowe'en dusk
When gone is the sun,
You can see spooky spook,
But you see no one.
Early that night
When the moon comes out,
The children play tricks
And run all about.
Then late at night,
Away they go.
You can see something white
That appears to grow.
When the children knock
At your door and run,
You know they're happy
And just having fun.
For when they have
What they call work complete,
They go home to rest
Their tired little feet.
Then thinking of all
The good fun they've had
They turn off their lights
And crawl into bed.

—Jimmie Wyatt.

Hallowe'en Scares

Hallowe'en is a holiday
When we like to romp and play,
When we like to scare the people
Off the streets and up the steeple.
It gives to all so much delight,
Seeing every kind of sight.
They're the pumpkins in the windows
And the chimneys full of cinders.
Hallowe'en is full of fun
To those who can play
Pranks and run.

GOODE CANDIDATE FOR AGRICULTURAL POST

R. J. Goode, farmer, livestock breeder, legislator and member of the state board of agriculture, Gastonburg, has announced as a candidate for commissioner of agriculture.

Mr. Goode filed his statement with the Secretary of State Saturday.

For the past 18 years Mr. Goode has been a member of the state board of agriculture and since 1915 has served his home county of Wilcox as a member of the legislature. He received his academic education at the Gastonburg High School, afterwards was graduated from Marion Institute with the degrees of A. B. and B. S. and later took a course at the University of Pennsylvania.

SHEPHERD A CANDIDATE FOR ATTORNEY GENERAL

Senator Coleman Shepherd of Jasper, Alabama is certain to be a candidate for Attorney General in the 1934 Primary. He is already active and has contacted friends throughout the State. According to information received direct from him, Senator Shepherd expects to make a formal announcement of his candidacy for Attorney General within a short time. He is a member of the Jasper Bar and has been actively engaged in the general practice of law since 1915, having graduated from the University of Alabama in that year. He is a Baptist, a lifelong Democrat, and is active in civic and political affairs. Shortly after graduation from the University he became Chairman of the Walker County Democratic Executive Committee and served the party in that capacity in 1915 and 1916. In 1928 he was Judge Advocate for the American Legion, Alabama Department, and is at the present time Senator from the Twelfth Alabama District. Senator Shepherd was known as an independent thinker in the Senate, and his work in that body attracted favorable attention throughout the State.

SIXTH OF A SERIES OF ADVERTISEMENTS EXPLAINING THE EFFECT OF OUR NEW RATES

A conversation between MRS. GREEN (who is typical of a large group of our customers whose use of electricity has been averaging 400 kilowatt hours a month) and our REPRESENTATIVE who is explaining the effect of our new rates on her use of our service.

54% More ELECTRICITY for 6% More Money!

- REPRESENTATIVE: "Good morning, Mrs. Green. Have you heard about our new rates on electricity for home use?"
- MRS. GREEN: "Yes. We're already pretty large users of electricity in our home. Mr. Green and I figured on our bill last month. We used 400 kilowatt hours, and the bill was $10.85, or about 2¾c an hour. We've never complained about our rate."
- REPRESENTATIVE: "We appreciate your attitude, Mrs. Green. You won't complain about your new rate, either. It increases your bill 61c a month, or about 6 per cent, but it entitles you to use 219 more kilowatt hours of electricity per month—an increase of 54 per cent in your electric service!"
- MRS. GREEN: "But what can I do with 219 more kilowatt hours of electricity? I already have a range and refrigerator and numerous small appliances around the house. An electric water heater is about all I haven't got."
- REPRESENTATIVE: "I was going to suggest that very thing, Mrs. Green. I've already talked to several of our customers who've been using about the same amount of electricity as you have. Practically all of them decided to install a Water Heater. On your rate the operating cost would be only $1.40 a month more than you've been paying."
- MRS. GREEN: "Well, we need a water heater. But I'm afraid we can't afford to invest in any more equipment just now."
- REPRESENTATIVE: "You don't have to. Mrs. Green. We'll rent you one for $1.45 a month. The rent is all you contract to pay. It makes the total cost of renting and operating the heater only 10c a day!"
- MRS. GREEN: "That's cheap enough, all right. I guess we'll order one. But I'll have to speak to Mr. Green about it first. He may want to use the extra electricity some other way. Suppose you call again tomorrow and I'll tell you something definite."
- REPRESENTATIVE: "All right, Mrs. Green. I don't wish to hurry you, but we've got only 250 water heaters to rent and they're going fast. You've this extra electricity coming to you anyway, so I believe you see the wisdom of beginning right away to use it. Good day, Ma'am."

IF YOU, like Mrs. Green, have been using 400 kilowatt hours of electricity per month, you are in a position to use additional electricity for ¼c per kilowatt hour! There are dozens of ways this amazingly inexpensive service can be profitably employed in your home. Let us suggest some. Come to our office, or telephone and we'll send our Representative immediately.

Mr. Newton Driver of Elmore spent a few days last week with Mr. and Mrs. Philmore Lockhart.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Coe and children, Catherine and J. B., Jr., were the dinner guests of Mrs. Lillie Weldon and children Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hamilton and children were the guests of Mr. Bud Dobbs Sunday.

There was a Temperance Program put on here Sunday by the young people in Sunday school. Each and everyone seemed to enjoy it. A quartet sung by Miss Lucile Powell, Mrs. Lena Armstrong, Mr. Leonard Hand and Mr. G. B. Billingsley was enjoyed.

POPLAR SPRINGS

On Sunday, October 29, the people of Poplar Springs met to organize a singing society. The meeting was called to order by W. M. Devaughn, after which Bro. W. F. Gilliland led in prayer. After singing one other song the follow ing officers were elected: President, W. M. Devaughn; vice president, Floy Devaughn; secretary, Myrtice Smith; treasurer, Mattie Lou Crew; chaplain, Mr. Joseph McDowell. Miss Ora Devaughn was selected to take charge of the books.

The society decided to meet on the 2nd and 4th Sunday afternoons at two o'clock. We also sing thirty minutes before Sunday school and B. Y. P. U. The former begins at 9:00 o'clock and the latter at 6:30 o'clock.

If you people don't believe the Poplar Springs bunch can sing you have a cordial invitation to come and witness for yourself.

MYRTICE SMITH, Secretary.

The rutabaga-eatng champions are Oliver Dubois and Walter West of Cumberland Wis., who each put away five quarts of cooked rutabagas at one sitting.

NEW CEDRON

Next Sunday is our regular preaching day. We have changed our preaching day from the fourth to the first Sunday, as our pastor, Brother Robinson, couldn't serve on the fourth Sunday. So everybody come. We are glad to have you with us.

Miss Vera Cox was the Sunday dinner guest of Miss Allie Williams.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Baker were the Saturday night guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Cox.

Mr and Mrs. G. M. Owen were the Sunday dinner guests of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Owen.

Miss Delene and Shelton Owen have returned to their home after a two-week's visit with relatives in Wetumpka.

Mrs. B. G. Jones was a visitor in Lomax this past week end.

Miss Eula Mae Brown spent last Thursday night with her sister, Mrs. Oscar Cox.

Remember, our preaching services next Saturday night, Sunday and Sunday night. We are going to have preachng throughout the year every Saturday night, too, so everybody come. We are glad to have you.

TRADE DAYS

in these two trade days, and Saturday was the red letter day. Stores here reported that Saturday went far above previous records in business, and many merchants are asking for another trade day in the very near future, to be sponsored by the News.

The tickets to the Wadesonian Theatre that were given during these two trade days by those stores taking part, became very popular as the days passed on, and the management of the theatre reports that thousands took advantage of the tickets and the theatre was crowded to capacity at each showing.

The fowl and prize feature that took place Saturday attracted more attention than was anticipated. A group of the chickens, with the prize tags tied to their legs, were thrown from the top of The Leader building Saturday morning. Sometime before the hour set for this event, the street was blocked by persons waiting to try their skill at catching a chicken and a valuable prize.

Saturday afternoon, long before the hour set for the remainder of the chickens to be turned loose, the street was entirely blocked, and a great deal of fun was had in catching the fowls and by those who stood on the side and watched. Four elusive guineas were among the large number of chickens and considerable laughter was provoked when one of these birds left the top of the building.

This was the first real trade day event for Clanton in a number of year, and those merchants commenting to the News about it, say that it will not be the last.

ACCIDENT

and Mrs. S. B. Powell, farmers who reside on J. N. Dennis' place, was killed outright; and Dewey Parrish, his companion, was severely injured. Young Powell's head was crushed and he was dead before anyone reached him. William Peterson, member of the negro college orchestra, who was riding on the bus suffered injuries to his right leg.

It is believed that a hit-and-run car was responsible for the death of the Powell youth. Albert Rowser, negro driver of the bus, declared in a statement to Coroner J. Mell Martin that another south-bound automobile struck the youth while he was trying to raise himself from the pavement where he was thrown when the cars collided. The car did not stop, Rowser said, but continued at a rapid rate of speed toward Montgomery.

The collision occurred on a curve near Boswell's Tourist Camp. Rowser stated that when he first saw the car in which Powell and Parrish were traveling that it was approaching him on the wrong side of the road. Seeing that a collision was unavoidable, he said that he attempted to swerve the bus to left and the cars smashed head-on. Blood on the hood of the bus indicated that Powell was thrown through the windshield of his car and against the bus before landing on the highway.

The bus, loaded with 12 members of the college orchestra, was enroute to Montgomery following an engagement at Calera. Rowser stated that he was driving about 35 miles per hour.

Parrish was taken to the Central Alabama Hospital by a Martin & Sons ambulance, where physicians declared that his condition is thought to be serious.

Besides his parents, young Powell is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Flossie DeLoach, Mr. Jewel Parrish, and Miss Florence Powell; four brothers, Elmer, Barney, Clarence and Pat, all of this section.

Funeral services were conducted Monday morning at 10 o'clock from the Samaria Baptist church and burial was in the Samaria cemetery. Martin & Sons were in charge.

Mrs. Cora Lee Gentry Died Last Week

Mrs. Cora Lee Gentry, widow of the late D. H. Gentry, died Wednesday night at the home of her son, E. E. Porter. She was 55 years of age last March 2nd.

Mrs. Gentry was twice married: first to Mr. Edward Porter, and to this union was born one son, E. E. Porter, of Thorsby. Her second marriage was to Mr. D. H. Gentry, and to this union was born one son, Sidney Gentry, of Birmingham, Alabama. There were three step-sons and one step-daughter, who loved and appreciated her. Besides these she leaves a niece, Louise Bates, whom she has reared and four grandchildren; six brothers, five half brothers, two sisters and one half sister. Also a host of other relatives and friends to mourn her loss.

Mrs. Gentry was a faithful member of the Thorsby Baptist church and a member of the order of Eastern Star of which she was Worthy Matron.

The funeral was held Friday, October 27, at Collins Chapel by her pastor, Rev. J. W. Jones, and assisted by Rev. W. P. Lowery and Rev. J. E. Each The Order of Eastern Star held their ritual service at the grave in the midst of a large congregation of loved ones and sympathizing friends

In the death of this good woman Thorsby has sustained a great loss for hers was a life of service and loved by all who knew her.

Big Live Stock Sale Set For November 17

Chilton County is in for something they have needed for a long time—a real honest-to-goodness live stock sale which is to be staged at Maplesville, Friday, November 17th, at 10:30 sharp.

This sale is to be a real one and offer over 100 head of cattle ready for market, milk cows, springers and some registered stuff. A good lot of hogs.

Real honest-to-goodness farm mules, not plugs, but the kind you really need, and can pay for. Implements and household goods are to be sold.

Col. W. W. Fox of Clanton will be ably assisted by Bob Little in conducting this sale. Now is your time, sell off the old, buy in some new, for it will be here, and buyers a plenty will be on hand.

St. Louis is inquiring about the cattle, so we can expect top prices with ready sales at Chilton County's first, but not last Live Stock Sale.

PROMINENT ELMORE COUNTY FARMER VISITS IN CLANTON

Among the out-of-town visitors to Clanton last Saturday were Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Bachelor, of Wetumpka. Mr. Bachelor is widely known as one of the most successful and prominent farmers of Elmore county.

In commenting on his crop this year, Mr. Bachelor mentioned that he sent a truck loaded with twenty-nine bales of cotton from his crop this year, to the warehouse the other day.

Mr. Bachelor is a great booster for vetch and peas as winter legumes, and stated that he has sixty-three acres sowed now.

NEW OFFICERS

directors were: O. L. Devaughn, Emmett Wilson, Jasper Robinson, Herbert Lowery, Lee J. Grant, Fonza Cleckler, J. B. Hammonds, A. H. Glasscock, L.T. Grant, Marion Easterling, Ralph Grant, Edward Jones, W. M. Devaughn, Rube Miller, J. Z. Mims and Ira Grant.

A supply of both books was on hand. The Morris-Henson books belong to the convention. but the Stamps-Baxter books are merely sent here to be sold. Two of these books were purchased and six were carried away without being paid for. This is a shame and an outrage. Stealing song books is just as bad as stealing anything else. The convention should make some arrangements to get a supply of Stamps-Baxter books, as we need both books in our singings. For the present copies of both books may be had at The Union-Banner office at 25 cents a copy. All the profit made on these books will go toward supplying books for the convention, or rather the singings to be held at the court house and elsewhere sponsored by the county convention. Anyone wishing to contribute anything toward the fund for the new Stamps-Baxter books may also leave that with T. E. Wyatt at The Union-Banner office.

There will be a singing at the court house in Clanton every fifth Sunday afternoon and every fourth Sunday of those months when there is not a fifth Sunday. This will make one afternoon singing at the court house every month. All the singers of the county are asked to bear this in mind. The next singing will be at 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon of the fourth Sunday in November. — T. E. Wyatt.

Play To Be Staged At Marbury School

The faculty of the Marbury-Mt. Creek High School and the High School Chorus presents "Marrying Marion," a musical comedy, at the Marbury auditorium Friday night, November 3rd, at 7:30. Admission, 10c and 25c. Benefit of school debt.

Dr. Bohunkus (G. H. Jordan) head of a young ladies seminary, who is expecting a new botany professor and a new janitor, both named Smith, mistakes the one for the other with hilarious results. The supposed janitor (Harvey J. Bodford) s a giddy, adventurous youth who undertakes the menial job to be near Marian (Mary Ruth Crawford) one of the girl students and his lady love. The botany professor (W. R. Warrick) is obliged to "janit" against his will, but a sentimental spinster teacher (Mary Byrd Fernambucq) takes him under her wing. The supposed butler (Herschel Finney) is really a crook. The other characters are Mrs. Bohunkus (Lucile Bennett) and Ruth Ripley (Dolly McGrady).

The chorus girls are: Elizabeth Warrick, Sara Fike, Helen Gilbert, Mary Newell, Lucile Corey, Ann Connor, Nannie Lewis, Elizabeth Parson, Louise Golson, Hazel Graves, Lillian Johnson, and Myrtis Simms.

This musical comedy is under the direction of Bess Rogers.

VERBENA FOOTBALL BOYS HONORED WITH BANQUET

By Bertha Mae Littleton

It was not Hallowe'en but the witches were out, and the ghosts were spying to see if anyone carried away any silverware or any extra peanuts.

Friday night, October 27th, the Home Economics class, under the direction of Miss Jettie Ward, entertained the faculty, football boys and trustees of Verbena High School at a banquet.

Every pumpkin was grinning and every cat was waiting for the crumb which was never dropped.

The entrance and dining room were decorated with spooky novelties. Ghosts were in the corners among the cornstalks. The old devil was sitting on one table making eyes at the pumpkins on the other.

The witch greeted the guests at the door with an ice cold handshake. They marched into the dining room, found their place cards and were seated. Every guest, at the request of Mr. DuBose, the toastmaster, made a few clever and entertaining remarks which kept up the fun and good humor throughout the meal.

The courses were served by six waitresses, who were dressed in black with orange aprons and caps.

As the guests departed the witch was at the door stirring a pot of peanuts with her broom. Everyone got one handful of peanuts and not one more because the witch stood near with a broom.

CIRCUIT COURT

a very small percentage of these cases during this term, according to Circuit Clerk J. Z. Mims. For the past two or three years the criminal docket for Chilton county has gradually become more and more congested until now approximately four months would be required to clear it, judging from the number of cases usually gotten rid of during a term.

The number of cases tried during a day average from one to four. At this rate it would require continual court from now until the first of February to clear the cases now on docket; and it is understood that more than fifty cases are scheduled for a non-jury term next month in addition to the regular docket. With more arrests being made every day, there seems little chance of ever clearing the criminal docket in this county under the present regime.

Arrests made by the Sheriff's office range from three to fifteen every week. Considering that the grand jury will return true bills in no more than half the cases, it would require almost solid time to keep the docket cleared.

Following is a list of the cases scheduled for trial on the criminal docket:

writer, or a designer when she attended high school in Kansas City. Thelma Todd, the vamp in the picture, first wanted to be a nurse, then attended Lowell Norman School in Lowell, Mass., for two years with the expectation of becoming a teacher.

Here is how these two young women, who had no thought of becoming movie actresses, got there:

While still in high school, Miss Knapp played the lead in a stage production of Booth Tarkington's "Seventeen." Her dramatic coach recommended her to the head of a Kansas City stock company, who signed her for the troupe. She went to New York eventually, playing a lead in Channing Pollock's "Mrs. Money Penney," and the movies signed her.

Miss Todd won a beauty contest and was chosen for the Paramount school of movie acting. She went to Hollywood following graduation from this six months course—the only one that ever was held—and recently she has been more in demand than any other vamp in Hollywood, having appeared recently in Clara Bow's "Call Her Savage," "Horse Feathers" with the Four Marx Brothers ad "Speakeasily" with Jimmy Durante and Buster Keaton.

"Air Hostess" is a romantic story with a background of commercial aviation, based on the widely read True Story Magazine serial which was brought to the screen by Keene Thompson and Milton Raison. The picture was directed by Al Rogell. James Murray and Arthur Pierson have the principal male roles.

CHILTON COUNTY POSSIBLE POLITICS

By Victor Norris

The 1934 election in Chilton county is far from being "in the bag." Candidates are going to be so plentiful that it will be something like hunting the needle in the proverbial haystack to pick a winner. Already the shortcomings of some twenty-five or thirty persons are being discussed on the street corners and in the by-ways; and even the primaries are more than six months hence.

This week while snooping around with one ear to the ground we heard plenty. At least a half-dozen additional prospective candidates "are being solicited by their many friends" to enter the race for various official capacities in the county government.

Perhaps one of the most startling pieces of information is that Howard Roper, principal of the Mars Hill school—and a teacher in the county for the past twenty-six years, has designs on the office of probate judge of Chilton county. In fact the way some of Roper's friends term it, "He is the only logical man in the Democratic ranks to face Judge Reynolds across a political platform." In spite of all that has been said to the contrary, the belief still prevails in many quarters that L.H. Reynolds will be the Republican nominee.

Roper has attained quite a reputation as an orator and that should mean something. For the results of past elections indicate that most people cast their vote for the candidate who dishes out the most entertainment during the ballyhooing period. Some years ago Roper won recognition in county politics. In 1912 he tied with G. E. Williams for the office of county superintendent of education, but when a coin was tossed to decide the issue Roper's luck deserted him.

With the present outlook for the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, the office of sheriff of Chilton county will not be a very lucrative avocation. But nevertheless there seems to be no shortage of aspirants for this office. The latest dope we have is that J. A. Boockholdt, former chief of police of Clanton, will be a candidate for this office.

Boockholdt is an old line Democrat, serving for twenty years on the Democratic executive committee. While chief of police of Clanton he was one of the Town's most popular officials, so it seems that J. R. Hardy, announced candidate, may have some rather keen competition within his own party.

It's a little early in the game to start the elimination process, but it seems that current happenings might go a long way toward the elimination of T. W. Bryan, another Democratic aspirant for the office of sheriff.

Bryan, referred to as Judge because of his former capacity of justice of the peace can't seem to steer clear of the clutches of the law.

There's an old slogan to the effect 'that if a thing is worth doing at all, it is worth doing well.' So perhaps it's a matter of getting "inside" information on the job before assuming responsibilities.

G. C. Weldon, principal of the Enterprise Junior high school for the past decade, is being talked as a candidate on the Democratic ticket for the office of tax collector. His friends aver that many Republicans in the Enterprise section have expressed sympathy with his candidacy.

It is understood that I. P. Kennedy, clerk for the commissioners, got a little weary of working without pay and resigned last Saturday. We have not been able to see Mr. Kennedy to ask his version of his resignation, but it is supposed that a man who has to depend on his salary to feed and clothe a family would not long be in sympathy with a regime that played politics with his income.

Fiddlers Convention At Thomas Jr. School 10th

On Friday night, November 10, there will be a fiddlers convention at Thomas Jr. School, just three miles south of Clanton. All fiddlers are cordially invited and especially urged to be present. A cash prize will be given as first prize, and other prizes will be awarded to all fiddlers present. A box of candy will be awarded to the prettiest girl and one to the ugliest man. Each vote will cost a penny so let your pockets jingle with pennies Friday night. Pretty girls come! Ugly men come! A guess cake will be given to the lucky person guessing what the cake contains. Admission will be 10c and 15c. Music and fun will begin promptly at 7 o'clock. So make your plans accordingly for this date and let's enjoy this musical event together.

Will see you Friday night at Thomas Jr. at 7 o'clock without fail.

Miss Margaret Jones returned home Sunday after a ten days visit with relatives in Birmingham. She was accompanied by Miss Helen Shaeffer who will spend a week with friends in Clanton.

OLIVER VISITS CLANTON EARLY PART OF WEEK

Praises Farmers Here For Their Support Of President

Congressman W. B. Oliver, of the Sixth Congressional District, in an address, Monday morning, to an audience of Chilton county farmers and business men that packed to capacity the auditorium of the court house, expressed an optimism that the year 1934 will be long remembered as one of the most progressive years in the history of this nation.

Court, which has been in session for the past week, was adjourned to permit Congressman Oliver the use of the auditorium for his address.

Speaking the highest praise for the President and the Administration in their efforts to bring about better business conditions, the speaker urged Chilton countians to lend every possible ounce of cooperation in the promotion of the various governmental programs.

SOBERG NAMED THORSBY MAYOR LAST THURSDAY

To Serve Unexpired Term Of Carl Petersen Who Died Recently

M. J. Soberg, a member of the Town Council of Thorsby, was appointed Mayor pro-tem by his fellow members at a meeting Thursday night, to serve the unexpired term of Carl Christian Petersen, who died recently after having held the office for twelve years.

Mr. Soberg is a popular citizen and official of Thorsby, having served as councilman for the past five years; and has been instrumental in the promotion of various improvement projects for the town.

The regular city election will be held in September of 1934 and the installation of officers in October. It is not known yet whether Mr. Soberg will be a candidate.

Other members of the council are, S. M. Pate, J. M. Smith, M. E. Willis, and Donald Merchant. E. R. Piper serves as clerk.

LOCAL DOCTOR AWARDED SIX BLUE RIBBONS

Pheasants Raised By Dr. V. J. Gragg Win Prizes At Gulf Coast Fair

Dr. V. J. Gragg has additional reason to be proud of his extra-ordinary collection of pheasants, in the form of six bright blue ribbons, awarded three trios of the birds exhibited last week at the Greater Mobile Gulf Coast Fair, Mobile.

Six first prizes is quite an honor, is the justified opinion of the Clanton physician and surgeon. For several years Dr. Gragg has been interested in the raising of pheasants, ad for the past six years has maintained a large flock at his home in Clanton. The collection, featuring the Goldens, Silvers, Mongolians ad Chinese Ring Necks, numbers more than 200 birds; and he has at his finger tips every possible atom of information from the time the birds were transported by the Normans into Europe in the eighth century.

In an effort to introduce the beautiful fowls into the wild life of Chilton county, several covies have been set free over the county. Pheasants closely resemble the native qualis in many respects, but are larger and have long tail plumage similar to peacocks.

For several years a pheasant barbecue given by Dr. Gragg for members of the Chilton County Medical Society, at the Gragg Camp on Lake Mitchell, has been an annual social feature.

Red Cross Roll Call Opens Sat.

THORSBY WILL SOON HAVE A NEW WATERWORKS SYSTEM INSTALLED

$28,500 Is Allocated To Town To Secure Much-Needed Improvement; Work Will Begin Soon After Final Approval Of Loan

With final approval expected within the next few days on the application to the national board of public works for a $28,500 emergency loan for the construction of a city waterworks system in Thorsby, the work of installation will probably be well underway before Christmas, according to city officials.

The proposal has already been approved by the State Advisory Board and the State Health Department and is in Washington awaiting final approval by the Board of Public Works. This is the seventh application for an emergency public works construction loan in Alaama, bringing the total value of Alabama projects to $2,282,000, according to figures given out by Dr. George J. Davis, state engineer for the advisory board.

Other Alabama projects are the $2,000,000 drainage project for Birmingham; a $75,000 city hall for Greenville; Tuskegee waterworks, $45,000; Escambia county jail, $85,000; Hanceville waterworks, $15,000, and Ashville waterworks, $35,000.

Plans have been under consideration for the construction of a waterworks system in Thorsby for several months, according to E. R. Piper, town clerk, who enumerated the many advantages that the system will bring to the little chilton county hamlet as follows: From 60 to 120 homes will be served: health conditions will be greatly improved; fire hazards will be minimized for with the installation of the waterworks system it is expected that a fire department will be organized. The application for the $28,500 loan was drawn and filed under the provisions of the recently enacted public works bill by Hon. J. B. Atkinson, city attorney for Thorsby.

The plans call for work to begin within 30 days after final approval is made on the loan, and completion must be within 90 days, it is understood. The project will require the laying of 16,500 feet of piping of various sizes. Approximately $4,000 will be expended for labor on the ditching, laying the pipes, and installation of fire hydrants, it is estimated. At 30 cents per hour, which is the required scale of pay for unskilled labor, this will afford more than 1,600 days work for men in Chilton county.

Strength Is Freed On Assault Charge Here

Frank Strength, charged with assault with intent to commit murder in connection with a cotroversey with J. L. Robinson, in which Robinson received a bullet wound in the head, was freed at the hands of a Chilton county jury Tuesday morning.

Testimony was introduced by the defendant to show that he struck Robinson with a gun in self defense, and that the gun was accidentally discharged.

Hon. J. B. Atkinson was counsel for the defendant. The State was represented by Solicitors G. C. Walker and Winston Huddleston.

Legion To Sponsor Fiddlers Convention

The Chilton County Post, American Legion announces that it will sponsor a real old-time fiddlers convention in the very near future.

Quartettes, vaudeville, string bands, dancing and other items are on the program, and valuable prizes are to be offered. The date and time of this event will be announced next week, according to the information given the News.

CHILTON COUNTY BUSINESS LICENSES SHOW INCREASE

Perhaps another indication that the trend is toward better times might be found in the fact that thirty-five more licenses for the operation of business establishments in Chilton county were sold to October 1 than for the same period last year.

The total number of business licenses recorded at the probate office are 382, compared to 347 for the same period last year.

Mr. and Mrs. M. L. White returned Saturday from a trip to Louisville, Ky.

Workers Assigned To State Highway

In an effort to give more worthy men work in the County, 18 men on relief work have been assigned to work one day each week on the state highways in the county, it was learned from Miss Kitty Clyde Austin, social director.

With the winter months nearing every effort is being made to secure work for more members of needy families. Although general business conditions show an improvement, Miss Austin stated that it will take several months for the effects to be felt among those on relief.

"Uncle Bud And His Boll Weevils" Coming

The Pilot Club of Clanton is bringing a rare treat to the people of the county on Saturday night, November 18th, when "Uncle Bud And His Boll Weevils" will appear in concert here.

The entertainment will be held at the courthouse and further announcemets will appear in next week's News.

INTERMEDIATE SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS TO MEET

Members of Mrs. Otto Jones' Intermediate Sunday School Class of the Methodist church will meet Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of Miss Theda Wyatt. Each Saturday morning the class sells candy on the streets of Clanton, the money obtained is to be used for a worthy purpose; and any cooperation with the class's efforts will be greatly appreciated.

RECEIVES BAD CUT ON FACE FROM BARBED WIRE FENCE

Melvin Easterling received a severe cut on his face, near the lips Tuesday, when he ran into a barbed wire fence. He received treatment at the Central Alabama Hospital Tuesday afternoon late and it was necessary to take several stitches in the cut.

Mountain Creek Couple Celebrate Their Golden Wedding Anniversary Recently

A delightful affair in which much interest was manifested was that of the celebration of the Golden Wedding Anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Hudson of Mt. Creek, Ala.

At this interesting event more than thirty-two guests called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hudson from the hours of 3:00 to 5:00 on the afternoon of November 1. All the children were present which included R. C. Hudson of Piedmont; Mrs. J. B. Moseley and Mrs. R. B. Abernathy of Montgomery; W. F. and T. H. Hudson of Mt. Creek, with their families.

There was only one guest at the celebration who was at their wedding fifty years ago, Mr. Hudson's brother-in-law, H. T. Brown, of Verbena.

The out-of-town guests were Mrs. George Smith and Miss Ruby Maddox and Mrs. T. T. Maddox from Montgomery. There were many staunch friends from Mt. Creek who greatly enjoyed this lovely affair.

Mr. and Mrs. Hudson were married at Lafayette, Ala., in 1883, and continued to reside there until 1910, at which time they removed to Chilton county, at Mt. Creek, where they have lived until the present time.

At the hour of 3:00 the guests began to arrive at the residence where they were received by Mr. and Mrs. Hudson in the reception room. After registering they were then ushered into the living room where they were delightfully entertained with music and impromptu speeches for sometime. During the entire afternoon punch and cake were served by Mrs. Moseley from Montgomery, and Mrs. R. C. Hudson from Piedmont, from a table covered with a lovely lace cloth over yellow. The reception rooms were beautifully decorated with golden colored chrysanthemums, marigolds, and cosmas.

The color scheme was daintily carried out in yellow. The rooms were darkened and lighted with yellow candles. The decorations were yellow and green, and yellow mints and cakes were served.

Mrs. Hudson was lovely in gray with a corsage made of baby breath fern and yellow rosebuds.

This couple is greatly beloved and well known, both in Chambers county and in Chilton. They have five living children, ten grandchildren, many relatives and a host of devoted friends, as was indicated by the many nice gifts presented to them on this golden wedding day.

COUNTY QUOTA IS SET AT 500 MEMBERSHIPS

Prospects Of The Campaign Going Over Are Very Bright Here

The annual Red Cross Call for Chilton County will officially open Armistice Day, Saturday, November 11th, and continue through Thanksgiving, November 30th, according to Billy Smith, Roll Call Chairman.

Chilton County has been given a quota of 500 memberships this year, and the prospects of reaching this number

WILL TREAT TUBERCULAR CATTLE HERE

Commissioners Sanction This Plan In County At A Recent Meeting

Wide awake to the possibilities of cattle production as a phase of agriculture in Chilton county, members of the county commissioners court, in a recent meeting, voted to avail the cattle owners of the county the opportunity to rid their herds of tuberculosis through a program of immunization being conducted throughout this section by Dr. C. W. Carey, of Auburn, and the federal cattle commission.

In explaining their action in voting a sum not to exceed $1,000, as the county's share in the expenses of this campaign, members of the court declared that almost every other county surrounding Chilton has staged the program, and should this county refuse to co-operate possible quarantine would

TIFFIN OPENS CABINET SALE TO RUN 8 DAYS

Widely Known Furniture Store Makes These Sales Popular Events

The kitchen cabinet sales held by the widely known Tiffin-Klinner Furniture Co., of Clanton are becoming more and more popular.

This week's News carries a full-page announcement from this popular furniture store of the opening of another of their huge kitchen cabinet sales.

In commenting on this event, Mr. Tiffin said, "We are really offering the people of this section something worthwhile in these sales and the sale starting this week will be the biggest one we have had yet."

A factory representative will be at the store to demonstrate these cabinets throughout the sale, and special gifts with each sale is a feature most attractive. Turn to the full page from Tiffin-Klinner in this issue of the News.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace Jones and baby of Jasper and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Inzer and baby of Andalusia were the week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. T. C. McSwain and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Gragg are spending a few days in Clanton as the guests of his parents, Dr. and Mrs. V. J. Gragg.

Miss Emmetta Courtney was the week end guest of Miss Annie Mae Bice of Clanton.

NOTICE To The Public

In order to maintain the principles of fair competition and due to some conflict in advertising in this newspaper, we find it necessary for the News not to be delivered in some parts of the county on Wednesday afternoon as has heretofore been done.

In the future, copies of the News will be available only on Thursday mornings, which is the date of publication. However, this does not mean the News is moving up its form closing hour. Copy must be in as early as in the past.

MANY SECURE WORK DUE TO FALL BUYING

Large Sums Of Money Have Been Pouring Into The County Recently

OUTLOOK PROMISING SAY BUSINESS MEN

A year from now we will have forgotten that there was ever a depression, was the expressed opinion of J. C. Page, cashier of the First National Bank, of Clanton, in a statement to a representative of the News this week.

Declaring that where people had a dollar a year ago, they now have five, ten and twenty dollars, Mr. Page expressed the belief that there is more money in Chilton county this fall than at any time within the past four years.

Merchants and business men of the county are openly optimistic with the indicative trend toward recovery and prosperity. People of the county are buying more freely than at any time since the depression began, judging from the sales sheets of the various business firms over the county. Another evidence that an imporvement has been made is that creditors are collecting debts that have been on their ledgers for several years. In many cases farmers will begin 1934 with a clean slate, for the first time in years.

Farmers of the county during recent months received $200,000 for plowing under approximately 13,000 acres of their cotton crops in cooperation with the government's program to stabilize the price of the product. Under the provisions of the Cotton Cooperative Parity Plan, more than $100,000 have been loaned to Chilton county farmers on their cotton, at the rate of ten cents per pound. It is expected that from this source alone upward of $200,000 will be paid to Chilton countians be-

MAPLESVILLE ALL SET FOR BIG AUCTION SALE

Maplesville is all ready for the Big Stock Sale Friday, November 17. The sale will be held on the Potts Estate. Pens are all ready and the stock will begin coming in on the 15th and 16th.

Cattle of all breeds are listed, hogs, mules and horses. The latest entry, a yoke of well broke steers. These steers made a crop, and judging from the cotton and corn raised by the owner, Mr. Mule will have to watch his step and walk careful to do as nice work as these old boys turned out.

Mules will be 25 per cent higher in the Spring, and one can't go wrong to buy now.

Old fashioned barbecue, pork or beef, will be offered those with that hungry feeling. Cold drinks and hot coffee.

To Get Number Securing Relief Here

Co-operating with a nation-wide census movement to determine the number of people of relief in an effort to plan more constructive relief work projects, the Chilton county relief organization is conducting a campaign throughout the county this week, determining the number on relief work, the number of their dependents, ages, race, and much other beneficial data.

Compilation of the data from the various counties is being made in Montgomery, while the compilation for the states in this district will be made in Birmingham.

Several additional employes have been added to the local staff to take care of this work.

ANNOUNCE BIRTH OF FINE BABY BOY LAST MONDAY

Mr and Mrs. A. L. Robinson are receiving the congratulations of their many friends on the arrival of a fine eleven-pound baby boy last Monday.

The mother and son are doing fine at the Central Alabama Hospital, and the new arrival has been named Edward Lee.

25 Persons Seek Suit Of Clothes

Do you want a suit of clothes?

So did at least twenty-five other persons. Last week there appeared a little want ad in the columns of the News to the effect that a suit of clothes could be had at the News office at a bargain price.

Almost by the time the paper was off the press, the game started—and it continued. In all twenty-six persons came in to make inquiry about the bargain-priced suit, which proves many things. Not the least of which is, that it surely pays to advertise in the News. If you have something to sell, or want to buy some article, there's no quicker, surer, and easier way to obtain results than through an ad in the News.

Our Buddies Still

Fifteen years ago it was, or was it yesterday? The last gun was fired, and it was homeward bound for the living.

But there were so many of those wonderful buddies who stayed on, sleeping the sleep of one who has given all for God and Country and Home. With only a little white cross and the ever-glowing spot in the memory of some buddie to mark the spot where they sleep.

On the field of action they fell. Their life-blood gushing forth to dye crimson the dust of Flanders Field, but their spirits lingered on—hovering ever near—to guide the living to victory.

It is of them today we sing. It is their praise that we chant. To us they hurled the torch—our duty it is to hold it high—and let it not be said "that we break faith with those who die!"

In tribute to you, our buddies, we come today! We come with flowers! We come with tears! We come wth fond remembrances of you: We remember your smiles; we remember your tears; we remember your agonies, but we are happy for you on the other side—for 'twas God that took you there, our Buddies!

Hearst Opposes the NRA

It is not surprising to find William Randolph Hearst in open opposition to the NRA.

Hearst is a born iconoclast, knowing only that idol which is expressed in his own, often eccentric views.

He is by nature such a man as would turn upon his own policies should such policies ever become dominant in the United States. This is made true by the fact that, to him, the majority is always wrong.

Some will say that the attitude of Hearst is due to chagrin over the fact that he aided in bringing about the nomination of Roosevelt and probably expected to have a large voice in shaping national affairs; an expectation, if it existed, that failed of realization.

But this theory fails to take cognizance of the real nature of the man. His attitude is not due to disappointment, though this may tend to sharpen his barbs; it is due to constitutional attributes over which Hearst himself probably has little control.

He really is one of the most remarkable products of modern times. Born in the lap of luxury, as the colloquist phrases it, and in an atmosphere which normally would have produced a smug reactionist, Hearst, by some mysterious process, became a sharp and caustic critic of most things pertaining to the purple.

He failed utterly as a worshipper of the golden calf, turning rather to the under dog, and whatever else may be said of him, this is to his credit. And herein is the explanation of his attitude toward the NRA.

Hearst, noting here and there some inequalities growing out of the NRA, and sensing the presence of an under dog, he marches forth to battle. The fact that the NRA is working to the advantage of the great majority of persons does not interest him, if he pauses to weigh this phase of the subject at all. What grips his interest is plight of the minority, and forth he comes with guns ablaze in behalf of the under dog.

What the distinguished if some times erratic publisher fails to recognize is that practically every one will join the under-dog class if failure attends the plans being carried forward under the NRA, while, on the other hend, even the under dog will have his day when the plans have achieved success.

The NRA is not an idol, calling for destruction by the iconoclast, but an ideal worthy of universal support so long as it continues to get results such as have been achieved since last March. — Tuscaloosa News.

Government Speeds Home-Building

A recent announcement from Washington is that Presidential pressure has been applied to expedite plans for reopening banks, liberalizing credit and to make possible the building of low-cost homes.

Here is the prelude to a revival of major dimensions in the construction industry. For three or four years there has been a virtual lack of residential building. Accompanying it has been an abnormally high rate of depreciation on existing homes, due to poor maintenance. And the result is that the nation is short many thousands of homes.

The person who waits a few months or a year before building and repairing, is going to be confronted by a tremendous advance in costs. He's going to pay many dollars for what a few dollars will buy now. That is true of every phase of building—from the purchase of the land the house is to stand on, to the finishing of its walls. It is true of even minor repairs and additions—new roofs and steps, repainting, modernizing and repairing heating plants, renovizing electric wiring, and everything else.

The "buy now" movement that is underway at present is very different from sporadic movements of the past which adopted the same slogan. This one is based on fact, not fancy—on the knowledge that recovery is actually underway, that residential construction is a tremendous influence in speeding it up, and that the era of bankrupt prices is definitely waning. Every citizen who can should "get in at the bottom"—and the opportunity won't be present much longer.

Did You Ever Need A Little Money?

Did you ever need a little money? Sure, maybe, we all could use some.

Did you ever see a newspaper, or hear of one that would turn down a little money? No, neither have we.

Well, to tell the truth about the matter, the News could use a little money now. In fact we need some money bad, right away, and we have a plan that we believe we can get hold of a little cash.

We've been sending the News to you every week. (This is to those subscribers whose subscriptions are out, or will soon be out) every Thursday morning, rain or shine, good times or bad times, money or no money. We've been giving you your money's worth.

This is not a "dun" but just an appeal to you to help us out by paying that dollar for a year's subscription. Just lay aside a dollar and take care of this and you'll be doing yourself a favor as well as the News.

You don't want to miss all the political news, etc., which is going to start soon, and the News will give you the information about what is taking place among the office seekers.

This may be the first time a newspaper ever came out publicly and said it needed money. But, there is no use mincing words, we need some money and your dollar will help out. Yes, by the way, it takes money to publish a newspaper, buy paper, pay postage, pay wages, rent and a lot of other things we bet you haven't thought of.

And to mention a lot of other things, the boys who work at the News have to eat, need new overalls and the editor has about worn out his last pair of trousers and cold weather is coming. We are a little tired of eating bread and potatoes and kind of want to buy a little meat now and then, too. So, if you'll just put aside a dollar to pay your subscription, you won't be bothered with us for a whole year. The News will come to you each week full of news and information. The editor and the other fellows will be happy and all will be well.

Keep Your Fire "Inside The Stove"

Thousands of people will find it difficult to keep warm this winter, but others will overdo the heating proposition—their stoves or heating plants will set their houses on fire. The colder months bring an increase in fire losses.

According to the records of the National Board of Fire Underwriters for 1931, defective chimneys and flues accounted for a fire loss of 26 million dollars; hot ashes, coals and open fires 6¼ million dollars; and stoves, furnaces, boilers and their pipes 24¾ millions—a total of over 57 million dollars—actually 11 per cent of the annual total from all causes.

Specifications for installing a safe chimney, heating plant or stove are usually found in city building codes or may be obtained from your insurance agent.

In the main, chimneys should be solidly constructed from the ground up and should contain flues made of fire clay. The heating units themselves and the pipes should be set up at a safe distance from all burnable material.

Make certain that the stove or furnace, chimney and smoke pipes are cleared of soot. Remove worn, broken or rusted equipment. Protect beams with sheet asbestos.

Use your own good common sense in operating the equipment, don't permit stoves or furnaces to become overheated, and don't put hot ashes into wooden boxes or cartons—a metal container is safer. All open fires should be carefully screened.

Aside from the destruction of property resulting from fires, it is estimated that 10,000 persons lose their lives in fires each year. This aspect alone is sufficient cause for greater care to prevent fires from heating plants.

We Can't Have Both

The greatest obstacle business is struggling against now is taxation. And taxation, as a result, is the principal barrier in the way of achieving the fullest success for the recovery plans that are now in operation.

No business can spend money it hasn't got. No business can put more men on its pay rolls when it is having a hard time bringing in enough revenue to meet existing demands. No business can expand with profitless balance sheets.

It's a moot point as to how great an influence taxation was in prolonging and deepening depression. But it was, to say the least, considerable. When the national income touched the lowest point in decades, the cost of government loomed like Everest out of the plain of Tibet.

To regain governmental economy, it is not necessary to curtail or damage necessary governmental functions—it simply means that the waste, inefficiency and duplication of effort that is actually harmful to legitimate governmental work, must be eliminated. In some cases a start has been made, and the taxpayers have been saved millions—as in the post office department, which is breaking even for the first time in many years. But the work has barely begun.

Reasonable taxation is the friend of recovery, of employment and higher wage scales, and individual and corporate prosperity. That must not be forgotten.

The Safe Drivers' Code

There is one badly needed code which will not have to await an official signature. It affects every person in the country, and its adoption should be unanimous. It is "The Safe Drivers' Code."

Accident statistics reported to June 30, 1933, according to the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters, showed that 12,920 persons had been killed by automobiles this year. The indications, judging from unofficial reports in July and August, are that final results may show a decided increase in deaths and accidents for 1933. This is doubly significant, because there are nearly 10 per cent fewer automobiles registered in the United States this year than in 1931.

To motorists, therefore, and to pedestrians and all users of our streets and highways, the following code is directed:

1. Regulate your speed to fit traffic conditions; keep your car under control at all times.
2. Slow down for intersections, and obey traffic signals.
3. Use better judgment in passing, waiting until there is at least 500 feet of clear distance ahead.
4. Pedestrians: Cross at crosswalks; walk on the left side facing traffic; obey traffic signals.
5. Remember that automobile accidents constitute an economic waste totaling billions, through property damage, high insurance costs, increased taxes, etc.

Every motorist should feel that it is his duty and privilege to pledge himself to this code.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

I was driving my horse over a covered bridge. The bridge being long it was rather dark when we were about half way across the stream. On one side of the bridge two or three planks had been removed and the light streamed in. My horse became very much frightened by the light, and for the longest time I was unable to coax and persuade him to go by that place. The trouble with my horse was that he was afraid of the light. Many a person, like that buggy horse, has traveled in the dark so long until he is afraid of the light. The commandments of God are nothing more than streams of Divine light falling upon our pathway, and the sinner becomes very much frightened when he looks upon that light by the side of his darkened travel. The Christian sees that light and walks therein, and while he walks he is always traveling to higher and better things. Do not be afraid of the light.

I was invited to sit in with a gathering of business men. I listened to them as they discussed their plans for the organization of a new business firm. After their work was complete and the meeting was ready to adjourn, the man elected to be the president and manager arose and said, "Gentlemen, this company is sponsoring a business program that will be a money getter." I had already observed that not a word was said in the discussion about the firm serving the community, or helping anyone. The company had been organized as a "Money Getter," and that was the key word to that business concern. The same thing is true in the life story of many a man. The funeral oration of many a one who sleeps in a casket could be expressed in these two words, "Money Getter." How few men are in business to bless. To be remembered after death as a "Money Getter" will be no honor.

A nurse brought a one-year-old child to the church lawn to play. For some time the little tot seemed happy and contented, but finally it set up a yell. The nurse produced a doll for the crying babe. She looked at it for a moment and resumed her crying. Other toys were produced, candy was given and even stories told, and the child would listen for a moment, but its voice was soon heard in heart sobs. The nurse was about to despair when the child saw its mother coming down the side walk. At once it started in her direction. The tears were filling the eyes of the babe, but soon it was all smiles and had ts tears all wiped away. The babe was crying for its mother, and nothing but mother would satisfy. Friends, when your heart is crying out for God, do not allow yourself to be deceived and satisfied with the glittering things of this world. When your heart is crying out for God nothing but God will satisfy. The devil will try to pacify you with all of his methods of satisfying, but do not allow yourself to be satisfied. God is coming and He will wipe all your tears away.

A house was blown away in that terrific storm that swept through Chilton county and the head of the family was seriously hurt. After several days suffering the man became conscious. His first words were, "Doctor, do you think that I will get well?" The doctor informed him that he had a very slim chance. The man took the doctor into his confidence and told him that he had a large sum of money buried in the corner of his chicken house and he wanted him to supervise the digging up of that money, and place it in the bank. When the man thought that he was going to die, he wanted his buried treasures placed in circulation. Be honest with me, if you thought that you were going to die in a short time, you would want the preacher to help you dig up some of those buried talents of your life. Christ did not speak very kindly of that servant who buried his talent. Why bury the powers of your life while you live?

A lady was mincing on an olive and a friend asked, "Do you like those things?" She replied, "No, but I am cultivating a taste for them." In a few weeks she liked the olive. Going to church may not be so attractive to you, you can cultivate the taste. What you do is largely a matter of cultivation.

THE SPEED OF LIGHT

Marvelous as was the discovery that sound impulses could be transmitted by telephone and radio, their mere transmission would be of little value if they traveled only with the speed of ordinary sound.

To illustrate: If one weer in San Francisco and desired to talk to someone in New York, and had a voice loud enough to be heard that distance, it would take nearly four hours for the message to cross the continent—for sound travels only 720 miles an hour.

But, fortunately, electrical and radio impulses travel with the speed of light, which for all practical purposes is instantaneous for terrestial distances, or about 186,000 miles a second.

Incidentally, it may be mentioned that so far the longest combined telephone and radio conversation ever carried on by a regular toll customer was between San Diego, California, and Stockholm, Sweden, a distance of 8,630 miles. By special arrangements longer distances have been covered.

Many improvements in telephone and radio communications will be made in the future, but there will be no increase in speed. Always the sounds are transmitted with the speed of light, the speediest thing in the universe.

We won't really know who won the World War until we find out how much indemnity Herr Hitler will demand from the Allies.

Incubation Principles and Practices in Relation to Poultry

In ancient times, the Chinese and Egyptians built incubators of enormous capacities, and eggs were furnished from miles around, being brought on the backs of camels. These huge incubators were heated by means of decaying organic matter or by burning straw and other combustible materials, somewhat as modern hotbeds are heated.

From these crude means of artificial incubation originated the modern, highly efficient incubator, varying from a few dozen eggs capacity to capacities of many thousands. These incubators may be divided into three groups, namely, the hot air and hot water type, the cabinet type and the mammoth type in which the air is circulated in direct contact with the eggs. The two former types are the ones in which the small flock poultryman is interested.

There are three main factors, besides minor ones, affecting success with artificial means of incubation. These are humidity, ventilation, and temperature. Of these adequate provisions are made in all good makes of incubators for maintenance of correct hhmidity and ventilation, but the matter of temperature is a matter of individual control.

In selecting eggs for setting, select for standard size, right shell color, cleanliness and freshness. Never use eggs for incubating when they are over ten days old, and not this old if the temperature is high. Setting eggs should be kept cool until set.

There is no definite rule as to correct incubation temperature but in the types of incubators in which heat is supplied from directly above the eggs, the temperature on a level with the top of the eggs is kept at 102 the first week, 103 the second and third weeks and allowed to rise to 104 at hatching time. To be sure that the thermometer is correct, it should be compared with a physician's thermometer at least once a year. The incubator should be run at least a day on the correct temperature before the eggs are placed in it and then allowed to regain its temperature within itself without further adjustment. A hen does not run up her temperature when eggs are placed under her in order to quickly raise them to 102 degrees.

Eggs should be candled on the seventh and fourteenth days and all infertile or abnormally developed eggs removed. The egg chamber should never be opened from the time the eggs commence hatching until hatching is finished. Opening the icubator allows the chicks to dry and stick to the shell.

When hatching is completed the chicks should be carried to the previously warmed brooder house. They should never be allowed to become chilled.

GETTING THINGS DONE

Criticism of industrial and business leaders is never lacking, but when a community desires some important and difficult public service performed it generally turns to one of these leaders for guidance. We are reminded of this fact by the recent selection of Thomas W. Martin, president of the Alabama Power Company, to head the Birmingham Community Chest campaign.

Like other industrial cities, Birmingham has been hard hit by unemployment, and its relief problem, even with government aid, is a tremendous one. In view of Mr. Martin's impressive record, it is no wonder that his city turned to him in this emergency.

His company is recognized as one of the most progressive and efficient in the country. This year it received three national prize awards from the Edison Electric Institute—one for "the greatest contribution to the advancement of rural electrification," another for "the greatest contribution to the advancement of electric lighting of commercial and public buildings," and a third for a paper relating to commercial and merchandising problems of the industry.

What is of even more interest to the general public is the fact that the company's rates have been progressively lowered during a period of several years, and they are now among the lowest, if not the very lowest, in the entire United States.

Mr. Martin's selection to head Birmingham's relief organization is merely another illustration of the habit folks have of seeking leaders who can do things when they want to get important things done.

THE WOMAN'S BURDEN

It seems rather strange that so many men who insist upon having the most modern labor-saving devices for their offices and business establishments appear to be indifferent to the needs for similar equipment in their homes.

While this indifference is mostly unintentional, the fact remains that the average housewife is unduly burdened through the lack of facilities which might be given her at a relatively insignificant cost. As a recent writer on home economics aptly says: "Women take the burdens which fall upon them, and bear them through the employment of antiquated methods at the risk of losing their beauty, their health and their husbands."

But perhaps the women themselves are in part to blame. In many cases they will insist upon the purchase of a fancy piece of furniture, or some other non-essential adornment for the home when the same expenditure, or less, might provide a modern washing machine, or one of the many devices which would lighten her daily labors.

One woman writer says: "We women need more household equipment, and if we would sternly resolve to permit nothing to interfere with getting it we would be much happier and much pleasanter to live with." And, as a parliamentarian might say, her point is well taken.

Letters To The Editor

STRAIGHTENING THIS THING OUT

Editor, Chilton County News:

Did you read in last week's Union-Banner what the Man in the Moon said about the Democrats? What he said was in part as follows:

"And now someone wants to know if the Democrats in charge of our government have not suffered an attact of insanity. I don't think so. They are merely running true to form, upholding the party record of making a collossal mess of things while they have the chance. The devil himself couldn't have figured out a better scheme to his own ends if he had been here in person to engineer the job."

I can't see how any man can make such a statement when the fact is the Republicans made this mess that you are accusing the Democrats of, and the people of our country know it is a fact.

Now, dear reader, please let me have your attention for a few lines. What was the condition of our government when the people of the United States took it from the Republicans and placed it in the hands of the Democrats? Any informed person will tell you that it was in a collossal mess.

The Republicans couldn't balance the budget; were always about two billion dollars in the hole. During this last administration they made such a mess that wheat fell in price from $1.40 per bushel to 46c; cotton from 18c per pound to 5c, and most everything else in proportion except government officials' salaries. This Republican mess put from twelve to fourteen million people out of employment and tramping from place to place destitute of food and clothes.

Millions lost their homes because they could not pay the taxes, and just to sum the whole thing up in a nut shell the devil must have decided that the Republicans could make a more complete mess than he could and turned the entire administration over to them.

Now I will mention just a few small things that President Roosevelt has done as I can't handle the big things. He slashed the operating expenses of the government and balanced the budget before breakfast so to speak. And then he turned his attention to other important matters, and what has happened? Wheat has advanced 100% and cotton about the same, and most all farm products. Does anyone think the rise in farm products is detrimental to the farmers.

The Man in the Moon and some farmers are ballyhooing about the taxes put on farm products. Who gets the taxes that were placed on flour, the wheat farmer. Who gets the tax on cotton, the cotton farmer. In other words the farmers get the benefit of the taxes that are placed on all farm products.

How can any farmer think, much less say, that the Democrats are not trying to help the farmers? Dear old farmer, you had better be careful how you listen to Republican propaganda. You know the Republicans have never done anything for the Southern farmer.

It is my opinion that President Roosevelt has this collossal Republican mess about half cleaned up, and has done the job in eight months; and we are hoping that in eight more months the other half of the Republican mess will be cleared away, and then the Democrats will have easy sailing, if they will see to it that we have no more Republican messing.

I want to quote further what The Man in the Moon said:

"We see wheat and corn destroyed while millions are hungry. We see hogs and beef cattle killed and tossed into the rivers. We have seen right here in our own front yard thousands of acres of cotton plowed under while millions will shiver for lack of clothes during the coming winter."

Mr. Man in the Moon, did you not know that the cotton farmers of this great Southland plowed this cotton under on their own free will and it was optional with the farmers and was the same with the wheat farmers and hog and cattle growers?

If anybody has suffered an attack of insanity it is surely the ones who would accuse our government for something the farmers of our great nation volunteered and did.

In conclusion I want to say that right here in Chilton county I saw no one going around persuading the cotton farmers to plow up their cotton but Republicans, and it can be proved that some of them used intimidations.

Respectfully,
A. A. JACKSON.

A MESSAGE TO GARCIA

One of the most dramatic exploits of the Spanish-American War was recalled in a recent article concerning Col. Andrew S. Rowan, U. S. Army, retired.

In 1898, shortly before the declaration of war on Spain, President McKinley desired to communicate with General Garcia of the Cuban forces, who was with his revolutionary army somewhere in the wilds of Cuba; just where, no one knew. Rowan, then a lieutenant, was selected for the hazardous and seemingly impossible task of finding Garcia, and set out alone on his mission.

Going first to Jamaica, he crossed to Cuba in an open boat, and after a nine-day search, aided by Cuban patriots, he found General Garcia, delivered his message and returned to Washington wth the information desired by the President, after several narrow escapes from capture and death.

His exploit was immortalized in Elbert Hubbard's editorial "A Message to Garcia," of which more than 40 million copies have been printed in many languages. Rowan in 1923 wrote his own story of "How I Carried the Message to Garcia."

Hubbard's editorial and Rowan's story are both inspiring pieces of writing which no one should fail to read.

This poem was composed by a sixth grade girl in honor of Armistice Day, November 11:

Armistice Day

November 11, fifteen years ago,
Our soldiers were told that they might go.
But not at once could they come,
First a few, then later some.
Far across the ocean wave
Came word to mothers to be brave.

Our hearts, in thanks, to God we raise
For peace in these, our childhood days.

—Ophia Lee Jones.

Following is our enrollment for the month of October:

Miss Morris, 55; Mrs. Gandy, 38; Mrs. Martin, 23; Miss Sherwood, 28; Mrs. Burnette, 27; Miss Williams, 37; Miss Campbell, 50; Mrs. Thomas, 59; Miss Thomas, 51.

The percentage of attendance for each grade is as follows:

Miss Morris, 89.1; Mrs. Gandy, 87; Mrs. Martin, 88; Miss Sherwood, 93; Mrs. Burnette, 100; Miss Campbell, 69; Mrs. Thomas, 96.71; Miss Thomas, 93.3.

This poem was composed by a sixth grade boy in his study of language:

The Old Water Mill

By the old mill stream where the mill used to stand,
Just above where we boys used to stand,
We shouted and laughed like the sound of a band
As we happily gathered each day.

The ox carts came rumbling down the long hill
With laughter and joy from all sides
We gathered and watched from the low window sill,
And gazed in the stream's sunny tide.
'Twas here the old miller stayed day after day
As he ground and worked with his meal,
But gladly on each seventh day
To his home on the hill he'd steal.

Now many's the day, when I was young,
That I visited the old gray mill,
Just as my daddy before he had sung
The same song as he climbed the same hill.

Now I'm the miller who has the mill,
And I watch the water as it rushes the wheel
Of the mill at the foot of that hill,
And grinds the pretty golden meal.

—Kenneth Thompson.

SARDIS DEMONSTRATION CLUB NEWS

Our club held its regular meeting October 31st, at Mrs. G. W. Sansom's. We were very sorry so many of our members were absent. We feel assured they missed a great opportunity of learning what the farm flock of poultry can be made to pay. Miss Pardue gave a wonderful demonstration on poultry and fall gardening, and storage of vegetables.

Our next meeting will be November 16, at the home of Mrs. G. W. Sansom. Our project for this meeting will be on general care and renovation of clothes and up-to-date hats. I think it very important that all members be present. We need cooperation in this work if we are to benefit by it.

Elmore Store Managers Met Here First Of Week

A meeting of the managers of all the stores of the V. J. Elmore chain was held in Clanton Monday to discuss and plan a Christmas merchandising program.

Starting on the eve of the depression, the Elmore chain of 5c, 10 and $1 stores has eclipsed most records in progress. Only a few years ago the first store was opened in Clanton, and today the chain has grown to nine stores thruout central Alabama.

Those attending the meeting Monday were: L. F. Rogers, of the Clanton store; H. C. Jones, Jasper; D. L. Smith, Wetumpka; Norris Hester, Haleyville; O. M. Webb, Russellville; L. R. Palmer, Hartselle; W. I. Smith, Athens, and B. M. Inzer, Andalusia. Miss Ruth Prince, manager of the store at Alexander City, did not attend the meeting.

1902 Automobile Attracts Crowds

Crowds were attracted to the Dief's Service Station last Friday when the Pan-Am gasoline brought to Clanton the proposed 1962 automobile with wings, etc., and the 1902 Cadillac automobile.

The older car attracted wide attention due to the story that went along with it. The car is said to have been taken from a river, where it was pushed away as junk. Given a little cleaning up, filled with Pan-Am and drove on. It is claimed to be the sixteenth car built by Cadillac, is propelled by a one-cylinder motor and really runs right along.

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA

To the Customers of Alabama Power Company:

This letter is devoted to the much discussed subject of rates.

We have pointed out in recent advertisements that the cost of electricity did not follow the rising trend of commodity prices during the boom years, and that it is actually much lower now than it was before the war. Probably you have no more than a passing interest in this fact. What you want to know is whether the rates you are now paying are fair.

Rate comparisons between two electric operations are not fair unless due regard is given to such factors as area served, number of customers per square mile, and character of territory (i. e., industrial or agricultural). You will therefore be interested in knowing that, although this company serves only 96,605 customers in the entire State of Alabama and that its investment per customer is therefore relatively great, it has the lowest state-wide residential rates in the country.

This company has always recognized the importance of low rates as a factor in industrial development, and in adding to the comfort and hours of leisure in the home. So far as our earnings will permit, we shall continue to work toward lower rates, so that more and more the people of Alabama can enjoy the full benefits of electric service.

Yours very truly,

President.

Vermont Junior High School News

A Thanksgiving program is being prepared by the faculty members, to be given on the afternoon of November 29. Songs, drills, stories, recitations and acrostics are a few of the varied features of the afternoon's entertainment.

The stage is now completed in our auditorium in readiness for the play next Saturday night.

The faculty members attended Sunday school at Sardis church last Sunday. They will be at Antioch on next Sunday.

Misses Dorothy Manning, Ethel Cagle and Mr. Carson Williams attended a party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. O. Manning on last Saturday night Judging from the smiles they have been wearing all this week it appears that they had a most pleasant time. Mr. Earle Thomas of Isabella was giving the social in honor of his Agriculture boys.

A large number of parents and friends have been visiting our school since the opening. We extend to all a glad welcome to visit us at any time.

Our P.-T. A. met at the building last Thursday afternoon. Mr. Johnson, acting as chairman, called the house to order. It was voted to elect new officers for the ensuing year. The following were duly elected to serve in their respective places: Miss Ethel Cagle, President; Mrs. J. N. Scott, vice-president; Miss Bertie Grant, secretary and treasurer; Mr. R. B. Johnson, reporter.

The following were appointed by the President to serve as committeemen: Membership Committee: Mrs. Geo. W. Sansom, Mrs. H. L. Traywick, Mrs. Homer Ratliff; program committee, Mrs. G. H. Gandy, Miss Dorothy Manning, Miss Mary Owen; refreshment committee, Mrs. E. V. Buxton, Mrs. C. C. Klinner and Miss Annie Ratliff. The entertainment committee will be appointed at our next meeting, which will be Thursday night, November 16, 6:45 o'clock. Thirty-one have joined our organization thus far. Several new members have pledged themselves to join at our next regular meeting. Our goal is fifty members by Christmas.

The school is highly grateful to Mr. Geo. W. Sansom, chairman of our Board of Trustees, for his untiring efforts in assisting in the erection of the stage, the purchasing of our athletic equipment, the installation of our water cooler and lighting system, and many other worthy contributions, which he has made in an effort to make our school reach a higher mark.

The boys basket ball club is now ready to schedule interscholastic games with other junior high schools. Those schools interested in match games, write our principal.

Final preparations are being made this week for the girls basket ball team. We have all our equipment in readiness to set up for practice. Those schools desirous of games with the girls, write Miss Ethel Cagle, Maplesville, Ala., Route 2

WHAT NEGROES ARE DOING

Farmers' Conference On 17th

The eightth annual Negro Farmers Conference convenes Friday, November 17th. The general subject of discussion will be "The Problem of Management on the Farm." Many able speakers have consented to participate on the program of the day. Among the speakers are: Mr. Earle Thomas, teacher of vocational agriculture at Isabella High School; Mr. [illegible] Montgomery, Jemison High School, and Dr. Fred D. Patterson, director of agriculture, Tuskegee Institute

It is a fact that this very problem has been the undoing of many a would be farmer. Nothing should stand between the farmer and a better understanding of management. The time he spends out here Friday, the 17th is sure to prove beneficial.

Special prizes will be offered for the best exhibits. As in other years a big prize will be given the person who has the largest number of different farm products on exhibition. Anything made, raised or grown on the farm may be exhibited. All exhibits must be brought Thursday, November 16th, so that nothing will keep the program from going forward at 10:00 a.m. sharp.

Some Corn

You talk about corn, but this fellow Matthew Chatman made it this year. I said it not long ago that Richard Turpin made more per acre, but Chatman beat him as a whole. On twenty acres that fellow followed winter legumes. Chatman made [illegible] bushels. Don't ask me ask Chatman or Mr. [illegible] to go over to see Chatman, maybe he can give you a few suggestions as to how you may do the same thing

P.-T. A. Gets Interesting

Continuing our membership drive the local P.-T. A. held one of the best meetings ever witnessed last Friday. In the meeting two weeks ago the principal asked five persons to visit the school before the next meeting and report everything, good bad or indifferent, that was seen while there. You should have heard these reports last Frday. The conclusion was that every parent should visit the school.

Enterprise School News

We are coming along just fine with our school work. We feel that this month's examinations will show a big improvement over last.

The debate, "Resolved: That the Calendar Should Have Thirteen Months Instead of Twelve," Friday night, November 3rd, attracted a large audience. The judges voted it a tie. The farmers, I think, might easily favor the affirmative side since thirteen months would give them more time to eat the surplus farm products. Public workers favored the negative side, of course, because they would not like to meet the thirteenth rent, light and water bills each year. Did you hear those humane negative speakers plead for the poor little insects, frogs and birds that would not know when to migrate? Also they spoke of the necessary change in holidays or Easter Sunday might fall on Wednesday and Christmas on the 28th. Can you imagine which way the "old maids" would vote.

We are planning on hilarious entertainment for the near future. Don't miss it!

The basketball game between the Enterprise Tigers and the fast quintet of Thomas Jr. High proved to be one of the best expected this season. The entire game was played without any outstanding playing from either team or any player, although it was one of the hardest fought games ever witnessed by a spectator. At the end of the game was tired, 11 all. During the extra five minutes period Enterprise netted a foul goal and a two-pointer, making the final score 14-11. The Enterprise team and supporters wishes to commend the excellent showing and sportsmanship of both the Thomas Jr. boys and their coach, Mr. Weldon. The game is to be returned on Thomas Jr.'s Court on Friday, 17. A real game is expected as each team, you may be sure, is preparing for it.

The girls 4-H clug fet last Thursday. The meeting was called to order by Miss Ruth Pardue. The project for the year, "Clothing", was discussed and plans made for the work. The mother are urged to send their daughter between the age of ten to twenty-one, and they can get some very helpful experience.

The club has fifty-one members which are divided into five groups.

Our next meeting will be the first Frday in December. Come on grls, let's get some pep in our club.

UNION GROVE SCHOOL NEWS

The new school building is almost complete and it is looking good. Everyone is enjoying it very much. The pupils seem to have the real school spirit. We are trying to make this a successful school year and we hope that the entire community will cooperate with us in making it successful.

Last Friday Miss Louise Giles, Miss Olys Littlefield and Miss Hersie Sammons visited our school. We hope they had a ñice time and will visit us again sometime.

Miss Pardue met with the girls of Union Grove Friday for the purpose of organizing a 4-H Club. There were 16 on roll. They are as follows: Bessie Hilson, Myrtle Ashcraft, Mildred Dobbs Sylvia Barnett, Lois Mae Avery, Lorene Vinzant, Lorene Robinson, Jonnie Ruth Faulkner, Ferrell Gentry, Christine Conway, Frances Conway, Maxine Glass, Louneal Dorminey, Lorene Robinson, Nell Robinson, and Vera Avery.

MT. NEBO

Mr. D. T. Smith is added to the sick list. Mrs. Dock Broadhead is slowly improving.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Culp and family and Mr. and Mrs. Lea Popwell were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Culp last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Williams and family were the guests of Mrs. W. W. Williams Sunday afternoon.

The Presiding Elder of the Selma District will preach at Mt. Nebo next Saturday at eleven o'clock. Let's everyone go and hear him. I'm sure he has a message that we will get some benefit out of.

Mrs. J. T. Cox and little son, Charles Thomas, spent last Wednesday with Mrs. J. D. Williams.

We grieve for the dead, but we may be consoled by the fact that they don't have to worry about how they can keep their Blue Eagle.

ENTERPRISE DEMONSTRATION CLUB NEWS

Members of the Enterprise Club met at the home of Mrs. C. L. Wilkins on Wednesday, November 1, at our regular monthly meeting. The roll call and minutes were read and approved. After all business was finished Miss Pardue gave us a lesson on Remodeling Clothes, Dyeing and Making Over Coats and Dresses. Everyone seemed to enjoy and appreciate her talk and help.

Mrs. J. M. Williams was added to our roll and we had four visitors. We were glad to have them and invite them back, also invite all the ladies of this community to meet with us and consolidated communities, Eastview, Mt. Pisgah; Shiloh and Bethsalem, unless you can attend a meeting nearer you.

Our next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. L. E. Boockholdt the first Wednesday in December. Let's all be present and try to bring a new member. We will study Hat Making next time, so come and bring a hat.

—Mrs. J. C. Boockholdt, Reporter.

UNION GROVE 4-H CLUB

On Tuesday, October 10, Miss Pardue met with the girls of Union Grove school for the purpose of organizing a 4-H club. The following girls were elected as officers: Hersie Sammons, President; Christine Conway, vice-president; Myrtle Ashcraft, secretary-treasurer; Bessie Hilson, reporter. Song and yell leader, Sylvia Barnett; local leader, Miss Nellie Barnett. We decided to meet each first Friday in the month at 10:30 a.m.

We met last Friday and discussed our first work. We planned the daily habits we were going to practice. We have sixteen on roll and meet at the Union Grove church. Come, be with us.

BESSIE HILSON, Reporter.

ISABELLA

We were very sorry there weren't so many at church last Sunday. But remember we have Sunday School every Sunday morning at ten o'clock. Next Sunday there will be preaching at the Methodist church. We welcome every one.

PLAY AT VERMONT JR. HIGH SCHOOL SATURDAY

Remember, that on next Saturday night at 7:45, the laughable comedy-drama, entitled, "A Poor Married Man" will be staged at Vermont Jr. High School. This popular little two-hour play is brimful of fun and action. A sure cure for blues. A regular comical mix-up and misunderstanding. That awful mother-in-law is a riot and Black Jupiter Jackson is a genuine African [illegible]

A spicy little play full of surprises and plenty of fun. A large number of people from Clanton, Isabella and Maplesville have sent word they will be here. You better come early as the seating capacity is limited.

Admission will be 10c and 20c.

Plow For "Push Soils" Designed At Auburn

Auburn, Ala.—Proper cultivation of the "push soils" need no longer constitute a vexing problem for farmers in Alabama.

Dr. Ralph D. Doner of the Auburn department of mathematics employed higher mathematics to work out a design formula for a plow that is satisfactory for tillage of thees soils. To check the practicability of the formula, Prof. M. L. Nichols of the agricultural engineering department tested plows of this design and found them highly successful.

Hundreds of thousands of acres of land in Alabama are of such a nature as to be termed "push soils." Cultivation of these soils is extremely difficult because previously no plow has been found that will cause the soil to scour or slide off the surface of the plow. It is necessary at intervals for the plowman to stop and with his foot push off the accumulated lump of soil. In addition, a plow of improper design causes unnecessary strain on the draft animals or tractor pulling the plow.

Dr. Doner employed differential equations in working out the formula on a basis of laws in soil dynamics which had been established in previous research by Professor Nichols.

For the most part "push soils" are high in clay content and are prevalent throughout the Black Belt as well as in other sections of Alabama, said Professor Nichols.

Maximum curvature of the new plow occurs in the wing of the implement rather than nearer the point.

Great Jersey Sire Heads College Herd

Auburn, Ala.—The importance of a proven herd sire is demonstrated by the increased milk production of the Colleg herd of Jersey cows at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

During the past few years the production of the herd has been substantially increased by the use of a highly-bred bull, Thistle's Fairy Boy, No. 268501, who has recently been given the rank of "tested sire" by the American Jersey Cattle Club. The rating came on a basis of proven production of 20 of his daughters now in the College herd. Each of them, on a basis of mature equivalent, have produced a yearly average of 10,064 pounds of milk of 4.65 per cent fat with 467.78 pounds of butterfat.

Thistle's Fairy Boy is six and one-half years old. He was purchased in 1926 from the Longview Farms at Lee's Summit, Kansas, and is the great grandson of Flora's ueen Raleigh, the famous "gold and silver medal" bull. None of the progeny of Thistle's Fairy Boy is for sale, said Prof. A. D. Burke, head of the Auburn dairy department, since all are being retained to improve the College herd. This bull was purchased as a calf for the sum of $500 but his record has entirely justified the expenditure, said Professor Burke.

Records kept by Prof. W. H. Eaton of the dairy department on the production of each cow makes it possible to know exactly the value of each. Many dairymen in Alabama are keeping similar records in order to prove the production of their herd and weed-out the "boarder" cows.

MANY ATTENDED SINGING AT CHESTNUT CREEK SUN.

The local singing society held its regular meeting Sunday, November 5th, with a large number of singers and listeners attending. The singing was handicapped because of the lack of the proper books, although a number of spirited songs were directed from the church books. It was decided to sell 25 of the church books to another church and use the money in purchasing 25 of the Stamps books. We will have them for our next meeting which will be on Nov. 19th. Everybody is invited to come and be with us and especially a few more directors. We have a crowd of little folks. Anyone would enjoy leading in singing.

Several visitors were with us last Sunday. We were glad to have them and want them to be back with us next time.

Bad Taste in Mouth, Sour Stomach

For quick relief from constipation troubles, such as are mentioned below, get a 25-cent package of Thedford's BLACK-DRAUGHT and begin taking it today.

"I have suffered a great deal from biliousness and constipation," writes Mrs. D. C. Jones, of Waterloo, Ala. "When I get bilious I have a bad taste in my mouth, have sour stomach, my color is bad, and I get dizzy and feel awfully bad. I have headache constantly. When I take Black-Draught it relieves me and I feel like a new person. I don't think there is a better medicine than Black-Draught."

Now you can get Black-Draught in the form of a SYRUP, for CHILDREN.

THE STORY

Abner Dillon finances a show to star Dorothy Brock, an actress with whom he is enamored. Dorothy, however, is in love with Pat Denning, her former vaudeville partner. They continue to meet, although she is "playing up" to her angel.

Julian Marsh, a famous stage director, is engaged to put on the show. The doctors have told him it will kill him, but he is broke and wants to get enough money to retire.

Lorraine, sweetheart of his stage manager, and Ann are two of the chorus girls. They are old timers and take under their wing an ambitious girl just breaking in, Peggy Sawyer. Peggy is also befriended by Billy, the Juvenile, and has a great liking for him.

Pat sees Peggy at the theatre one night and takes her home. On leaving her, he is slugged by men engaged by Marsh, who fears his affair with Dorothy will be discovered by Dillon who might then withdraw his backing. Peggy takes Pat to her room where they are discovered by the landlady and ordered out. Neither having any money, they then go to Pat's hotel.

Pat and Dorothy decide to "break," she feeling that his recent failure has been caused by his giving up too much for her.

Marsh finally whips his show into shape and is ready for the opening. Pat accidentally meets Peggy on the street and Dorothy sees the two together. She jumps to the conclusion Pat has doublecrossed her.

The night before the premiere she insults Dillon in her jealous rage. He refuses to finance the show further unless Dorothy is thrown out, but is finally talked into going on if Dorothy will apologize. Marsh and the producers rush to Dorothy's rooms to break up the affair with Pat, which they think is the cause of the tantrum. Peggy overhears some of the conversation and fears Pat will be slugged again, so she goes to Dorothy's room to warn them.

Dorothy goes into another fit of rage at sight of Peggy, falls and breaks her ankle. In the meantime, Ann has made up to Dillon and he brings her to Marsh and tells him she must have the star role. Marsh knows it is impossible. Ann finally admits it, but tells him Peggy can play the part. Marsh sees she is his only chance.

Peggy is frightened, but she knows her work and at once goes into rehearsal. While resting Bill comes to her and tells her of his love. Dorothy also hobbles into the room to tell her she has made up with Pat and wishes Peggy success.

Peggy goes on and is a decided hit. Marsh is nearly dead, but happy because Peggy has pulled him through. He hears the crowds praise Peggy to his own disparagement, but is satisfied.

"Just another show," he says at the fade-out.

Relieves Women's Pains

Here is an example of how Cardui has helped thousands of women:

"I was very thin and pale," writes Mrs. F. H. Scott, of Roanoke, Va. "I suffered from weakness and a severe pain in my back. This pain unnerved me, and I did not feel like doing my work. I did not care to go places, and felt worn, tired, day after day.

"My mother had taken Cardui, and on seeing my condition she advised me to try it. I have never regretted doing so. I took three bottles and it built me up. I gained in weight, my color was better and the pain left my back. I am stronger than I had been in some time."

Cardui, the purely vegetable medicine which so many women take and recommend, is sold by local druggists.

JACKSON CHAPEL

There was preaching here Sunday morning by Rev. W. H. Wilson. There will be preaching here again next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock by Rev. J. T. Daniel. Rev. William E. Robinson will preach Sunday night at 7 o'clock. The public is invited to hear them.

There was a fine singing here last Sunday afternoon. Fonza Cleckler was chairman, and the following directed: O. L. Devaughn, L. T. Grant, A. O. Boswell, Lillie Mae Weldon, Morris Cleckler, Ludelia Cleckler, Martell Blankenship, Mary Will Smith, Floyd Little, Rev. M. Lockhart, Johnnie Miner. L.T. Grant and O. L. Devaughn were called on the second time to direct, using the new Stamps books. The Liberty Hill quartet sung three special numbers.

The evening's service was closed with prayer by Rev. M. Lockhart.

By Dan Smith

"The man who reaches the top is the one who is not content with doing just what is required of him. He does more." — Harriman.

Don't do just enough to get by. Anyone can do that, but do a little more than is required of you. In school, on the football field, in programs, in plays, in your business, in anything you take part in, do more than just what is required. No harm will ever come of this. You will always be ahead of the other fellow and you will always have the respect of your superiors. Some of us wait for "the bell, Sunday and seventy," that's one of the reasons if not THE reason for some disappointed students last month.

The Senior Class with Miss Frances Gulledge as class sponsor had as their guests all the Senior mothers Tuesday of this week. This was a kind of good-will meeting to arouse more school spirit among the parents. The mothers of the members of the Senior class were given an opportunity to meet the teachers and discuss their children with them. This was a very successful meeting and it is expected that the students and their parents will now display that school spirit and do their part toward a prosperous and profitable school year.

On account of the lack of time the writer does not have a chance to see every home room teacher for news. He requests that each home room teacher please see that all articles of interest concerning their home room are given to him before Monday afternoon of each week. This will enable him to present more news of the activities of the students to the public.

The Senior Two class with Miss Margaret Kendrick, class advisor, elected the class officers for the oncoming year. These officers are as follows: President, Philip Nelson; vice-president, Sidney Reynolds; secretary and treasurer, Earl Gray. Hats off to these officers, the class made some wise selections.

At the joint meeting of the Senior class mothers and the several members of the faculty the officers of the Senior class took part on a brief program. John Ezell, president of the class, in a nice talk thanked the mothers for their interest which brought them; Jeanette Tiffin, vice-president, in a brief speech, outlined the plays of the Senior class for the year 1933-34; and Pauline Plyler, secretary and treasurer, discussed the purpose of the P.-T. A. and urged those who were not members to join.

This week the writer will give a brief biography of another member of our faculty; Miss Bonnie Clyde Griffin, English, Home Economics and girls' basketball coach. Miss Griffin is the home room sponsor of the Senior One class. Miss Griffin was born in Lower Peachtree, Alabama, on February 16, 1910, to J. D. Griffin and Myra Lou Whittle Griffin. She finished her high school course at Marbury in the year 1926, at the young age of 16. Miss Griffin desired to broaden her education and better fit herself to life and studied at State Teachers College in Troy and at the University of Alabama. In the year 1934 she will be awarded her A.B. degree from the University. Miss Griffin has taught school for several years. Isabella High, Cooper Junior High, and Culp have shared her ability as a teacher and she left these places with an everlasting welcome awaiting her return. This is the third year that she has been teaching at C.C.H.S. and during these three years she has won the love of all her students, all her basketball girls and others. Also she has deserved and won the respect and approval of all her fellow teachers. In college Miss Griffin showed most of her interest in English, sciences and sociology. She has a major in English and minors in sociology and science.

Last Thursday Chilton County High was honored by a visit of three distinguished men. Dr. S. J. Ezell accompanied by Dr. R. W. Reeves, who is conducting the revival at the Baptist church and Mr. Fred Bonds who is leading the singing, were our guests at the eight o'clock period. Dr. Reeves gave an inspirational and very interesting talk which no doubt did a lot of good to the student body. He urged us to study, grasp every opportunity and not to forget God in our youth. Mr. Bonds entertained us with his talented singing which was greatly enjoyed by all. We thank these men for showing their interest in us young people by coming and paying us a visit and they will always find a welcome for them any time they wish to come.

Winchell Whisperings: Several students were puzzled over who "a certain student" mentioned in this column last week was. One of this group will be surprised (maybe) when she learned she was reading about herself * * * * Where is our "Red Quartette"? They need those flaming red dresses to keep warm this cold weather and to awaken some ——— oh well.

A certain girl almost ruined her "opportunity" in the post office last Friday. The writer was surprised very much at something he saw in a certain afternoon class between a Junior and a Senior, pardon me, that's her business but not mine. * * * These distinguished Seniors can really write notes and how! Ask a certain girl. She was mentioned last week too (It's not me). * * * These girls really talk about their fellows and other boys when they get together and THINK no one is listening. Was my face red! * * * How would you like to know some of this low down?

We really do have a football team. Our boys held the highly-touted and powerful Bibb County eleven to a score of 8 to 6 in favor of Bibb County. Chilton scored in the first quarter while Bibb did not make her touchdown until the third quarter. It was only through a tough break that Bibb won the game 8 to 6. Our punt was blocked behind our goal line and recovered by one of our men. This gave Bibb 2 points. And everywhere you go you hear comments on what a good game Joe Moore played at end and he deserved those comments too, because he really played last Friday. "Gabby" Tiffin tossed one of his famous passes to Sidney Reynolds and "Sid" crossed the goal for our touchdown. Good work boys. Play that good and better against Montevallo tomorrow and add another victory to our list.

What...RENT Hot Water for the Baby's Bath?

TIMES have certainly changed since your mother's day! You don't have to heat water on the stove for baby's bath—as your mother did for you. You don't have to wait a minute for it, thanks to modern electric water heaters. And, better still, you don't even have to buy an electric heater to have this wonderful convenience this winter, if you take advantage of our new—

Electric Stove and Heater

which is proving so popular with modern houswives in every section of Alabama. This Rental Plan makes it possible for you to rent a famous Westinghouse "Flavor Zone" Electric Range or a Hot Point Automatic Electric Heater (either or both!) for a dollar or so a month. There is no obligation to buy; but if you should decide to do so, most of the money you have paid as rent can be applied to the purchase price.

Read the details of this amazing Rental Plan. Then phone or call at our office for your stove or heater at once!

Inquire of Us, or Ask Your Dealer

ALABAMA POWER CO.

Use More Electricity. . . It Costs Less

Details of the RENTAL PLAN

PICK out a stove or heater. We will deliver it free. You pay only $2.00 a month rental on the stove. And $1.45 a month rental on the heater. Both of these monthly rentals get less each year for 5 years. If you should decide to buy the stove or heater, or both, at any future time, most of the money you have paid as rent will be credited to you on the purchase cost. This is a simple, straightforward offer, with no "strings" tied to it in any manner. If it interests you, we suggest that you take advantage of it at once, as only a limited number of stoves and ranges can be used for this purpose.

IN MEMORIAM OF SERENO E. NORTON

Thorsby Institute has sustained during the past month a very great loss in the death of one of its most devoted friends and member of this Board of Trustees.

Mr. Sereno E. Norton was as much responsible as any other man, many would say more than any other, for the fact that we have this Institute in Thorsby. Through all the years of its life he has given himself without stint to anything which he thought would advance its interests. Until very recent years he has been Secretary of this Board, and has kept himself in closest touch with everything affecting the life and welfare of the school.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Norton has always been, as it were, a haven for the teachers and friends of Thorsby Institute. Eternity alone can measure the value of the service which he has rendered to Thorsby Institute and through the Institute to the many to whom our school has been a light and an inspiration.

We sorely miss this brother as we have met in Trustee meeting today and shall miss him in our counsel for many days to come.

Therefore, be it resolved—

1. That we bow in humble submission to our heavenly Father, who doeth all things well, and that we look to Him for strength to carry on the cause so dear to his heart.
2. That, we extend to his family our deepest sympathy, and commend them to the love and sympathy of God, our Father and Jesus, our Saviour.
3. That the original of these resolutions be tendered to his wife and son, an dthat a copy also be furnished the press and one placed on file with the Secretary of Board of Trustees.

Signed by: Mrs. Charles Howard, Mr. A. N. Laurell, Rev. J. W. Jones, Committee on Resolutions.

IN MEMORIAM OF CARL C. PETERSEN

Thorsby Institute has sustained during the past month a very great loss in the death of one of its most devoted friends and member of this Board of Trustees.

Mr. Carl C. Petersen has for many years been actively and helpfully identified with the business and social life of Thorsby, not the least of which was his association with the Thorsby Institute. The positions which he held in his church and Sunday school, as Mayor of the town, president of the bank, president of the Fruit Growers Association even up to the hour of his death are a tribute to the value of the services he was ever ready to give to any good work. He was deeply interested in the work of Thorsby Institute, and appreciative of its value to the community long before he became officially connected with it. Since he became a member of this Board he has cheerfully and effectively assumed every responsibility laid upon him. He could always be counted on for attendance to meetings.

We sorely miss this brother as we have met in Trustee meeting today and shall miss him in our counsel for many days to come

Therefore be it resolved—

1. That, we bow in humble submission to our heavenly Father, who doeth all things well, and that we look to Him for strength to carry on the cause so dear to his heart
2. That, we extend to his family our deepest sympathy, and commend them to the love and sympathy of God, our Father and Jesus, our Saviour
3. That, the original of these resolutions be tendered to his wife and children and that a copy also be furnished the press and one placed on file with the Secretary of Board of Trustees.

CENTER HILL

Everybody is about through gathering. Some few lack their corn and velvet beans. Winter will soon be here.

The crowd at Sunday school was small Sunday owing to the rain, but we had our Sunday school just the same.

Weren't very many at B. Y. P. U. We were glad to have Mr. Charlie Childers and Misses Willie C Clements, Lucile Merchant and Mildred Yarbrough of Pleasant Grove with us. Come again.

Several from here went to Oak Grove Sunday afternoon to the singing. They said it was fine.

The singing at Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Cobb's Wednesday night was well attended by Center Hill and Mars Hill folks, also some from other places, Mrs W. C. Erwin and daughter, Miss Lois, and sons, Eugene and Earl, of Calera, Mr. and Mrs. C. Lenoir of east of Jemison.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Scott and Mr. George Thornbro spent the week end in Birmingham visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Thornbro.

We are glad to see Mr. Herbert Watson back. He has been attending school at Goodwater, but on account of the ill health of his mother, he has returned home and will enter Jemison High School.

Miss Addie Collum spent the week end in Jemison with Miss Vonzell Atkinson

Misses Gladys Cobb and Iva Campbell spent Thursday night with Miss Mable Cobb.

Mrs. B. O. Lowery and sons, Dane and Delton, of Providence spent Friday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Cobb. She also visited her aunt, Mrs. V. T. Cobb who is on the sick list.

Mr. Leo Cobb carried a truck load of Oak Grove B. Y. P. U. members to Enon Sunday night where they put on a program. He reported that it was fine.

Baptists Will Hold State Convention

Montgomery, Ala.—Alabama Baptist leaders have reasons for believing that the Alabama Baptist State Convention in Sheffield, November 14-17, will be one of the best attended state gatherings in many years.

The fact that Sheffield is in the region of Alabama's most famous waters, Muscle Shoals, is proving attractive to Baptists of the entire state. Plans are afoot for giving to the visitors the privilege of viewing this much talked-of project.

This years convention also comes after seventy-three district associations over the state have held possibly their most promising and enthusiastic meetings in many years.

Another drawing card will be the presence at Sheffield Convention of Dr. M. E. Dodd, president of the Southern Baptist Convention, one of America's leading pupiteers. He will make one of the principal addresses. Rev. Jacob Gartenhaus, Christian Jew, will also be one of the special speakers.

There is among Baptist leaders over the state a hopeful seriousness that the 1933 convention will mark the beginning of the Baptist recovery program. The Baptist program in the state has met with some reverses during the world's depression. There are certain forebodings of better days, Baptist leaders say.

The convention program opens at 7 p.m. Tuesday, November 14, and concludes at noon on Friday. Beginning Monday night at 7 p.m. the Alabama Baptist Pastor's Council will hold its program.

Sheffield has proven a generous host to the convention, reducing hotel rates and providing special parking for automobiles. The First Baptist Church of Sheffield, Rev. E. Allen Burnette, pastor, will entertain the meetings of the convention. Members of the church, under the conventions pay plan, have opened their homes to messengers and visitors at a most nominal rate.

Plier Case Will Come Up Again

Attorneys Perturbed At Outcome Of Case; Court Overrides Argument

The case of the State vs. Johnny Plier was called in the Circuit Court by Judge F. Loyd Tate Monday morning. When the case was called, Hon. Winston Huddleston, Circuit Solicitor, stated to the Court that he had learned sometime ago that Hon. Mayer Aldridge of Montgomery, who is on the Public Works Board of the Federal Government in Alabama, which Board is charged with the important duty of allotting Federal funds for public improvements and other purposes in Alabama, was the Auditor, who had been engaged by Mr. Plier to audit the books involved in the case and was an indispensable witness and that after he had taken this situation up with the officials of the Town of Clanton, who are the interested parties in the prosecution, that all parties had agreed that a continuance of the case should be agreed upon to save the expense and annoyance of summoning the large number of witnesses involved in the case that an agreement for continuance had been reached by his direction between Mr. Grover C. Walker, County Solicitor, and Lawrence F. Gerald and J. B. Atkinson, the attorneys representing Johnny Plier and which agreement had been approved by the Mayor and Council and City attorney of the Town of Clanton, and that he (Mr. Huddleston) insisted that his agreement ought to be respected by the Court.

It developed that Mr. Plier, acting upon this agreement, was out of the State. Counsel for the defendant stated that Mr. Plier had at a great expense to himself had the books involved audited and that the attendance of Mr. Aldridge was absolutely necessary to try the case, and contended that it was the first time in over twenty years in this County that an agreement of a Circuit Solicitor had been over ridden by the Court. However, Judge Tate entered forfeiture on Mr. Plier's bond and we understand that the case will stand for trial at the next term of the Circuit Court.

appears very promising, Billy Smith stated, as committees are being formed to carry out the campaign.

This county is in the foremost number of counties that have secured memberships to the Red Cross, rating seventh place from the top of the list in the state. That itself is a credit to the county.

Meetings will be held this week for workers in the Roll Call, and are to be announced by Billy Smith. Following is the list of those who have been selected as volunteer workers:

Publicity Committee: W. M. Wyatt, and J. Mell Martin.

Group Enrollment Committee: Bill Barnett, W. M. Bean, J. Z. Mims and Luther E. Little.

Business District: Mrs. J. W. Hayes, Mrs. Hance Alred, Miss Gladys Williams, Mrs. Julius Burnett and Mrs. W. M. Wyatt.

House to House Workers in Clanton: Mrs. Grady Broadhead and Mrs. L. E. Diefenderfer, west side. Mrs. S. J. Ezell and Mrs. Dewey Rockett, east side, chairmen.

Supply Committee for County: Mrs. J. P. Hayes, Mrs. Luther E. Little and Prof. L. C. Warr.

Special Gifts Committee: Frank Callen, J. Lee Smith and Dewey Rockett.

Chairmen of the various departments of workers over the county will be announced later.

Those chairmen of workers in the Beats over the county are:

Beat 1, C. B. Cox and Mrs. R. D. Woodson. Beat 2, L. W. Allen and W. R. Clements. Beat 3, Erle Thomas and D. O. Manning. Beat 4, S. M. Devaughn, J. D. Collins, Lee Popwell, J. W. Hamilton and J. L. Smith. Beat 5, John Hollis. Beat 6, C. L. Wilkins and Ed Edwards.

Beat 7, W. M. Oden. Beat 8, C. J. Mitchell and W. F. Reynolds. Beat 9, Perry Gore and Alf Mms. Beat 10, Hugh Taylor and Harrison Smith.

Beat 11, W. M. Cleckley. Beat 12, P. M. Martin and Posey Cleckley. Beat 13, B. M. Killingsworth and W. G. Shaw. Beat 14, L. G. Posey and B. F. Raspberry. Beat 15, George Sansom and E. G. Caldwell. Beat 16, J. Monroe Parrish.

Chilton County owes a debt of gratitude to the National Red Cross. It can be paid by showing up a splendid number of memberships in this year's drive. It must be impressed on everyone that the monies received by the local chapter of the Red Cross does not all go to the National Headquarters. Only fifty cents from each membership or amount contributed, goes to the National Headquarters. The remainder stays in Chilton County, with C. Fenn Jones as treasurer.

It is understood that the County is only required to pay the expenses of helpers and transportation, while the state and federal government bears the cost of trained cattle inspectors to examine the county's herds.

fore Christmas.

Recently Maurice Lande, owner of The Leader—one of Clanton's best department stores, declared that his business surpasses any period since the 1929 slump in the stock market. Several clerks were added to the regular staff to take care of the increase in business.

It is next to an impossibility to crowd into the V. J. Elmore 5c, 10c and $1 store on Saturdays. W. H. Sartor, owner of The Fair, reports that his business has shown a decided increase. Similar reports are had from the Dollar Store, the Clanton Bulding and Supply Company, the Southern Seed and Plant Company, Alred Drug Company, and several others.

Not many months hence, strawberries will afford a source of income for growers in this county, and many days work will be available in the harvesting of this crop, which has grown to be one of the county's major agricultural activities.

Too, there are several contemplated building projects that will bring considerable cash into the county. Work is expected to begin before Christmas on $28,500 waterworks system for Thorsby. Plans are under consideration for a school building program throughout the county that involves a contemplated sum of $66,000. Only local labor is to be used in both of these projects.

Twenty thousand dollars has been appropriated for the paving of three miles of the Selma highway beginning at the junction of the Montgomery-Birmingham highway. Another appropriation is anticipated for the completion of the project during 1934.

Continuing the present appropriation for R. F. C. work in the county, in excess of $100,000 may be expected from that source during the next twelve months.

OLIVER VISITS

parity plan, which affords the farmers an opportunity to borrow from the government ten cents per pound on their cotton, has possibly accomplished more toward recovery than any other single phase of recovery legislation, the veteran lawmaker urged the farmers of this county to avail themselves of the opportunity afforded under this plan.

In an interview with a representative of the News following his address, Congressman Oliver issued the following statement:

"In the extra session of Congress, which was called by President Roosevelt, broad powers were given to the President to enable him to cope with the difficult economic problems which confronted the administration. A review of the leadership of the President will show that he recognized that the conditions of the American farmer must be improved before there could be any permanent improvement in industry. It was the purpose of the President to improve the price of farm commodities so as to gradually restore pre-war average prices, and this has been the one objective he has had in mind in the measures which have been put in force since he came into power. The lending of money to the farmer on the basis of ten-cent cotton has been of vast help to the cotton farmers of the South and has enabled them to pay off much of their present indebtedness which has resulted in great relief to the merchants and to the bankers. This loan has been so arranged as to aid the farmers in limiting the production in 1934 and if there is wholehearted response by the farmers to this proposition of the President, it will serve, in my opinion, to place the value, or rather to improve the value, of the cotton on which the farmers have borrowed ten cents per pound and should stabilize the price of cotton in the summer of 1934 at a very satisfactory price. It is pleasing to note the response of the farmers of Chilton County to this appeal of the President, and I hope that when agents of the Farm Credit Administration, cooperating with Mr. Stapp, the very efficient agent of Chilton County, presents to the farmers in their several communities, the plan which has been worked out by the Farm Credit Administration, that there will be a large attendance of the farmers at every meeting because in this way, and in this way only, can they be fully informed of what President Roosevelt is endeavoring to do to better their conditions. This will furnish a channel by means of which farmers who desire to submit constructive suggestions to the proper Federal officials may do so. I think I am justified in stating that all constructive suggestions will have the serious consideration of the President.

"It has been my privilege during the summer, in the discharge of some official duties assigned to me, to travel through many states and nothing has been more gratifying than the general confidence that was shown in the President and the desire on the part of the people to support the President in his efforts to improve the economic life of the average American in every avocation of life. My own feeling is that if wholehearted cooperation is extended to the President by the farmers and especially of the South and West, in carrying out the proposals which he has submitted that 1934 will be a year long to be remembered in our history.

"I bespeak for the President's proposals thoughtful and sympathetic consideration by the citizens of Chilton County."

CHILTON COUNTY POSSIBLE POLITICS

By Victor Norris

Circuit court has adjourned, leaving more than two hundred cases on docket. Judging from the disgruntled conversations heard every day on the streets of Clanton, the condition of Chilton county's court docket will be a deciding factor election day.

Fairness demands mention of the fact that the clogged condition of the court docket had its beginning with the forced adjournment of court in March, almost two years ago, when the northern section of the county experienced the greatest tragedy in its history — the storm that tore asunder hundreds of homes and killed scores of persons.

Another of the greatest contributing factors in the congested condition of the court docket is the regrettable fee system, under which law enforcement officers are required to work, placing the record of the county's law enforcement organization in the same category with the production sheet of a traveling salesman.

With the ultimate repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and adoption of new liquor regulations in the state, perhaps necessity will force the placing of the Sheriff's force on a salary basis, permitting the practice of discretion in making arrests.

A record of twenty years standing was broken during court last week, when Judge Tate overruled an agreement between the circuit solicitors and attorneys defending Johnnie Plier, charged with embezzlement, for a continuance in the case. A coincident was that J. B. Atkinson, prospective candidate for circuit judge, was one of the defendant's attorneys.

Election day is more than six months away, but candidates are impatiently stamping the ground and pushing against the starting rope. At a mass meeting at the courthouse last Saturday afternoon, four prospective probate judges were easily distinguished by their speeches. Not to be outdone, each of the four arose to his feet and made the same suggestions, couched it's true in a little different language. P. T. Hinkle and J. Z. Mims were not present, so it is not known if they concur with the expressed opinion of their fellow candidates.

We even heard of one occasion in the county recently, where an ambitious politician took advantage of a Sunday school gathering to give himself a few pats on the back. But we believe the people of Chilton county are going to be able to separate facts from fiction in this election, therefore predict plenty of fireworks.

Another regrettable practice, said to have been common in the county's road system during recent years, was aired in court last week. It is said that road overseers, who receive only two dollars per day for their work, have to resort to padded payrolls to get pay for the use of their trucks and teams in the transportation of tools to various roads in their respective districts.

John F. Anderson, an overseer in district three under former Commissioner J. L. Burnett, was tried on charges of obtaining money under false pretenses, and forgery, in connection with a warrant for thirty-six dollars drawn in the name of O. F. Patrick, which was allegedly endorsed by Anderson.

A technicality regarding the statutory limitations of three years on charges of obtaining money under false pretenses resulted in a directed verdict for the defendant. A mistrial was had on the forgery charge.

A little shake-up seems probable in some of the potential candidates. We heard recently that party friends of Earle Thomas, mentioned recently as a prospect in the race for senator from this district, are urging him to allow Dr. V. J. Gragg to make the race in his stead.

Rumor has it that a formal announcement will be forthcoming from Dr. Gragg next week. Few men in Chilton county are more widely known and better liked than Dr. V. J. Gragg, having lived in the county all his life and practiced his profession here for the past twenty-seven years.

President of the Chilton County Medical Society, member of College of Counsellors of the State Medical Association, founder of the Central Alabama Hospital—and its staff surgeon, mayor of Clanton for three consecutive terms, and a former member of the Town Council of Clanton, are all tributes of the esteem in which he is held by his fellow citizens.

Off of county politics for a minute. We heard one of J. Mell Martin's friends a few days ago lauding him to the skies for mayor of Clanton, declaring that we could depend on J. Mell to do something about the mosquitoes that are right noticeable during the Summer months.

Any candidate that can make the people of Clanton believe he will relieve the "mosquito agony" won't have any trouble getting 100 per cent endorsement.

MORE WORKERS NEEDED IN RED CROSS DRIVE

Roll Call Began Last Saturday, 11th; Helpers Are Requested

The seventeenth annual Red Cross Roll Call is getting off to a slow start, due to the need of more volunteer workers over the county, according to a statement from Billy Smith, chairman of the Roll Call, who is urging all organizations throughout the county to name teams to participate in the campaign and calling for volunteers among others who want to share in a great humanitarian work.

All churches in the county are asked to observe the Red Cross Roll Call this year, and pastors are requested to remind their congregations of the campaign, which will continue to Thanksgiving.

In commenting on the drive for memberships, Billy Smith stated that "it will take five years for Chilton County to get even with the American Red Cross for the great work it has done in this county. This great organization lifted a burden from the shoulders of the people of this county in a time of need, and we must do a little to show our appreciation."

The Clanton Kiwanis Club has urged everyone who can to join, and have prepared a statement of facts and figures which appears in the paper this week, showing where and how the money is spent here.

Those who wish to aid in this work may get in touch with Billy Smith, or if any memberships are secured they are to be turned over to Mr. C. Fenn Jones, of Clanton, who is treasurer of the local Red Cross Chapter.

CATTLE TESTS STARTED OVER COUNTY MON.

Five Veterinarians Are In County To Carry Out Program Of Work

Work was begun last Monday on testing cattle in Chilton county for tuberculosis, with five qualified veterinarians located in different sections of the county.

Injections are being made this week and observations are to be made within a few days. Those in charge of the work stated that the tests in no way injure the cow, or milk. The program for Chilton county was mapped out last week by Dr. R. E. Jackson, connected with the federal government.

The staff in the county is composed of: Dr. T. N. Dennis, and Dr. E. E. Williams, for Clanton; Dr. C. C. Middleton, at Jemison; and Dr. R. H. Hamner and Dr. John Beckham for the Maplesville territory. All counties, excepting Bibb, surrounding Chilton have been tested and accredited, it was stated.

Aid Is Requested For Maplesville H. School

A committee from Maplesville appeared before the commissioners court Monday to petition aid for the Maplesville High School, declaring that less than $4,000 outside help has been received in the erection of a $20,000 building.

J. E. Daniels, principal of the school, in outlining the needs of the school, declared that approximately $500 is needed for chairs for the auditorium, painting, building outbuildings, and installation of equipment in the home economics department. Dr. H. M. Nix and J. P. Payne, Maplesville business man, were also on the committee.

The court agreed to give the petiton consideration at a later date.

A Dollar And A Half Looks Bigger Than One Dollar

School Enrollment Shows Good Increase

Figures compiled by Luther E. Little, county superintendent of education, show a considerable increase in the enrollments of the various schools over the county.

There are 5,542 students enrolled, compared to 5,296 for last year. This increase is much greater than normal, it was explained, and reason for it given as fololws: Few promotions last year due to short term; a trend from the cities to rural districts, and improved business conditions, permitting attendance of some who have not been able to enroll before.

SEVEN ARRESTS REPORTED BY THE SHERIFF'S OFFICE

Seven arrests have been made by members of the Sheriff's organization this week. They were two for manufacturing of whiskey and the possession of a still; one for bastardy; two for violating the prohibition laws; one for assault and battery, and one on peace proceedings.

The jail register shows that fourteen are held in the county jail. Eighteen were sent to Kilby this week.

Cotton Option Money Is A Direct Blow At Depression

Another knockout blow to the depression will be delivered in Chilton county within about ten days, when approximately $80,000 will be paid farmers who plowed under a part of their cotton acreage on the option plan, according to information from the office of County Agent C. F. Stapp.

This sum represents the difference between six cents on which the options were based and the 10 cent basis on which the government is lending money to the farmers who wish to hold their cotton.

Cotton farmers in Chilton county should be in a better financial condition than at any time within several years. When this $80,000 has been distributed to the farmers of this county it will bring the total reimbursements from the government alone almost to the half-million mark.

It has been estimated that about one-third of the cotton crop has been stored in various warehouses throughout the county, under the provisions of the Cotton Cooperative Parity Plan. Cotton producers in the county have received $181,000 from this source. Two hundred

McEathern Is Back With Hill Store Here

An announcement that will be of wide interest is that J. W. McEathern is back as manager of the local Hill Grocery Co., store.

Mr. McEathern, known to his many friends as "Mack" came to Clanton in February, 1925 as manager of the first Hill Store in Clanton, and built up considerable business. He retired sometime ago as manager of the store, and returned to his old and familiar place last Thursday.

He has many friends over the county who will be glad to learn that he will again have charge of the Hill store in Clanton, and "Mack" said tell everyone that he wants them to come to see him now. He plans some extensive changes in the Hill Store on main street, one of which will be giving more floor space to the front of the store. A glad hand is extended to "Mack" on his return to the grocery business.

The Leader Says Prices Are Dropped

"We Will Not Be Undersold" is the heading of a large ad in the News this week from The Leader, one of the most popular dry goods stores in Clanton.

Mr. M. Lande, proprietor and genial manager of this well known store, stated that "regardless of cost, we will meet the prices of any store in Clanton, and we have dropped the price on everything in our store as far as possible."

The Leader is enjoying the patronage and friendship of a large number of persons throughout this section. Read their ad on the back page this week.

Congratulations And Thanks

Congratulations are in order this week.

Miss Ruth Pardue is to be congratulated on the continued opportunity to work with the excellent people of Chilton county, as their home demonstration agent.

Members of the commissioners court are to be congratulated on their alertness in recognizing this opportunity of vast service to their constituency. Perhaps there is no way in which they could have rendered a greater service to the people of their county than by making it possible to continue home demonstration work in the county.

During the six months which Miss Pardue has served the county, records show a high degree of accomplishment in her field.

Buck Oliver Day

Twenty years ago today, William B. Oliver, a prominent Tuscaloosa attorney and son of Greene County, was making his first race for the seat of Sixth District representative in the United States Congress. Today, after 19 years of service in that seat and on threshold of a twentieth year, this servant of the people of this district, state and nation is receiving the homage of a grateful constituency which is certain to ask him to continue his service in its behalf.

Wednesday's observance of "Buck Oliver Day" by the Tuscaloosa Kiwanis Club was a fitting tribute to this veteran of congressional affairs, so valuable and so necessary to our government in this hour of crisis. Members of the Kiwanis Club were not merely paying deserved honor to an honorary member of their group.

They were expressing in definite form a feeling and an appreciation that is deeply experienced throughout the length and breadth of the eight counties which compose the Sixth Congressional District. Citizens and constituents of this district have a justifiable sense of pride in the achievements of our congressman.

"Buck" Oliver is not a man of high-sounding words and phrases, appealing to the general public with extravagant promises and wild ideas. In this day of far too much "rabble-rousing" on the part of some individuals in office, it is comforting indeed to realize that here, as representative of our district, is a man whose feet are on solid ground and whose head is clear and keen to the demands of our times.

As citizens of the Sixth District, many of us may be prone to regard Congressman Oliver as essentially our representative and working solely in our behalf. True he represents his district as do few men in Congress. He represents every citizen, every county and every community in a manner which provokes not only satisfaction but a genuine affection.

"Buck" Oliver's service in Congress is by no means confined to this district of eight counties. This fellow citizen shares with two other congressmen the position of being the "dean" of the Alabama delegation in Washington. He holds alone chairmanships of four of the most important sub-committees of the House appropriations committee and is ranking Democrat on the fifth subgroup.

As the man in the chair when appropriation matters are taken up for action by these several groups, Mr. Oliver has a power and a responsibility which come to few men in public service. He has been for years an honored and trusted representative of the Democratic party on this important appropriations committee.

The saying, "A prophet is not without honor save in his own country and in his own house," does not fit the case of "Buck" Oliver. He is honored in Washington by his colleagues. He is honored at home by his friends and constituents, who fully join with Bill Brandon in declaring:

"We citizens of the Sixth District believe that in 'Buck' Oliver we have the best congressman in the United States." — Tuscaloosa News.

Can't Borrow Ourselves Rich

Who envies President Roosevelt now? We wish him success. We hope by proper cooperation he may bring the country out of this mess. But our prediction is that he will issue several billions of new money and stop borrowing from wall street bankers on 4 per cent tax exempt bonds and spending it to keep the unemployed at work before we are ever on the road to permanent prosperity and freedom from debt. We also predict that it is not going to be many months until the President will start issuing of this new money which will be a legal tender for all debts, both public and private, such as taxes, insurance, rents, good roads, public buildings, etc. It has to come. The nation simply can't go on borrowing itself rich. This bond issuing plan is virtually selling every home and farm in the country to the bond holding clique of Wall Street and there are many sensible men who know this too. But so far they have not been able to stop it. Mr. Roosevelt is the hope of our country and the world. We are going to do our best to uphold him in every worthy effort he makes. We believe he is going to surprise the money kings soon. When he does, we shall see a free nation.

"SUPPORT THE PARTY PLEA" AND TWENTIETH CENTURY AMERICANS

When we turn back through the pages of history and read there the blood-chilling accounts of the crucifixion of Christ, by the very people whom He had come to earth to save; accounts of the persecution and injustice meted the crusaders in their campaigns to reach the Holy Land and worship at the shrine of their God: When, in our minds, we live through the terrors of the French Revolution and see the streets of Paris flowing red with the blood of the victims of the guillotine—when we read of the religious intolerance practiced against certain denominations and sects, only a few centuries ago, we marvel at the progress that civilization has made.

Since the day when Adam and Eve in the Garden of Eden recognized the necessity of covering their bodies, and donned the fig leaves, public sentiment has constantly undergone evolution and change. From out of chaos and ruin, men have always emerged just a little wiser and more capable. It's a Biblical prophecy that "man shall become weaker and wiser." We hope, and have every reason to believe that the human race is wiser.

Along with the realization that the doctrine of witchcraft has no place in the lives of civilized men and women, the American people are beginning to recognize that there is more to government than being trodden on by an elephant, or being kicked by a donkey. There is a greater trend toward liberalism, in politics, in religion, and in every other phase of life.

Men and women are no longer satisfied to just go out to the polls on election day and cast their vote for the Party. They want to know something about what the man stands for who represents that party; and they have a right to know. Narrow-mindedness and bigotry, whether in religion or in politics, has no place in the lives of twentieth century Americans.

Regardless of the purported differences existent between the Democratic and Republican parties, there is a common ground on which they can, and on which they should meet. That is the common cause of Clean Government. It should be the individual ambition and ideal of every man and woman to place at the head of their government the most efficient leaders possible.

We pray that the time has passed when a mere prejudiced SOS call (Save Our Party) will suffice to bring the people of Chilton county into the folds of a political party. We believe that time has passed! During recent years the citizenship of this county has shown an inclination to break away from those old iron-clad regulations of, "Support the Party."

People of Chilton county are intelligent. They don't have to have a select few to pick out their leaders. They're entirely capable of choosing those leaders through the ballot system; and party ballyhoo will not suffice to whip them into line any longer.

When election day comes, we urge the voters of this county to go to the polls and cast their votes for the best man and not be mere mechanical robots, marking ballots for "the party" regardless of the efficiency, or inefficiency, of the candidates.

Spectres On Parade

One reason why there is less appreciation than there should be of the horror of our annual automobile death toll is that the accidents happen so far apart geographically, and at intervals throughout the entire year so that the total of a single day in a single locality does not particularly disturb us. Again, few motorists, comparatively speaking, see an accident in which someone is killed or seriously injured.

It would be well for the public to put its imagination to work on this situation. Here's one way to do it. Suppose that you, and all the millions of other car-owners, could be seated in a tremendous reviewing stand. Marching by slowly in front of you are the 35,000 shrouded spectres of persons who were killed by automobiles last year. To each shrouded figure is clinging one or more bereaved relative. The parade would take many hours to pass—a silent, marching line of lives that had been destroyed because some one was careless or reckless or incompetent.

The very unpleasantness of that illustration is what makes it valuable. The fact that only an infinitesimal proportion of the 35,000 victims are killed in your community doesn't make any difference. Nor does the fact that only a comparatively few deaths occur on a given day. Remember that each year sees hundreds of tragedies as horrible as those of the Titanic or the Akron—and they are all unnecessary.

Think of that long, horrible parade. And then decide what kind of a driver you will strive to be in the future.

If each family in Clanton would give one membership to the Red Cross, the quota this year for the county would be reached.

We are under the impression that some one or more have worries about politics this year, judging from the things we read and hear.

Have you joined the Red Cross yet? Your membership is needed badly.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

At the circus I saw a man riding two horses. The clown would stand on the back of one horse and then on the back of the other. To make the sight more thrilling he would stand with one foot on one horse and the other foot on the other horse, and ride both horses at the same time. It is Christ who says, "Ye can not serve God and mammon." Many a man has said, "I believe that I can," and he has tried to ride the two horses at the same time. These clowns of common life might succeed in doing so if Christ and the devil were going in the same direction. You can no more serve God and mammon, than you can ride two horses that are going in opposite directions. How foolish people act who try to serve God and mammon. One is traveling heavenward, the other hellward.

The band was practicing and I was sitting near enjoying the music. In the midst of the selection the leader made an awful face and sounded for silence. Every instrument hushed and then the director said, "The flute, the flute—where is the flue!" Even while the drum was roaring and the horns were sounding, the trained ear of that musician failed to hear the flute and he wanted to know what was wrong. The young man with the flute had been disturbed by a stinging bee, and had lost connection. The ear of that trained musician could hear each instrument in the band, and it took each one doing his part to make the music complete. The ear of God is listening in on our work that we are doing for Him, and he detects all that is done, from the least to the greatest, and if one of us fail He detects the discord and wants to know why the failure. If you are only playing the flute in the band of God's kingdom, play it all the time and play it well.

I was standing by watching father and son as they worked together. The son was handling a keen steel blade and by accident he struck his father's hand the blood came in spurts. It grieved all of us to see Father's blood flowing, but the heart of the one using the blade was well nigh broken. We are all working together with our father's and forefather's and it is always the son who is handling the keen blade. The hands of our ancestry are still moving about among us, and we can strike those hands with our strokes in behalf of progress. The ideals of our fathers, their faith and their sacrifices are still with us, and when we strike these the blood of our ancestry flows freely. At this time the very air is full of voices clamoring for changes and we had better beware. Our fathers have put their very life blood into some of those institutions that we are going to strike. They have fought, bled and died for us and we should be careful not to strike their hands of service among us. "Faith of our fathers: living still in spite of fire, dungeon and sword," and may God forbid that we should bleed their ideals white.

I saw a fine milk cow in a field of clover. She had everything that a nice clean cow needed to make her fat and to make her milk good, but this cow was not satisfied. She went to the wire fence and strained and would run her tongue out like a rope, reaching for a bitter weed in the dusty lane. The weed was not good to eat, and it ruined her milk, but she wanted it. How like the cow in the clover are the people of our age. It seems that we have come to a time when we are tired of law and order, duty and justice. We want to junk the substantial virtues of our forefathers. We are pushing against the fence of law and straining our energies to reach a bitter weed in a dusty lane. The faith of our fathers and the laws of our land, produce the clover fields in which we should live and prosper, but we want the bitter weeds of sin. We want the very thing that we can not enjoy and that will ruin us forever.

A boy who will steal a pecan, a stalk of sugar cane, a knife, a ball, a toy when he is young, will steal out of a bank when he is older if he is not shown the evils of stealing. Many parents are making rogues and rascals out of their children by neglecting to teach them strict honesty. Blessed are the parents who emphasize honesty in childhood.

BETTER LIGHTING PAYS

Skimpy lighting in industrial plants lowers production, increases spoilage of materials and causes many accidents, accordng to the labor commissioner of New Jersey, whose department has made an extensive study of the subject. Poor lighting also causes serious eye strain which further reduces the efficiency of the workers.

A concrete example is given by Mr. Weeks, in which the installation of a modern lighting system in a large industrial plant led to an increase of 12 to 16 per cent in production and reduced spoilage of material more than 50 per cent. It was also found that 18 per cent of industrial accidents in the state were caused by defective lighting arrangements.

Not only in factories, but in business houses, offices, school-rooms and homes as well, good lighting pays in efficiency, comfort and improved eyesight. Its cost is trifling in comparison with the benefits it confers.

It takes a lot of will power to match some wives' won't power.

Where Were They?

A bit of interesting prison history is that there are no printers, reporters or editors numbered among the 4000 convicts in Alabama's state prisons. A careful survey disclosed the fact that there is not a state or county convict in state prisons and camps who knows the difference between a "stick" of type and a side-saddle.

The Williams Win

For once the Smiths lose!
The Williams win!
The Jones are a close second!

Wherever and whenever the cognomens of various units composing the human family are collectively paraded before the scrutinizing eyes of the public, the Smiths, almost without exception, outnumbered their neighbor Jones. Look in any telephone directory printed in English and you will find the Smiths far in the lead.

But scan the roster of the Alabama State prisons and you will be surprised to find the Williams far in advance of the Smiths and Jones, and for once the Smiths have cause to rejoice in being tag-tail to their numerical rivals.

Of a total of more than 4000 prisoners incarcerated in Alabama's penal institutions, 113 are named Williams. The Jones are a close second with 88, while the Smiths have to be content with a mere 86. The Johnsons tally 84; the Jacksons, 77; the Thomas and Davis families are neck-and-neck with 59 each. The Browns are next with 56, while the Harris family does well to muster 38.

"Watch us!" proclaim the Smiths. "We'll beat 'em the next count."

"Luck to you," retort the Williams and Jones.

"I had 12 bottles of whiskey in my cellar and my wife told me to empty the contents of each and every bottle down the sink. So, I proceeded to do as my wife desired and, withdrawing the cork from the first bottle, poured the contents down the sink, with the exception of one glass, which I drank.

"I then withdrew the cork from the second bottle and poured it down the sink except for the one glass I drank.

"I extracted the cork from the third bottle, emptied the good old booze down the bottle, except a glass which I drank.

"I pulled the cork from the fourth sink and poured the bottle down the glass when I drank some.

"I pulled the bottle from the cork of the next and drank one sink out of it, then threw the rest down the bottle.

"I pulled the sink out of the next cork and poured the glass down my neck.

"I pulled the next bottle out of my throat and poured the cork down the glass, all but the sink which I drank.

"I pulled the next glass from my throat and poured the sink down the bottle and drank the cork.

"Well, I had them all emptied and I steadied the house with one hand and counted the bottles, which were 24. I counted them again when they came around and I had 74, and as the houses came around I counted them and finally I had all the houses and bottles counted and I washed the bottles, but I couldn't get the brush in them, so I turned them inside out and washed and wiped them and went upstairs and told my other half about what I did and—

"O Boy! I've the wifest little nice in the world.!"

RED CROSS ROLL CALL

Again the American Red Cross is in the midst of its annual roll call, which is made each year between Armistice Day and Thanksgiving. It deserves the support of everyone who can possibly contribute.

Communities which have happily escaped disaster can hardly appreciate the magnificent work of this foremost relief organization. A great fire, flood, storm, epidemic or other cause of widespread distress immediately brings the Red Cross into effective action.

When the need for aid arises the Red Cross responds unfailingly, promptly, efficiently. There are no delays, no hesitancy, no lost motion. With clock-like precision the trained personnel moves to its humanitarian task and sticks to it until it is finished.

While it was originally designed for the relief of suffering in time of war, the Red Cross has in late years become the greatest agency for emergency relief in time of peace as well.

It costs only a dollar to join the organization and thus become identified with its noble work. To do this is at once a duty, a privilege and an honor.

AGRICULTURE

By S. L. Broadhead

The chief factors determining successful brooding are sanitation, prop temperature, plenty of room and go ventilation, in natural brooding. All these are provided except sanitatio and this can be provided by keepin the hens dusted and free of mites, lic etc., and by thorough disinfection the brood coops.

Buying day-old chicks has of lat years, become very popular amon poultrymen. Day-old chicks should b bought only from hatcheries of know reliability, and, preferably, they shoul be B.W.D. (bacillary white diarrhea tested.

The following eight points should b observed in regard to sanitation i brooding: (1) Clean chicks; (2) clea incubator and eggs; (3) clean brooder house; (4) clean ground; (5) clean litter. Change each week (6) Clean fee in clean hoppers; (7) clean management; clean laying houses. Poultrymen are coming more and more to realize the necessity of cleanliness i brooding.

Artificial brooding is considered to b superior to natural brooding by practically all poultrymen, due to the fact that the amount of labor is so greatl reduced. Most lamp brooders, usuall burning kerosene, are hazardous sourc of fire, hence should be attended wi caution. It is advisable to place t brooder house at a safe distance from other buildings, regardless of the typ of brooder used. Electric and coal brooders are coming more and more t replace the oil brooders. Wood burning brooders are also being successfully built.

The brooding system should be tried before it is used. The proper brooder temperature should be attained befor the chicks are placed in the brooder house. The floor should be covered with about an inch of litter (cut clover, alfalfa, straw, shavings, or if there is danger of fire, sand). The temperature under the hover or around the stov should be the first week, 100 degrees the second week, 96, third 93, fourth 8 then gradually reduced to none. Overheating is more dangerous than chil ing.

Proper ventilation is to be provid in the structure of the house, for whi plans may be obtained from the Exte sion Service, Alabama Polytechnic I stitute, Auburn, Alabama.

It has been found by experiment that the more room chicks have the le the mortality rate and the better the grow. On the other hand, the larg the number brooded together, the le the expense, therefore it is a questio of the most economical number. Th is said to be not more than 100 chick to 25 ft. of floor space.

Chicks may be brooded in confinement with a saving of labor and les danger of disease infection, by suppl ing necessary vitamin D which is otherwise supplied by sunlight. This can b done by adding cod liver oil to the ration. Deficiency of vitamin D caus leg weakness. Chicks raised in confinement mature three to four week earlier. Toe picking sometimes occur from overcrowding confined chicks.

In rearing chicks after the broodin period, the main points to remembe are to provide sufficent range (10,00 square feet for each 100 chicks), provide plenty of good feed, stress cleanliness, provide sufficient shelter an remove inferior birds.

See Farmer's Bulletin No. 1538, "Incubation and Brooding of Chickens," and No. 1541, "Feeding Chickens." These may be obtained from Lama Jeffers, Washington, D. C.

Next week, "Nutrition and Broile Production."

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA

To the Customers of Alabama Power Company:

In our last letter we pointed out the little known fact that the cost for electric service in Alabama is now less than before the war whereas the cost of food, clothing and other household necessities is approximately 30% greater. The following table shows the savings for varying amounts of electricity, typical residential uses by customers of this company, under different rates in effect from 1916 to 1933:

KWH. Consumed	Monthly Bill—5-Room House 1916	1920	1924	1929	1933	% Reduction 1916 to 1933
20	$ 2.16	$ 1.80	$1.80	$1.75	$1.30	39.8%
30	3.06	2.70	2.70	2.25	1.80	41.2%
50	5.10	4.50	4.14	3.25	2.80	45.1%
100	10.20	6.30	6.30	4.75	4.05	60.3%
200	19.20	10.76	7.88	7.75	6.55	65.9%

Our new A-4 rate, available to anyone who increases his use of electricity over that of last year, offers even greater possibilities for complete use of electricity at still lower cost. For example, an average customer with an electric range and a refrigerator would pay approximately 2½ cents per KWH for his electricity.

As pointed out in our last letter, this company has the lowest state-wide rates in the country.

Yours very truly,

President.

Fearless Political Picture Here 18th

"Daring expose," "ruthless," "frank," "fearless" are a few of the words used by preview critics in describing Columbia's forceful political picture, "Washington Merry-Go-Round. Theatre fans here are going to get a chance to form their own opinions Saturday, November 18th, when the picture shows at the matinee and evening shows.

The story is a screen original by Maxwell Anderson, directed by James Cruze and featuring Lee Tracy and Constance Cummings, and is said to throw a revealing spotlight on the invisible government that binds and gags our lawmakers in Washington. Alan Dinehart has received no end of praise for his strong portrayal of a difficult "heavy" character. Walter Connolly, Frank Sheridan, Ernie Woods, Clay Clement and Arthur Vinton are others in the cast.

News from Thorsby

Miss EDITH JOHNSON, Correspondent

The Lutheran Ladies Aid will meet this week Thursday at the home of Mrs. Frank Nelson. Since the Aid has not been active for the past two or three months, a large crowd is wished and expected to attend. Everyone attending is requested to bring their own plate and cup, please.

Next Sunday night at the regular preaching hour, there will be a song service at the Congregational church.

The womanless marriage that was planned for last Friday night and put on by the business men of Thorsby, was postponed and will be presented this Friday night, Nov. 17, instead. This entertainment will be held at the Thorsby Public School.

The Conference of Congregational and Christian Churches of the state was brought to a close last Thursday night after a two-day session. Everyone who attended the meetings enjoyed them very much and the entire conference was a success. Five meals were served at the church by the ladies of the Thorsby Congregational Church, four of which included the town people of the church. There were seventy-five out-of-town delegates who attended the conference and were accomodated with places to stay by the Thorsby people. A word of thanks is extended to all who helped entertain delegates and especially to Mrs. Bob Davenport who donated so many beautiful flowers for decoration and who so willingly and faithfully offered her services.

Many might be interested in knowing some of the churches and towns represented by delegates at the Thorsby Conference last week. The following is a list of names of churches, town and number of delegates from each place: Antioch Church, Andalusia, five delegates; Cold Water Church, Andalusia, two delegates; Birmingham Community, three delegates and many visitors; Brantley, one delegate; Eastview, three delegates and several visitors; Mt. Springs, four delegates and several visitors; Cragford, one delegate; Westley Chapel, Delta, one delegate; East Tallassee, four delegates; Garden City, one delegate; New Bethel, Glenwood, three delegates; Westley Chapel, Goshen, one delegate; Fairview, Hackleburg, two delegates; Union Grove, Haleyville, two delegates; Mt. Carmel, one delegate; Blackwoods, Headland, two delegates; Lanette, four delegates; Langdale, one delegate; Christian Hill, Midland City, three delegates; Millerville, Bethel Church, one delegate; Mt. Creek, Union Church, three delegates and several visitors; Beulah, Phenix City, one delegate; United, Phenix City, two delegates; Mt. Grove, Steppville, one delegate; Mt. Olive, Tallassee, four delegates; Thorsby, three delegates; Wadley, two delegates; Beulah, Wadley, two delegates; Crestview, West Florida, two delegates. The three outstanding speakers during the conference were Dr. H. C. Newell of Piedmont College, Demorest, Ga., Dr. W. J. Campbell of Nashville, Tenn., and Dr. Sparts of Dayton, Ohio.

Rev. C. W. Carter of Wadley was Moderator.

Thorsby Institute News

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Peterson have very generously made for Thorsby Institute a rock garden and a pool beside it. Richard helped with the work. Mr. Peterson made a very pretty cement bench placed near the pool. This gift is very much appreciated.

The Glee Club of Thorsby Institute made its first appearance this year on Thursday morning at the chapel hour. Dr. Ensminger gave a short talk on the modern conception of religion.

A program of a recent music recital at Piedmont College shows that Lois Thompson, Kathryn LeNoir and Kathryn Foss, all Thorsby Institute graduates, took part in the recital.

A week from Saturday night at 7:30 will be the annual stunt night at Thorsby Institute. Everyone is invited. Admission is ten cents.

The Sophomore class sung their class hymn, "Dare to be Brave, Dare to be True," at chapel Monday morning.

Two duets, "The Swan" and "A Polish Dance" were played by Jane Billingsley and Ruth Foss in chapel Tuesday morning. "The Swan" was played particularly well.

Why Enroll With The Red Cross?

(AN EDITORIAL)

The time is at hand when America is enrolling with the National Red Cross. Between Saturday, November 11, and Thursday, November 30, an intensive campaign will be conducted. Chilton county is included in this campaign. It has a vital part to play, as does every other county.

Why do thousands and thousands of good citizens, pay their dollar every year and proudly display the Red Cross button?

One big reason is that within the breast of every civilized man or woman there is a regard for an unfortunate brother. They know that every day, somewhere, hard-working, independent men are thrown upon the mercy of others through no fault of their own. Chilton county has particular reason to know that such things can and do happen. Tornadoes, floods, fire and famine do not respect localities.

The American National Red Cross is the best, in fact the only, agency we know of which can adequately handle relief in such catastrophes. Our citizens know that the Red Cross does meet such situations promptly and effectively. They do not have to be told — they have first-hand information.

But the Red Cross is not a business—though handled in a business-like manner. There is no question of a profit, though large sums of money are handled at times. The Red Cross is a Relief Institution. It doesn't lend money. It GIVES necessary aid when and where needed without delay and confusion. There is no waste to undeserving.

But it takes money to carry on its work. The Red Cross gives aid twelve months in the year, but for only a few weeks out of each fifty-two, it asks the American people to support it according to their ability. Its call has met a ready response in years past—and in these same past years the Red Cross has proven itself worthy. Our people will heed the call again this year; of that there is no doubt. Let not your name be missing from that Roll of Honor!

A great man was once called upon to aid a friend. He gave the needed help and with it a note which read in substance, as follows: I am too poor to give you this amount of money, nor am I a money lender; take what I have sent you, relieve your need; nor consider yourself in my debt; but if possible at a future date, should you find another in need, repay the debt to him; and thus may be started a chain of charity which neither of us could carry alone.

That, we think, is the spirit of the Red Cross. It gives without security, to worthy causes. It asks no repayment. But in the name of others who have been visited by misfortune, it calls upon us once a year.

Chilton County may not have as much money as it wants. But it is able to meet its quota of $500—five hundred $1 enrollments—and it will not turn a deaf ear to this call.

Union Grove School News

The attendance is very good at the present time. We are very sorry one of our teachers, Miss Cuba Littleton, is on the sick list this week and can not be at school. Mrs. Marvin Martin took up her work while she is absent. We hope that Miss Littleton will soon be back with us, for she is greatly missed by all.

The boys of Union Grove defeated Collins Chapel boys in a ball game Friday afternoon, November 10th. Scores were fourteen and nine. The boys on both teams did some real playing of basket ball.

Thursday afternoon, November 9th, the outside boys of Collins Chapel played the Union Grove outside boys at Union Grove, scores were 28 and 8 in favor of Union Grove. Next Friday evening, November 17th, Mt. Pleasant is going to play Union Grove on Union Grove's court. If cheers will help to win, we will win for we are going to do our part, and we feel as if the boys will do theirs. For we are hoping to win.

The girls have organized a ball team. Although we haven't had very much practice yet, but we hope to have a real basket ball team in the near future. For we are very much interested in playing ball.

ISABELLA

We were very sorry that the few members who went to Friendship last Sunday to the B. Y. P. U. Convention couldn't bring back the Attendance Banner, although we were proud that as many went as could.

Miss Jewel Wright went to Birmingham last Thursday, where she will visit her sister a few weeks.

Miss Mildred Durbin was the week end guest of Miss Glenda Oden.

Miss Glenda Oden entertained with a small party last Saturday night honoring her guest, Miss Mildred Durbin. Those enjoying the party were Misses Glenda and Maxine Oden, Mary Turner, Mildred Durbin, Elizabeth Mims and Neal Turner, Judson Calfee, Edmond Green, Myron Calfee and Delos Culp.

Mr. Lowell Hendrix of Greenville was the guest of Mr. Judson Calfee the past week end.

Mr. Bonnie Hand was the guest of his sister, Mrs. Maxwell Hayes, for a while Saturday night.

Miss Bazolean Williams spent Saturday with Miss Mary Turner.

Mrs. C. K. Green and sons, Edmond and Joseph, and daughter, Martha, motored to Thorsby and visited their sister and daughter, Sara, who is a student of Thorsby Institute, last Sunday afternoon.

Miss Agnes Peters was the guest of Miss Mary Turner Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Poole spent Sunday with their mother, Mrs. Joe DeShazo.

Mr. Fred Oden of Lawley spent Sunday with his brother, Mr. H. R. Oden.

Mrs. C. K. Green made a business trip to Clanton last Thursday afternoon.

Marbury Observes Armistice Day

Rep. Percy M. Pitts was the principal speaker Saturday, at an Armistice celebration at the Marbury High School which was attended by several hundred persons. Paying tribute to those dead and wounded heroes who sacrificed life and limb for the honor of their country, the Chilton county representative declared Armistice Day should stand out as one of the geratest memorial days in the nation's partiotic calendar.

Urging that we not forget the heroic examples of those who crossed a thousand miles of ocean to uphold the Stars and Stripes, the speaker declared that patriotism still demands of us to carry on the fight that they begun.

Mr. Pitts served throughout the war in the 6th, regular army division as an aide to the Brigadier General and spent several months in France.

Following the speaking, barbecued meats were served and in the afternoon the Marbury eleven engaged in a contest with the second string from the Lanier High School in Montgomery.

MINOOKA

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Lett and two children of East Lake were the dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Zuiderhoek and family Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Carroll of Birmingham were the afternoon visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Chemell last Sunday.

Mr. Herman Vess of Chicago was home with his parents last week. Mr. Vess is a prominent hotel manager in Chicago. We are all proud that we have such a promising young man in our community and we all extend a hearty welcome to this young man any time he wishes to visit us. We wish him as much luck and happiness in the future as he has had in the past.

Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Lawler have returned to the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Zuiderhoek, where they will make their home this winter.

The many friends and relatives of Miss Nora Evelyn Roberts, a former resident of this community, who is now making her home in Duncan, Okla., were very glad indeed to hear that she has been successful in securing a job in a department store. She reports that all is well.

We received word last week that Miss Eleanor Merrell, who is making her home in Tuscumbia and attending Florence Normal School, is doing splendid work in school. We all wish she would hurry and come home as we miss her sweet smile very much.

Mr. Clayton Wallace and Mr. "Goat" Askins were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Zuiderhoek Monday.

Mr. Ira Grant of Birmingham visited his father-in-law, Mr. R. A. Barnette, last week.

Mr. Edgar Barnette was at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Barnette, Sunday.

Misses Neva Jane Key and Elizabeth Roberts attended the play given at Jemison Friday night.

Mrs. Louis Chemell and daughter, "Dot" spent the week end with friends and relatives in Mulga, Ala.

Mr. Ed Simms of Calera was the afternoon guest of Mr. J. E. Zuiderhoek Monday.

Mr. Clarence Bray and Miss Lois Blake of Calera visited Miss Helen Zuiderhoek Friday afternoon.

Miss Marie Anderson has returned home after spending a few days in Birmingham with friends and relatives.

Quite a number of young people had an enjoyable time last Saturday night at the weiner roast given at the ball diamond. We all had a sneezing and a crying good time cause there were some of the strongest onions served we have ever tried to eat.

Some of the young people of our community attended the theatre at Montevallo Tuesday night and everyone had a wonderful time.

Miss Helen Zuiderhoek spent the evening and also was the dinner guest of Mrs. Robert Bold last Thursday.

Preaching At Samaria Baptist Church Sund'y

There will be preaching at the Samaria Baptist church next Sunday and Sunday night. The pastor, Rev. J. W. Jones, will use as his subject Sunday morning, "NRA - BRA." This is quite an interesting topic and is of great importance. Everyone who can should avail themselves of the opportunity to hear it. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

Mt. Pleasant School News

We want to remind all the parents to pay their incidental fees, because there are several debts hanging over our school and there are also several more important things to be purchased. We want to remind them also that we haven't much wood and days are getting colder. We wish to thank those who have responded.

Our civics class is showing much interest since we have ordered a little notebook entitled, "Our Progress Book In Civics."

All the girls are working hard to get the girls basket ball team started with their playing.

Coach Carl Glasscock is carrying the boys to Union Grove Friday afternoon for the first basket ball game they have played this season. To show that you have some school spirit be there, and root for your team.

Mr. W. L. Sanders, one of the members of our county board of education, also a patron of our school, visited us last Thursday. We are always glad to have our parents visit us in school.

Our P.-T. A. met last Wednesday p.m. and made plans for a chicken supper to be given here on Wednesday night before Thanksgiving. Notice next week's paper for further announcements. Our P.-T. A. holds its next meeting Monday, November 27. This is a very important meeting and all parents are urged to be present.

The meeting of the 4-H club was called together by our president, Ertice Riggins, Tuesday morning, November 7th. The minutes were discussed by our secretary and treasurer, Everee Smith. Plans were made for our year's work. There are 55 members enrolled thus far.

We are sorry to say two of our patrons, Mrs. Marion Nelson and Mr. Tom Burnett, are in very bad health at present, but we hope them a speedy recovery.

We have four new members this week listed as: Julia Cox, Junior One Grade; Jesse Cox, Sixth Grade; Annie Ruth Pate, Sixth Grade; Marguerite Pate, Fourth Grade.

Build Up Health and Pains Go Away

WOMEN who suffer from weakness often have many aches and pains which a stronger state of health would prevent.

Women in this condition should take Cardui, a purely vegetable tonic that has been in use for over 50 years.

Take Cardui to improve the general tone of the system in cases of run-down health and "tired nerves." Women have found, in such cases, that Cardui helps them to overcome pains and make the monthly periods easier.

CARDUI is safe and wholesome for women of all ages. Try it!

OAK GROVE

Our B. Y. P. U. is getting along fine. Hope it will continue. Everyone has an invitation to come and be with us.

There were not many of our Sunday school members out last Sunday, but we urge each one to be out next Sunday and on time.

Last Thursday eevning the Intermediate Sunday school class of Oak Grove church enjoyed a social given at the home of Charles Nix. From the time the guests arrived until their departure games and contests were enjoyed by the following guests: Misses Gladys and Roberta Satterwhite, Onzell and Orell Littleton and Loy Mae Glass, Mr. Ocie and Owen Littleton, Labon and Rip Northcutt, Marvin Sutley, Pete Glass, Frank Lessley, James and J. F. Nix, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Seay and the host, Charles Nix.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Webb and family have moved to their former home in Brighton. The community will surely miss this family as they were good in church work, Mrs. Webb being pianist. What is Oak Grove's loss is Brighton's gain.

Miss Johnnie Mae Martin of Woodlawn was the week end guest of Misses Thelma Pierce.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Pierce and little daughter were week end guests of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Pierce.

Mr. Harry Martin visited friends and relatives here this week end.

Miss Gladys Cobb spent the week end with Miss Hazel Glass.

Mr. Marvin Sutley and Misses Gladys and Roberta Satterwhite, Mary Jim Sutley attended church down at Union Grove Saturday night.

Several young people visited Miss Gladys Cobb Friday night.

WHY WAIT FOR GEORGE TO SPEND IT

Legend tells us of a Chinese ruler who decreed that at a given moment each and every one of his subjects should yell at his loudest so that the man in the moon might hear.

The great day came—and silence. Not a sound was heard in all the land except the feeble cry of one old deaf man. Everyone else kept quiet so that he himself could hear the others.

Thus we see that one more ancient discovery may be credited to the resourceful Chinese—that of "letting George do it"—the most widely used of all their gifts to civilization.

Today too many of us are waiting for George to spend it.

I am no prophet. I have no standing as an economist. And I am not a magician despite my claim that a thing can be made larger by taking away a part of it.

What do I mean?

The best way to insure capital is to spend a part of it when prices are low.

The man who spends one dollar out of ten in making business better will find the nine worth more than the ten as values rise.

Mass achievement is ever a matter of individual and co-operative action. Napoleon got his army over the Alps a man at a time. We must rescale the peaks of prosperity the same way. The Now Is The Time To Buy Trail is our easiest path.

Each one who can must spend—and millions can spend if they but will.

While we are waiting for the release of frozen funds to start a buying wave, nineteen out of every twenty dollars in 16,655 banks are free to spend as we will. $33,695,974,000 are on deposit. This is 25 per cent more money than we had in all of our banks when we went into the World War to help save those across the sea.

Now we refuse to save ourselves.

Depression will linger if we wait to spend out of income instead of out of capital—and our capital may shrink while we wait.

Industry has signed with N. R. A. Some have signed until it hurts. The public should now sign with industry and spend some of its capital. The cow without pasture can give no milk. An industry without sales can pay no wages. Feed industry. Buy something. Build something. Let us not forget this—better an hour of work than a dollar for dole.

Capital is going to take care of the unemployed—either by buying what labor produces or by dole taxation. The choice is obvious.

And when we spend, personal selfishness should take a holiday. The chisel should not replace the golden rule as a business tool. Those who use it will help prolong depression and in the end murder quality.

Let's take a look at the Blue Eagle.

We see in its grasp the symbols of industry and action. The chisel is conspicuous by its absence. Let's remember this whenever we do business with our fellow men.

And further, neither capital nor labor should attempt in times like these to intrench itself at the expense of the common good. And no chisel should lurk in any political coat-tail. Let us have public, as well as private, unselfishness.

Ours is the richest country in all the world. It is rich in money. It is rich in market. It is rich in a necessity of replacement and repair built up by the highest standards of living the world has ever known.

Let's inflate our confidence before we inflate our currency. Let's remember that God helps those who help themselves and that Mr. Roosevelt is not likely to do more. He can't throw the forward passes and catch them too. He expects each and every one of us to play ball with him.

Let's stop nursing depression. Let's begin to count our blessings. Business is better. It is like a man with a trunk half way up stairs. It is but taking a rest before starting for the top. Let's give it a boost.

Buy Something!

Build Something!

This message is not addressed to those who cannot spend or to those who now are spending. It is addressed to the man who is jingling the slacker dollar in his pocket, little aware that it is growing less in purchasing power as prices rise.

Teel Family Reunion And Birthday Cele'b'n

One of the most interesting social features during the past week was a birthday celebration and family reunion Sunday in honor of Tom J. Teel, who celebrated his 87th birthday. More than fifty members of the family and friends gathered at his home in Clanton Sunday to join in the celebration.

Besides being one of the oldest residents in the county, Mr. Teel is prominently known throughout the length and breadth of Chilton county.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Teel and family; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Teel and family; Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Teel and family; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Teel and family; Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Moatts and family; Mrs. Callie B. Teel, and Byrdie, Tom Frank and Peggy; Mrs. Lizzie Teel and children; Claude Teel of Birmingham; Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Duke; Mrs. B. Duke and family; Vernie Teel; Mr. and Mrs. Tom Taylor; Elder J. A. Murphy; Mr. Oliver and family of Alexander City; Mrs. Lindsay.

A bountiful dinner was spread at the noon hour, and the beautiful day coupled with the joy of friendships renewed made this an event long to be remembered by all present.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Teel, children and grandson, of Alexander City, were in Clanton Sunday attending the birthday celebration and family reunion of Mr. Teel's father, Tom J. Teel.

Isabella F.F.A. Starting Work With Bang

President Homer Morgan Is Making Fine Official

The Isabella F.F.A. Chapter has started the work off this year better than ever before. The first action of the chapter was to set up the "program of work" putting stress on the following points:

1. Have an active F.F.A. chapter with not less than four members holding State Farmer Degree at the end of the State Convention, July, 1934.
2. Hold the annual father-son-mother-daughter banquet.
3. Start F.F.A. Library.
4. Sponsor live-at-home program by making a five-year plan to suit the needs of the community.
5. Start some cooperative projects for the surrounding communities' benefit, such as: (a) community hot-beds, (b) rat killing campaign.
6. Each F.F.A. boy take a home beautification project.
7. Construct dressing room and shower for the athletic department of school.
8. Help to uphold the state organization by sending in suggestions for the improvement of same, and a number of others that we hope to carry out during the year.

The F.F.A. boys were entertained last Saturday night with a party given by Clifford Manning for the F.F.A. boys. All the boys that attended seemed to enjoy it very much. They were entertained with games and contests after which they were served with a grape drink and cake.

We are planning to have our annual banquet jointly with the Home Ec. Club Tuesday night, November 28. Each boy and girl are to invite their father and mother. Some special guest will be the speaker of the occasion.

We hope the F.F.A. boys will continue with the work as they have started through the coming year.

VERBENA DEFEATS BILLINGSLEY BY SCORE OF 31-0

After having undergone several major changes in the line-up during the past two weeks the Verbena team found itself in a trim state of balance and, with the pep and fight characteristic of the teams of bygone years, paraded the glorious old home gridiron for a 31-0 victory over Billingsley Friday afternoon.

Though the Billingsley team also had been reenforced with some "bigger and better" men since the Verbena boys plastered a 13-0 victory for themselves onto it October 13, it was not match for the fast and powerful hammering it was to receive Friday.

From behind a seemingly irresistible line the flashy Reaves sprinted out for two touchdowns, one around right end, and other from a double reverse play which sent him around left end untouched. Captain Barrett plunged thru the line for another. The Rabbit tumbled over right tackle for one six points and intercepted a forward pass and ran 47 yards for another. Reaves carried the ball over for the extra point after the 4th touchdown.

An uncompromising line and the safety and accuracy of Vinson's kicking made punting a safe bet for a nice gain.

MIDWAY-MT. CREEK CLUB

The Midway-Mt. Creek Club met with Mrs. Charles Cooper November 8, with Mrs. W. A. Adams, president, in charge. Miss Ruth Pardue, our demonstration agent, and Mrs. L. T. Davis, one of the community leaders, gave us a talk on General Care and Renovation of Old Clothes. Miss Dobyne, our District Agent, met with us. She made a very interesting talk on Club Work.

PLEASANT VALLEY SINGING SOCIETY MET LAST SUNDAY

The second Sunday singing society met last Sunday afternoon. We are very glad to report a large crowd of singers and listeners. Representatives were present from Indian Grave, Mt. Pisgah and Bethsalem.

The society was called to order at shortly after 2:00 o'clock and lasted until after 3:30. Some very good singing was rendered by a number of good leaders.

We wish to thank those visitors who helped to make our meeting a success, and urge you to come again. We, in return, promise to repay those visits. We also wish to urge all singers and people interested in singing in this community to come out and help us welcome our vistors next second Sunday.

INK DROPS FROM C. C. H. S.

MANHIOD

Boy, write it down for your guidance, the whole of your journey through;
Men may be richer and wiser, but none can be cleaner than you.

Some may be stronger in body, the great feats of life they may do,
But even the genius can never be fairer and squarer than you.

You may be weak in your labor, for that is a physical test,
But in all the strong virtues of manhood you can equal the greatest and best.

If it's said you were cheerful and kindly, if it's said you were honest and true,
No more could be told of a monarch for the best has been spoken of you.

For honor and truth have no shadings, no differing parts or degrees.
And in virtue the humblest can equal the mightiest man that he sees.

You may not be clever or skillful, you may not be as strong as the few;
But if you've the mind to be honest there is none can be straighter than you.

—Edgar A. Guest.

This poem is well worth the space taken by it. Those who do not have the best in material things of life will find solace and encouragement in this poem. It is a sermon within itself and should be the goal of every one who wishes to be a success in life.

Coach Searcy's Tigers added another victory to their credit in the smashing defeat of the Montevallo eleven last Friday afternoon on the home gridiron. It seems that our boys really play during the last games of a season. Joe Moore, Carl Jones, and Emanuel Cooper shone last Friday as our stars. While our captain, Jesse Frank Foshee, though hindered by an injured knee, should not be overlooked in listing those who played a great game Friday. "Gabby" Tiffin was there with those passes and line plunges of his. Our line is becoming a real line, a miniature Crimson Tide if I may say so. Keep up the good work boys and when you go to Holtville tomorrow make Holtville look up to you again this year with a one-sided score like last year's score. Come on Chilton!

Armistice Day was not forgotten at C. C. H. S. last Friday. A very splendid and educational program was presented by the students under the direction of Miss Sarah Colley. Scenes of the hardships, the sufferings, and other war scenes were enacted upon the stage. The good spirit and unselfish service that the American Red Cross rendered during the World War was also pictured. One of the main features of the program was an inspiratoinal talk by Mr. W. M. Wyatt, who represented the Chilton County Post of the American Legion. He briefly outlined and discussed the aims, organization and purpose of the American Legion. The students and other people who attended this program greatly enjoyed it.

The local post of the American Legion will award, at the close of this school year, a medal or a similar prize to the boy and to the girl in the Senior Class who have attained high marks and commendations in honesty, scholarship and achievement. This is indeed an honor to work for. This is being carried on in every school in the state and it will be considered a high honor to be the recipient of this prize. You Seniors try for this, an attempt won't hurt us anyway.

Miss Frances Gulledge, Senior Class sponsor and English instructor, is the next teacher who was interviewed by the writer. Miss Gulledge was born at Verbena, Ala., on May 25, 1907, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Gulledge. Her high school days were spent at Verbena High and Marbury High, graduating from Marbury High in 1923. She entered Judson College at Marion and in 1927 was awarded her B. A. degree. While at Judson Miss Gulledge majored in English and minored in history. She also specialized in voice and art and received a diploma in the latter in 1927. In the year 1928 Miss Gulledge began her work toward a Master's degree at Columbia University in New York. She also has studied at Howard College for one summer. In 1930, Miss Gulledge went abroad and toured eight European countries from which she has received much enlightening and interesting knowledge. She had the privilege of visiting in Oberammergau where the Passion Play is held which she attended. Other schools which have shared her versatile and intelligent personality were, Hayneville High School, two years; and Troy City High School, four years. This is Miss Gulledge's first year as a teacher at C.C.H.S., but during the few months that she has been here everyone has learned to love her. She has made many friends with her friendly personality. Praises and approvals have been given her as she has worked among her fellowmen.

Oh! I Wish We Had Our Telephone Back

IT'S a lonesome, isolated kind of life, trying to get along without a telephone. Out of touch with friends—seldom invited out, and unable to call friends to invite them over for an evening.

"It just doesn't pay," said a customer recently. "I want my telephone back. The happiness and comfort we've missed was worth far more than the small amount we saved by trying to do without it."

When you compare the numerous advantages that a telephone in your home affords with the small cost you will probably agree, too, that it really doesn't pay to try to do without it.

You can afford the few pennies a day that a telephone costs. Order yours put back now. Just call the telephone business office or give your order to any telephone employe.

Baker School News

We appreciate the peoples' kind help in our fire accident last Friday a.m. when our school building caught on fire. We are very glad that we have it repaired and are ready to continue with school as we did before.

Miss Gladys Wyatt was the Thursday night guest of Miss Lucile Powell.

Miss Lorena Billingsley was the guest of Miss Min Lee Lockhart Friday afternoon.

Last Friday afternoon the boys of Baker went to Isabella and had a game. The score was 21 to 24 in favor of Isabella. Wednesday, November 15, the Isabella boys will visit the Baker boys. Come on, boys and girls, of Baker and boost our team.

We are planning to put on a Thanksgiving program Thanksgiving. Watch the paper for the correct date.

Liberty Hill Singing

The Liberty Hill singing society met last Sunday afternoon. A large crowd was present and the singing was good.

The directors for the afternoon were Clint Billingsley, Fonza Coe, G. F. Clackler, F. I. Popwell, J. E. Minor, Sovereign Dickey, L. T. Grant, D. T. Melton. Pianists were Misses Dessie Wyatt, Olene Mims, Mrs. Eddie Bell Wright and Mr. F. I. Popwell.

We were glad to have the visitors from Jackson Chapel, Highland and Pleasant Grove. Mr. L. T. Grant visited our singing also. We want you visitors to come again any time you can.

Our singing society meets every second Sunday afternoon. All visitors are welcome and especially do we want the singers to come.

EASTVIEW

The social and weiner roast given by the Christian Endeavor last Friday night was attended by a large crowd. Miss Marguerite Davison and Miss Dorothy Butler from Thorsby attended the social. Many games were played. They weer directed by Miss Davison.

Mrs. A. C. Nelson has been sick in bed since last Saturday. Mrs. Clara Rushing has been sick in bed since Sunday. Mrs. Mamie Traywick has been suffering with a painful eye for several days. We hope for them a speedy recovery.

Mr. Otis Coggins was a visitor here Sunday. Mrs. Carnelia Coggins is spending this week with her mother, Mrs. A. C. Nelson.

Miss Eldora Hull was the Sunday dinner guest of Misses Mary Sue and Emmer Dean Smith.

Mrs. Lavolia Williams of Montgomery is spending a few days with her mother, Mrs. Mamie Traywick.

Mr. Lee Nelson of Tallassee was a visitor here Sunday.

The Christian Endeavor is planning a debate for the second Saturday night in December. The subject will be: Resolved that it is worse for a church member to sit down and do nothing than for them to try to rule or ruin. The public will be invited.

Miss Marguerite Davison taught a leaders and teachers training class here Monday and Tuesday nights of this week. She will teach here the same nights next week.

She will teach at Mt. Springs church Wednesday and Thursday nights of this week and next.

Rev. and Mrs. A. C. Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Rushing and Mr. Silas Nelson attended the State Conference of Congregational Churches at Thorsby last week.

Mr. Bennie Guy of Mt. Creek spent Thursday night of last week with Rev. A. C. Nelson.

Miss Vera Cox of Shiloh was a visitor in Eastview community Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Levis Strength spent the week end with Mrs. Sallie Strength.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Strength will soon move back into our community. We are glad to welcome them back into our midst.

We need more fathers and mothers to attend our Sunday school and Christian Endeavor. Come and let your light shine.

John Best of Buffalo was arraigned in court on a charge of public intoxication and when asked by the judge how he pleaded to the charge, he declared, "Not innocent." He was fined $10.

Thousands have Ended their Bowel Worries by taking this advice!

NRA

Can constipation actually be overcome? "Yes!" say medical men. "Yes!" say the many thousands who have followed their advice and know.

You are not likely to cure your constipation with salts, pills, tablets, or any of the habit-forming cathartics. But you can correct this condition by gentle regulation with a suitable liquid laxative.

THE LIQUID TEST:

This is the way many men and women have made their bowels as regular as clockwork in a very short time.

First: select a properly prepared liquid laxative. Second: take the dose you find suited to your system. Third: gradually reduce the dose until bowels are moving of their own accord.

Simple, isn't it? And it works! The right liquid laxative brings [illegible] action without using force. An approved liquid laxative (one which is most widely used for both adults and children) is syrup pepsin. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a prescription, and is perfectly safe. Its laxative action is based on senna—a natural laxative. The bowels will not become dependent on this form of help, as in the case of mineral drugs.

Hospitals and doctors have always used liquid laxatives. The dose can be measured, and the action controlled. Pills and tablets containing drugs of violent action are hard on the bowels.

If there are children in your household, don't give them any fad form of laxative, but use a healthful, helpful preparation like syrup pepsin. Its very taste will tell you it is wholesome, and agreeable to the stomach. Delightful taste, and delightful action; there is no discomfort at the time, or after. Ask your druggist for Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, all ready to take.

Statement Of City Regarding Plier Case

Say Case Was Continued Without Consent Of City Officials

There appeared a news item in the Chilton County News on November 9, 1933, regarding the case of the State v. Johnny Plier and regarding the continuance of said case at the recent term of the Circuit Court of Chilton County, Alabama, and in which it was stated that a continuance of this case had been approved by the Mayor and Council and city attorney of the Town of Clanton.

In this connection the interested parties wish to state that the matter of continuing this case was not taken up with the Mayor or Council of the Town of Clanton and was continued without their consent, but that the city attorney, at the request of the prosecuting authorities did discuss with the mayor and clerk the question of continuing this case on account of the absence of defendant's main witness and the Mayor stated that this case should be disposed of as the case was several years old, but that the matter was in the hands of the Solicitors for the State and the question of the continuance of this case was necessarily left with the prosecuting solicitors, which was communicated to the prosecuting authorities by the city attorney, and the interested parties would like to make this correction in regard to the continuance of this case.

The Clanton Grammar School P.-T. A. met Friday, November 10, at three o'clock. The following program was given by pupils of the fifth grade:

Scripture Reading, Lorene Bone.
Prayer, Nellie Grubbs.
November, A Group of Pupils.
Things I Am Thankful For, Mary Wyatt.
A Piano Selection, Ann Ross.
Music Is a Magic Thing, A Group of Pupils.

At the conclusion of the childrens program, Mr. Little made an interesting talk on P.-T. A. work. Miss Mary England of the state department, was present and encouraged the members to work in harmony, and so have a line on organization.

The fifth grade had the most votes from the parents, so will get the half holiday.

Vermont Junior High School News

Remember that our P.-T. A. meets tonight, Thursday, November 16, at 6:30 o'clock. Several matters of vital concern are to be discussed, such as purchasing a piano for the school, promoting better attendance, introducing new members, and the appointment of the publicity and entertainment committees, etc. Set your plans now to be present for the school needs your help and cooperation.

The play, "A Poor Married Man," was presented last Saturday night to a packed house. Approximately four hundred people attended. Gross recepits from the entertainment were $43.50. This will be used in purchasing new equipment for our school. We were proud to see a large number of people from Maplesville, Isabella, Mt. Pleasant, Stanton and other adjoining communities present. Accommodations were limited, but we placed as many seats as possible in the auditorium. Just another instance of a complete sell-out of tickets.

The school takes this opportunity to express thanks to Mr. W. W. Klinner for the use of his piano and other furniture necessary to stage the play effectively. We are also grateful to Sardis church for the use of seats and lights.

Our boys' basket ball team will play their first game of the season next Friday afternoon when they meet the Cooper Jr. High team at Cooper. Our team this year is composed of new and inexperienced players, but they are anxious to learn and are drilling faithfully in preparation for their opening game. The prospective players are as follows: Charlie Sansom, captain, T.J. Ratliff, alternate captain, Sam Headley, Raymond Hayes, L. D. Sansom, Earlo Short.

Among the outstanding visitors who attended the play last Saturday night were Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Cagle from Mitchell Dam and Mr. and Mrs. Jean Wyatt of Clanton.

The faculty and student body regret the loss of our beloved school and class mates, Willie and J. T. Crane, who are moving to Plantersville. We send our best wishes with them.

RED CROSS FUNDS

have been expended for during the past year. The committee was requested to secure this information from local Red Cross officials. Therefore, after due investigation, the following statement is authorized by the committee:

During the year ending September 30, 1933, the Chilton County Chapter of the American Red Cross received a total of $612.51 through memberships in the annual Roll Call.

Funds expended by the county chapter during that period totaled $602.28, distributed among the following named causes:

For relief extended to people in the Helena storm, $38.44; for stationery, postage and supplies for operating the county chapter office, $80.50; for drayage in handling supplies distributed to the needy, $54.30; for membership fees sent to headquarters of American Red Cross at Washington, $219.62; for medicine, hospital services, crutches for cripples, and local relief measures for the poor in Chilton County, $209.42.

For the further information of the public, it is pointed out by the committee that none of the officials of the local Red Cross chapter draw any salary for their services or expenses.

Concerning the question of what is sometimes referred to as "Red Cross flour and clothes," the Kiwanis Club committee points out that none of those items are paid for out of funds given through Red Cross membership. The Red Cross has only acted as distributing agents for the government in giving flour and clothes to the unemployed and needy. It is not "Red Cross flour and clothes" that have been given out. It is government flour and clothes given out through the Red Cross.

In view of these facts above set forth, and remembering with much gratefulness the great program of relief and rehabilitation by the National Red Cross in our own county following the storms of 1932, the Kwanis Club of Clanton sincerely urges all our citizens to rally to the support of the Red Cross this year by enlisting in the Roll Call.

Our county is asked for a quota of 500 members this year. We surely ought to reach that number. All but 50 cents of each membership stays in the treasury of the local county chapter, and will be spent for the relief of our own poor and needy people. Wherever disaster may lay the heavy hand of destruction and human suffering, we know that the Red Cross will be prompt, ready and efficient in meeting the needs.

Therefore, the Kiwanis Club of Clanton sincerely and most heartily urges our people to "Join the Red Cross Now."

twenty-two places in the county and every effort was made to induce and aid families on relief to provide food for the winter by canning.

Eight hundred-seventeen families on the relief rolls of the county preserved 20,280 quarts of vegetables and fruits, and dried 500 pounds of vegetables and fruits, the records show. These products were estimated to be worth $5,000 to the county.

Since the end of the canning season, much time has been devoted to club organization, Miss Pardue stated, and to date twenty-one women's clubs, with a membership of 221, have been organized. There are thirty-one girls' 4-H clubs in the county, with a membership of 409. Plans have been made to organize several other clubs at an early date, it is understood.

BIG STOCK SALE AT MAPLESVILLE TOMORROW, FRIDAY

Maplesville Stock Sale, starts tomorrow morning at 10:30 sharp, cattle, horses, mules, are all on the grounds, munching feed, and waiting the sound of the gong which will open the sale, and send them to new homes and the slaughter pens.

Chilton county should turn out strong for this sale, as it is the first of its kind ever held, and its future depends upon the success of this first sale, and besides it offers the farmers a chance to buy stock, less the middle man's profit, and sell the same way.

Col. W. W. Fox and Bob Little will sell the stock at auction, and both claim they have never seen a nicer lot of good live stock offered.

Maplesville has done her part in great style, so let's all turn out to show our appreciation of her efforts.

To those not interested in buying stock many other things will be offered. And by the way, good old-fashion barbecue, beef and pork, cold drinks or hot coffee can be had from beginning to the end of the sale.

So come on folks, let's go—it's Maplesville's first—don't let it be the last.

COTTON TO BRING $80,000 MORE

one thousand and six hundred dollars were received in outright payment in the plow under campaign.

It has often been remarked that the government never does anything for the farmer, but the administration seems to have scored a bulls-eye with the several steps in the cotton acreage reduction plans; and the farmers of Chilton county are exhibiting 100 per cent cooperation, judging from the records.

At no time in the past five years has there been more money in Chilton county than at present, was the expressed opinion last week of J. C. Page, cashier of the First National Bank. Merchants and business men over the county continue to give out optimistic reports, so perhaps at last we have reached that longed-for corner around which is supposed to linger prosperity.

Cooperating with the President in his drive to give immediate employment to 2,000,000 men in an effort to lessen distress and suffering this winter, members of the county government have submitted plans for nine projects, which if approved by the government and allocation of funds made for their construction, will give employment to several hundred persons in the county.

Several other construction projects in the county, including the possible installation of a waterworks system at Thorsby and the paving of several miles of the Selma highway, will afford work for Chilton countians this winter.

Maplesville Couple Celebrate Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Minor of Maplesville celebrated their 40th anniversary Sunday, November 12th. They had as their guest their son, C. B. Minor, of Sylacauga and their four daughters, Mrs. A. T. Carroll and two children of Birmingham, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Ratliff and six children of Stanton. Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Giles and six children of Pletcher and Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Riggs of San Francisco, Calif.; also Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Scott and daughter, Adelle, were present at the celebration. A delightful dinner was served and enjoyed by all.

Otice Giles, their grandson, also celebrated his 12th birthday Sunday.

CHILTON COUNTY POSSIBLE POLITICS

By Victor Norris

For several hundred families in Chilton county the depression ended Tuesday morning. Four hundred men had jobs, for the first time perhaps since the depression began.

Through the Government's Civil Works program, allocation of funds for the continuous employment of 805 men in the county for a period of several weeks has been made.

But alas; already politics are creeping in. Certain politicians, who seem never to have been troubled wth the common ailment known as inferiority complex, are not opposed to letting the people gather the distorted impression that "WE" are entirely responsible for the county program.

This money is a grant from the federal government to aid the unemployed in Chilton county, and not for the purpose of perpetuating, or promoting, county politics; and such willful misinformation is an abuse and an insult to the intelligence of the people of this county. Too bad that Politics seems entirely void of conscience.

This week surmises become certainties. Dr. P. T. Hinkle has tossed a hat into the ring for probate judge. The game is young yet, and ere long Dr. Hinkle will have plenty of company. He made a good race last time, we understand, and a few more votes added to his former total may mean a change-up in county government.

Dr. V. J. Gragg, too, makes his formal announcement this week, for senator of this district, comprised of Chilton, Shelby and Autauga counties. If he puts that same dynamic forcefulness into the campaign that characterized the efforts of the country lad, who began his career as a teacher in a one-teacher school some thirty-odd years ago and through his own efforts became one of the most outstanding physicians and surgeons of his state, it'll likely be "Senator Gragg" a year from now.

Thanksgiving is usually considered the dead line for football. But the "Political Eleven" (eleven candidates for each office) are just getting down to good hard scrimmaging. Fake passes are usually the favorite play.

Right now every indication centers around the Johnnie Plier case as the big game of the season. It seems to form the basis for the strong "kick." In fact it's just about all kicks.

The game got underway about ten days ago, when Judge Tate overruled an alleged agreement between defendant attorneys and parties of the prosecution for a continuance in the case. Right there, a record of twenty years was broken, but while the referee was down studying the rules in an effort to try to find out what to do next, a political angle began protruding. It was remembered that J. B. Atkinson, defendant attorney, is likely to be a candidate for circuit judge.

The next play came from the City Administration of Clanton, prosecutors in the case, when they published a statement declaring they were not parties to the agreement. It seems, however, that certain city officials, including the city attorney, were present when the announcement was made by the solicitor that such an agreement had been made, and no protest was made until the political atmosphere became evident.

So its's a matter of conjecture whether the next play will be a "kick" or the proverbial fake pass.

The last cussin out we had was from an Earle Thomas supporter. It seems that some people over the county gathered the idea from last week's column that an element of opposition to Earle for senator was underway, but the little discussion that we overheard which formed the basis for last week's statement was to the effect that Thomas would probably make a mighty good representative, thus placing Thomas and Gragg in the position of hearty team mates instead of friendly opponents.

Chilton County News,
Clanton, Alabama.
Gentlemen:

I am preparing an article in which I wish to refer to the career of former Senator Tom Heflin, but have had some difficulty in obtaining up-to-the-minute information about him here in Minneapolis.

The latest clipping I have been able to obtain is an A. P. dispatch from Clanton stating that Mr. Heflin had been nominated for Justice of the Peace by Chilton county Republicans.

Can you inform me whether or not he was elected to this office, what he is doing now, and any important facts about his recent activities?

I shall greatly appreciate your courtesy in giving me a little assistance.

Yours very truly,
Arthur C. Hoppin.

COTTON PAY CONTINUES TO INCREASE

No Definite Date Is Set For The Payment Of Option Money

The sum of money paid to Chilton county farmers in the form of government loans on their cotton continues to mount. Through Monday, November 20, $178,193.61 had been loaned to 1,259 farmers on 3,473 bales of cotton.

It was stated at the county agent's office that no definite date had been set for the distribution of $80,000 that is due the farmers who plowed under a portion of their cotton acreage on the option plan. This sum represents the difference in six cents, on which options were based, and ten cents, the rate at which government is lending money on the staple.

2 CANDIDATES ENTER FIELD

OVER 800 PERSONS TO GET JOBS IN COUNTY BY DECEMBER FIRST

Federal Government Aid Touches Chilton County With 400 Already Given Jobs At From Nine Dollars To Twelve Dollars Per Week

The pangs of the depression have been alleviated, temporarily at least, for several hundred families in Chilton county. Tuesday morning four hundred men had a job for the first time perhaps in four or five years—a job that offers them the opportunity to earn an honest living and do a worthwhile work. Four hundred others will begin work within the next ten days.

Under the provisions of the Civil Works Administration, an allocation of funds to furnish continuous employment for eight hundred and five men has been granted Chilton county. Four hundred were selected from the relief rolls and an additional four hundred are to be selectd from unemployed in the county by December 1, it is understood.

Several county projects recently submitted to the Civil Works Administration have been approved and work made available for eight hundred men. Forty hours per week at thirty and forty cents per hour. Road work will pay thirty cents per hour and construction projects forty cents, giving the county a weekly payroll of between $7,245 and $9,660.

Work was begun Tuesday on the following projects in the county: Draining the swamps surrounding

Cochran To Remain As Methodist Pastor

Clanton rejoiced this week when it was learned that the Rev. R. P. Cochran will remain in Clanton for another year as pastor of the Methodist church, following the Methodist conference held recently.

The Rev. Cochran enters on his second term as pastor of the Methodist church here, and during the past two years he and his family have made countless friends throughout the county.

Other assignments of interest in the county include the Rev. Cecil M. Ellisor, who will also continue to serve as pastor of the Verbena Methodist church for another year, entering his second pastorate there, where he has made many friends.

Veteran Minister Injured In Auto Accident

Dr. W. P. Reeves, pastor of the First Baptist church of Tuskegee, who recently conducted a revival at the Clanton Baptist church, was the victim of a serious automobile accident near Clanton last Saturday afternoon, when his car left the highway and crashed into a telephone pole.

At the Central Alabama hospital in Clanton where he was taken by a Martin & Sons ambulance, it was thought that the veteran minister had suffered a concussion of the brain, but later reports indicate that his injuries were less serious.

Dr. Reeves was returning from the Baptist convention at Sheffield to his home in Tuskegee when the accident occurred. Slippery pavement was blamed for the mishap.

FINAL DRIVE WILL BE MADE FOR RED CROSS

Roll Call To End November 30th; Citizens Are Asked To Respond

A final spurt to secure memberships to the Red Cross in Chilton County will be made this week and next, as the Roll Call comes to a close Thursday, November 30th.

The memberships are falling short of the usual number this year, and in the final drive all citizens in the county are asked to respond as freely as possible.

More workers are needed, it was stated, and volunteers are being asked throughout the county. Anyone wishing to do their part may get in touch with chairmen in the towns in the county, who are, Clanton, Billy Smith; Jemison, Mrs. Nora Wells; Maplesville, Mrs. J. P. Payne; and Verbena, Hon. Sid Gibson.

Democratic Executive Committee To Meet

The Democratic Executive Committee of Chilton County is called to meet on Friday afternoon, November 24th, at one o'clock at the Wilson Hotel, according to a statement Monday from Hon. P. D. Wilson, chairman of the committee.

Isabella Will Play Chilton High Friday

The local gridiron will be the scene of one of the greatest football battles Clanton has even seen next Friday when the Chlton County High School team will meet the strong Isabella team. This promises to be and will be one of the best football games of the season for several reasons. One is that Chilton and Isabella have been bitter rivals in football for many years and both teams are determined to leave the field with a victory in their belt. Both teams have expressed themselves saying that they were going to win the game Friday.

This game is also the last game that ten of the Chilton players will ever be in as a high school football player, and they have promised to play as they have never played before. The game will be called promptly at 1:30 and the admission will be fifteen and twenty-five cents. Don't miss it.

MINISTER RESIDING AT VERBENA HAS A VERY UNUSUAL RECORD OF WORK

Forty-nine years ago, in a little frame church building in the hills of Coosa county, a service ordaining the Rev. J. D. Hughes as a Baptist minister was conducted.

The twenty-three year old youth, with his Bible under his arm, set forth on the mission of bringing souls into the folds of salvation.

His record bespeaks his success.

Since that day when the ordination ceremonies were read, never has a Sunday passed without the Rev. Hughes telling the story of the Crucifixion of Jesus of Nazareth, and His plan of salvation.

More than 6,000 sermons have echoed from his lips, and 1,500 persons have been baptized by him. During the forty-nine years that he has served as a minister, he has conducted 400 revivals, performed 750 marriage ceremonies, and conducted 1,500 funerals. He has served as pastor of four or five churches each year.

Born in Macon county, he removed to Coosa county at an early age, where he resided until twenty-three years ago when he removed to Chilton, near Cooper.

He joined the Shady Grove Baptist church, in Coosa, at the age of 17. Two years later he was married to Miss Ella Lee. They have reared two sons and four daughters. C. D. Hughes, postmaster of Verbena, is a son of the veteran minister.

In spite of his 72 years, when his ministerial duties will permit the time, the venerable minister is an ardent fisherman and hunter.

Chilton County Is Certainly Being Recognized

The News cannot understand how anyone could say that the Democratic government is not recognizing Chilton County in its recovery program.

Can you count up the number of dollars that have been turned loose in this county for cotton and for jobs by the United States government since this party took office last March?

How can anyone say that the government does not know what it is doing, and that there is trouble ahead? What the country, including Chilton County, needed was relief right now, not two or three years from now.

We have been wondering if the people of Chilton County who have been receiving the benefits of the great Democratic administration during the past few months, are going to turn their backs on their benefactors when election time comes next year.

The Democratic government of the United States is not asking about politics in its recovery program. Republicans and Democrats alike are receiving help. But, when election time comes, there will be a difference in candidates and a difference in tickets. Which will you accept?

o-o-o-o

The Government Spending Spree

The United States Government is spending borrowed money at the rate of about $200 a second.

And as a certain handsome gentleman with an individual schnozzle would say: "It's spendin' bilyuns—bilyuuns!"

This is all very well, the Man in the Street is inclined to think, but who is going to pay for all the money the Federal Government is spending? How is the United States treasury ever going to get back the money it is spending now?

Prof. Rexford G. Tugwell, speaking for his chiefs, tells how the gigantic sums of money can be repaid to Uncle Sam.

A $10,000,000,000 recovery debt can easily be repaid in three years, he says in the American Magazine. And that is, of course, if the program works. All bets are off about everything if the program does not work.

With a 50 per cent revival in business, Prof. Tugwell figures that the Federal income should reach five billion dollars a year, which is a lot of money in anybody's recovery year.

"Assume," says Prof. Tugwell, "that our revenues in the first year of recovery were four billions of dollars. (A large assumption, indeed, but we are dealing in large figures in this morning's class). In the second year assume that our revenues of recovery are six billions and in the third year eight billions."

In the first year, then, Mr. Tugwell says, "we should pay off one and one-half billion dollars, in the second year, three and one-half billions, and in the third year five and one-half billions. The recovery debt would be paid in three years with a half billion dollars to spare, if Prof. Tugwell's figures are correct.

Going further into details as to what results the Federal Government expects from the National Recovery Act, Prof. Tugwell says:

> The national income for 1928 was 82 billions, and the income tax yielded 2.2 billions. Let us assume, on the present state of progress, that the recovery measures will bring us back 50 per cent toward the prosperity of 1928—and do this within a year. The national income, then, should increase from 40 billions to 60 billions for 1934, and the income tax yield should rise from 746 millions to 1.1 billions. Actually, when our income was 60 billions, in 1931, the income tax yielded 1.9 billions. We ought to be able to count on this much, and it is a substantial answer to those who profess so many fears at present.
> In addition, immense revenue is expected from liquors, with the repeal of the 18th amendment, and from increased customs duties as international trade revives. It would not be extravagant to expect that, with 50 per cent revival, our total revenues might be five billions for the year.
> Figures like these are conjectural. No one can predict the percentage of recovery to be expected during any given period. But, assuming that the program produces substantial results, such an outcome is not at all fantastic. Our national income fell from 82 to 60 billions in two years, and to 40 billions in three years. The fact that it was once as high as 82 billions means that we have the resources, the factories, and the man power to produce that much. We have capacities we are not using. These are not lost. All we need is the courage and the intelligence to put them to work. And if we fell off 40 billions in three years perhaps we can get back in the same time.

"The recovery plan is one way to get back to prosperity," he adds. "If it costs 10 billions over three years to set us on a basis of 80 instead of 40 billions of income a year, our effort will have cost us comparatively little. We shall have spent an average of 3.3 billions a year to gain 40. If you think about the country instead of any individual sacrifice which may be involved, this is worth working for heart and soul. It is a national effort. Government cannot do it alone. No few industrialists can help enough. The whole country has to go along. If it does, we shall get back to the 80-billions days in short order. And we shall pay the costs without particular pain to anyone." —Montgomery Advertiser.

Dr. Hinkle Throws His Hat In The Ring

There will no doubt be a great many people in this county and elsewhere who will derive a great deal of pleasure in seeing the announcement in the News this week of the candidacy of Dr. Peyton T. Hinkle, for Probate Judge of Chilton County.

If the political campaigns were in their "heat" at present, we would burst forth with what we think is a good article about a good man. But right now we will content ourselves with merely saying that we are in accord with those persons whose opinions of Dr. Hinkle are high.

If there ever was a self-made man, Dr. Hinkle can truly be said to be self-made, having lost his parents at a very early age. Dr. Hinkles announcement of his candidacy wll start the ball to rolling in this county in politics, and his early start is no more than one of many instances in his life in not hesitating to let the people know where he stands.

Merchants May Be Passing Up A Great Opportunity

This little editorial is directed to those merchants who have not awakened to the benefits and advantages of newspaper advertising.

The News is not saying that you should advertise in this newspaper alone. But the News is proud of its thousands on thousands of readers.

For the first time in approximately four years, money is flowing in Chilton County. Yes, we say flowing because compared to what it was a year ago, it is simply flowing. The farmer and the working man are receiving a decent price for their labors, and it occurs to the News that you merchants who are not awake to this, and are not inviting the people to trade at your store, telling them through the printed page what you have to sell, are passing up an opportunity that has arrived for the first time in four years. Wake up, do something, there is money in Chilton County, and it is going to be spent—somewhere.

A Challenge To Us All

Early in October the National Safety Congress met in Chicago. It was greeted with a message from President Roosevelt which read in part: "The conservation of human life, and the prevention of accidental injuries, is of vital importance to our welfare and happiness. . . .

"We sacrificed 88,000 lives through accidents last year. Approximately 9,000,000 people were injured. The economic costs run close to two billion dollars. The social cost is immeasurable. Briefly stated, that is our national accident problem, and it certainly offers a most serious challenge to the American people."

At its meeting, the Congress formulated plans for continuing its unremitting fight against accidents through 1934. In that fine work it will be aided by other organizations, such as the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters, which works unremittingly in the interest of safer, happier living. In certain fields—notably that of industry—the work has produced fine fruit. In others—particularly the automobile—the public response has generally been discouraging. And the public pays—in money, in health, in irreplaceable lives.

This year there has been a start made in lowering the automobile death toll, and it will be appreciably under the 1932 level. But thousands of careless drivers still roam the highways, a constant menace to the rest of us. The incompetent and the discourteous and the congenitally reckless still guide tons of metal at high speeds. Here indeed, as the President said, is a great challenge to the American people.

Freedom Of The Press

Fortunate are those editors who haven't anything to worry about but the alleged threat to the freedom of the press, which they claim to see in the NRA movement.

The freedom of the press is assured by the constitution of the United States, but this is not all. It is insured by the determination and courage of the press itself.

Even were there no constitutional guarantees and even were there a disposition in administrative circles to muzzle or control the press, the thing could not be done. The press simply would not submit to it, and in its refusal to submit the press would be sustained fully by public opinion.

Fortunately, however, the constitutional provision stands and, at the same time, there is in administrative circles not the slightest inclination to dictate to or muzzle the press.

Alarm on this score, insofar as the administration is concerned, is groundless. If any threat comes it will be from the Congress, not from the administration, and will be the result of excessive zeal in the attempt to regulate advertising.

Some such proposal as this will be brought forward at the forthcoming session, under the guise of a movement to restrict the sale of medicines, and it should be watched, not only because of its relation to legislative control of newspapers, but because of its relation to public welfare.

Newspapers as a rule exercise a very close censorship over their advertising columns, refusing entry to harmful things, and about the only effect of the suggested legislation would be to stop the advertising of household remedies that are found useful in almost every home and which it should be possible to procure without a prescription. And that sort of thing should not be permitted.

Reduce The Crop

In Morgan County, in Limestone County and in Lawrence County there are records today made by farmers who believed in Uncle Sam. Those farmers took Uncle Sam at his word and reduced their acreage in cotton in 1933.

The farmer benefited, business benefited, everybody benefited.

Now, Uncle Sam is calling upon the farmer again, asking that the farmer reduce cotton acreage in 1934, so that the price of cotton may be placed at around 14 cents.

The Daily hopes that the same spirit that was prevalent in the 1933 reduction program will live again and that the cotton crop for 1934 will be reduced materially. Unless it is and assuming that we will have a good crop year, then we cannot hope for improved prices. Curtailed acreage is the sure way in which the farmer can govern the price of the product he produces. — Decatur Daily.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

—o—

We had a widow neighbor who lived near the parsonage door. In her back yard there was a beautiful Pomegranate tree loaded with fruit. She sat near her window and would watch her treasured fruit, but one day while her back was turned, or she was out of her home, some thieving youngsters ravaged the tree and carried away all the pomegranates. On discovering her loss she was hurt and sorely disappointed. She reasoned to herself this way, "If I have something around my place that encourages children to steal I will do away with it," and she walked out to her pomegranate tree with her axe and cut it down. That was not the way to break up the theiving disposition and tendency of youth. That is a task that must begin, must be continued and must be perfected at home. What some parents can expect from their children when they pilfer pecan groves, fruit orchards and peanut fields, I am not able to say. It is far better to tend to the pilfering lads than it is to cut down the fruit trees.

A friend of mine had a letter from a relative in Louisiana in which was described a modern revelry. It read something like this: "We have a large herd of Jersey cows, and while grazing is good we turn them out on the range. One night our milk cows failed to come home. The next night the same, but early on the following morning they were at the gate the most bedrabbled and bedripped bunch of cattle you ever saw. They showed every sign of having been on a spree. An investigation was made and it was found that the cattle had found a rum still where there were many barrels of mash and they had helped themselves. The mash made them "Beastly Drunk" and they were not able to get home for two nights." The moral is this, "Therefore, ye wise Americans, repeal the 18th Amendment because our milk cows will find the rum still and get beastly drunk and spoil our milk. Act sensible ye thinking citizens and see to it that your 'Milk Cattle' are served their souring mash in the cow lot, so that we can milk them while they are on their spree." It is the milk that counts, not the cattle.

Talk about temperance, the most temperate crowd of men I ever saw was stationed behind the walls of Kilby prison. There were about fifteen hundred of them there, and I was told that there was not a drunk in a month. How was this done. The answer is simple, "The law saw to it that no man in that prison could get whiskey." If the law that kept whiskey out of Kilby had been repealed there would have been a thousand drunks in less than a month. I may be in error, but it is my honest opinion that we have some of the same kind of folks outside of Kilby, as we have in Kilby, and when the laws of temperance are repealed, we are going to have a hundred drunks then to where we have one now. If the prisoners at Kilby could get all the whiskey they want, it would take the standing army to control them. If whiskey is made free for the buying in Alabama we are going to have to reinforce our State protection, and many an innocent man and woman will die in the clash and the crash that follows.

I knew a young man who formed the habit while he was a growing lad of talking with his head drooped upon his breast. He always looked down. Soon his shoulders were bending forward. He kept up the habit of going around with his eyes upon the ground at his feet, and before he was forty years of age he was bent almost like a horse shoe. I am saying this to old and young, if you form the habit of always looking toward the world in your thought your character will bend down toward the world. Always looking toward the world will cause your heart to bend low. The man who has nothing but an earthward look will soon become as crooked as a horse shoe. Hold up your head, lift up your shoulders, straighten your backbone and look upward and live. Grow straight and live straight.

In Colorado a few days ago a stalwart tree that was four hundred years old fell to the ground. This tree had been struck by lightning fourteen times, and had defied hurricane and earthquake for centuries. It had laughed in the face of winter blasts and blowing blizzards, but in the end the tiny little beetles killed it. They bored under the bark, dug into its heart, ate away its mighty fiber, and one day down came the lordly king of the forest. "It is the little things that make us, or break us."

INK DROPS FROM C. C. H. S.

Time flies fast. This week closes the third month of school. Only six more months left, and they will pass just as quickly, if not quicker. Let's realize this and get to work. According to the grades this month lot of us are falling down and it's due chiefly to the lack of study. We have down here a school well equipped with teachers, books and other materials. The teachers are more than ready to help us. The books are at our disposal. Therefore, there is no reason why one should fail if he will buckle down and do some real work. Then when the month comes around and he sees those A's on his report card he will be proud of them. And his parents will not be of the opinion that their efforts to keep their child in school are fruitless.

This weeks column the writer humbly dedicates to the Chilton County High School football squad; the captain of the team, Jesse Frank Foshee, and their coach, J. T. Searcy. Tomorrow the Chilton Tigers will play the last game of the season. This game against one of our fortmost football rivals, Isabella, is also the last game that some of the players will play as a high school player. They have promised to make it their best game. And looking back over the previous games at their playing which has been superb and deserving of all praise we wonder what in the world they will do against Isabella; they will have to be better than the best to beat their playing in the past games. Captain Foshee who plays his last game in high school tomorrow says that he and his fellow team mates will show Clanton some real football tomorrow. And they will too. The Blue and Gold Tigers will close a very successful year tomorrow. They have lost only three games which doesn't compare to the five they have won. Only one team has kept Chilton from scoring against them. It is with great pride that we students, the members of the faculty and citizens of Clanton praise our football team. They have merited it with their clean and sportsmanlike playing, their undying spirit, their brilliant and marvelous football tactics, and their excellent and admirable teamwork.

Miss Margaret Kendrick, Senior Two class advisor and English teacher, is the subject of this week's short biography. Miss Kendrick, one of the best loved members of the faculty, was born to Dr. and Mrs. B. M. Kendrick at Luverne, Ala, on November 21, 1908. She spent her high school days at the Luverne High School and graduated from there in 1926. The same year Miss Kendrick entered Woman's College in Montgomery and in 1930 she graduated with B. M. Degree. And one year later she was awarded her B. S. Degree by this college. Miss Kendrick began her teaching career in 1930 at Chilton County High School where she is teaching her third year. Besides her two degrees, Miss Kendrick has also studied extensively while not teaching to earn higher awards. She has studied one summer at Florida State Teachers College for Women at Tallahassee and one summer at the University of Alabama at Tuscaloosa. During her first year as a member of our faculty she displayed her sterling qualities of a lady that have won the admiration and respect of all those who were fortunate in knowing her. All her pupils during their struggle to gain an education have loved Miss Kendrick for her unselfish aid; her ready smile and sense of understanding of their problems, and for her fruitful efforts to make them better girls and boys.

ARBOR DAY PROGRAMS NOW AVAILABLE

—o—

Montgomery—Governor B. M. Miller has designated Friday, December 8, for general observance throughout the state as Arbor Day. The text of the Governor's proclamation is as follows:

WHEREAS, the President of the United States in his foresight and concern for the permanent good of the nation has provided through his administration a large number of work projects devoted to the restoration and perpetuation of our forest resources; and

WHEREAS, America is striving to bring back prosperity and it is well known that Alabama's future depends to a great extent upon her forests; and

WHEREAS, the people of the United States use two-fifths of all the wood consumed in the world and being a nation of wood users should also be a nation of wood growers; and

WHEREAS, trees are our friends and we should cherish them as such by caring for them, protecting them from destruction and increasing their number by planting; and

WHEREAS, the observance of Arbor Day has become an annual occasion in community and school activity, now

THEREFORE, I, B. M. Miller, Governor of the State of Alabama, realizing the importance that trees have in our well being, do hereby designate and set apart the day of Friday, December 8, 1933, as Arbor Day and do recommend to all the people of the state that this day be observed by demonstrations of our appreciation of trees.

The State Commission of Forestry, according to custom, has published a pamphlet of suggestions for Arbor Day programs for the use of teachers, clubs and other organizations interested in promoting the public welfare. It is very hard to estimate the number of such publications which will be requested by the various groups, and in order to eliminate waste caused by oversupply, or inconvenience on account of too few being printed, it is hoped that all individuals or organizations who expect to use the 1933 booklet will write to the State Forester, 500 Dexter Avenue, Montgomery, Ala., by November 20, stating the number desired.

THOMAS JR. HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

Spectators were indeed treated to a spectacle Friday afternoon when the Thomas Jr., Tigers were met on their court by the Enterprise Tigers and their second game of the season was fought. There seemed to be a great deal of friendly rivalry displayed between the teams; however, good sportsmanship and clean playing were prevalent throughout the game. Enterprise held the lead for the frst three quarters, but Thomas came to the front during the last quarter to tie the game 11-and 11. The extra five minutes played resulted in a victory for Thomas by two points. The final score was 13-11. The game between the Thomas and Enterprise girls ended with Thomas in the lead 24-3.

The faculty and pupils of Thomas wish to commend Enterprise for their fine playing and spirit of good sportsmanship throughout both games.

HIGHLAND

Our singing society met Sunday afternoon with a large attendance. We were really glad to have with us Mr. Emmett Wilson, who taught a singing school at this place the past summer. We were really glad to have all the visitors and invite them back again. Directors for the afternoon were: Mr. Cornelius Hand, Miss Lorena Billingsley, Miss Gladys Wyatt, Mr. Herman Culpepper, Mr. Sovereign Dickey, Miss Mildred Coe and Miss Ruby Weldon, all of Highland; Mr. Emmett Wilson of Maple Springs, Mr. Minor of New Salem, Mr. Mack Durbin of Pleasant Grove, Mr. Marvin Lowery of Liberty Hill, Mr. Leonard Culp and Mr. Hiram Littlejohn, also of Liberty Hill. The Liberty Hill Quartet sang several numbers which were greatly enjoyed. Organists for the afternoon were Miss Alma Jones, Miss Dessie Wyatt and Mrs. Eddie Bell Wright.

We are sorry our chairman of the singing society is moving away. We shall surely miss them very much.

Don't forge that next Saturday and Sunday are our regular preaching days. Everyone come and bring someone with you.

Don't forget, we have our singing every third Sunday evening. Everybody come. You are always welcome at Highland.

WHAT NEGROES ARE DOING

By Benjamin Anderson
Teacher of Vocational Agriculture
Chilton County Training School

Negro Farmers Conference a Success

The most successful Negro Farmers Conference of the past three years was held at the County Training School last Friday, November 17th. The Negro farmers from various parts of the county were present with a good representation of what they have been doing since the last conference. Exhibits along practically all lines pertaining to what can be grown or made on the farm as well as poultry and live stock were to be seen.

As compared with other years there were more live stock and poultry and a greater variety of farm products on display. Among other things on exhibition were fancy cakes, canned fruits and vegetables, cured meats, fresh meats, dresses, quilts, bed spreads, embroidered handkerchiefs, scarfs, pillow cases and many other serviceable articles made by the housewife on the farm.

Everybody, seemingly, had one purpose in mind, namely, that of making this conference more interesting, a bigger and better one than in previous years.

A number of prizes were awarded to the persons having the first, second and third best exhibits. Some prizes were in cash, others in merchandise.

The general subject for the day was Farm Management. Those taking part in the discussion were Mr. Earle Thomas and Mr. J. P. Montgomery, teachers of Agriculture at Isabella and Jemison High Schools, Worthy Hughes, farm demonstration agent. The conference was addressed by Dr. F. D. Patterson, director of agriculture at Tuskegee Institute.

Among the visitors from out-of-town were Elder Mitchell of Montgomery and Prattville, Ala., and Rev. Tarrant, supervisor of the Lutheran School.

I wish to take this method of thanking all the merchants and business men in Clanton, Jemison, Maplesville, Verbena and Riderville who so willingly contributed money or wares to be used as prizes.

Why
Liquid Laxatives
Do You No Harm

The dose of a liquid laxative can be measured. The action can be controlled. It forms no habit; you need not take a "double dose" a day or two later. Nor will a mild liquid laxative irritate the kidneys.

The right liquid laxative will bring a perfect movement, and with no discomfort at the time, or afterward.

The wrong cathartic may keep you constipated as long as you keep on using it!

An approved liquid laxative (one which is most widely used for both adults and children) is syrup pepsin. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a prescription, and is perfectly safe. Its laxative action is based on senna—a natural laxative. The bowels will not become dependent on this form of help, as they do in the case of cathartics containing mineral drugs. Ask your druggist for Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Member N. R. A.

MT. SPRINGS

Rev. A. C. Nelson filled his regular appointment here Saturday night, Sunday and Sunday night, with three very interesting sermons.

Our Christian Endeavor was well attended Sunday night with a splendid program. We were very glad to have Mr. Herbert Lowery out with us. He sang two beautiful solos which were enjoyed by all. We especially invite him back at all times. After Christian Endeavor several songs were sung, led by Mr. Lowery and Mr. Bailey.

Mrs. R. A. Teel will be leader next Sunday night. Subject: "What Have We To Thank God For?" There will be interesting letters to read. Everybody is invited.

Miss Marguerite Davison will be with us again Wednesday and Thursday nights.

The Ladies Aid society from Eastview met with the Ladies Aid here on Tuesday afternoon and we had the pleasure of hearing Mrs. Fred P. Ensminger from Birmingham, who is the State President of the Woman's Work. We were also glad to have Dr. Ensminger with us.

The Mt. Springs community wishes for Mrs. A. C. Nelson of Eastview who is ill, a speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Tyus, Jr., and little daughter, Billie Ruth, Miss Margaret Tyus, all of Birmingham, were the week end guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Tyus.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Williams and son, Billie, visited in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Tyus.

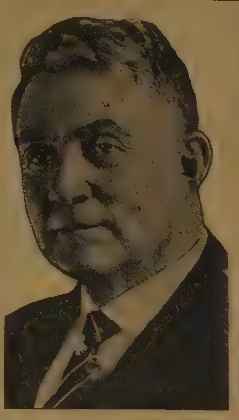
"We Serve To Serve Again"

FORMER HIGHWAY DIRECTOR DISCUSSES PRISON SITUATION

Col. Woolsey Finnell Gives Views On The Handling Of Prisons In View Of "Prison Reform" Talk While In Clanton Last Tuesday Night



COL. WOOLSEY FINNELL

Among the out-of-town visitors to Clanton last Tuesday night to attend the Masonic affair, was Col. Woolsey Finnell, of Montgomery, former highway director of Alabama, and who was a Colonel during the World War in the Engineering Department. He is at present in charge of the government prison at Maxwell Field, and an outstanding Mason.

While here, Col. Finnell gave to the News some of his views regarding the handling of the prison situation, in an interview. Following are statements from Col. Finnell:

"We have seen and heard much lately about the 'New Deal' economic government, what shall we do to carry on our schools in Alabama, et cetera, but so far no one seems to have offered any suggestion about reducing the expenses of one of our most expensive State Departments.

Our Prison Department

"From time immemorial prisons and prison government have been cussed and discussed by those in authority, but until recent years nothing was done to relieve the intolerable conditions that existed. Many of our prisons were literally vermin infested hell holes, food was poor and inadequate, prisoners were subjected to extremely cruel treatment for infraction of rules. Finally we had a change of heart. The cry was stop the lease system, get the prisoners out of the mines and give them humane treatment. This was and is all right, but we probably let our sympathies carry us too fast. We failed to set up a rational plan for carrying out our reforms. However, we have made much progress; there is still room for much improvement.

"On paper our prison system looks very well until we turn to the cost of operation, but practically we are far short of our goal.

Dollars And Cents

"Dollars and cents are too often the deciding factor in what we do. Therefore, lets save the dollars and also have real prison reform too. It can be done.

Classification

"1. Prisoners are divided into three general classes. Habitual criminals that should be kept confined to protect society and to protect them from themselves.

"2. Those who are of abnormal minds, who are not dangerous, but require attention, firm discipline and proper medical attention.

"3. Those who have slipped, largely first offenders, who for some reason or other violated the law. These also require discipline, education and encouragement. The first step toward prison reform is most careful examination and classification of prisoners, then segregation.

"There are about 25 to 30 per cent of our prisoners that it is necessary to confine either in the walls, or be worked where a minimum number of guards can care for them. The others should be given out of door work if possible.

Revision of Laws Necessary

"It will be necessary to revise our laws pertaining to prisoners and prison government before we can have an economic system.

"1. The prison department must be divorced from politics.

"2. Judges should parole first offenders committing misdemeanors where it is shown that the general reputation of the offender has been good before this offense, provided the Judge is satisfied that the parolee will cheerfully submit to and carry out the provision of the parole.

"3. A Parole system set up independent of the Governor. The Governor having the authority to pardon those wrongfully convicted, to restore citizenship to those who have been paroled or served their sentences, to parole and finally pardon those serving sentences of ten or more years, and to commute death sentences.

"4. No person should be eligible for parole until one third of his sentence has been served, unless it be a person serving an extremely long sentence, and then only when sufficient proof is made that the parole will not injure society.

"5. It should be made a felony to escape from any prison or prison camp, punishable by a sentence of from one year and a day to five years. And no escape should be eligible for parole.

"6. All parolees should be carefully supervised and encouraged during parole periods.

"These recommendations if put in operation will save the State hundreds of thousands of dollars, give those prisoners who are worthy a chance to reform, and enable the prison department to have much more and better work done.

"Where and how prisoners are to be worked will require careful planning by competent people, but it can be worked out satisfactorily and the prison department made practically self-sustaining.

"There will be those who will say this may be very good but it is not practical. " 'I say unto you,' it is practical and the proof is at hand."

Miss Ellen Watson of Chicago screamed for two days in her cell without cessation when convicted of shoplifting.

OAK GROVE

We want to urge the members of our B. Y. P. U. to wake up and help us make it an A-1 union. Every member be out Sunday night and on time.

On Tuesday the three departments of Oak Grove B. Y. P. U. were delightfully entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Martin at their home. Miss Mary Jim Sutley was in charge of the amusements, assisted by Mrs. Leonard Pierce. Contests were enjoyed until a late hour. The senior union was led into the dining room where the table was artistically arranged with stick candy, centered with large letters—B. Y. P. U. The other departments were served later. The spirit of B. Y. P. U. is growing larger every day. We welcome visitors to attend our weekly meetings, Sundays, 6:30 o'clock, p.m. We invite other unions to come and present us a program. If any union sees a time they can accept our invitation, send your acceptance to Charles Nix, Sr., President, or the Church at Large, address, Jemison, Ala., Route 3.

Mr. Grady Lewis of Marble Valley stopped in a few minutes Saturday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Lessley, after a brief visit to Nevada. He told of the wonderful sights seen on the tour. The one most interesting was the Great Boulder Dam, now under construction. Another sight was the seem-to-be-moving mountains covered with sheep. Their movements produce a moving appearance. We were glad to have such distinguished visitors in our live community.

Quite a number from Oak Grove attended the singing over at Mars Hill. They reported a very good time.

Mr. John Middlebrooks, daughter, Penola, and son, Jack, and some of their friends visited Miss Mary Jim Sutley a while Sunday afternoon.

Misses Estelle and Anne Belle Lessley of Calera visited friends and relatives the past week end.

Mr. J. F. Nix returned home Sunday afternoon after a visit with friends and relatives in Birmingham.

Mrs. W. I. Lessley and Mrs. J. C. Seay visited Mrs. J. D. Sutley Sunday afternoon.

A group of young people from here attended a singing at Center Hill community. They were as fololws: Misses Nannie Sammons, Loy Mae Glass, Dorothy and Lillian Dees, Roberta and Gladys Satterwhite, Messrs. Frank Lessley, Rip Northcutt and Sam Collins.

Miss Mary Jim Sutley had as her dinner guest Sunday Miss Gladys Satterwhite.

MAPLE SPRINGS

Saturday and Sunday were our regular preaching days. Bro. Robinson delivered four fine sermons. Were you at B. Y. P. U. Sunday night? A real good program was rendered by Group No. 2. Next Sunday night we will put on a program at Friendship. Our subject will be "Success."

Mr. Elmer Rollan is going to carry a truck load. Let us pray that we may carry our parts out as God would have us to.

Mr. Raymond Kelley spent Saturday night with his uncle, Mr. Walter Gillespie, of Clanton.

Mr. Audie Brown spent Friday night with Messrs. Ottis and Oliver Glenn.

Mr. Bonnie Miller spent Thursday night with Mr. and Mrs. Lester Downs.

Messrs. Arthur and Evan Mitchell were the Saturday afternoon guests of Mr. Joe Lansford.

Messrs. Oliver Glenn and Audie Brown were the Sunday dinner guests of Mr. Raymond Kelley.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Downs spent last Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. Tom Miller.

Miss Lera May Mitchell was visiting in Birmingham Sunday.

Mrs. Emmett Wilson was the Sunday dinner guest of Mrs. W. F. Glenn.

Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Wilson had as their Saturday night guest Rev. W. E. Robinson.

What? A Fruit Supper. Where? At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Sandlin. When? Next Thursday night, November the 23rd. Come on boys, and bring your girls, and you who haven't a girl to bring, come on anyway, there will be plenty of girls. And girls there will be plenty of boys. We are having this fruit supper for the benefit of our B. Y. P. U. Everybody has an invitation.

Mr. Cecil Wilson was the Sunday dinner guest of Mr. Arnold Glenn.

Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Devaughn spent Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs. Allen Brown and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Carwell Mims had as their Sunday dinner guest Rev. W. E. Robinson.

Mr. W. F. Glenn visited his sister, Mrs. Joe Delaney, of the Cotton Mill, Sunday afternoon.

Mr. W. F. Glenn had as his Monday dinner guest his father, Mr. J. F. Glenn, of Cooper.

Those who enjoyed the music at the home of Mr. Lawton Wilson last Wednesday night were, Messrs. Clyde and Elmer Rollan, Ottis Oliver and Arnold Glenn, Tom and Newt Mims, Audie Arnold, Grady and Edgar Brown, Buck Williams, Elbert Yates, J. S. Ogletree, Wallace Watkins, Alonza Davis, Tommie Wright, Mrs. Elbert Yates, Mrs. Wallace Watkins, Mrs. Merritt Wilson and daughters, Mary and Thelma, and Misses Delene Davis and Daisy Brown.

Prominent Coosa Co. Citizen Died Recently

Walter B. McCain, Widely Known In Business World Buried Sunday Of Last Week

Coosa County was saddened Friday morning of last week as the news spread that death had brought to a close the life of one of her most widely known and highly respected citizens, Walter Byron McCain.

Mr. McCain was born and reared in this county and had spent practically his entire life in Rockford, where he has been actively engaged in the livestock business since when a young man.

In the year of 1911 the Bank of Rockford was organized with Mr. McCain as president and under his guidance it grew to be one of the strongest in this section of the State.

He is survived by three children, Mrs. Winston Stewart of Rockford; Mrs. W. T. Gann of Clinton, Tenn., and George A. McCain of Clanton; three sisters, Mrs. Gertrude Lingo of Bogaluska, La., Mrs. Queenie Cornell of Laurel, Miss., and Mrs. John Bailey of Alexander City.

Funeral services were held from the Rockford Baptist Church, of which he was a member, Sunday morning, with the Rev. Earl B. Eddngton officiating.

Active pallbearers were E. N. Merriwether, John Boyett, J. S. McEwen, W. D. Warren, C. Busey, Knox McEwen and P. N. Davis.

Honorary pallbearers were G. W. Miller, R. O. Neighbors, L. D. Crew, H. A. Teel, T. L. Burks, G. B. McDonald, E. L. Boyett, R. O. Snider, Felix L. Smith, H. T. Wallace, J. E. Thompson, L. G. Walker, C. C. Williamon, W. D. Pond, L. B. Pond, Chas. W. McEwen, W. J. McAllister, Dr. J. W. Maddox, M. C. Waites, and T. O. Dosier.

The love and esteem held for this man were evidenced by the unusual quantity of beautiful floral offerings.

Interment was in the Sears Chapel cemetery with Howard-Parker of Sylacauga directing.

Our hearts go out in sympathy to the bereaved family and, we ourselves, feel that we have sustained a great loss in the passing of our friend.

MISS GERTIE FIQUETT HOSTESS TO MEMBERS OF Y. W. A.

The members of the Y. W. A. of the Clanton Baptist church were delightfully entertained last Thursday evening at 6:30 at the home of Miss Gertie Fiquette. The home was beautifully decorated with chrysanthemums and roses. The subject of the program was "Money" and several interesting talks were made on Money. After the program refreshments were served to the following members: Misses Vera Jones, Vivian Gray, Janie Beth Johnson, Frances Higgins, Tera Dell Williams, Jennie Welch, Carrie Foshee, Gladys Williams, Imogene Dawson, Margaret Johnson, Annie Mae Foshee and Mrs. Renfroe Mullins.

James B. Firkan of Buffalo in his divorce suit described his wife as "mutton dressed up as lamb."

MAPLESVILLE 4-H CLUB MET NOVEMBER THE 17TH

Maplesville 4-H Club held its first regular meeting November 17, 1933. Miss Pardue, the home demonstration agent, presided and explained each step which we will take up in the future. We had several new members which made our membership fifty. We are very glad to have such progress in our club. Miss Pardue took a great deal of time in explaining the clothing project and we hope to have a successful year. —Helen Nix, Reporter

"Have a good time, dears."

Mrs. Harper was not a selfish mother. She wanted her children to enjoy themselves and permitted them to go out as much as they wished as long as they were in good company and well chaperoned. She would have been greatly surprised if she knew that Ruth and Tommy preferred private rendezvous to more formal gatherings.

"Let yourself go, Ruth!"

Ruth, in spite of the modernistic dancing and the bottles of gin opened slyly in dark corners, found parties uninteresting. She wanted to be alone with Tommy. She liked to have him hold her hand. But when he kept on demanding kisses she was a little frightened, for his kisses seemed to have changed.

"Mother, how do you know when you're in love?"

Returning home that evening she crept into her mother's bedroom. "Mother," she asked, "how can you tell you're in love?" But Mrs. Harper felt that this was no topic for a young girl. She did not realize the storm that was welling in her daughter. "You are too young to talk about such things," she replied.

"I could kiss you forever!"

One afternoon Doctor Davidge dropping in, unannounced on the Harpers found Ruth and Tommy in a passionate embrace. It was more than petting. He realized that someone must warn Ruth, or she would come to grief. He determined to have a serious talk with Mr. and Mrs. Harper as soon as possible.

Thorsby Institute News

The Philomathic and Pushmataha Clubs held their monthly meetings last Friday. Interesting programs were given by the members.

The school is again listening to the Damrosch programs every other Friday at ten o'clock. These are very much worth while.

Next Saturday night the annual stunt night given by the four classes of the Institute will take place. Everyone is invited. Admission is ten cents.

At Chapel Tuesday morning Mae Pearl Sorrell, who takes music at the Institute played "Meadow Brook" and "Narcissus." The quartette, consisting of Leo Spivey, C. B. Jean, Phares Raybon and Hal Broadhead, made its debut, singing "Love's Old Sweet Song," and "The Postillion." These numbers were enjoyed very much. We hope to hear them again.

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA

To the Customers of
Alabama Power Company:

We are sure the great majority of you have felt in recent years the burden of mounting taxes which the citizen everywhere is required to pay to sustain the constantly increasing cost of government—municipal, county, state and national. We wonder, however, what you will think when we tell you that the taxes of this company have increased 1300 per cent within the short period of ten years.

In 1922 our taxes amounted to $2.54 for every $100 of revenue collected. In 1928 we paid out for taxes $7.55 for every $100 of revenue collected. In 1933 we estimate our taxes will be $14.25 for every $100 of revenue collected. Let us state it in another way: In 1922 we paid $7.65 in taxes for every customer we served. In 1933 we estimate we will pay $22.60 in taxes for every customer we serve.

You can see, therefore, that our tax problem concerns you as much as the problem of taxation generally concerns the citizenship of every community.

The taxes we pay constitute a considerable part of our operating cost and as such are recovered from the revenue we receive. In the end our customers pay our taxes.

The total local, state and federal taxes of the company from 1922 to 1933 inclusive are as follows:

1922	$ 151,943.04
1923	579,305.27
1924	694,387.76
1925	788,551.40
1926	837,382.27
1927	1,067,002.10
1928	1,379,849.54
1929	1,669,811.15
1930	1,982,309.79
1931	2,019,678.28
1932	1,981,661.45
1933 (Estimate)	2,200,000.00

Municipal and government-owned plants pay no taxes. If this company which provides you with electric service could escape payment of taxes it would be able to reduce the cost of electric service to its domestic, commercial, power, and other users by $2,200,000 annually or almost 15 per cent.

Yours very truly,
THOMAS W. MARTIN,
President.

SINGING SOCIETY MET AT CHESTNUT CREEK

Our singing society met Sunday afternoon at Chestnut Creek church, at Cooper. We sure had a fine singng. Everybody seemed to enjoy it. We wish to thank the singers from Clanton for helping us, Mr. Jesse Jones, Mr. Herbert Lowery and Mr. Jean Wyatt. We appreciate your help and invite you back any time on first and third Sunday afternoons. We have bought some new books for the society, so if you that belong to Chestnut Creek church and are interested in our young people who are trying to learn to sing will come out and help them you will get a blessing, especially you that profess to know how to sing. The singing was opened by the chairman, L. D. Hughes, who led two songs. Prayer by Jesse C. Jones. Directors for the afternoon were Clayton Miller, Orvid Hughes, J. B. Crew, Raybon Crew, Dewell Jones, one song each; Herbert Lowery, Jesse C. Jones, Jean Wyatt, I. D. Huett, S. M. Yates, Archie Jones, son of Arthur Jones, two to three songs each. Clanton Quartet rendered two songs, and the Frisky Four rendered one song. Closing song was led by chairman, prayer by S. M. Yates.

Everybody is invited back next first Sunday afternoon.

Vermont Jr. High School News

Our P.-T. A. met on last Thursday night. After the devotional exercises and preliminary announcements by the President, a brief and interesting program was rendered by several of the students. The question of purchasing a piano for the school was put in order. After a round table discussion of the matter it was voted unanimously to select one or a committee to locate a good piano, reasonably priced. Plans and suggestions were then offered as to the best possible way of paying for it. Under the supervision of Miss Manning, the ladies will make a quilt to be sold. Another plan was offered when Mr. Frank Giles, member of our Board of Trustees, presented the school with a pig which will be fattended by the scraps from the children's lunches and then sold at the close of the school. We hope to realize several dollars on the above plans. We will have the Liberty Hill quartet to present us a program when our new piano is installed. We were proud to see such a large number at our last meeting. Eighty-one were present. Let's go! Vermont parents and make it a hundred at our next meeting, which will be on next Wednesday afternoon, November 29th, at two o'clock. A Thanksgiving program will be staged by a number of the pupils and the business part of the meeting will be held afterwards.

Our boys basket ball team journeyed over to Cooper Jr. High School last Friday afternoon and after a wild scramble on a dusty court came out with an 18 to 10 verdict in their favor. This was their first game of the season. The Cooper boys played a nice game, but being so enthusiastic they faltered in their passwork which led to their defeat. The score was 7 to 5 at the half in Vermont's favor, but soon after the beginning of the second half Sansom, captain and center of ou rteam, broke away through Cooper's defense to net three field goals for 6 points. This lead was gradually increased to 18 by the end of the game. The Cooper team was unable to crack the tight defense set against them the last half, the result being one field goal and three points from foul shots. Both teams were guilty of excessive fouling, this being accounted to the fact that the players on both teams are inexperienced and have not yet mastered the art of guarding without personal contact. Coopers will return the game on Friday afternoon, December 8th. Keep this date fixed in your mind and be there for it. The teams are evenly matched and a good game should be played.

The entire Vermont faculty spent the past week end at their respective homes.

We were proud to see several loads of good pine coming in last week. Let's have several loads of oak and hickory wood and we'll be all set for cold weather. Remember, we have four large heaters and it takes a large amount of fuel to keep them fired up.

A large number of the students are out this week suffering from colds. We hope a speedy recovery can be effected and they may get back into their studies and not get behind in their classwork.

The girls are busy practicing basket ball. Miss Cagle and Miss Manning are drilling them in pass-work, goal-shooting, dribble, etc. After a few more days of practice, we expect to match them against the girls 'teams of other schools. We are going to set up another court for the Junior team of boys within the next few days. This will give them an opportunity to learn the science of basket ball playing as well as the development of the physical side.

Mr. W. W. Klinner, another member of our board of trustees, went to Birmingham last Saturday afternoon to attend the funeral service of his brother-in-law, Mr. Bud Shoot.

This week brings us to the close of the second month of school. Examinations are in full swing. We trust that every pupils has so applied himself or herself that they will not feel the fear of facing an array of geography or history questions or a series of mathematical equations.

Folks, you should come up and listen to Miss Grant's Rhythm Band. Gee! but those youngsters have a real snappy rhythm, using all those horse shoes, drums, horns, bells, etc.

PLEASANT GROVE

Route Seven

There was a large crowd present at Sunday school last Sunday. We were glad to see so many present, and invite you to come each Sunday and bring someone with you.

Several from this community attended the singings at Highland and Antioch last Sunday afternoon.

The Rev. Davis Durbin and daughter, Irma, spent the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Durbin.

Mr. Howard Smith and Tarpett Prickett spent the week end with Mr. Jack Jones.

Miss Geraldine Payton spent Saturday night with Miss Maudie Durbin.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hardy spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Best.

Mr. and Mrs. Otis Scott and Miss Elsie Merle Griffin spent the day with Mr. and Mrs. Roston Scott Sunday.

Mr. Willam Jackson spent Thursday nght with his sister, Mrs. Carvie Henley.

Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Cooper had as their dinner guests Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Carvie Henley and children, Mrs. Reuben Henley and Mr. R. J. Payton.

Miss Myrtle Williams spent Thursday night with Miss Edna Henley.

Miss Geraldine Payton spent Thursday night with Miss Caudell Chapman.

Mr. Monroe Headley had as his dinner guest Sunday Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Blackwell and children, Mr. and Mrs. Comer Durbin, Mr. Avery from Florida Mr. Quinton Hardy and Mr. Woodrow Durbin.

Mr. Harold Bates was the dinner guest of Mr. A. D. Headley Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Mims and children spent Sunday night with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Henley.

Miss Letha Bonnett spent the week end with her aunt, Mrs. Stanley Thornton, of the Baker communty.

PLEASANT HILL

Our new pastor, Rev. J. H. Limbrick, was with us the second Sunday, whom we all welcome back to our church. He was also with us Sunday and Sunday night. We are always glad to have him with us.

The Christian Endeavor at this place is doing nicely. There were fifty present Sunday night. The lesson was on "Sham and Pretense." It was illustrated with two cakes—a real cake and a wooden cake. The wooden rake was frosted over to look like a real cake on the outside, but was only "Sham and Pretense," to represent the hypocrite. The real cake was to represent the Christian which was enjoyed by all after the service.

Our Sunday school is growing. We invite everybody to our services.

Our Christian Endeavor is going to give a barbecue and sandwich supper Saturday niiht week, December 2nd. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Jones for the benefit of the church. Large plates, 25c; sandwiches, 5c. Also cake and hot chocolate. Everybody come, we'll have lots of fun, cake, meats and chocolate—and bring money in your pockets.

Lady Took Cardui And Got Rid of Pain In Her Side

"Last summer, my health was bad, so I began taking Cardui," writes Mrs. H. E. Slaughter, of Norman, Okla. "My mother had given me Cardui in girlhood, so naturally I turned to it when I felt I needed it. I felt run-down and a general weakness. I had bad, dizzy headaches when everything would seem to dance before my eyes. My right side pained me so much, but since taking Cardui the pain has left me. I have taken several bottles of Cardui and have improved a great deal."

Cardui is sold at drug stores here.

ISABELLA

Of great interest to their many friends throughout the state was the wedding of Miss Glynder Oden and Mr. Myron O. Calfee which was solemnized at three o'clock Friday afternoon, November 17, in Clanton at the court house. The nuptial vows were read by Judge L. H. Reynolds in the presence of a few friends. The bride was attractively dressed in blue crepe with accessories to match. Miss Oden was a very popular and highly respected young lady of this community, a leader in church and Sunday school work. She graduated with honors from the Isabella High School in the 1931 class. The bride is the oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Oden.

Mr. Calfee is a young man of noble character and high esteem. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Calfee.

After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Calfee will be at home with the groom's parents.

* * *

Mrs. J. W. Cummings spent Sunday with her sister, Mrs. A. J. Lecroy.

Miss Merle Jones of Clanton spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Durwood Jones.

Mr. George Calfee and son, Judson, spent the past week end in Weogufka visiting friends and relatives.

Miss Gladys Turner was the guest of Miss Foy Jones Sunday.

A surprise party was given to Miss Mary Turner last Friday night. Those enjoying the party were Misses Velma and Elsie Conaway, Lucile and Gladys Goydon, Elizabeth and Mary Carr Mims, Mary and Gladys Turner, Sara Calfee, Kate Dickenson, and Alfred Penton, Edmond Green, Neal Turner, Bernie Vancé, Wesley Wright, George DeShazo, Buster Williams, Van Williams, Renfro Veazey, Hollis Wrght, Oswald Mims, Clifton Davenport and Claude Conaway.

Miss Dorothy Manning visited her parents the past week end.

The Isabella eleven played the fast eleven of Verbena on Isabella's field last Friday. Both teams did some splendd playing. The game ended with the score of 7-0 in favor of Isabella. The team goes to Clanton next Friday to play the strong team of Chilton High. Let's boost our team up, Isabella! For we really want to win that game!

STOCK SALE LAST FRIDAY WAS SUCCESSFUL EVENT

The initial step toward the perpetuation of the cattle industry in Chilton county was a major phase of agriculture was a great success, according to Col. W. W. Fox, who with Bob Little, recently promoted a big cattle sale near Maplesville, Friday, November 17.

With this sale as a beginning, it is hoped, to arouse the interest of Chilton county farmers in the possibilities for cattle production in the county, Mr. Fox declared. Two more sales are to be staged at an early date.

Several hundred persons from all sections of the county congregated in Maplesville to take advantage of the sale. Barbecue was served and everything went off in the celebrated Chilton county style.

Mr. Fox, who is so widely known as W. W. "Daddy" Fox was himself one of the centers of attraction at the sale, and it was said that "Daddy" Fox is certainly an outstanding character, always trying to make people happy.

WORLD COTTON NINE PER CENT GREATER

The world production of cotton during the current year is now estimated at 9 per cent greater than the previous year, but is nearly 3,000,000 bales less than 1931, reports F. W. Gist, state and federal statistician of the department of agriculture.

The Alabama crop is estimated at 983,000 bales which is about 40,000 bales more than were harvested last year.

Alabama farmers this year produced 38,687,000 bushels of corn, according to the November 1 crop report which placed the sweet potato production at 6,225,000 bushels, syrup at 6,005,000 gallons and pecans at 2,850,,000 pounds.

"Fifty-eight per cent of the cows in herds were being milked on November 1 and the average per cow milked was 1.46 gallons," Gist said.

"Egg production amounted to 21.6 eggs per 100 hens. This is about in line with the seasonal average."

MRS. WHITE PASSES AWAY AT JONES, ALA.

On Monday afternoon, Nov. 6, at 2:40 the spirit of Mrs. Lila Greene White returned to the God who gave it. Lila was born at Jacksonville, Ala., August 15, 1905. She grew to young womanhood and joined the Ohatchie Baptist church there, being baptized on her fifteenth birthday. She graduated from the Jacksonville High School in 1924. Also the State Normal in 1929, later attending State Teachers College there.

She taught in the public schools of Autauga county for nine years.

The funeral service was held Wednesday at 3 p.m. in the Baptist church at Jones, Ala., with the Rev. A. S. Bentley and the Rev. Joe Moore officiating. The remains were laid to rest in the Jones Baptist cemetery with Brislin of Selma in charge.

Active pallbearers were Messrs. L. C. Taylor, Sr., L. C. Taylor, Jr., John McCullough, Willie Ousley, Theodore Ousley and Peyton King. Honorary pallbearers were Messrs. Robert Oglesby, Henry Gaines, Will Johnson, J. L. Eason, Lesley Walker, and Bob Walker.

The deceased is survived by her husband, Clyde White, her mother, Mrs. J. C. Green, two brothers, Elbert and Clarence Green of Detroit, Mich., and one sister, Mrs. Ruby Coburn, of Mt. Creek, Ala.

A precious one from us has gone,
A voice we love is stilled,
A place is vacant in our hearts,
Which never can be filled.

God in His wisdom has recalled,
A boon to us was given,
Although her memory lingers here,
Her spirit rests in Heaven.

Gentlemen:

Our Sellers Kitchen Cabinet Campaign just closed was a decided success. The popular demand for this fine Kitchen equipment made it necessary for us to buy additional stocks to fill our orders.

We firmly believe that the liberal advertising campaign we have been consistently running has to a large extent been responsible for the fact November has produced by far the largest volume in the history of this business.

In the past four years we have sold in excess of three hundred Sellers Cabinets and in the sale just closed we sold in excess of seventy-five. We attribute this success largely to advertising—in other words, asking the public to buy.

Modern women are giving the Kitchen more attention. They are no longer content with a dreary, cheerless work shop. They now demand and expect color, harmony, sunshine and beauty. We know of no manufacturer that keeps apace of the times like that of Sellers. The proof of the worth has been in the public's acceptance. We are proud that we have the opportunity of using your pages to carry this message to the buying public.

Yours very truly,
J. B. TIFFIN.

Why shouldn't this sale be a success? A quality product, a reputable firm, and a proven advertising medium. A great combination. A tried and true one. This experience of Tiffin-Klinner Furniture Co., is another instance of the pulling power of newspaper advertising.

said that he would not make a statement at this time, but that the people of Chilton County knew him to be a man who will keep his word. It is expected that he will make a public statement in the near future in regard to his candidacy.

Dr. Hinkle consented to enter the race for this office following the urge of many of his friends, who admire his frankness and fairness to his fellowmen, regardless of political affiliations. Dr. Hinkle is known throughout the county, having made his home in this county for about thirty years, all of which he has lived on his farm near Clanton.

He has always taken an active part in all movements toward benefitting the county and its people. He is truly a self-made man, having had the misfortune of losing his parents when he was a mere lad. He has fought his battles and brought himself up in esteem of those who have known him.

A man of vision, he has the ability to plan ahead for the future, and leaves no blemish behind him. Quoting friends in the county, "Dr. Hinkle will serve his people to the best of his ability. He is a man who believes in clean, honest government."

Dr. Hinkle promises a clean campaign as he is the type of man who steers away from the lower forms of politics and is fair, winning or losing.

Dr. Gragg Popular Everywhere

Dr. Gragg is perhaps one of the most popular and widely known physicians and surgeons in this section of the state. He appears unusually well fitted to serve as a Senator and his friends have been urging him to enter the race for sometime, it is understood.

He was born and raised in this county, has taught school and one of his main interests is with the schools of the country. He has a record that should be a credit to any man. Having served faithfully as Mayor of Clanton for three consecutive terms, he has many city improvements to his credit during his administration as Mayor and city councilman.

Reports state that Dr. Gragg has the endorsement of leading officials and citizens in the three counties composing this Senatorial district, and that his popularity is growing. He is president of the Chilton County Medical Society, founder of the Central Alabama Hospital and is at present staff surgeon there.

When approached by a representative of the News for a statement, Dr. Gragg stated he was not yet ready to make a statement in behalf of his candidacy. While Dr. Gragg is widely known, the News sought to secure a photograph of him for publication this week, but one was not available at this time.

Friends and supporters of Dr. Gragg express the opinion that his strength in all three counties will gradually mount as the campaign livens up.

Something in the form of a freak of nature, or scientific discovery, came to light in Clanton this week. For some time plumbers have had trouble with sewerage pipes leading from the court house becoming choked. Tuesday it was decided to remove the piping in an effort to discover the trouble. It was found that roots from nearby trees had grown through the clay pipes and were forming an obstruction.

THIS BANK has the distinction of being the first bank organized in Chilton County. It was in the beginning the financial center for the then little village of Clanton—it has become outstanding in Central Alabama.

Its history embraces seasons of panic and pestilence, good times and bad times, war times and peace times; but from the time of its beginning to this day of grace—over a quarter of a century—it has discharged all trust and met all obligations with absolute fidelity.

Clanton with 120 men; 120 men were assigned to grading and graveling of fifteen miles of road between Jemison and Maplesville; 65 men were assigned to work on the improvement of a road from Maplesville to the Perry County line; 60 others began work on the road from Verbena to Enterprise, and 38 women are to be employed in sewing and clerical work.

It is understood that all applications will be handled through a civil works adminstration office to be set up this week and not through the local relief offices.

At a meeting of the commissioners court Monday the following foremen were appointed: T. G. Wyatt, Dan McKinnon, R. E. Powell, and J. A. Thompson to supervise the swamp draining work at Clanton; Sherman Motley to have charge of the construction work on the Maplesville road to the Perry county line; J. D. Harrell, H. W. Gothard, Hort Freeman, and Crayton Lenoir on the Jemison to Maplesville highway; and W. W. Stroud to supervise the work on the Verbena to Enterprise road.

With $80,000 more to be paid the farmers in the county at an early date on cotton that was plowed under on the option plan, money should become more plentiful in the county with the increased payroll.

Brief Rural Topics

Good terraces cost from $1 to $2.50 per acre and enhance the value of land from $5 to $10 per acre.

Clearing of brush from the site on which a $4,000,000 fertilizer plant is to be constructed has been started at Muscle Shoals.

The International Livestock Exposition will be held at the Union Stock Yard, Chicago, December 2 to 9.

Reports to Auburn indicate that Alabama farmers will be almost unanimous in their approval of the 1934 cotton reduction program.

Attacking farm strikes as a hindrance rather than to help farmers, Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, after a conference with Mr. Roosevelt, urged agricultural interests to exercise patience and give the President's program a fair test.

Before the seasonal need for production credit develops next spring there will be many hundreds of organizations formed throughout the rural districts of the United States to assist in financing of agricultural production. The new organizations will be known as production credit associations.

Seek New Facts On Soil Tillage

Auburn, Ala.—A soil tillage experiment station to discover new facts about plows and plowing, planters and planting, and cultivators and cultivating is to be established on the grounds of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute here.

It will be the only one of its kind in the United States. Though it will be financed entirely by Federal money, Director M. J. Funchess, Prof. M. L. Nichols, agricultural engineer, and others of the Alabama Experiment Station staff will cooperate.

The new station was made possible through approval recently of an expenditure of $110,000 of public works money by Presdent Roosevelt. According to Prof. Nichols the work will continue indefinitely.

Soil will be shipped to Auburn from several states to be used in the tillage studies. The intention is to determine the best type of plows for breaking the soil, planters for planting; and cultivators for cultivating different soils.

Back of the decision to locate this unique experiment station at Auburn lies twelve years of limited tillage studies by Professor Nichols and his associates. There was also a vast amount of thinking and studying by Professor Nichols, Professor John W. Randolph, federal farm machinery investigator located at Auburn, and others.

Eleven types of major soils will be used at the outset; and others will be added from time to time if adequate needs arise. The soils will represent many states.

As a result of the work at Auburn farm implement dealers a generation hence may be selling equipment far different from that now on the market.

CHILTON COUNTY POSSIBLE POLITICS

By Victor Norris

"HAPPY DAYS ARE HERE AGAIN"

If some night when passing your favorite ghost hang-out, suddenly a quartet of elated voices rent the air with this optimistic tune, don't let your imagination get the better of you. Chances are ten to one it'll be four county commissioners.

In the face of a decision from the office of the Attorney-General, at Montgomery, the boys are about to get back on the payroll. Three months without a payday—you can't blame them if they feel a little inclined to bubble over.

Somewhere we remember reading a bit of philosophical advice against biting the hand that feeds you. Maybe this little salary hold-up was intended to be a lesson in philosophy.

"HARD LUCK CALLOWAY"

That's what we understand the office force in the State Attorney-General's office call Mrs. Gertrude P. Calloway, county treasurer. "To know one is right and then to do it," is the philophy that Mrs. Calloway has learned pays best, or in other words—"one attorney-General's decision in the hand is worth two in the bush."

Since a little political war was declared in the courthouse about a year ago, it has been necessary to put on an extra shift at the State Attorney-General's office to rule for Chilton county, and still, we understand, some decisions asked for last March have not been ruled on yet.

"HONEST JOE COBB"

Maybe after all honesty isn't always the best policy. Not long ago, Commissioner Cobb in making out his payroll made the mistake of calling "a spade a spade." In turning in his time for supervision of R.F.C. work in his district, he listed it as "R.F.C. work" instead of "road work." When the statutes were written there wasn't any R. F. C., so there's no provision to pay for R. F. C. supervision.

This fact was pointed out to Mr. Cobb. Drilled in the belief that honesty is the best policy, the rotund commissioner from the first district subtracted some $25 from his time. But an anti-Cobb element got hold of the little incident and joyously spread the news that "Cobb padded his payroll."

"MUD-SLINGING"

Heard that G. C. Weldon may decline to get in the race for tax collector because of the liklihood that the campaign may develop into a mud battle. But if he'll just turn that stoney stare on offenders that he uses on wayward boys at the Enterprise school, we believe his cleaning bill will be less than two-bits.

Anyway, Prof., don't let the mud get on your nerves. We understand that Roosevelt, in his effort to increase employment, intends to send a brigade of unemployed Birmingham miners down here to keep candidates from getting entirely submerged.

"VERSATILE CHARLIE"

That's Charlie Cox. His friends have mentioned him as a prospective candidate for every capacity in the county government, from commissioner of his district to probate judge; but through it all C. B. goes his placid way, apparently indifferent to county payrolls.

* * *

"COUNTY AGENT STAPP"

Monday's Montgomery Advertiser carried a story under a Dothan date line to the effect that Houston county has elected C. E. Stapp county agent.

A special meeting of the commissioners court of Chilton county was held Tuesday, to discuss with Mr. Stapp the probabilities of his acceptance of the Houston offer.

Stapp has been doing a great work with the farmers of Chilton county for about five years now, and perhaps no other county official would be more sorely missed.

We wish the commissioners luck in keeping County Agent Stapp in his present capacity.

COUNTY NAMES ENGINEER FOR WORK OF CWA

Thomas Arledge Is Given Place; Is Native Of Chilton County

Chilton county has a new official in its system of government. At a special meeting of the county commissioners court, Friday, Thomas J. Arledge was appointed county engineer to supervise construction work in connection with the Civil Works program that is getting underway in the county.

Mr. Arledge is a native of the county and has been connected with engineering for about twenty years. For the past several years he has been employed by the Louisville & Nashville railway as an engineer in Texas.

Sometime ago he returned to Chilton county, and at that time made application for a position as county engineer. For some time he sought to promote a natural gas service through this section last Summer. The franchse is still being held, it is understood, awaiting possible aid from the Public Works Administration.

For years progressive citizens have put forth constant effort to have Chilton county employ an engineer to map and supervise the county's road work as an economy move. Mr. Arledge was employed, it is understood, through a requirement of the Civil Works program.

WELL KNOWN YOUNG MAN OF CLANTON DIES

Moses Simpson Succumbs To Pneumonia Attack Here Last Saturday

Moses Simpson, 25-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh M. Simpson, died last Saturday morning at the home of his parents in Clanton, following a week's severe illness of pneumonia.

Returning to Clanton after attending the Auburn-Georgia football game in Columbus, Ga., November 18, he was confined to his bed with a high temperature, but hopes were held for his recovery until late Friday night when his condition made a decided turn for the worse. Physicians said his heart proved too weak to continue the fight against great odds.

In his death Clanton lost one of its most widely known and best loved young citizens. Born and reared in Clanton, his ready smile and even temper were well known by almost everyone who are constant visitors to Clanton.

Celebrating his twenty-fifth birthday on Saturday, November 18, one week before his death, many useful years should have been his, but for his untimely passing.

He was educated in the Clanton ele-

There were 12,129 bales cotton ginned in Chilton County from the 1933 crop up to November 14, 1933 as compared with 11,487 bales ginned from the 1932 crop as of November 14, 1932.

Why Keep The Truth From The People Of The County?

(AN EDITORIAL)

The attention of the News has been called to a matter in this county that has grown to large proportions, a matter that concerns every person in the county, directly or indirectly, and one that every citizen, regardless of political party connections, should consider and take steps to have it straightened out as it should be.

The News passed up as merely rumor, the first time it was mentioned, but continuous complaints coming from citizens over the county from both the Republican and Democratic parties, have caused the News to take some note of the situation, which is, as we have been told, a gross misrepresentation of facts, misleading information, and an insult to the intelligence of every citizen of Chilton County, be he farmer, merchant or banker.

To speak absolutely frank about it, being of the opinion that facts and truth are what the people want, we must say this: It has been stated to the News by reputable and prominent citizens that certain Republican leaders are openly telling people that "they" are responsible for the funds of the Civil Works Administration coming to Chilton County.

We understand that "they" are openly saying "we are giving you these jobs" and "we have plenty of money in the county to pay you." The News also understands from reliable sources that these "Republican leaders" are without hesitancy, attempting to leave the impression with those who are registering for this CWA work, that had it not been for the Republican leadership in this county, these jobs and these funds would not have come to the county.

These are false impressions. Those trying to leave this impression had nothing whatever to do with it, ex-

WOMAN'S DEMOCRATIC CLUB TO BE ORGANIZED IN THIS COUNTY

All Women Of Chilton County Invited To Attend First Meeting To Be Held Next Wednesday Afternoon In Clanton

At a meeting of the Democratic Executive Committee of Chilton County last Friday afternoon at the Wilson Hotel, plans were formulated for the organization of a Womans Democratic Club of Chilton County.

Those ladies present at the meeting who will act as organizers of the club were Mrs. Lucie Parnell of Maplesville and a member of the Executive Committee, Mrs. Nora Wells, and Mrs. A. M. Attaway of Jemison and Mrs. H. M. Nix, of Maplesville.

Mrs. Parnell was elected to serve as temporary chairman of the club and to preside at the first meeting.

First Meeting

The first meeting of the club will be held Wednesday, December 6th, at the Wilson Hotel in Clanton at two o'clock p.m. It is expected that Mrs. A. Y. Malone, National Democratic Committeewoman will be present to address the meeting.

All ladies of the county are extended a cordial invitation to attend this meeting, and already approximately seventy-five or more have denoted their intentions of being present.

A Challenge

Beat 5 committee officials have issued a challenge to every Beat in the county, except Beat 4, that they will have more women in attendance at this meeting Monday. This challenge has raised considerable interest in itself and all committeemen have been warned that Beat 5 intends to win in this contest.

F.F.A. BOYS OF THREE COUNTIES HAVE BIG BANQUET AT JEMISON

Congressman W. B. Oliver Is The Principal Speaker At Brilliant Occasion; Awarded Honor And Presented State Farmer Key

One of the most outstanding events to take place in Chilton County recently was the splendid banquet held in Jemison last Friday night for members of the Future Farmers of America of Chilton, Bibb and Shelby counties.

The banquet was held in the large auditorium of the Jemison High School of which Prof. J. A. Peterson is principal, and Prof. J. P. Montgomery is vocational agriculture instructor, and thru whose efforts, in cooperation with vocational teachers of the other counties, this event was arranged.

Five long tables were arranged in the auditorium with the speakers table appropriately placed. At the speakers table were seated Congressman W. B. Oliver the guest of honor, Supt. Luther E. Little, Prof. J. A. Peterson, C. C. Conway, J. P. Montgomery, Prof. B. Lawrence, Luther Fowler of Columbiana, publisher of the Shelby County Reporter, and others.

Extremely complimentary remarks were heard on all sides of the excellent plate that was prepared and served and the splendid manner in which it was done by the young ladies of the vocation Home economics class of the Jemison high school, under the direction of Miss Leacy Newell.

Approximately two hundred F. F. A. boys, their fathers and guests, were present and with Marvin Durbin as toastmaster for the occasion, the program proved to be lively and interesting. Marvin is one of the outstanding young men of the state in F. F. A. work, having received the highest honor that can be bestowed on a member of this organization, that of an Amercan Farmer. His home is in the Isabella com-

COMMISSIONERS ARE ASKED TO RETAIN AGENT

Decision Not Rendered As News Goes To Press Tues. Afternoon

A special meeting of the commissioners court for the purpose of considering the possible resignation of C. E. Stapp as county agent of Chilton county was held Tuesday morning.

The auditorium of the court house was packed with citizens from every community in the county, who congregated to ask that the commissioners take steps to retain Stapp. Mr. Stapp has been offered an increase in salary of $96.25 per month to assume duties of the post of county agent of Houston county.

A score of speakers pleaded with members of the commissioners court to increase the county's appropriation for county agent work to meet the salary increase offered by Houston county, and to retain Stapp at all possible costs, declaring that his work is indispensable and it would be next to an impossibility to fill his place.

At the close of the meeting, the audience voted unanimously to retain Mr. Stapp in his present capacity. A vote of the court was to be taken Tuesday afternoon, and it was the concensus of opinion that their vote will concur with the expressed wishes of the people

As the News goes to press, the decision of the commissioners had not been learned.

STATE COTTON FARMERS GET NINE MILLIONS

About Twenty-Five Per Cent Of Cotton Crop Plowed Up

Alabama farmers have been paid $9,724,000 for plowing up about 25 per cent of the state's cotton crop in accordance wth the acreage reduction campaign during the past summer, and stand to receive approximately $3,900,000 additional, according to F. W. Gist, statistician of the department of agriculture.

Destruction of 817,000 acres of growing cotton resulted in a jump of $13,624,000 in the farmers' buying power, including the additional four cents per poundn to be received by those who chose the option plan in preference to the non-option plan. Mr. Gist declared that farmers planting 74 per cent of the total acreage this year engaged in the plow-up effort.

"It is estimated that the total number of bales taken out of production by plowing up acreage was 333,000, of which 195,000 were under the non-option plan," Mr. Gist said. "The total amount of cash paid to farmers in the state was $9,724,000, of which $4,656,000 was paid under option contracts and $5,068,000 under non-option contracts.

CHILTON MEN OVERTURN IN CAR SUNDAY

Accident Happened On Road Near Maplesville; Third Man Not Injured

Two men are dead as a result of an automobile accident Sunday afternoon on the Selma highway, about a mile west of Maplesville.

They are Robert Roseberry, 35-year-old Maplesville saw mill employe, and Barney Patterson, 17-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Patterson, of the Cross Roads community.

Roseberry was killed instantly and Patterson died Tuesday morning at 6:15 o'clock at the Central Alabama hospital from internal injuries. Alvin Mims, another occupant of the wrecked machine, suffered slight bruises and cuts.

The accident occurred when a radius rod became disconnected causing the car to capsize. Roseberry was dead when extricated from underneath the car. Patterson was rushed to the hospital by Dr. DuBose, of Maplesville.

Surviving are two brothers, Lum, of Maplesville and Richard of Fairview; and two sisters, Mrs Kate Brown, and another sister whose name was not learned.

Funeral services were conducted Monday afternoon from the Pleasant Grove church with the Rev. Johnson officiating. Burial was in the churchyard cemetery.

Surviving young Patterson are his parents, two brothers, Obie and Thural Patterson; and one sister, Mrs. Ruby Mims.

Funeral services were conducted Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the Poplar Springs Baptist church. Burial was in the Poplar Springs cemetery.

Martin & Sons were in charge.

Chilton Board Of Education Re-Organized

Bibb Graves Spends Some Time In Chilton County

This man, Bibb Graves, one hears so much about almost all over the state, put in a fine appearance in Clanton and Chilton County last Thursday and gave the citizens here a bit of his idea of running the government of Alabama.

And his ideas seem to have struck with much approval from those he talked to. His first statement several weeks ago through the press of Alabama "The People of Alabama Know that Bibb Graves keeps his promises," made a deep impression on everyone, because few can say that he does not keep his promises.

Now he comes and says this, "I will give you seven months schools in Alabama, with paid school teachers. Lower taxes and lower cost of automobile tags."

That is saying a lot in a few words, customary with Bibb Graves, who kept things moving in Alabama during his former administration as Governor of the State.

Comments from citizens of Chilton County and Alabama in general would lead one to believe that the man who can defeat Bibb Graves for Governor has not been mentioned yet. He talked directly to the farmers while in our county last week, and to the farmers Bibb Graves devotes his interest, because, as he says, the farmer is the man who should control this State. Yes, it looks very much like Bibb Graves will be the next Governor of Alabama if the tide continues to mount in his favor as it has been doing recently.

Muzzled Candidates

So persistent are the reports that candidates for governor are to have their opinions formed for them by the state Democratic committee or by a convention of the committee's choosing that it is time to inquire who is behind this movement and what is its purpose.

According to the information first emanating from Birmingham where a small group of the state committee had been in conference the committee will propose to call a convention to meet sometime after the Democratic primary of May 1. In the primary candidates for governor will be chosen. The proposed convention will concoct a platform upon which the candidate already chosen shall stand. An alternative suggestion has also been made that the committee itself write a platform at the December meeting and require the primary nominee of next May to stand upon it.

We have had a good many schemes advanced in past years to provide for rubber stamp governors and legislators, but nothing quite so brazen or daring as this. If this plan were carried out we should have government by state committee in Alabama, and, judging from past performances, that is about the last thing the people of the state want.

Some of the members of the committee are said to be advancing another unusual proposal. It provides that the existing committee call a convention whose delegates shall be chosen in the Democratic primary next May, and that upon assembling, this convention shall in turn elect the new members of the state Democratic committee, thus taking the entire matter of choosing a state committee from the hands of the Democratic voters except by indirection. The excuse given to justify this is a Texas court decision which it is contended will compel admission of negro voters to Democratic primaries unless this procedure is taken to circumvent it.

While white Democrats will insist at all times upon retaining full control of their party machinery and authority, it is not without significance that the present suggestions for muzzling our candidates for governor, making them run on platforms adopted many weeks after they have been nominated by Democrats come apparently from the same men who have always shown distrust of the voters; who have wanted to name judges and other officials by the convention method; who bring up the subject each four years and who have never yet become reconciled to primary elections in Alabama by which the voters choose their candidates for office instead of leaving such an important matter to the trading and wire pulling of convention halls and antechambers.

Even under the guise of performing a necessary service Alabama does not want any schemes which will prevent aspirants for office from telling exactly where they stand on the important questions which must be passed upon next year. We don't want a man for governor who has to have someone else write his platform for him.

Firecrackers

The Fourth of July and Christmas herald the bursting and shooting of firecrackers, Pop, Bang, etc., by little boys, big boys and grown-ups, who enjoy the thrill they get from sticking a match to the fuse and hearing the loud report. But there is a disappointment that comes in the lives of those who shoot firecrackers. It comes when in all sincerity they light the fuse of a firecracker, throw it, and there is no report other than a little fizzle, hissing sound. Then it is all over.

In writing this we bring to mind a certain young man, who up until recently has held our respect. We judged him to be a broadminded young fellow, who while honest and ambitious, seemed always not to be able to get up much in the world. We wanted to help him.

But alas, all our good opinions of this young man, Guy H. DeShazo, went blooey, when our attention was brought to a letter from him which our friends, and trade associates so elegantly displayed in their last issue. In this letter he takes it upon himself to try to leave the impression that the Democrats are a lot of no-account, money spending, unbusinessfied and greedy politicians. He even had the nerve to flay the noble efforts of the President to help you, himself, and everyone else. The man who is responsible for the more than eight hundred men who have received jobs at good pay in this county.

We are sorry that Guy, away off down in Florida, where he is not able to keep in touch with the trend of politics in Chilton County, had time to write that letter. We are sorry for him, not that we are worried about the things he wrote. That is what reminds us of the disappointment that comes when a firecracker just fizzles and goes out, or even pops and that's the last of it.

A Friend of the People Asks To Be A Bigger Friend

We regret that last week this page went to press before our friend Dr. V. J. Gragg let it be known he had filed papers denoting he was a candidate for Senator from this District which is composed of Chilton, Autauga and Sheby counties. We would like to have then, said a few words of the fine qualities of this citizen of Chilton County.

But it is not too late for us to tell of the fine comments we hear about Dr. Gragg and his candidacy for Senator, nor of the splendid service this man has been to his town and county through the years he has practiced his profession.

Friends? We have learned since last week that his friends over this section greatly exceeded the large number we knew of, and his announcement has been greeted with approval.

Suffering --- Can Chilton County Forget So Easily?

If Clanton and Chilton County were some smug community to whom the bitter taste of disaster had never come; if they were composed of a people who had never seen wholesale death and suffering laid before their eyes, there might be some excuse for the way in which we have answered the Roll Call of the American Red Cross.

How can the people of Chilton County forget so easily? How can we so quickly shunt from our minds the vivid picture of destruction and despair, of maimed body and stark death which a twisting whirlpool sweeping out of the air left with us only a few months ago? How can we so easily forget the way in which the Red Cross, above all other unselfish agencies, brought to us succor in our hour of need, cared for the injured, fed the hungry and finished its noble task by building anew the homes for the homeless.

There are many who have given nobly of their time and talents in this Roll Call in the county. But, the memberships in Chilton County have not been received. Does this not offer a challenge to our sense of duty and responsibility? Does it not bring forth a bit of shame?

Clanton and Chilton County have seen the Red Cross at work in a moment of emergency, right at our doorsteps and in our homes. We have seen the Red Cross at work in a moment of contsant affliction, feeding the hungry and clothing the naked. Can we retain our self-respect and at the same time see this great humanitarian agency crippled in its endeavors? Can we expect the Red Cross to stand by idle when it hears an agonizing cry for help? Did they stand idle when Chilton County sent out a cry for help in March, 1931? It is not too late to do something toward memberships for the Red Cross.

The Dollar Of The Buyer

There is no better way to build a city and to make it prosperous than to stand by the institutions within its borders.

All the money that goes to pay for the improvements and services which are essential to community progress, come from institutions within the city. And all the money that goes to meet payrolls frequently comes from the same source.

Thus it is obvious that when home institutions are supported by home people a large part of the money goes to provide things that are essential and there is a substantial return to the indvidual.

A portion of every dollar spent locally goes to provide police and fire protection, clean streets, health safeguards, education facilities and many other immediate and substantial benefits, in additon to helping to keep local workers on local payrolls.

Obviously, the same may not be said of the dollar that is sent elsewhere for things that could be purchased at home. Such a dollar is gone and gone for good, its future services being dedicated to some other community instead of this community.

These facts have a vital relation to the prosperity and well-being of the city and should be remembered especially at this season when the purchase of fall and winter goods, and things for the holidays, is being planed.

Spend the money where it will continue to serve the community and all of its citizens. This is not only economically wise but it's far more satisfactory. The local dealer is here; he stands behind his goods and if exchanges or adjustments become necessary there is no delay. Buy at home and promote prosperity at home.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

I bought a fine hen that had a band on her leg, and brought her home and placed her in the yard with a bunch of nice fryers. This quality lady walked around among the common brood and pecked everyone that came in reach of her bill. When I scattered bread among them this stylish sister sang a song of disgust, refusing to touch the food, but she never let up on her pecking. Finally the old lady located herself right in the middle of the food, and when a fryer would run through to get a hunk of bread, he would get a peck on his back. I looked on and surmised to myself, "Exercise is good for a growing fryer, but there is no fun in being eternally pecked." Finally I rushed upon that old hen and ran her, fine feathers, band and bad manners and all else, into a corner of the fowl yard and kept her there until the food was devoured. I have seen many human hens and roosters with gold bands walking about among the common race of mankind, priding themselves of their beautiful feathers, and yet they do nothing but peck the common brood of the human race. That old hen's bad manners soon caused her to lose her fine feathers and band of distinction, for we had her in the boiling pot. When people do nothing but strut and peck they have no right to life.

I visited a country home and the man of the house carried me over his premises that I might know of his holdings. In the back of his garden we came upon a small cemetery. He told me that this burying ground belonged to him and his family. When they died they wanted to be buried near their old home. That may sound peculiar to some, but a burying ground should be near every man's home. When the bad reports come to your home about your neighbors, you should take them at once and place them in a casket and carry the casket and the report into your garden and bury them forever. Blessed is the family who has a small cemetery in the back of his garden in which they always bury the faults and bad reports of their neighbors.

And it came to pass that a Strawberry grower picked his knotty berries and placed them in the bottom of his basket and then covered them over with fine berries and sold the bulk for choice fruit. It also came to pass that a wood hauler filled the body of his wagon with trash and then covered the trash over wth good wood and sold the load for a fancy price. In like manner a farmer picked his cotton and put the dog tail cotton in the center of the bale and bound it about with a choice quality of cotton and it was sold at the top of the market. Verily, verily I say unto you, any man who buries dog tail cotton under fleecy white, who covers over trashy wood with good wood, or who places choice berries over faulty ones, and then sells for a fancy price, that man has sold out very cheap. He has injured himself more than any one else. It is poor policy to practice deception.

We are told that a drone bee often has as many as fifteen hundred eyes. A butterfly has many eyes. The spider also has as many as eight eyes. The drone, the butterfly and the spider, can see much but not one of the three can be charged with doing much. As for me I had rather have just one eye and then do the things that I see that need to be done, than to have a hundred eyes and do nothing. Blessed are the eyes that can see and the hands that will do the things that are seen.

I had a friend who was never certain about anything. He started to build a home for himself. A neighbor came and advised him to change his foundation, another neighbor advised him to change his plan and he listened to all the advice given. When his house was complete it was a mess. He tried to follow all the advice given. In the building of life, the same as in the building of a home, it pays to have a plan. Advice is good, but every man should have some will power and some determination to follow a plan. Any man who tries to follow all the advice given will certainly make a mess of his living.

IN MEMORY OF MY NEPHEW

Dear Fonza you have left me,
And your smiles I see no more.
My heart is filled with sadness
For no time can heal the sore.
More and more each day I miss you,
Friends all think the wound has healed,
But they little know the sorrow
That is in my heart concealed.
I often sit and think of you, dear Fonza,
For memory is the only friend
That grief can call its own.
He wore the crown of patience,
Through the years he struggled on,
And those hands that rest forever
Are the hands that made his home.
Soft and bright the stars are shining,
Spreading o'er a lonely grave
Where lies one I loved so dearly,
Whom I tried so hard—
But could not save.

Letters To The Editor

REPLYING TO GUY DeSHAZO LETTER

Editor, Chilton County News:

Will you be so kind as to give me a small space in your paper to call your readers' attention to a few statements that Mr. Guy H. DeShazo made in last week's Union-Banner. Mr. DeShazo said: People are inclined as a rule to forget a great many things in the course of 18 years. I ask the people of Chilton county and especially the Republicans to refresh your memory relative to the conditions prevailing in the county some eighteen years ago when the government of the county was wrested from the hands of the Democratic party.

In answer to the above statement made by Mr. DeShazo I will say that I have been a close observer of Chilton county politics for more than 30 years, and if the Republicans have ever wrested the government of the county from the hands of the Democratic party I have no knowledge of it. I suppose Mr. DeShazo's statement had reference to when Mr. Deason was Probate Judge.

At that time we had a Democratic judge and one Democratic commissioner, and three Republican commissioners, and as the county commissioners have all jurisdiction in handling the affairs of the county it is my contention that when Mr. Deason was Probate Judge we had a Republican administration, because we have four county commissioners in Chilton county and it takes only three to handle the affairs of our county as three is a majority and one is the minority, and the Probate Judge has no vote only in a tie of the commissioners.

Mr. DeShazo asks further: Who ran Chilton county into this enormous debt? Who so muddled up the business affairs of your county to the extent that the county had no credit? Who tangled up your road laws and system of road work to such an extent that you had no roads? I will tell you who did it, the Democrats.

Mr. DeShazo makes the above bold statement when the fact is the Republicans have had a majority of commissioners, which is three against one, since 1907, in which year the Republican party of Chilton county was organized, and if that doesn't make it a Republican administration since 1907 I want some expert to tell me why not.

Mr. DeShazo winds up his article by saying that the Republicans should put their shoulders to the wheel and see to it that L. H. Reynolds is returned to the office of Probate Judge for another six years next November.

I think myself the Judge should have the nomination from the Republican party of Chilton county as he organized it in 1907 and has been its head since that time. But I would like to see the Heart of Alabama changed from Republicanism to Democracy, for of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh. So it is up to the Democrats of Chilton county to change the heart of Alabama, and it is going to take the real old time Democrats to bring about the saving power that will save the Heart of Alabama next November from Republicanism. Will the Democrats of Chilton county be ready to make the change?

Respectfully,
A. A. JACKSON.

THE REFERENDUM AND RECALL ACT

Chilton County News,
Clanton, Alabama.
Dear Sir:

Are you at all interested in breaking up Alabama's Vicious Political Circle?

Theer is no greater reform or a more Democratic prniciple than a law permitting citizens of Alabama to decide questions for themselves—not being at the mercy of a Legislature or subject to the whims of a Governor. The politicians say no, but I have absolute confidence in the judgment of the people.

The initiative Referendum and Recall will break up political rings and Restore Government to the hands of the people. With the passage of this Act there should be a companion measure permitting elective officials to succeed themselves. Ample protection against inefficiency and corruption is afforded by the Recall Act.

There are many questions the people of Alabama would like to have settled now, but they cannot be settled because in our Governor's personal opinion, there is not "reason for a special Session." He is disregarding the public demand and deciding himself what he thinks is best for the other 2,646,247 citizens of Alabama.

It may not be class legislation, but there is no denying it is a Gangster Racket when 190,000 automobile owners out of a population of 2,646,248 are bearing a tax burden, derived from tags, ad valorem, gasoline, etc., of $16,000,000 annually—one half of the State's entire income. How long would this be permitted with the Referendum and Recall Act a law?

There is much talk of closing schools again. Do you know how some of the Educational Funds were spent for the past twelve years?

The money to Auburn increased 834%, to Alabama 875%, Vocational Education 3246%, to Alabama College at Montevallo, 623% and Normal Schools 704%, yet Public Elementary and High Schools received an increase of only 166%.

While revenue receipts for Public Education in the 67 counties of Alabama increased 226% in twelve years, the enrollment increased only 10%. And please remember that at the same time, we have failed to pay millions of dollars to our teachers. Will someone tell me what has become of the money and why our schools must close?

In the twelve year period, expense of the Public Service Commission has increased 565%, Executive salaries and Expenses 271%, Game and Fish Department 4954%, Health Department 2427%, Convict Department 284%, and State Highway Department 14,535%. Last but not least Tax Levies in Alabama, from principle sources, increased 447%, from 1918 to 1930, which does not include Tax Increases imposed by the Miller administration.

During this period, some of the State Salaries have increased from a low of 32% to a high of 200%.

If given an opportunity, how long do you think it would take the people of Alabama to straighten matters out?

What Alabama needs is just a Square Deal—a New Deal is not necessary.

Trusting to have your co-operation and thanking you for any consideration that may be exended, I am

Yours truly,
W. B. LEEDY,
P. O. Box 2272.

IN MEMORY OF FONZA TRAYWICK

The death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe W. Traywick on November 22, 1933, about 3 a.m. and carried away their loving son, Fonza, to a better home on high. If he had lived until December 3, he would have been 16 years of age. Fonza was the only child and was a good and affectionate child. He was a friend to everyone. To know Fonza was to love him. He leaves a father, mother and a host of friends and relatives to mourn his loss.

The funeral services were carried out beautifully, and he was laid to rest in New Harmony cemetery with Spigener in charge.

Pallbearers were Raymond Parker, Clifford, Julius and Lloyd Traywick, George Bell and Victor Cowart. Honorary pallbearers were Mr. J. Fletcher Parker and Mrs. Wright, his teacher.

The Jackson Chapel school marched to the cemetery, and Fonza's class from Mt. Pleasant brought some beautiful flowers.

—One that loved him, J. Fletcher Parker.

How Cardui Helps Women

"Mal-nutrition" means that your body is not getting enough to keep it up, so that what it has to do is not done well. You may not be eating enough to keep up the work of the body, or there may be something wrong that keeps you from getting full value from the food you eat.

Because of mal-nutrition, some women have aches and pains every month. Such pains should not be neglected.

Take Cardui to give you a better appetite, to give you more strength from the food you eat — to build up and increase your feeling of well-being. Aches and pains go away as you build up with the help of Cardui.

ISABELLA TEAM HOLDS CHILTON GRIDDERS TO TIE-SCORE FRIDAY

Players On Both Teams Make Outstanding Plays As Isabella Comes To The Front After Several Years Hard Work

By Dan Smith

With both teams fighting with a determination to win, Chilton County High and Isabella High fought to a 7 to 7 tie at Clanton last Friday afternoon. This was the annual game between Chilton and Isabella who have been spirited football rivals for a number of years. Isabella has been the underdog most of these years, but they came back Friday with superb playing that held the mighty Chilton eleven to a 7 to 7 tie. Both teams played the hardest, the fastest, the most thrilling and the best game of the season, this being the last game of Chilton.

Chilton played true to her form during the first quarter. A short pass over the line from James Tiffin to Joe Moore netted the first touchdown. An attempt for extra point was good. The remaining part of the first quarter was filled with many thrilling plays which kept the spectators, a record crowd, on their toes. In the second quarter Parnell Ratcliffe, end for Isabella, breaking loose on Chilton's forty yard line, outsprinted several Chilton men for Isabella's first touchdown. Bucking their way through the heavy Chilton line Isabella gained the extra point making the score 7 to 7.

Both teams had each others goal in their grasp several times during the third quarter. Both Chilton's line refused to give in, and Isabella with the same determined spirit refused to let the plunging backs of Chilton through. In the third quarter the two teams resorted mostly to a passing attack that gave the crowd many thrills when the ball would soar twenty and thirty yards to be jumped at by two or three men.

Cecil Jones, right end for Chilton, starred along with his other teammates. His tackles were numerous and hard. His pass catching was beautiful and the team would have been lost without him on the end. James Tiffin, Chilton half, wrote football history with his long beautiful passes and his yard gaining end runs. Capt. Jesse Frank Foshee played a wonderful game at the fullback position, hitting Isabella's line all through the game . His blocking for teammates was laudable. Sidney Reynolds and Carl Jones, half and quarter for Chilton displayed good football in many fine plays. Chilton's line won the approval of all who witnessed it push forward when they had the Ball and hold like a brick wall against their foe. Joe Moore at left end, D. H. Wylder at center, Grady Reynolds, Jr., right tackle, Osmond Glenn at left tackle, Emanuel Cooper at left guard, Gillespie at end, and the others played a marvelous game on the line.

Starring for Isabella were Martin, halfback; Morgan, quarter, who tossed a number of beautiful passes; Ratcliffe, end; Jones, halfback; and Chambers, left guard.

This game closed the season in a big way. Both teams were determined to win, therefore they fought to a close tie.

Thanksgiving Day is near at hand, so it was thought appropriate to give a little history of how it came to pass.

History of Thanksgiving

Thanksgiving Day is a national harvest festival fixed by proclamation of the President and governors of the states, which is set apart as a legal holiday for giving thanks.

In 1621, after the first harvest of the New England colonists, Governor Bradford made provisions for the rejoicing of the people by setting apart a day for prayer and praise which was repeated often during the following years.

During the Revolution a day of national thanksgiving was annually recommended by Congress. Washington appointed such a day in 1789. The last Thursday in November has been appointed to be the Thanksgiving Day and has been followed.

—Lewis Gandy.

This poem was written by a girl in the Sixth Grade:

Thanksgiving

Thanksgiving is a holiday,
That comes in dear November.
Although I go to school that day,
I always can remember.

That day in sixteen twenty-one
When Thanksgiving Day first begun.
The Pilgrims only hit this land
When Bradford gave his command.

That was a grand old celebration!
And worthy quite of our grand nation
Now we're called "Red, White and Blue,"
So let us give thanks and be kind and true.

My Bible

My Bible's the greatest book I've found,
With great truths and maxims its pages abound.
Where'er I shall roam, with me it'll be found
For I love the sweet stories with doctrine so sound.
I take down my books and glance through them all,
But I'll choose my dear Bible from the stand in the hall.

When late in the evening. I decide on a walk,
With these grand characters I roam and talk,
But if in my room. I choose to stay,
Some Bible game I'll probably play,
But sweeter to me, and best of all
Is my dear old Bible on the stand in the hall

At night when I sit on my mother's knee
Gently and sweetly she reads to me.
Whence come those stories that entrance me so?
And why do they sweeter and dearer grow?
Why, they're from that book, the best of all,
My dear old Bible from the stand in the hall.

POPLAR SPRINGS

Sunday, November 26th, at 1 30 p.m. the singing class of Poplar Springs met for the regular fourth Sunday singing Even though the crowd was small everyone seemed to be in the singing spirit and we put it over in a big way. The class was caleld to order by Mr. W. M Devaughn with two songs, followed by a prayer by Mr. W. F. Gilliland. Two and three songs each were sung by the following: Latham (Pete) Wilson, Gertrude Easterling, W. F. Gilliland Velma Jones, Floy Devaughn, Myrtice Smith. A quartet was arranged by W. M. Devaughn.

Folks, we're not going to let this society die, so come on and help us next second Sunday. We invite all singing visitors especially.

Former Chilton Man Died Recently

Tom Jones Laid To Rest In Montgomery After Illness Of Several Weeks

Funeral services for Thomas A. Jones, 34, former resident of Chilton county, who died last Thursday morning at his home in Dothan, following an illness of two weeks duration, were held Saturday at 11 a.m. from the home of Dave Cody, 105 Montesuma road, Montgomery, with Dr. Richard Wilkinson, rector of St. Johns Episcopal church officiating. Burial was in Oakwood cemetery.

Mr. Jones was a native of Chilton county, having been born and reared in the Jumbo community. He was a graduate of the Chilton County High School and later attended the University of Alabama. Shortly after finishing school he removed to Montgomery and was engaged for several years as a cotton buyer by Weil Bros. firm.

He removed to Dothan about five years ago, where he was prominently known in both business and social circles. In 1926 he was married to Miss Effie Tuttle, daughter of Mrs. Mortimer Tuttle and the late Dr. Mortimer Tuttle.

Surviving Mr. Jones are his widow, two children, Effie Tuttle Jones and Thomas A. Jones, Jr., of Dothan; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. G. Jones, of Clanton; and two sisters, Mrs. C. L. Shaw, of Clanton, and Mrs. Sara Jones Hadder, of Birmingham.

Fred Boatfield of Clanton Route 3 was in Clanton Saturday.

V. B. Edwards of Lomax was a caller at the News office Saturday.

BLALOCK-NIVENS

A marriage of interest to friends and relatives is that of Miss Margaret Gertrude Blalock and Houston Nivens which was solemnized Saturday, November 25, by Rev. J. A. Raines of Verbena.

The bride is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Blalock of Clanton, Route 4. She graduated from Chilton County High School with the class of 1930. She is a popular member of the younger set in the community in which she lives.

Mr. Nivens is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Nivens of Clanton. He is also a graduate of Chilton County High School with the class of 1927. He holds a responsible position with the Alabama Power Company, where he has been connected for six years.

Mr. and Mrs. Nivens will make their home for the present with the bride's parents. Their many friends join in wishing them much happiness and success.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR MRS. FRANCES HAMILTON SATUR.

Funeral services for Mrs. Frances Hamilton, 78, widow of the late H. Clay Hamilton, who died Friday afternoon, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. B.E. Jones, Clanton Route 4, were conducted Saturday afternoon from the Union Grove church with the Rev. Davis officiating.

Martin & Sons in charge.

Members of Mrs. Renfroe Mullin's Sunday School class of the Clanton Baptist church are sponsoring a Thanksgiving sunrise program Thursday morning. Invitations to attesd are extended to the public.

INK DROPS FROM C. C. H. S.

By Dan Smith

Gazing about among the students one will see that our new books are being put to use. This is fine, the school now knows that the money expended on these books was not thrown away. Nearly everyone has taken a revived interest in reading, and everywhere one goes here he will see a student with a library book.

* * *

Isabella surprised us last Friday and held the Chilton Tigers to a 7 to 7 tie. This was a great game in every way and the attendance was one of the largest we have had in years. Since the game was called at 1:30 all the students were able to attend.

* * *

The members of the Senior class were somewhat surprised and saddened Monda ywhen John Ezell, class president, turned in his resignation as president of the class. A class meeting was held Tuesday morning to take further action of it. At the time of this writing we were unable to obtain the result of the class meeting.

* * *

The entertainment given by the Senior Class last Friday night was indeed a success. The Senior class wishes to express their appreciation of the help given by the students and to thank all those who were present and remind them that more entertainments are on the way.

* * *

We closed our football season last Friday. The Tigers have a fine record, five victories, three defeats and one tie. Several players will be awarded their letters in a few weeks. These letters were earned too, and we know that the wearers will be proud of them.

* * *

Who will be our captain next year? We hope that he will be as good a captain as Jesse Frank Foshee, captain for the 1933 team. The writer wishes to also say a few words about a boy that receives little public praise yet he is very loyal to his school. None other than Dan Sanford who was the dependable manager of the Tiger football squad this year.

* * *

After some unavoidable delay the Senior Class rings will be seen on many dainty fingers in a few days. The Seniors will be proud of their rings because they are one of the rewards of twelve years of hard study and work.

* * *

Form your own opinions: .Stopped in the drug store the other day and lo and behold who was seen looking at some beautiful and not inexpensive gifts for the fair lady? The writer was very much surprised especially when this Senior One revealed his intentions. He fell at last or maybe he was pulled off. * * * Seems that several of our Senior Two would like to have a course in the arts of self defense * * * Some girls really love caramel candy * * * Amazing! Startling! Punchie walked down the hall without a letter in his pocket. Maybe it wore out. * * * A certain Senior acting unlike a gentleman has caused some people to dislike him. To make it worse he knew it was an ungentlemanly act. * * * A certain boy had better watch his possession in the sophomore class and a certain other boy should remove his ships from in front of his rival's harbor or else he may not have any. * * * "Don't like him but I'll never let her have him," she had better not talk loud next time.

* * *

Only one more month left in this semester and all of the students have turned their thoughts to the next semester. Will we have nine months of school this time? If not will there be a private school run as there was last year? It is not known yet whether the state will run the schools nine months or not. But it is known that if we have only four and one-half months a great many hardships will be pushed on the students. A large majority of them will be forced to stop their education. Lack of education causes crime. We should first look after our educational institutions and then we would not have to spend so much on our prisons.

MISS ALICE CHAPMAN INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Miss Alice Chapman, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Benjamin S. Chapman, and a teacher at the Woodlawn high school, Birmingham, suffered a slight concussion of the brain and severe bruises, when her car collided with a transfer truck on the Big Deep curve about a half-mile north of Verbena on the Montgomery-Birmingham highway Monday afternoon.

She was rushed to the Central Alabama hospital by passing motorists, where it was reported that her condition is not considered serious. Miss Chapman was enroute from her home in Montgomery to Birmingham to resume her duties as teacher when the accident occurred.

CHICKEN SUPPER

There will be a chicken supper at Mt. Pleasant Wednesday night, November 29. Plates will be 25 cents, and everyone is invited to come.

Mr. J. M. Smith, prominent citizen of Thorsby, was in Clanton on business Monday, and while in town called at the News office.

C. M. Deramus of Maplesville Route 1 was among the visitors to Clanton Monday.

1,500 Have Registered For Work Of CWA

—o—

A local organization for the purpose of registering Chilton county citizens who wish to make application for employment under the provisions of the Civil Works Administration program has been set up, with C. Fenn Jones, manager of the county employment office.

The appointment of Mr. Jones to this capacity was made through the State Civil Works Administration office, at Montgomery, following a recommendation by a local committee.

Fifteen hundred had been registered Tuesday night, according to Mr. Jones, who declared that in his opinion this list will constitute the official re-employment roster for this county. From this list men are to be drawn according to their ability to do the work and according to their need for employment, it is understood.

Four hundred men were given work through this program in the county several days ago and it is hoped to place 400 more by Dec. 1, it has been announced. Ex-service men with dependents are being given preference, it was stated.

Mr. Jones stated that no person under the age of 16 is allowed to register, and, too, he averred, many of those who are registering are physically unable to do manual labor. He declared that he has not been informed what provision, if any, will be made to take care of these applicants.

Large Crowd Sees Polk Demonstration

—o—

Many Chilton county farmers learned a lesson in thrift and convenience Saturday when Polk Bros., dealers in International farm equipment, gave a detailed demonstration of the work that can be done with the famous Hammer Mill and Farmall tractor.

At the Polk Bros. establishment in Clanton both pieces of machinery may be seen. With the famous Hammer Mill, it was explained, it is possible for the farmer to save much in his feed bills and at the same time give his stock the best possible feeds. Hay, corn, oat straw, velvet beans, and any other types of feed may be ground to any desired degree of fineness. Too, the Hammer Mill is a worthwhile asset to any farm for grinding corn meal.

This piece of machinery consists of several hammers that are revolved at the rate of 1,900 to 2,000 revolutions per minute, grinding feeds to any desired state. The Farmall tractor, too, adds much to any farmer's equipment, it being possible to use for plowing, operating the Hammtr Mill, or other pieces of farm machinery.

Polk Bros. are enthusiastic about these machines and especially invite their friends in to see them demonstrated.

Vermont Junior High School News

Our school dismisses today for the Thanksgiving holidays. Work will be resumed on next Monday. A program will be presented by the student-body here this afternoon at two o'clock. Everyone is cordially invited to attend. No admission will be charged. After the program the P.-T. A. will hold a brief business meeting.

We are proud to learn that our school classmate, T. J. Ratliff, has about recovered from the ill effects of a severe cold which has kept him absent from school the past several days. We sorely missed him on the ball court last Friday afternoon when Maplesville played our boys, but Ormond Deason, a new-comer in our school, filled his place in a most creditable manner.

Misses Bertie Grant, Ethel Cagle and Dorothy Manning spent the past week end at the home of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. O. Manning, of Isabella community.

Both the boys and girls basket gall teams went over to play Maplesville last night, but at this time the writer has not learned the scores.

Miss Cagle (to Jr. 3 English class): Charlie, what is kiss, a common or proper noun?

Charlie: It is both common and proper.

Mr. Earle Thomas is moving along nicely with his night class. He is giving some mighty good instruction relating to the selection of seed, the care and breeding of livestock and poultry; the proper way to build up the soil, so as to conserve moisture and plant food; the beautification of the home environment, and a large number of other topics which will be of great value to the present and future farmers. Arouse yourself and attend one of these classes and we feel sure you will be a regular attendant afterwards.

Our boys basket ball team won another rousing victory last Friday when they hurled the Maplesville Jr. High team down to a 14 to 2 defeat. This game was fast, rough, furious and interesting. Both teams were entirely too keen which caused many crip shots to be missed, numerous fouls to be committed, and a large volume of faulty passwork. The Vermont boys were sadly off form in shooting the first half, but the second half found their eyes for the goal a little more accurate. The Maplesville boys made several daring and pretty breaks through the defense set up by our players, but they too were guilty of inaccurate shooting. Their 2 points were made by foul shots.

Stopping Insect Damage To Corn

Auburn, Ala.—Destruction of cornstalks and fall and winter plowing are the most important steps to take in the control of insect pests attacking corn, according to Winford A. Ruffin, extension entomologist of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

Both the larger cornstalk borer and the lesser cornstalk borer did considerable damage to corn in most all parts of the state last year, Mr. Ruffin reports. Another insect which frequently damages corn is the sugar cane beetle, he said.

The sugar cane beetle is about one-half inch long, solid black in color, and shaped similar to the June bug. It causes damage by eating into the stalk just below the surface of the ground. Control measures recommended are deep fall plowing, planting corn and cane on land where cotton grew the year before, early planting with plenty of seed, and fertilization to induce rapid growth.

The larger cornstalk borer as an adult is a moth with 1¼ inch wing spread, almost white to smoky yellow in color, but the damage is done while insect is in larva stage by a dirty white fat caterpillar, 1 inch long, thickly covevered with black spots each of which bear a short dark bristle. The first generation feeds on the unfolded leaves causing so-called "bud-worm" injury. Later they enter the stalk near the ground and start boring up and down in the pith. The second generation appears after the corn has tasselled out, feed in the same way as the first generation, and in the early fall work their way to the tip of the tap root and spend the winter. Control recommendations are rotation of crops, deep winter plowing, and raking up roots and stalks and burning them.

As an adult the lesser cornstalk borer is a brownish black moth, with a wing expanse of less than 1 inch. The damage is caused by the greenish larvae which is about 1 inch long but much smaller than the worm of the larger cornstalk borer. The worms cause much typical so-called "bud-worm" injury, that is round holes in the leaves, as well as tunnel in the stalk the same as the larger borers. This pest can be distinguished from insects causing similar damage by the ever-present web which the larva spins. This insect spends the winter in the pupa state in the ground. Late fall and winter plowing is very helpful. Planting early and fertilizing heavy also helps.

IN MEMORY OF "BILL" POWELL

On Saturday night, October 29, about 1:30 o'clock, God in His great power and wisdom sent the angels of Heaven and carried away the spirit of our dear brother, "Bill" Powell. Bill lived to be almost sxteen years of age. He leaves to mourn his departure, father, mother, four brothers and three sisters, all of Clanton, Ala., besides a host of other relatives and friends, for Bill had such a pleasant disposition and such winning ways that everyone who knew him loved him.

Grieve not, loved ones, for we feel that our loss is Heaven's gain, for Bill was a good boy, always ready and willing to lend a helping hand to those in need.

"Bill" isn't dead, he is only sleeping that sweet, peaceful sleep. He is resting in the arms of Jesus in that beautiful land where we'll never grow old, away from this old world of sorrow, pain and cares.

God didn't take dear brother away from us to make us sad, but there is yet one more thing we can do for him to make him happy and rejoice, and that is to be ready to meet him when God sends for us, where we never have to part any more. Isn't it wonderful that God will give us the privilege of meeting our loved ones and friends again to be with them always, if we will only do His blessed will.

We extend to everyone that helped us to bear our troubles our deepest gratitude and commend them to the love and sympathy of God, our Father, Jesus our Saviour.

The remains were laid to rest in Samaria cemetery with Martin & Sons in charge. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. S. J. Ezell of Clanton.

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA

To the Customers of
Alabama Power Company:

Although as a result of the depression the company has sustained large losses in income due to the necessity for thousands of customers to discontinue the service and the necessity for thousands who remained customers to cut down on the use of electric current, we have not ourselves cut down on the quality of the service rendered. On the other hand we have endeavored to improve it.

If it were possible to operate our plants three or four days a week as our manufacturing customers have been doing or to supply part time electric service, we could have made substantial savings in operating expenses since 1929. That is impossible because we must supply you with electric service day and night, twenty-four hours each day, for use whenever you see fit to turn on the switch or start a motor.

Electric service is so necessary in present day industrial and living conditions that it must be available constantly for every need at all hours of the day for every day in the year. Therefore, we cannot secure economies in operation by reducing the working days per week or the number of hours we operate per day. We are unable to store our product and await your needs. It must be provided ready to serve you as you need it and it must be used the moment you demand it. As a result, our plants, our lines, our system can never be idle.

In rendering you constant service of a uniform quality we require more than 330 automobiles and trucks, more than 1800 employees with an annual payroll of $2,?00,000—all of which is in the State of Alabama.

Yours very truly,

President.

Economic Highlights

Happenings that affect the dinner pails, dividend checks and tax bills of every individual. National and international problems inseparable from local welfare.

Muscle Shoals, fortunately, is not an important spoke in the Roosevelt wheel. It gained an altogether unjustifiable prominence because it had long been the pet of the Senate Progressives, of who Nebraska's able, hard-bitten George Norris is the leader. It has been a sharp pain to all the administrations since Wilson's.

Mr. Roosevelt put Muscle Shoals to work under government auspices, but that isn't the end of it by a long shot. At first, press response to the Tennessee Valley proposal, was polite, vague, distant. Most newspapers adopted the watchful waiting attitude, and held to the course of giving the Administration an even break and then some, so far as editorial comment was concerned. Now a definte note of acidity is appearing in Muscle Shoals editorials in papers of all political leanings, Tory to Anarchist, and of all sizes from the New York Times to the smallest weekly.

Muscle Shoals can't, apparently, realize the Norris dream of power for next to nothing. First test came the other day in the city of Birmingham, largest community in the Muscle Shoals Area, which voted on a number of projects involving building facilites to use "cheap" Muscle Shoals power. The power was offered to the city for 7 mills per kilowatt hour. The fact was produced that the private utility now serving Birmingham buys its power wholesale for a mill less than that. Upshot was that all proposals were defeated. Common opinion is that the Birmingham vote will be the South's bellwether—that as she went, so will go other towns. That will be proven or disproven shortly, when other and smaller towns vote on similar measures.

Muscle Shoals took it on the chin again when the state utilities commissioners held their annual convention at Cincinnati. Bulk of the delegates expressed themselves as being opposed to government power, foresaw disastrous results if government goes into competition with private industry. They pointed out that the production cost of power, where Muscle Shoals has an advantage over most private plants, is magnificently unimportant; distribution cost and taxes constitute almost all of the power-users' bills. When it came to the proposal that Muscle Shoals can supply domestic power at two cents per kwh., the commissioners said it couldn't be done and still allow the plant to break even.

The NRA has its pioneering work behind it. Now it is gradually developing into a more rational, better organized governmental bureau. Last change gave the blue eagle five definite branches. They cover, in groups, Extractive Industries, Construction and Machinery, Chemicals, Leather and other Manufactures, Trades, Services, Textiles and Clothing. Each branch has an administrator all its own, making a sort of five-man cabinet to Big-Shot Administrator Hugh Johnson. Persons who wish to report a code violation to the NRA have only to go to the post office, procure a blank, fill it out and file it with the local NRA compliance officer. He makes an effort to fix matters up, and if he fails he passes it on to his immediate superior, the Divisional Administrator. He takes a crack at it, and in event of failure, sends it up to the National Compliance Board. If it flops, General Johnson gets it next. If necessary, he can turn the charge over to the Federal Trade Commission or the Attorney-General.

General Johnson always has a lot of fights on his hands. Most recent was with the Federal Reserve Board's Bulletin. It said that late industrial declines have occurred most severely in industries which have been affected by codes. The General shook his head, growled menacingly, barked out that the situation was precisely the reverse of that, and that code industries have been going forward. So the reader can take his choice. A more important fight of the battling General's, is his long-standing feud with Ford. The other day he traded in his government Lincoln for a Cadillac, announced that Ford would get no government contracts. Showdown will come soon, when automobile makers are required to send in their employment statistics. If Ford refuses, as everyone believes he will, next round will probably take place in the courts.

The business picture is confusing. Best of late signs is in the quarterly income reports. The utility group was the only major one to make a poor showing so far as profits were concerned; steel, motors, chemicals, etc., produced definite advances for the nine months as compared with last year. One of most striking changes was General Motors, which for three-quarters of the year, had an 800 per cent jump in profits.

Current indicators aren't so good. Steel operations were recently down to 28 per cent of capacity, where 59 per cent was reached in the second quarter. The index of automobile production slipped to 46, with seasonal adjustment made, where it was 60 last quarter. Electric power output had a decrease, instead of the normal seasonal increase. Carloadings reversed the favorable trade of other late months.

J. A. KELLER ANNOUNCES FOR STATE SUPERINTENDENT

J. A. Keller, Superintendent of Covington County Schools, and former president of the Alabama Education Association announces for State Superintendent of education.

J. A. Keller was born and reared in Cullman county, Alabama. He received his elementary and high school education in that county, and his college education at the State Teachers College, Florence, Alabama, and Peabody College, Nashville, Tennesste. He holds a B. S. degree from Peabody College, and has recently done advanced study in that institution.

After six years of successful teaching in the schools of Cullman Mr. Keller was appointed superintendent of education of the county schools. The appointment came as a surprise to him, as he was not an applicant for the position. After serving one term in that capacity he was offered the superintendency of the Covington County schools, which position he accepted and has held for the past thirteen years.

His work as a school administrator has been outstanding and has attracted attention throughout the state, and even beyond the confines of Alabama. For several years he has served as a member of the National Committee on Rural Education. Last year he was selected as the principal speaker for the Louisiana State Teachers Association, and was invited to address a department at the lats convention of the National Education Association.

Mr. Keller's splendid work as superintendent of education of the Covington county schools, and as president of the Alabama Education Association, should commend him to the voters of Alabama. He has demonstrated unusual ability as a leader and practical business man. In fat and lean years alike he and his board have lived within the county's educational income, and have brought up to a high standard all phases of educational activities in the county.

Mr. Keller is an over-seas World War veteran, past president of the Andalusia Rotary Club and delegate to an International convention of Rotary, past president of the state organization of county superintendents, former president of the Alabama Education Association and member of the Executive Committee, Shriner, and active church layman.

Mr. Keller is held in high esteem by the people of his county as is evidenced by the following editorial taken from the Andalusia Star: "Superintendent Keller is a man who never shirks a duty nor responsibility because they entail hard work. In fact he is a man suited to a big job. The bigger the job and the harder the going, the more energy Mr. Kelelr displays. He has never been a piddler. He considers a situation only with a view to tackling it and improving it. There is no part nor parcel of the school system in Covington County, a county which he has served for thirteen years as Superintendent, that does not show improvement. Like leader, like teacher and school officials. The stamp of efficiency, of sacrificial devotion to duty, has permeated every school.

"His influence in Covington County is today more potential than that of any other citizen simply because his service to the people has been recognized as being all-inclusive, because he has benefited the school children in every corner of the county by an enlightened and progressive school program which has been reflected in better attendance, better teachers, better school spirit, more sanitary conditions in and around the school buildings, better care of health among the pupils, better physical training, and better school work, and to all this may be added a whole-hearted co-operation with the school program on the part of the patrons."

Keller is expected to have stiff opposition in Oscar S. Causey, Howard college registrar, who announced for the superintendent's office several weeks ago.

Causey has been in conference with school heads over the state for the last few weeks with a view to shaping up his campaign plans. He is making a detailed study of the state educational structure and will announce his complete platform in the near future.

Causey also said that he planned to make an extensive speaking tour of the state.

A tentative platform made public by Registrar Causey at the time of his formal announcement advocated full terms for all schools, a living wage for teachers, minimum cost of operation of the state department at Montgomery and textbooks without profit to individuals or corporations above publishers prices.

munity.

The program was opened as the young ladies served the delicious plate, by the F. F. A. boys singing the F. F. A. Song, followed with invocation by the Rev. B. Lawrence. Each person present was asked to rise and give his name and address. This gave a showing that each chapter was well represented.

Prof. J. A. Peterson was asked to make a few remarks and was followed by Robert Hunt, who gave the Creed of the F. F. A. "The Purpose of the F. F. A. Organization," was the subject of a short talk by R. C. Veazey, of Isabella. He was followed by Leon Templin of Columbiana, whose subject was "Shopwork on the Farm."

To add some spice to the program two Columbiana boys gave a short skit on the stage. Ermi Lee Robinson, one of the outstanding students at the Jemison High School, and a hard worker in the F. F. A. organization gave an excellent address on "Supervised Practice Work in Vocational Schools."

The subject "Project Work in Vocational Schools," was well handled by Nolan Hoyle, who was followed by an address by J. O. Thompson, an outstanding farmer of Bibb County. Joyce Howard of Jemison gave a good talk on the subject "Scholarships Among Vocational Students."

At this point the toastmaster gave a most fitting introduction to Congressman Oliver, and presented him with a State Farmer Key of Honor, and is one of the few persons to receive this key, who are not connected directly with agricultural work in the state. In his introduction of Congressman Oliver, Marvin Durbin called attention to the congressman's efforts in behalf of the work of defeating the Bill in Congress that would have eliminated the vocational work in the state had it passed. He also paid tribute to Mr. Oliver for his great interest in the State and the people in his district, and his record of supporting President Roosevelt in his recovery program.

Excerpts from the remarkable and well fitted address of Congressman Oliver are as follows:

"By cooperation we can overcome mistakes of the past. That is the plea that our President is sending out to everyone."

Praises Group of Boys

Mr. Oliver was high in his praise of the splendid gathering and representation of young men at the banquet terming them as "the future leaders of the country."

Offers Prizes

In this instance, he stated that he was so well impressed that he was making it known that he would offer a prize of fifty dolalrs to the F. F. A. boy in counties in his district who measured up to highest standards.

He also stated that he would offer fifty dollars to be given to the girl in Vocational Home Economics classes in his district, for excellent work and achievement. To the two boys and two girls, making records according to certain requirements, he is offering a trip to Washington for four days. The winners to furnish the automobile, he to defray expenses of gasoline and oil, and that he would personally entertain them while in the Capital.

A committee in these counties to form the requirements is to be composed, and information may be received from County Agent Stapp in Clanton, it was stated.

Mr. Oliver praised the work and efforts of President Roosevelt saying, "The nation agreed on the selection of a man with vision, of service, and a man who always sought the truth.. He is always willing and ready to accept constructive suggestions from the people."

He commented on the money that is being spent by the government in giving people jobs. "Our leader wants every man who is without work, to be given a job, regardless of religion, politics or section. It will not be long before you will see teachers being paid through the efforts of this leader."

The United States government will soon begin its location of homesteads for families in industrial centers and elsewhere, who find they are without homes and work. These homesteads will be given them under certain conditions. In commenting on this, Mr. Oliver said, "When I heard of this plan, and that in Alabama they expected to locate these homesteads within fifteen miles of Birmingham, I immediately had a conversation with the administrator in this work. I told him of your section of the state, and in the near future he will be in Chilton, Shelby and Bibb counties to look-over prospective sites."

Mr. Oliver was given a loud ovation by the two hundred men and boys present.

WHY KEEP THE TRUTH FROM THE PEOPLE OF THE COUNTY?

cept those duties that would have befallen any person holding the same office, Democrat or Republican.

These Republican officials, or official, so it seems, are using the benefits given by a Democratic administration to further personal and party gain.

An attempt is being made to mislead the people of this county.

Chilton County has been receiving from the United States Government which is now under Democratic control, thousands and thousands of dollars to furnish jobs for those persons without work. This money has been coming to Chilton County through the efforts of the Democratic Party.

It is the plan originated by a Democratic administration.

It is being carried out by a Democratic President, Democratic state officials as directors of the work, and no politician, office holder nor individual citizen in Chilton County is responsible for this money coming to Chilton County and these eight hundred or more men being given work, as some would like for them to believe.

Chilton County is not the only county that is receiving a share of this money. Alabama is not the only state that is receiving this help from the Democratic officials in Washington, who are working to bring better times to the entire country.

This money comes directly from a program arranged by Democratic officials, who were qualified by Democrats, endorsed by the Democratic Executive Committee of Alabama and the Democratic party of Chilton County.

President Roosevelt said specifically that this money is not to be used politically for for the furtherance of any political party. It is his intentions and the intentions of the Democratic party that every person who needs help, be given an opportunity to secure a job under this Civil Works Administration, whether he be a Democrat or Republican.

The News did not want to have to make these statements. We did not want to do it for several reasons, among which is that it would appear we were attempting to use this program of work to boost the Democratic administration which is responsible for it. However, we are quite proud of the program and the fact that our people here in this county are at last getting the cream of the "New Deal" of the Democratic administration.

The facts in this case should be distributed to every man, woman and child in this county. One of the big needs today is truth, and the News will not hesitate to print facts about any matter concerning the interest of the people of our county.

Another matter that our attention has been called to several times is the attack being made by Republicans on the State Democratic administration. We merely want to point out right here that a little information about other states would disclose the fact that Alabama is not the only state in the Union that is suffering from disorganized schools, etc. Those persons who would have you people believe that a Democratic state administration is responsible for the state's condition should feel a deep pain of shame for not telling the whole truth, and for trying to sway you intelligent people their way by telling only the part of it.

We could also call attention to the manner in which Republican party spokesmen contradict themselves in their attempts to make you people believe they have been swinging things your way. It will be noted that they stage a fight against any kind of Democratic act or administration, and yet now when Democrats are pouring money into the working man's pocket in Chilton County, they are pleased and try to make you working men believe that they, these Republican leaders of Chilton County, are responsible for this good work. Any intelligent person would know that this is not true.

The News does not intend this editorial as an argument in behalf of the Democratic party, nor as a fight against the Republican party. We merely want the people to understand and know that an attempt has been made, and is possibly being made, by certain members of the Republican party, to mislead them and keep the truth from them.

Another thing that might be stated here to contradict and clarify another matter, is that the money paid to persons working under the Civil Works Administration can be used as these persons wish to use it. Can be spent for whatever they wish to spend it, and no one has authority to tell these people where and how to spend this money.

The people of Chilton County are intelligent enough to stand up for their rights, and should do so without submitting to a "political whip" or the commands, threats, bribes of any would-be political leader.

al. In addition to the nine projects recently announced, several other projects have been passed by the local organization and will be submitted for approval, including Poley Creek Draining requiring 150 men; School Projects requiring 50 men; 12 miles of road improvement between Clanton and Billingsley with 100 men; eight miles of road improvement between Collins Chapel and Mineral Springs requiring 50 men; 10 miles of the Higgins-Ferry road with 50 men; changing of the Mims-Ferry road from Cooper road to Walnut Creek requiring 30 men.

Application has been made for additional funds for Chilton county, according to Judge Reynolds, who expressed himself as being opposed to the "dole system," declaring that he believed the people of Chilton county prefer to work.

THIS BANK has the distinction of being the first bank organized in Chilton County. It was in the beginning the financial center for the then little village of Clanton—it has become outstanding in Central Alabama.

Its history embraces seasons of panic and pestilence, good times and bad times, war times and peace times; but from the time of its beginning to this day of grace—over a quarter of a century—it has discharged all trust and met all obligations with absolute fidelity.

mentary and high schools and was widely known throughout the entire county. Since leaving school he has been employed in various clerical capacities in Clanton, and at the time of his death was affiliated with the local organization through which farmers have been obtaining loans on cotton from the government.

Besides his parents he is survived by two brothers, William (Bill) Simpson, a twin, and Charles Simpson. The Simpson family is one of the most widely known families in the county.

Funeral services were conducted Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the residence with the Rev. R. P. Cochran, pastor of the Clanton Methodist church, officiating, assisted by Dr. S.J. Ezell, pastor of the Clanton Baptist church. Burial was in the Clanton cemetery.

The following friends served as active pallbearers: Courtland Rutherford, John Ponder Lawrence, Jr., Lonnie Cobb, Reese Mullins, Tom Frank Teel, and J. P. Jones.

Honorary pallbearers were: C. E. Stapp, George Polk, Joe Venable, J. L. Johnson, Earl Parrish, and W. H. Sartor.

of school with paid school teachers. That alone brought a loud voice of approval from his listeners.

It is not generally known that Col. Graves has received one of the highest Masonic honors, having been acclaimed as the greatest educational Governor in the United States by a Mason of one of the highest positions.

Gov. Graves, as he is usually referred to, apparently left an indelible and pleasing impression on his listeners as he continued his message saying that lower cost of automobile tags is attracting his attention also, and that the people, individuals, are paying too much tax now. He stated that he is fond of the people in this county as his experience and association with them when he was Governor before was most pleasing.

Touching on the prison and convict situation in Alabama slightly, he stated that he was in favor of treating convicts as human beings, seeing that the work they did according to the law, was beneficial to the public, but that he did not believe in "coddling" prisoners and that they should be made to work as a "hard-labor" sentence would indicate.

MARRIAGE ANNOUNCED

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Dillard announce the marriage of their niece Miss Violet Bagwell, of Birmingham and New Orleans, to Mr. John Wiley Veazey of the Mulberry community.

Miss Bagwell is well known in Birmingham for both her musical and sport activities. She attended the John Herbert Phillips High School where she made quite a record in sports by winning the City Park championship in tennis two consecutive years.

Miss Bagwell received her teachers' degree in piano from the University of Washington where she had the distinction of being one of the youngest students ever to receive a teachers' degree.

Mr. Veazey is well known throughout the community, having permanently resided in the Mulberry district.

The bride and bridegroom will be at home in Macedonia community.

BIG CROWD AT LEGION FROLIC LAST SATURDAY

Many Prizes Given; Large Number Enter Contests For Fiddling, Etc.

The fiddlers convention at the court house last Saturday night, sponsored by Chilton County Post of the American Legion, brought out a record attendance of spectators and contestants. The house was filled to overflowing. The program had to be made long in order to give all the entertainers a chance to perform.

At the close of the program the judges awarded cash prizes to the following: First, Orrville Wright's 3-piece band, $3.00; second, Henry Cleckler, fiddler, $2.00; third, J. W. Smith, fiddler, $1.00. About twenty other prizes in different articles of merchandise were awarded to others who rendered numbers on the program.

Following is the list of those who rendered the program: Kermit Lowery, guitar; W. J. Bice, two-piece band; Tug Willis, buck dance; Dr. C. O. Lawrence, solo; Howard Lee, two-piece band with home-made fiddle; Harlan Popwell, 2-piece band; W. W. FARMERS GET MILLIONS

Mr. Gist said he had been advised by the U. S. department of agriculture that four cents per pound would be advanced to those holding option contracts.

"This is the difference between six cents a pound, the price at which the option cotton was valued in the contracts, and 10 cents a pound, which is now the approximate value of the cotton," the statistician stated. "This advice will add to the cotton holders in Alabama $3,900,000, bringing the total amount received by Alabama farmers to $13,624,000, or a fraction less than $17 per bale for the acreage plowed up."

CHILTON COUNTY POSSIBLE POLITICS

By Victor Norris

One of Chilton County's favorite traditional customs, one carefully nurtured by politicians lo these many years, suffered a black eye recently. For years the "mass" meeting has been a political front in this county, a so-called barometer by which the wishes of the people are "sought" on momentous questions, but alas, the barometer failed to indicate.

A little more than a week ago the citizenship of Chilton county was invited to the court house to aid in better rendering a decision in regard to retaining C. E. Stapp as county agent. Seems he had been offered another post with approximately $100 per month increase in salary, but an audience of farmers that packed the auditorium petitioned the commissioners court to meet the Dothan offer and keep Stapp in Chilton.

In about another week, we understand, Stapp will assume his duties as county agent of Houston county, thus the black eye to the idea that the people's wishes are law.

Rumor is going the rounds that an effort will be made by a group of representative farmers to persuade the commissioners to appoint Earle Thomas, vocational teacher at Isabella High School, to succeed Stapp, and without a doubt the court can find no better way to placate a disappointed constituency. Thomas has been associated with county agency work in this county for years and is familiar with the methods used by Mr. Stapp, which made him the most popular man in Chilton county.

Commissioner J. M. Mims is ill in a Greenville hospital. For sometime Commissioner Mims has suffered with high blood pressure. This column joins his friends in hoping that he will soon be able to return to his duties.

It has been rumored that an effort has been made to get Mr. Mims to resign because of his health, and it is the belief of many that should he resign Marion Gore, Clanton merchant, would be his appointed successor.

You might draw your own conclusions from this as to whether or not Chilton county is wet, or dry. A few days ago a violator of the prohibition laws was arrested in the court house, approximately ten steps from the Sheriff's office.

* * *

What seems to be puzzling a lot of folks these days is who is going to make the appointment of the 400 men who are to go to work soon under the provisions of the CWA. Some seem to think it might be political dynamite to have the duty thrust on one's shoulders. To date we have not been able to find out just who is going to be the goat. The prevailing opinion a few days ago was that the selection would be made by the local Child Welfare Board, which has been designated the CWA board in this county, but the latest dope we can scrape up is that the employment office will have the responsibility. It will be hard to placate 3,000 men with 400 jobs.

* * *

This week another surmise becomes a certainty. J. B. Atkinson makes the announcement that he will enter the race for circuit judge of this circuit, composed of Chilton, Elmore, and Autauga counties.

Good luck, Mr. Atkinson!

While mayor of Clanton, J. B. showed that he believes in progress. The paved streets and many other municipal improvements are monuments to his administration.

Another recommendation of no small proportions is that Mr. Atkinson used to be a newspaperman, but maybe we shouldn't have told that.

Too, we hear he is one of the best versed lawyers in this section, which should, stand him in good should he be fortunate enough to hand down decisions from the bench.

We understood last week that a definite announcement could be expected this week from J. A. Boockholdt, relative to his being a candidate for the office of Sheriff, but to date the announcement has failed to materialize.

Friends of J. R. Hardy, another prospective candidate for Sheriff, expect his formal announcement early in January. Reckon he figured his duties as chief of police of Clanton may be sufficient to occupy his mind during the holidays.

At a meeting of the commissioners court Tuesday it was agreed to raise the salary of Chief Deputy James Gillespie from $80 to $100 per month. Deputy Gillespie in his petition to the court for an increase in salary explained that the cost of living has increased so much during the past few months that his present salary is inadequate.

STAPP TO GO TO HOUSTON COUNTY SOON

However, There Has Been No Definite Statement Made Yet

Whether or not Chilton county will lose the services of C. E. Stapp as county agent, or who will be his successor if he accepts the Dothan offer is still a matter of uncertainty and ronjenture.

Although members of the commissioners court stated Tuesday that they had definitely decided that it would not be advisable to meet the Dothan offer, Wednesday morning when the News went to press an element of uncertainty existed in regard to the matter.

It was learned that the court is possibly considering Earle Thomas, vocational teacher of the Isabella High School, or J. P. Montgomery, vocational teacher of the Jemison High School, for the position of county agent, provided it should meet with the approval of Auburn authorities. Late Wednesday morning no reply had been received from Auburn relative to the appointment; neither was it learned whether either Thomas or Montgomery would accept the appointment.

Stapp, who has made a successful record here during his six years of service and has perhaps become the most popular man in Chilton county, was recently offered the post of county agent of Houston county with an increase in salary of approximately $100 per month.

A group of farmers and business men that packed to capacity the court house auditorium met last week, when the Houston offer became known, and petitioned the commissioners to increase the appropriation for county agency work in this county enough to retain Stapp in his present capacity, but members of the court expressed the opinion that it would not be advisable to increase the appropriation that much at this time.

FOUR HUNDRED MORE MEN WILL GET WORK SOON

New Projects Submitted For Improvements By Government Money

Four hundred more of Chilton county's unemployed are expected to be given jobs within the next ten days under the provisions of the Civil Works Administration program, according to information received by the News this week.

Necessary projects requiring this number of men have been tentatively approved by the State CWA organization in Montgomery. The projects were submitted Monday and final approval, perhaps with minor changes, is expected within the next few days.

During the past two weeks more than 3,000 unemployed citizens of the county

SMALL CHILD TAKES POISON BY ACCIDENT LAST TUESDAY

Coaxing a child to take medicine by permitting it to hold the spoon almost proved fatal to little Marie Wright, 2-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Wright of the Bethsalem community, Tuesday afternoon when she climbed into a chair and measured herself a dose of deadly poison.

The child's mother said that she had been letting her hold the spoon when given baby remedies to persuade her to take it without crying. It is believed by the parents that Marie thought she was taking Castoria.

She suffered severe burns in and about her mouth, but it was not believed by physicians that any of the solution reached her stomach.

Views Of Senatorial Candidate Receive Approval In Counties In District

DR. V. J. GRAGG

Comments On The Needs Of State To Help Its People

The support and popularity of Dr. V. J. Gragg, prominent physician and surgeon of Clanton, and a candidate for Senator from this district, is growing according to his friends and supporters in Chilton, Autauga and Shelby counties, which compose this Senatorial district.

His views on matters that are next to the hearts of all citizens are attracting attention and receiving approval. In commenting on some of these matters, Dr. Gragg said, "I am for a reduction of all taxes where possible and especially am I in favor of lower cost of automobile tags for Alabama.

"It is my opinion that our revenues should be arranged so that the small home owner will not be robbed of his home. The first thing in a New Deal in our legislative body is to pay the debt we owe our school teachers and to arrange to bring our schools back to even better standing than ever before."

COUNTY URGED TO GET LAND FOR AIRPORT

Town Is In Fine Location For Utilizing Field For Air Traffic

The many advantages of a local airport were explained again Monday morning, when a committee of Clanton business and professional men, boosters of aviation, appeared before the commissioners court, petitioning cooperation of the county in securing a suitable plot of land for the proposed Clanton airport.

Composing the committee were Dr. V. J. Gragg, W. M. Wyatt and Percy M. Pitts. Major Sumpter Smith of Birmingham, chairman of the American Legion Aeronautics committee, also explained the advantages of a locally owned airport, declaring that within a decade a town, or county, without an adequate flying field will be placed in just as backward position as a county now without a railroad finds itself.

In submitting plans for the proposed project, Dr. Gragg explained that a

ELIJAH JONES PASSED AWAY ON SATURDAY

Connected With The Farmers Hardware; Born In Coosa County

Funeral services for Elijah Miller Jones, 53, prominent merchant and business man of Clanton, who died Saturday night at his home in South Clanton following a brief illness, were conducted Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Chestnut Creek Baptist church at Cooper. Dr. S. J. Ezell officiated, assisted by the Rev. J. W. Jones, of Thorsby.

Although Mr. Jones had been ill for several days his death came as a shock to his family and friends. Suffering a heart attack about 7:30 Saturday he died almost suddenly.

A native of Coosa county, Mr. Jones removed to Chilton county at the youthful age of 11 years. For many years he was a prominent farmer and was the founder of the Farmers' Hardware Co., which has served the farmers of this county for the past eleven years.

Surviving Mr. Jones are his widow, Mrs. Jessie Jones; six sons, Lester, Brady, Grady, Amon, Otis, and Clyde Jones; three daughters, Mrs. Flora Richardson, Miss Mamie Jones, and Miss Emma Jones, all of Clanton; one brother, Renfroe Jones, associated in the Farmers' Hardware Co.; five sisters, Mrs. Loubelle Bone, Prattville, Mrs. Hattie Nobles, Sylacauga, Miss Elvira Jones, Mrs. Jesse Minor, and Mrs. Jesse Thornton, of Clanton.

The following friends served as pallbearers: Reuben Lowe, Reuben Popwell, Ernest Grantt, M. Z. Atchison, T. C. McSwain, and Roy Downs. Burial was in the Chestnut Creek churchyard cemetery.

A Good Resolution For 1934

It's a little early yet for New Year's resolutions, but here's one worth considering—"I'll do my part to reduce fire waste in 1934."

If a hundred million Americans did resolve that, and didn't drop it along about the second week of January with the resolution concerning smoking, the nation would have a splendid start toward winning a difficult and ancient fight. We have long been the most prodigal of people when it comes to fire. We've sacrificed thousands of lives and millions of dollars to it—precisely as the peoples of the pre-Christian era sacrificed their victims to the god of flame. In those days the reason was superstition —in ours it is a combination of ignorance and laziness. And one is as reprehensible as the other.

Fires mean high tax rates. They mean destroyed jobs and opportunities. They mean bankruptcy and privation and want. They mean terror and misery and disaster. They mean stultification and despair. They've ruined whole communities. Their total economic waste can't be expressed accurately in figures—the direct loss comes to between four hundred and five hundred million a year, and the indirect waste is several times as great.

Conquering fire in 1934 would give recovery a mighty impetus. It would save jobs and payrolls and homes and farms and producing industries. It would keep money at work that would otherwise be destroyed and made useless. Make that resolution!

Everyone Must Help

Not another winter like the last!

That was the pledge of the new Administration when it came into office. Every effort is being given to achieve it. It represents the most earnest hope of every citizen.

But government alone can't do it all. We can spend money for relief—and we are, but there is never enough. We can build public works—but there comes an end to that, and the public treasury is not bottomless. A large share of any kind of relief effort must be borne by the individual citizen.

And this doesn't mean charity, vital as that is. The best kind of relief is that which spends money and provides jobs on projects which are permanently valuable, and gives those who pay the bill something really needed. That is true whether the work is done by the Federal government or the state, or John Jones down the street.

A dollar spent for a new house, or to repair an old one, does double duty. An extremely large share of it goes directly to labor in your own town. The rest of it goes to various industries, through numerous pockets. It touches many states and communities. It is always growing—and by the time it has run its course it has done the work of fifty or a hundred dollars.

Remember that—and remember too that you have a selfish interest in building and repairing while prices are still in the economic basement.

A Friend Worthwhile

Some people may have personal grievance with officials of the Alabama Power Company, but no one can accuse them of not working for Alabama and her interests. The Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company has just announced the purchase of a Decatur cotton mill for the purpose of manufacturing tire fabric. This was negotiated through the good offices of the Alabama Power Company.

The Farmer And His Debts

So much has been printed about the farmer's debts, and so many politicians have painted the picture of farm distress in such gloomy colors, that the impression prevails all over the country that all the farmers are on the verge of losing their farms through foreclosure proceedings and are in a state of practical beggary.

Nothing could be further from the truth as we know and so do our readers. As a matter of fact, according to a thorough study of the whole debt situation recently published by the Twentieth Century Fund, the total farm debt of the United States amounts to only about one-third of the mortgage debts against city property.

Fully sixty per cent of all farms are entirely free from mortgages, this survey reports. Of the remainder, those which are mortgaged, sixty per cent are in the closely-grouped states north of the Ohio river and east of the Missouri. And of those, only about a quarter of the debtors are in anything that can be called distress, or in danger of losing their homes through foreclosure.

There are 6,600,000 farms in the United States. About 3,000,000 are mortgaged for a quarter of their value. Only aboot 750,000 are in acute distress, and their total debt is less than one per cent of the total internal debts of the people of the United States.

It seems to us that a great deal of noise has been made about a situation which affects so small a percentage of our people. As is too often the case, we suspect political motives behind a great deal of the uproar.

We are, of course, sorry for any farmer who is in danger of being foreclosed. We understand that foreclosures are threatened more often than they are actually proceeded with. We also understand that the government at Washington is ready to come to the immediate aid of any farmer about to be dispossessed. But we do not like to have the impression get around that all the farmers are "broke" and that is what many city people believe.

The Editorial In The News Is Endorsed

The News appreciates the numerous comments it has received since last Thursday, endorsing the contents of the editorial headed "Why Keep The Truth From The People of The County?" which appeared in last week's issue.

These comments have shown the News that the people of Chilton County want the facts and are tired of the old hum-drum political whisperings and paint-pots that smooth over or smear up those happenings that are of interest to them.

Those days are things of the past and we are of the opinion that it is going to take some straight-shooting, square-dealing and the truth to prevent the people of this county from a continuance of the old hum-drum of political trading and buying methods. The people of Chilton County should be the government of Chilton County. It is time that many of the citizens of this county should wake up and realize that they have a mind of their own.

A Circuit Judge From Chilton County

Shall Chilton County furnish the next Judge for the Nineteenth Judicial Circuit? The answer is Yes, if Chilton County can produce a candidate for the place.

And Chilton County can and has produced this candidate in a man who has risen from the studies of law by a lamp light on a farm to an outstanding attorney and citizen. This man is Hon. J. B. Atkinson, who recently filed the necessary papers with the Secretary of State denoting his candidacy for Circuit Judge of this District which is composed of Chilton, Autauga and Elmore counties.

This newspaper endorses Mr. Atkinson for this office which he seeks. Not merely because this newspaper was a beneficiary of his kind and yet stern hand when it was at a low ebb seven years ago. Not merely because he took hold of this newspaper when others shunned it, brought it up to give it a safe take-off.

Let us forget that for the time being.

The record that Mr. Atkinson can unfold before the people of these three counties which shows he has not faltered in his duties and his trusts is enough to show anyone that he deserves the high office which has been a life's ambition. We dare say his record can be equalled by few if any in this particular district.

Several years ago, it will be recalled, that his name was written on a party ticket by voters who wanted him as a Representative in the Legislature. Nine hundred persons in Chilton County were selecting their man, even while his name did not appear as a candidate.

Chilton County has not given to this Judicial Circuit a Judge in many, many years. Autauga and Elmore counties have not turned down this opportunity to this county, but now they have an opportunity to see what type of Judge this county can produce. They will not be disappointed if Mr. Atkinson is given the chance to serve.

He has demonstrated his ability to serve in judicial capacities, tempering his sternness and justice with mercy and human feelings, yet carrying out the law as it should be.

Let us pass through his record. He has served the Town of Clanton as a councilman for ten years, as mayor, has served as chairman of the county Democratic Executive Committee, and is at present a member of the State Democratic Committee, having been elected by the people of the Fourth District.

He served in charge of the Provost Marshal General office during the World War, handling cases of deserters and delinquents. Is District Lecturer in the Masonic Organization, a Shriner, Woodman and an Odd Fellow. His interest in educational affairs was demonstrated during his affiliation with the city government of Clanton, when local schools were supported by the town.

Mr. Atkinson is truly fitted to serve as Judge of the Nineteenth Judicial Circuit and tht News recommends him to the people of Chilton, Elmore and Autauga counties.

Chilton's Airport Gets Another Airing

The project of an airport for Clanton and Chilton County received more attention this week, and we might say some worthwhile attention.

Our County Commissioners were given another touch of the fact that progressive citizens here really want an airport if it is possible to secure one. They were shown that other cities are interested in seeing Clanton and Chilton County have an airport. And Clanton should have an airport.

An airport is becoming almost as necessary as a railroad or a highway. It is the next step forward for a progressive town and county such as we are living in.

Costs money? Yes, but it must be termed as an investment, because that is what it will amount to in future years, if not at present. The United States government, so we understand, is ready with funds to aid in constructing such a project, provided local funds are also to be had. It sounds like a rather far-fetched idea that we should boast of an airport. But, the day is coming, and not far away, when Clanton will need an airport and regret they haven't one if this opportunity is passed up.

Book of Alabama and the South

The Protective Life Insurance Company is to be congratulated on the publication of its beautiful and elaborate "Book of Alabama and the South," in commemoration of its silver anniversary, which was observed last year. The book was edited by John Temple Graves, II, with illustrations by Evelyn Hinman Smith.

The "Book of Alabama and the South" contains not only a complete history of the great Protective Iife Insurance Company, but interesting sketches of Alabama and each of its 67 counties, and of nine Southern States.

The book is a thing of beauty, handsomely printed and bound and beautifully illustrated with rare photographs and drawings. It combines both beauty and high literary merit; its beautifully embossed cover pleases the eye before one is aware of the literary and informative value of the book.

The "Book of Alabama and the South" is a gem.

Economic Highlights

Happenings That Affect the Dinner Pails, Dividend Checks and Tax Bills of Every Individual. National and International Problems Inseparable From Local Welfare.

A not wholly unjustified tradition has grown up both here and abroad, that European diplomats are pretty smooth stuff, and that American public men are so many babes in the woods when it comes to dealing with them. It's possible that that thought was in the mind of Russia's shrewd, experienced Litvinoff when he climbed the steps of the White House to confer with President Roosevelt over American-Russian recognition.

If so, Mr. Litvinoff soon became sadder and wiser. He found himself confronted by an excellent horse-trader—a suave, polite horse-trader with a Harvard accent to be sure, but a horse-trader nevertheless. Where Mr. Litvinoff had announced that so far as he was concerned, the negotiations could be concluded in half an hour, he found them extending on through the days.

Upshot was that the 16-year breach between two of the major powers was ended, with the United States on the long end of the deal so far as most of its demands were concerned. Points of the treaty include: Waiver by the Soviet of all claims growing out of the famous Siberian expedition of 1918; a guarantee against official Soviet propaganda in this country; another guarantee against the formation of any group designed to change the government of the United States; fair and prompt trials for Americans erring against Soviet law; guarantee of the free exercise of religious beliefs of Americans resident in Russia. Little mention is made of trade relations and details concerning them remain to be worked out.

First American Ambassador to present himself to steel-jawed, steel-eyed, steel-mannered Number 1 dictator of the world, Stalin, whose adopted name means Steel, will be William C. Bullit, wealthy young Socialite, who has written a sophisticated novel satirizing Park Avenuites, a popular song or two, and has been the State Department's Russian expert. One of Mr. Roosevelt's bright young men, he was instrumental in bringing about recognition and is considered an excellent choice.

Colorful, dramatic, important, bizarre —all these adjectives fit the November municipal elections. They demonstrate that the American people are still in a belligerent mood—as they demanded, and received, a change in National Administration a year ago, they demanded and received many changes in municipal administration. Main counts on which old machines were thrown out, were inefficiency, high taxes, graft.

Most important was the election in New York where fire-eater LaGuardia, who has earned a reputation as an erratic political genius, decisively defeated Tammany's O'Brien and the Recovery ticket's McKee. For the first time in 20 years the Philadelphia Republican machine was overthrown. Republicans won in Cleveland and Pittsburg. Nowhere did partisan spirit seem strong; the demand was for a new municipal deal, and the cards were shuffled tirelessly.

Also important were proposals for communities to go into the power business. Public ownership advocates believed that government power development at Muscle Shoals would assure them sweeping victories. But when the votes were counted, results were mixed, and the expected landslide did not materialize — apparently the tax burdens involved caused the voters to turn away from increased municipal debts. Camden, New Jersey, which is already $30,000,000 in debt, gave the city government permission to spend $10,000,000 for a power plant, but this election was fought principally on the theme of unemployment relief, rather than government ownership. In a number of smaller towns public ownership mayors were elected, city light plants authorized.

On the other hand, Salt Lake City voted 2 to 1 against a light plant. San Francisco followed suit, as did Burlington, New Jersey, Cincinnati and Youngstown, Ohio, and various smaller towns.

When it comes to selling most commodities, woman is the deciding factor. She manages the best of all markets, the American home. The Administration, in its drive for higher prices, is faced with definite housewifely protest against advancing costs.

The housewife speaks through the figures. Department store sales, based on dollar value and not volume, have fallen steadily. Mrs. American had become accustomed to bargains; when they disappeared she stopped buying. To offset this, the government is intensifying its campaign to get more money into the hands of the public.

As for business in general, the picture is so mixed as to be impossible to depict accurately. Some businesses are up, some are down, and some are pursuing a sedate middle course. On the whole, industry is substantially better off than it was when the year opened, and heartening gains have been made in employment, wages, working hours, and in profits of many large corporations. The dark spot in the picture still is the farm situation.

Letters To The Editor

BE HONEST IN POLITICS

Clanton, Ala., Dec. 4, 193

Editor, Chilton County News:

Will you permit me to say a fe words through your valuable paper?

The following is in part an answer Mr. DeShazo addressed to The Unio Banner of last week's issue which t Editor declined to publish.

I would like to see a reform politi speaking in Chilton County. I t we need it as much so as we did in t nation. And I think that the people a going to demand a change in this cou ty in 1934. Let's take for granted th Deason and one commissioner were t court. What were the taxpayers of t county paying when Deason gave office? It was approximately fo thousand dollars. What is it toda Over three hundred thousand dolla I want to ask the voters to exami their tax receipt of 1916, then compa them with 1933. Just think of the fi check the Alabama Power Compa gave to the county, one hundred a forty-one thousand, more than th times the entire amount of taxes of t county when Deason was judge. T Alabama Power Company has paid the county within the last eight yea approximately one million dollars wi the little Deason debt partly unpaid.

Let's play fair in politics and fa facts as they are. You may fool pa of the people part of the time, but y can't fool all the people all the tim Mr. Wyatt says: We will strive build up rather than tear down the R publican party in Chilton county the statement I made is not true. M Wyatt should have corrected it, but am sure that I have underestimated I think the people of the county a entitled to a clear statement of the co ditions of the county in 1916 and 19 that is in reference to the tax mon collected in 1916 and 1932. If I do misunderstand Mr. Wyatt he thinks allow the above statement to be ma through his paper would have a ten ency to tear down the Republican pa ty of Chilton county. Are we going sacrifice our homes for the sake of party? God forbid.

Suppose our tax is raised for the ne 16 years as it has been for the past A lot of people will have a party a no homes. I hope we get a reform politics in Chilton county, also in state in 1934, as we did in the nati last year. Let's be honest in politi God requires it of us as much so as does in anythng else. Let's stop slaving ourselves for the sake of par

With best respect to Mr. Wyatt. like the Union and the Wyatt brothe but don't be deceived, God is not moc ed, for whatsoever a man doeth t shall he also reap. Yours for a refor both county and state.

If George Washington were still alive, I am afraid he would be shocked at some children's manners. In his copy book he had the rules of etiquette. Among the foremost was to be polite. People will respect you more if you will attend to your own business and "speak when you are spoken to." When in the presence of your elders, you should listen respectfully and only speak when your opinion is asked.

This poem was written by a Sixth Grade girl:

At Christmas Time

At Christmas time when all the lights are out,
And Santa is roaming all about,
The children are dreaming of cakes and toys,
And real airplanes for little boys.
The girls are dreaming of dolls and their houses,
Of scarfs and skirts and cute little blouses.
The fathers and mothers are fast asleep
Waiting for morning sunlight to peep
When all at once they hear a shout.
Then children are dancing all about
With songs of cheer, love and ryhme.
All this happens at Christmas time.

Thanksgiving

The Pilgrim Fathers offered Thanksgiving
For their good harvest and joy of living.
With a feast they offered their thanks
On those lone and distant banks.
Out under the trees the tables were spread
And white men and red were bountifully fed
With turkey and pumpkin and good things to eat,
After first giving thanks for such a treat.

SHILOH

Will you allow me space to announce the happenings of this community. I first want to say that we did not have any Sunday school last Sunday on account of rain, but we hope to have a good lesson next Sunday. Our lesson is Christ's Way of Life, and is surely a good lesson, and our B. Y. P. U. is still progressing. We are also expecting a very interesting program in B. Y. P. U. Sunday night if it is God's will. The subject is "And He Went A Little Farther." Who? Jesus. So everybody who can and will are welcome to come.

Next Saturday and Sunday are our regular preaching days.

Mrs. J. D. Mullins and little daughter are visiting in Capitola, Fla. We hope for her an enjoyable trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Buddie Clackley of the Temple community spent Saturday night with Mr. J. D. Mullins and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Vines of the Temple community, also Mr. Henry Vines spent Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Walls, and they all spent a few enjoyable hours with Miss Agnes Mullins Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Davis spent Saturday night with Mr. J. D. Mullins and children.

Don't forget next Saturday and Sunday are our preaching days. Everybody come. You are welcome at all times.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Holley left for home Tuesday a.m., December 5, after spending a two-weeks vacation with relatives and friends in and around Clanton.

HOME-COMING AT HOME OF J. L. HOLLEY

Mr and Mrs. Tom Holley and little daughter, Gertie Mae, from Wilkinson, Miss., have been spending a two-weeks vacation with relatives and friends in and around Clanton, Thorsby and Rockford, Ala.

On Thanksgiving Day all the children and some friends met together at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Holley, and a bountiful dinner was spread at the noon hour. Those enjoying this day together were Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Holley, Mr. John Lockhart, Thorsby, Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Rollan and children, Elmer, Clyde and Agnes, Mrs. Beulah Henley and children, Eddie Chas. and Pauline, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Holley and daughter, Gertie Mae of Wilkinson, Miss., Mrs. Steve Holley and children, Joe, Mary and Earl, Leonard Holley of Calera, Mr. Harvey Westberry of Stephenson, Miss., Mr. Zeb Lockhart and sons, James and Zeb, Jr., of Thorsby. It had been four years since all were together and the day was enjoyed by all, hoping that we could all meet together again soon.

The afternoon was spent in making pictures and playing music.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank the neighbors for their kindness and help in the sickness and death of our dear father and grandfather. We also wish to thank Dr. DuBose for his kindness. We thank those for the beautiful singing and the flowers.

—Mrs. T. J. Littlejohn and Family.

Thomas Littlejohn Died Last Tuesday

Mr. T. J. Littlejohn, age 84 years, 9 months, died at his home near Lawley, last Tuesday, November 21, 1933, about 3 o'clock. He had been in bad health for the past few years, but had been sick in bed only nine weeks and bore his pain patiently to the end. He was prepared to meet God in peace. It was sad to give him up, but not as sad as those that have no hope.

The Funeral was conducted by Rev. Sam Dunlap of Lawley. Burial was in Tabernacle cemetery following Thursday at 10 o'clock. Pallbearers at the funeral were his grandsons, Howard and Edward and Woodfin Littlejohn, Langley, J. D. and Russell Scott.

He leaves to mourn his loss his wife, Mrs. Bama Littlejohn, six children, 21 grandchildren, 7 great-grandchildren. The children that are living: Charlie and Ed Littlejohn of Lawley, Cliff Littlejohn of New York, Mrs. J. D. Holsomback of Jemison, Mrs. Sophia Reaves of Centerville, Mrs. Victoria Cray of Lawley.

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Littlejohn were married 63 years, 6 days. He was a faithful member of Friendship Baptist church over 61 years, and a devout Christian.

A great array of flowers bore testimony of the esteem in which he was held. The funeral was attended by many of his sorrowing friends. He is gone but not forgotten.

—Written by one who loved him.

Letters To The Editor

ENDORSES EDITORIAL IN NEWS

Clanton, Ala., Dec. 1, 1933.

Editor, Chilton County News:

I believe the citizens of Chilton county, both Democratic and Republican, will join with me in thanking you for your enlightening article in the News of November 30, exposing the brazen efforts of some of our Republican office holders to make political capital out of the public works money that is being spent here by the federal government. I feel sure the better element of the Republican party will join me in severely condemning them for resorting to such despicable methods to further their own political ambitions, but in view of the fact that they had already been claiming credit for the county relief money that was being spent here for the relief of hunger and suffering I am not surprised that they would attempt to claim credit for the public works money that is being spent here for the relief of unemployment, even though it was expressly stipulated that it should not be used to advance any political, individual or party. I believe the time has come when the people of this county will repudiate such methods with an overwhelming defeat at the polls.

The Republican office holders of this county stick their thumbs in their vests and rear back their heads, exclaiming "look how efficient we are. See we have money in the treasury and are out of debt. See the good roads we have given you." They fail to tell you that Chilton county receives more money from the public utilities than any other county of its size in the state, and that its tax rate is no better than other counties and that when our schools were closing their doors they turned a deaf ear to our appeals for help that they might remain open the balance of the term, and they let them close the same as the schools of the poor counties that had no utility taxes.

We believe that if we had the right men to run our county they could keep our schools open, reduce our tax, and still have money in the bank and be out of debt.

P. H. KNOX.

Quartet Program Here Friday Night

The famous Dixie Volunteer Quartet of Birmingham will put on a program at the court house in Clanton Friday night of next week, December 15th, beginning at 7:30 o'clock. The program will consist of sacred and popular songs, spirituals, comics and jokes. There will be one and a half hours of fun and entertainment, and the admission will be 10c and 15c. Part of the proceeds will go to the Home Makers Sunday School class of the Clanton Baptist church, who are sponsoring the program.

The Dixie Volunteers are well advertised and have been favorably received wherever they have performed, which has been a number of places over the State. Those who like good quartet singing and high class clean entertainment will enjoy their program. 2t

Thorsby Institute News

On Friday morning Codie Bell, a T. I. graduate of the class of 1924, spoke at chapel. He received his Master's degree in June, 1932 from the University of Michigan and now holds an important position in Chicago with the Benefit Association of Railway Employees. In his talk he stressed the importance of doing everything well, no matter how small, and not being contented to stay in a rut, but to study and persevere. He also brought out the thought that honest work, whatever it may be, is wholesome and does not degrade one.

This week, Thursday and Friday, are the second term's tests. A week from Saturday night is the time for the Christmas program of the Literary Society. This will include a play, "The Christmas Carol" from the story by Charles Dickens, and music especially adapted to the play will be sung by the Glee Club between the acts of the play. Carols will be sung off the stage by four boys. Every one is invited. Admission will be ten cents.

The Dormitory students and teachers had a delicious Thanksgiving dinner. An interesting guessing game was played between the courses. After dinner speeches were made by the students. Miss Phillips presided and called on the various speakers. Mr. and Mrs. Maddox, Rev. and Mrs. E. W. Butler and daughter, Dorothy, and Mrs. Norton were invited guests.

We wish to thank very much the following for recent gifts for the Dining Hall: Mrs. Villadsen for pecans, Mrs. M. Peterson for beef, Mrs. N. Laurel for canned fruit, and Mrs. Powers for canned tomatoes and dried apples. These contributions are a real help to the school and save it money.

Rev. J. W. Van Kirk of Youngstown, Ohio, spoke at Chapel Tuesday morning on World Peace, and showed the World Federation Flag which he originated. His address was interesting and helpful.

33 Negroes Injured In Wreck Thursday

Thirty-three negroes, members of the Barbour couty Civilian Conservation Camp, at Clayton, were injured last Thursday morning about 8 o'clock, when a bolster supporting the bed on a four-wheel trailer gave way dumping the passengers on the pavement, on the Montgomery-Birmingham highway near Mt. Creek.

Charles Clay, Birmingham, Lawrence Little, Pratt City, and Arthur Knox, Knoxville, Ala., were the most seriously injured. Clay suffered internal injuries to his head and possible internal injuries.

The truck, loaded with 60 negroes, was enroute from the camp at Clayton to Birmingham, according to W. B. Casey white driver of the truck, a bolster gave way while swinging a curve causing the bed to dip sideways and overturn.

Others suffering injuries were: Clarence Lewis, Birmingham; Robert Gunn Birmingham; Charlie Gladden, Ensley; Thomas Richardson, Ensley; Clinton Cook, Birmingham; Losan Caver, Birmingham; Ben Rosen, Birmingham, Talley Simms, Blossberg; Grady Barbour, Clanton; Wesley McDaniel, Ensley; Nathaniel Spence, Malene; Willie Turner, Birmingham; Sorrow Battle, Camden; Willie Bush, Wilsonville; Willie Johnson, West Point, Ga., Mose Lee, Mobile.

Collins Coleman, Birmingham; Columbus Owens, Tuscaloosa; T. Y. Pearson, York; Henry Glover, Tarrant City; Burton Hall, Ensley; Colombos Woods, Tuscaloosa; J. D. Ary, Clanton; Herbert McCoats, Jasper; John Harris, Birmingham; Curtis Drake, Birmingham.

J. D. Byrd, Wylam; Leroy Abercrombie, Demopolis; Major Glassco, Birmingham; McLeroy Burton, Birmingham.

They were given first ait treatment at the Central Alabama Hospital, in Clanton, and were to be transferred to Fort Benning, Ga., Thursday night.

EVANGELISTIC SERVICES AT COURT HOUSE

The Rev. Leonard F. Cassaway, interdenominational evangelist and Bible teacher, who has been located at Prattville, Alabama for the past few months is delivering a series of evangelistic messages at the Chilton County Court House at Clanton this week.

Mr. Cassaway began the services last Wednesday evening and the crowds have been constantly increasing. Mr. Gassaway's messages are of the old-time, soul-stirring type presenting the claims of Christ on the individual life without uncertainty or compromise.

The Rev. Glenn V. Tingley, pastor of the Birmingham Gospel Tabernacle, and well-known radio preacher, has been assisting Mr. Gassaway in the campaign. Mr. Tingley spoke Monday and Tuesday nights of this week to very appreciative audiences.

Some of Mr. Gassaway's subjects for his closing messages this week follow: "The Most Awful Sin in All the World" "Bad Men in Heaven: Good Men in Hell," "Why It Is Hard for a Man to Go to Hell." The people of Clanton will not want to miss these messages. Come Thursday and Friday night. Services begin promptly at 7:30 P. M.

Public Speaking Here Saturday, Dec. 9th

Word has been received from A. R. Jones of Eclectic, Ala., candidate for the office of state superintendent of education of Alabama, that he will be in Clanton on Saturday, December 9th, and will address the people here on the subject of his platform. Mr. Jones has spent many years in educational work and he stated to a representative of the News that he has a message which he believes will interest everyone [illegible] concerned about our schools [illegible] and he cordially invites the attention of everyone to what he considers [illegible] solution to our educational problems. The speaking is scheduled for three o'clock at Clanton.

Mr. Jones also plans to speak at Maplesville Saturday night at 8:00 p.m. to which the public is cordially invited.

Misses Gertiwyl Vinson and Helen Roberts were the guests of Mrs. R. D. Woodson and Mrs. Sam Powers at Lay Dam last Thursday and Friday.

IN MEMORY OF BARNEY PATTERSON

There is always much praise to give the dead. but there is much praise indeed to give to Barney because of his winning personality. Barney always wore a smiling face and had a cheerful word for everybody. He was always ready to help his friends and it seemed that he could never do enough for them. Barney was full of life and always liked to have fun, although he was always ready to help those who were in trouble.

Barney's friends were numbered by his acquaintances. He was loved by all and especially did he have a host of girl and boy friends.

Even though our pal Barney has left us his memory lingers still and we will miss him, oh! so dreadfully where'er we go for his place can not be filled.

Dear Barney, we are lonely here,
Since you have crossed the tide,
But,your noble records seem to cheer
While we stay on the stormy side.
Earth has lost many happy charms for me
Since you have gone away,
But Heaven will the brighter be
Since you've gone there to stay.
Barney, we miss your smiling face,
We miss your words of cheer;
We miss you all about the place,
We miss you everywhere.
Farewell, our dearest loved one;
We'll travel on in pain,
And when our work on earth is done;
We hope to meet again.
—Written by his pal, Clyde Foshee.

INK DROPS FROM C. C. H. S.

By Dan Smith

William Shakespeare was right when he said, "'Tis the mind that makes the body rich." For knowing how to do a thing is a step toward doing it. One's bargaining powers are higher when he is the possessor and user of a well-trained and broad mind. That is why we have our schools with their efficient corps of teachers. This is an age of specialization and brain work. The world is calling for those who have rich minds; those who can think; those who are dreamers and doers. The brain controls the actions, the feelings, the spiritual attitude, moral attitude and the life as a whole of an individual. And the policies and thoughts of the world are shaped from those of individuals. Make use of the wonderful and seemingly unappreciated opportunity that you, the youth of the 20th century, enjoy. The future of our country rests upon our shoulders. When our time comes let's not destroy what our forefathers have so patiently built up, but let's be able to make leaders that will make progressive history for the United States and the world.

(The following was omitted last week because of lack of space):

Miss Josephine Martin, Junior One Class advisor and teacher of Junior High subjects will be the subject of the biography this week. Miss Martin was born on Jan. 24, 1910 at Seale, Ala., to Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Martin. She entered the Troy High School and graduated from there in 1926. Miss Martin studied at Troy State Teachers College and finished there in 1928. She has been teaching since then and during the summer months she has furthered her studies, having studied at Birmingham-Southern, University of Alabama, and Columbia University in New York City. This year begins her fourth year as a ttacher here. Before coming to this school she taught school two years at Butler County High in Greenville. Miss Martin can boast of having descended from a long line of successful educators. Members of her family having been leading educational people in Alabama, North and South Carolina and Virginia. The members of every Junior One Class have gone up into the higher grades always carrying deepest respect and love for Miss Martin who was their friend and teacher during the first years among the high school students. Miss Martin is upholding the standard of her family as school teachers.

Only eleven more school days till the Christmas holidays. We will leave the dear ole school Friday, December 22, and will not return until January 1, 1934. And on January 11, 12, 13 our mid-term examinations will be held and one semester of school days will fade back of us. Let's don't forget those important dates in January. Hope they won't be the Waterloo of some.

Miss Clyde Smilie, instructor in the math and history department, is a native Alabamian, born at Fitzpatrick. She was educated in the public schools of her home vicinity and attended the University of Alabama and Alabama College. She graduated from the University in 1928 with her B. S. Degree in education. Besides these courses of study, Miss Smilie has done graduate work at the University of North Carolina and the University of Alabama. She has had several years of experience as a teacher. Having taught in high schools of Wetumpka, Opelika and Moulton and also three years in the high school at St. Cloud, Florida. This is Miss Smilie's first year at Chilton County High and along with our other new teachers she has found a place in the hearts of all the students who will always respect her intelligence and interest in her work. We feel sure that her last place of teaching lost a valuable personality and we have without doubt gained one.

All the members of the Senior Three Class will be the guests of the Clanton meeting. This will be held at the high Kiwanis Club tonight at their weekly school. The purpose of the club to have these young men as their guests is to bring before them the importance and value of vocational guidance as the proper course for life's activities. Three out-of-town speakers will address the meeting on vocational training and guidance. The Senior Class considers this a rare privilege.

Brief Rural Topics

Soil erosion robs American farmers annually of a billion and a half tons of dirt and 54 billions pounds of phosphoric acid, nitrogen, and potash. Terracing prevents soil erosion.

Last March the purchasing power of American farmers was only 50 per cent of what it was in 1909 to 1914. It is now about 60 per cent of the 1909-14 level, an increase of 20 per cent.

Clay County, Alabama, where Mrs. J. E. S. Rudd is home demonstration agent, won the award given by the International Canning Contest to the county entering the most unique exhibit. There were 67 varieties of products in the exhibit.

In 1929 the average American family spent $26.11 for 14 important foods and of this farmers who produced the foods got $12.40. On October 24, 1933, the average family spent $17.85 for the same foods and farmers got only $6.71 of it.

Counting benefit payments income of farmers of the United States was 50 per cent greater in September than in March, reports the Consumer's Counsel of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration. There has thus been a net increase in purchasing power every month since March.

Mrs. Walter Bailey was in Clanton a while last Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Barnett attended the wedding anniversary of the latter's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Virgin of South Calera Thanksgiving Day. Everyone had a wonderful time, and the community wishes them a happy future as well as much success. Mr. and Mrs. Virgin are very helpful in our community. They live a beautiful life, an example for all. We simply could not get along without the dear "oe" couple.

Mrs. Beelan entertained the young people of this community with a Thanksgiving dance. Everyone had a grand time and wouldn't object if Thanksgiving would come every week, if Mrs. Beelan would remain in our community.

Mr. M. E. Lawler spent a few days in Birmingham last week with his daughter, Mrs. J. M. Lett.

Mrs. R. A. Barnett visited her son, Austin Barnette, of Union Grove last Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. Roy Roberts, Mrs. Pearl Anderson and little Dot Chemelle were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Zuiderhoek and family Thanksgiving Day.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Carroll of Birmingham were the Sunday guests of Mr and Mrs. Louis Chemelle.

Mrs. Clarence Barnette spent the afternoon with Miss Helen Zuiderhoek Saturday.

Misses Sadie Glass, Mildred Caldwell, Gladys Cobb, Elizabeth Roberts and Neva Jane Key and Messrs. H. L. and "Rays" Glass, Orman Holdenidge and Herbert Conway attended the play in Calera last Tuesday night. They reported an excellent play was presented.

Mrs. Louis Chemelle and daughter, Dot, were the afttrnoon guests of Helen and Mary Zuiderhoek Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Sara Crim of South Calera spent the day with her daughter, Mrs. C. H. Barnett, nee Aileen Crim, last Wednesday.

Mrs. Walter Bailey visited Mrs. J. E. Ziuderhoek Sunday afternoon.

Miss Ina Campbell attended the basket ball game in Jemison Wednesday night.

Messrs. Howard Anderson, John and Charles Busby, Robert Barefield, Cecil Ellison attended the basekt ball game in Jemison Wednesday night.

"Rags" Glass and Ormand Holderidge were visitors in the Jemison school on Monday. We were very glad indeed to have them visit us, and hope they will come back soon, as Jemison High School extends a most cordial invitation and a hearty welcomt to all visitors and "ole" students.

Miss Helen Zuiderhoek was the dinner guest of Miss Mildred Caldwell last Tuesday night.

Mrs. Vance and son, R. T., were the afternoon guests of Mrs. Ulysses Vess Monday.

Miss Iva Campbell was the dinner guest of Miss Helen Zuiderhoek Friday night.

John, Otus and Fred Zuiderhoek were in Calera a short while Saturday afternoon.

We are sorry to hear that Mr. Bill Aldridge is ill. We hope for him a speedy recovery.

Mr. Clayton Wallace of Calera visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Zuiderhoek Monday afternoon.

Work Weary "NERVES"

Do they make you Restless, Cranky, Tired, Sleepless, Dyspeptic, Headachy? Do they spoil your pleasure and interfere with your work?

Tens of thousands have found a way to get relief from overworked nerves—a way so simple, so pleasant, so low in cost, that we are constantly receiving letters that say, "If I had only found Effervescent Nervine Tablets sooner." Simon Brandt writes:

"I was very nervous from over-work. I couldn't sleep well, appetite was poor, and I felt weak for a long time.

"Used Dr. Miles' Nervine and now feel fifteen years younger and I am working the same as I did before—fourteen to fifteen hours daily.

"Sorry I did not learn about this wonderful medicine sooner as I had tried everything I could hear of, without results, until Dr. Miles' Nervine put me back on my feet."

When you are nervous, try this—put a Dr. Miles' Effervescent Nervine Tablet into a glass of water. Watch it bubble up like sparkling spring water—drink it—enjoy the feeling of calm and relaxation that follows.

In Dr. Miles' Effervescent Nervine Tablets a splendid formula for soothing overwrought nerves is combined with bicarbonate of soda and citric acid which tend to correct hyper-acidity—a frequent cause of nervousness.

FORD TRUCK SMASHES SPEED RECORDS IN TESTS

Ford V-8
TRANSCONTINENTAL FREIGHTER

Crew of the Ford V-8 truck at end of cross-country trip from Atlantic City to Los Angeles. Left to right—Lester Moore, Jack Burns, Harold Peterson, Lawrence Houck, drivers, and, in uniform, a representative of the Keystone Automobile Club

Smashing all previous speed records for motor trucks on a transcontinental trip, a Ford V-8 truck carrying a full two-ton load of merchandise sped into Los Angeles at 8:13 o'clock last night after crossing the continent in 71 hours, 12 minutes and 30 seconds elapsed time. The run was made under the official observance of Glenn Walde for the Keystone Automobile Club, who accompanied the truck, according to Clanton Motors, local Ford dealers.

The truck out-distanced by four hours the fastest regular passenger train service between Atlantic City and Los Angeles. Today Mayor Shaw of Los Angeles, together with city and state officials and representatives of automobile associations received the crew of four drivers who made the run in a typical California civic ceremony. The drivers presented letters of greeting from Mayor Harry Bacharach of Atlantic City and Mayor J. Hampton Moore of Philadelphia.

The Transcontinental Freighter was welcomed at the Los Angeles city limits last night with all the spectacular enthusiasm of a Hollywood opening night. Nearly 3,000 people were on hand to greet the transcontinental drivers to California in a blaze of floodlights. Following the termination of the run the truck was checked officially on the Southern California Automobile Club 13 mile check run and the speedometer found accurate to two-tenths of a mile for the thirteen miles.

In making the 2,945 mile run the Ford Freighter clocked an average of 41.3 miles per hour, which resulted, according to Ford officials, from safe driving all the way under police escort and not by dangerous bursts of speed.

The transcontinental run required 322 gallons of gasoline and five quarts of oil, the final quart not being used. Only one pint of water was added to the radiator during the entire trip.

At the ceremony at the City Hall today, Mayor Shaw welcomed the four drivers, L. C. Houck, Jack Burns, Harold Peterson and Lester Moore to California. The four drove the freighter in relays. With the Mayor were the president of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, representatives of the Southern California Automobile Club and other prominent officials. According to the drivers the truck came thru the record run in excellent shape, despite bad driving conditions all the way. The truck encountered snow and ice the first night out, ran through a heavy rain storm in the Ozarks the second night and yesterday plowed through the desert, sand and dust two feet deep for more than 12 hours.

In addition to its full load of merchandise the Ford freighter carried improvised bunks for the relay drivers and the official observer of the Philadelphia club. It stopped only for gasoline and oil, three hours and 27 minutes being lost in refueling stops, making the net running time across the continent 67 hours, 45 minutes and 30 seconds.

OAK GROVE

We had preaching here at this place Saturday night, Sunday at 11:00 o'clock and Sunday night by our pastor W. P. Lowery. They were wonderful sermons.

B. Y. P. U., we "must" wake up. We want to urge every member to come to B. Y. P. U. and get here on time. We have not reached far enough to be an A-1 union this year, but we will not give up. Now members, wake up and pull for your union. We see other unions having great success, and we want to do more than that. So let's all be here Sunday night, on time and with a good percentage.

The monthly singing at Oak Grove was a splendid success Sunday afternoon. We extend thanks to those who came and did blend their voices in the "gold old songs". Let's help to sing our way to righteousness.

The Enon Sr. and Intermediate B. Y. P. U. gave the Oak Grove B. Y. P. U. a very inspirational program Sunday night, December 3rd. They were well represented by a large delegation from their church as well. The Introduction was given by Charles Nix, president of Oak Grove union. After a congregational song and prayer, the visiting union took charge.

Miss Lena McGauby gave the devotional. She gave a wonderful address on "Prayer." The program was given to Mr. Lucas, who served as group captain. His program consisted of three Intermediates and a number of Seniors.

The Bible Quiz leader conducted a contest between the two groups. The first part consisted of two members of each group who named the Books of the Bible. The second part consisted of "Searching the Scriptures" better known as the "Sword Drill." During the program a duet was rendered and the selection "Living for Jesus" was given by two members of Enon's union.

The program was very logical and was harmonious in every respect. We congratulate them for their extension work and we believe their match would be hard to find. Our prayers are for Enon and "May they let their lights keep shining before men and glorifying our Father which is in Heaven."

After the program Rev. W. P Lowery, our pastor, delivered his regular sermon which was heard by a full house. We need every person's prayer to continue our success. Even though success isn't mentioned but once in God's Word, our B. Y. P. U. at Oak Grove has found it and are fulfilling what the word implies. Everyone come and worship with us each Sunday evening at 6:30. We are appealing for visitors' support. Why not pay us a visit?.

The Collins Chapel B. Y. P. U. of near Thorsby, under the wise leadership of Mrs. Antionette Smith, will present our B. Y. P. U. at Oak Grove with a program Sunday evening at 6:30. We are very glad indeed to have them come and render to us a program. We know we will be greatly benefitted by it.

Rev. W. P. Lowery, our pastor, was the dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Seay Sunday.

Mrs. D. S. Northcutt and daughter, Loyce, of Birmingham spent this week end with Mrs. Northcutt's parents, Mr and Mrs. J. D. Sutley

Thanksgiving holidays were well spent around Oak Grove. Among the visitors to other places were: Miss Virginia Glass, visiting relatives in Birmingham; Miss Rosalie Martin, visited relatives in Wylam and Charles Nix visited relatives and friends at Longview, Alabama

Don't forget preaching at Center Hill Sunday, December 10. Let's go and help them for they have certainly helped us.

The Oak Grove Dramatic Club will present "Yimmie Yonson's Yob," a 3-act play, Saturday night, Dec. 16. A full two and one-half hours of fun will be guaranteed to all who come. The curtains will rise at 7:30 o'clock. Small admission fee will be charged.

PLEASANT GROVE

Jemison

As we have no correspondent from this community I will send in a little news.

Health in this section is very good except just a few cases. Mrs. Laura Franklin is real feeble and Mrs Sam Woodley has gone to Birmingham for treatment

There is quite a lot of moving around here this fall. Mr. Carl Dawson has moved to [illegible] and Mr. Walter Wood has moved to the Dawson place. Mr. Steve Hughes has moved to Thorsby and Mr. [illegible] has moved where Hughes moved from. The Champion place

Dancing seems to be the main pastime around here these days. There was a dance at Mr. Gletty's Tuesday night before Thanksgiving and there was a dance at Mr. Will Clements on Thanksgiving night and then another at Mr. Gletty's Saturday night

Sunday school and B. Y. P. U. at this place are progressing nicely

Our preaching day is the fourth Sunday. We have a real old time Christian pastor, Rev. Miller from Birmingham.

Mr. Carl Dawson, wife, little son, James Thomas and mother, Mrs Dovie Dawson spent the week end with the Misses Champion. Mr. Clyde Champion and wife spent Thanksgiving with Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Champion

Mr. Grover Price and sisters, Misses Velma Myrtle, and Bertha Lee and Mr. Carl Dawson dined and spent the afternoon Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Miskelley

Mrs. Hernie Hodgens, son and little daughter, spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Miskelley.

Through a project that a few members of our church put on last Spring planting a patch of cotton for the church, we have been enabled to finish paying for our piano and we have put a new roof on our church

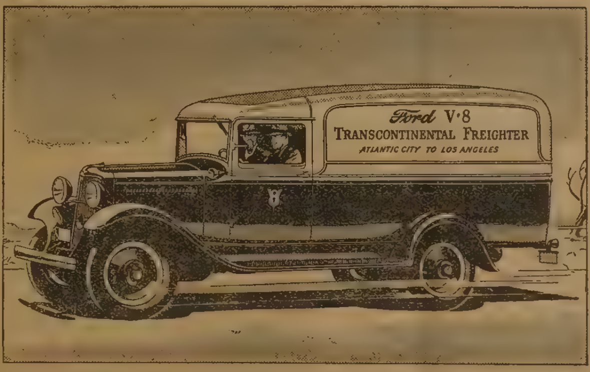
Ford V·8 Truck
BREAKS RECORDS FROM COAST-TO-COAST

BEATS FASTEST TRAIN TIME from Atlantic City to Los Angeles



HERE'S proof of the speed, reliability and economy of the Ford V-8 Truck. Not vague claims or sales ballyhoo, but a definite record of performance. A record that counts double because it was made in the face of ice and snow and the hazards of winter. Here are the exact facts and figures —

Left Atlantic City (N. J.) 12.01 A. M., Monday, November 20

Arrived Los Angeles (Cal.) at 8:13 P. M., Wednesday, November 22.

Think of it! Across the country in less than three days in a Ford V-8 Truck. Over hills and mountains — across prairies — through desert sands at an average speed of 41.3 miles an hour. Faster time from Atlantic City to Los Angeles, by many hours, than is made by the fastest trains!

This was a Standard 1½-ton Ford V-8 Panel Truck, with 131½-inch wheelbase. It carried a full load and four passengers. Three were drivers who alternated day and night at the wheel. The fourth was the official observer of the Keystone Automobile Club who certified the run.

Weeks of the toughest kind of driving were crowded into a few days — it was a test that few trucks could stand or dare to make — but the Ford V-8 Truck came through with one of the greatest performance records of all time.

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA

[illegible]

Since the depression began we have hoped each month that the succeeding month would show an improvement in business that would indicate the end of the business stagnation. Our hopes have not been realized. In fact, sales of electricity dropped from 1,433,722,000 kilowatt hours in 1929 to 1,164,508,000 kilowatt-hours in 1932, a decrease of 269,214,000 kilowatt-hours or 18.8 per cent. This is in spite of an increase of power plant capacity resulting from the completion of projects under construction in 1929.

This continued falling off of business means that we are compelled to operate our plants and transmission systems far below normal capacity. This is more serious than the figures indicate. No matter how much our sales may fall during depression years we must maintain as always our power plants, transmission lines, substations, and distribution systems. Of course, when business and industry pick up, more electricity will be needed and we shall be ready. We expect to continue to construct power plants and lines reasonably in advance of actual requirements so that we can meet the needs of new customers and the increased requirements of old ones.

For the first four months of 1933 sales continued to decline, but for the months of May, June, July and August they have shown increases over the corresponding months of 1932. September, however, shows a sharp recession, and is slightly under the same month of 1932.

Yours very truly,

President.

Letter No. 7.

Corn-Hog Program Open To Alabama

Because Alabama does not produce enough corn and hogs to supply home needs only a few farmers of the state, except in the southeast section of Alabama where hogs are produced for commercial channels, are expected to enter into the corn-hog adjustment program now being conducted by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

But the benefits of this program are available to Alabama producers on the same basis as to the corn-hog producers of the Middle West, according to Dr. [illegible] director of the Extension Service of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

Farmers signing hog-corn contracts are agreeing to reduce their corn acreage 20 to 30 per cent and the number of hogs they market 25 per cent below their average production for the years 1932 and 1933.

As a corn benefit payment the Secretary of Agriculture is agreeing to pay 30 cents per bushel on the corn the land left out of production would produce under normal conditions. In the case of hogs the benefit payment is to be $5 per head on the hogs marketed after the reduction is made; that is, producers who cooperate would receive $5 per head on 75 per cent of the adjusted annual average number of hogs they marketed from the 1932 and 1933 litters.

The program is designed primarily for the Corn Belt, where a big surplus of hogs and corn is being produced. In Alabama, it is expected that in some [illegible] in southeastern part of the state, where a big tonnage of hogs is produced for sale, there will be some interest in the corn-hog adjustment.

Farmers who enter into a hog reduction contract will be required to enter into a corn reduction contract. In order to protect the live-at-home program, only those farmers who grow 10 or more acres of corn and three or more litters of pigs will be eligible to sign contracts.

County agents will be in position to give farmers complete information.

LETTER OF THANKS

We wish to thank all who contributed to our comfort when the Lord sent His angel to carry our darling Annett home November 10, 1933. She was always so sweet everyone loved her, and of course our hearts are almost broken to have to give her up. She was always so sweet and so good, we never expected to keep her long, but we never could have been prepared to let her go. She was as pure as the dew of the morning and as bright as the stars above. God lent her to us for our adorning, but he called her back to Him, because of His love. We can't know why he has devastated us this way, but we do know it was His will to which, even though ignorant of the cause, we must submit.

We thank all for their kindness, for the kind and loving counsel from dear Bro. Edward Littlejohn, for all the beautiful flowers, for all the kind help every way, and we hope all can meet together where all will be peace and joy, and gladness.

—Her Grandmother, Mrs. G. E. Chesser, Parents, Mr. and Mrs. Norman E. Smith.

PLEASANT HILL

(Intended for Last Week)

Our Christian Endeavor is progressing nicely. We had a wonderful program Sunday night with about thirty present.

Remember the barbecue Saturday night at Monroe Jones. Proceeds will go for benefit of Pleasant Hill church.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Chandler of Tallassee, Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Downs, Mrs. G. T. Rhodes and Miss Launa Downs of Wetumpka spent this week end with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Downs. All were present except one son and reported a nice time.

Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Jones visited their great-grandmother, Mrs. Sally Clakely, who is ill at her home near Billingsley.

Our pastor, Rev. J. H. Limbrick, has a bad foot. We hope for him a speedy recovery.

A Kansas City resident arrested for speeding failed to get off on the plea he was "hurrying home to keep from catching a cold.'

In 30 years of carrying a rural route near Spring Valley, Ohio, Judson Walton, 58, boasts he outlasted 60 horses and 19 automobiles.

Mr. Wilson Atkinson dined with Mr. Clemon Henley Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Traywick, Mr. Sammie Jones and others whom we failed to get their names brought Miss Ruth Cox home Sunday afternoon and were the supper guests of Misses Ruth and Louise Cox. Mr. Morris Keen was also their guest.

The singing at Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Devaughn's last Friday night was enjoyed by a large crowd. We will meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Scott next Friday night, so come and bring someone with you and let's make this the best practice that we have had. We have the promise of Mr. Glasscock's class to be with us at the church some Friday night. We are all looking forward to the pleasure of having them sing for us.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Cox spent a while with Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Atkinson Saturday night.

Mrs. E. L. Henley and daughter, Carrie, spent a while with Mrs. A. B. Foshee Thanksgiving Day.

POPLAR SPRINGS

We are glad to see our B. Y. P. U. and singing class progressing so nicely. The best B. Y. P. U. lesson and some of the best singing we have had was presented last Sunday night. We had several good singing visitors, and also Mr. Joe Ben Downs with his horn, which added spice to our singing. We invite them and all others to be with us every time they can.

Don't forget our regular singing society meets here next Sunday, December 10, at 1:30. Some special music is expected, so come and enjoy it.

All-Weather Tread Remains Unchanged Twenty-Five Years

Diamond-Shaped Blocks On Goodyear Casings Resist Skidding

Distinction of being the oldest tire tread in the world is enjoyed by Goodyear's All-Weather tread, which has remained practically unchanged since it was first developed in 1908.

The Goodyear tread, according to Dief's Service Station, local Goodyear dealer, who has been looking up the history of tire development, this year celebrated its 25th anniversary.

First attempt at a non-skid tire tread design was the so-called Bailey tread, developed about 1905, and featuring rounded buttons to give an uneven surface that would resist skidding. It is of interest, too, Mr. Dief pointed out that originally these non-skid tires were placed only on rear wheels of automobiles.

In the development of Goodyear's All-Weather Tread, President P. W. Litchfield, who was then factory supesintendent of the Goodyear company, wantes to resist skidding from whatever direction, to get better traction through mud, and at the same time to produce a tire which would not fill up between the indentations and become a smooth tire again. The grooves between the diamonds in the All-Weather tread are self-cleaning.

"Old Goodyear advertisements, printed as far back as 1911, showed a tire illustration with treads much as those of today, which is rather remarkable considering the advances that the automobile has made since then . . . that substantially the same tread now is as effective as it was then," said Mr. Dief.

The Goodyear All-Weather tread is foond equipping not only automobiles, trucks and buses, but on airplanes, farm tractors and other implements, biiycles, and even wheelbarrows. Moreover, in recent tests at Akron, the Goodyear tread showed from 14 to 19 per cent greater resistance to skidding than any of 15 other makes of tires.

Vermont Junior High School News

Everybody back in school after a brief sojourn for the Thanksgiving-holidays. From the smiles and laughter it seems as if everyone had a cheerful and pleasant time. We are all now settled back in our studies for the next three weeks which will take us up to the glad Christmas season.

The Thanksgiving program was well presented by the elementary grades, last Wednesday to a large audience. Gee! What a crowd of folks for an afternoon program. Cars, trucks and wagons brought approximately two hundred. The school takes this opportunity to express their real appreciation to the many parents and friends who came and listened so attentively to the little folks as they rendered their respective parts in the drills, playlets, etc.

After the Christmas holidays the Jr. High pupils and faculty will present a real laughable comedy program, consisting of funny poems and songs, short comedy dialogues and monologues —and in fact, numerous things—to make up a real evening's entertainment of fun, frolic and laughter. Just a clean and clear-cut program of wholesome recreation. More announcements concerning it will be made later.

The pig belonging to the school is certainly growing. We expect to realize a neat little sum from him next spring.

Another basket ball game was added to the laurels of the Vermont boys on last Tuesday night, November 28, when they trimmed the swift-stepping quintet of Maplesville which was composed of Jr. 3 and Senior 1 boys. This game was played at Maplesville before a jammed audience. A large group of supporters, boosting each team, furnished plenty of racket if that's what one is looking for.—the referee really needed two oversize whistles. Both teams showed plenty of swift action, but the Vermont boys hung up an 8 to 1 lead during the first half and with bulldog tenacity swung on throughout the remainder of the game. However, the Maplesville boys threw a scare into our team the last quarter when they rung up two field goals and five foul goals, which left them only one point behind and three minutes to go. At this point the Vermont boys clinched the defense and held their opponents at bay. With twelve seconds to go the Maplesville center committed a personal foul and Sansom, our center, dropped the ball through the net just as the final whistle blew, giving our team a 12 to 10 victory. This was the boys third straight win against no defeats. Our girls team, playing their first match game of basket ball, lost their game to the Maplesville girls by the score of 11 to 8.

On next Friday afternoon at 2:30 the Jr. High School team from Cooper will play our boys on our court. Come on, Vermont fans, and let's pep the boys up to their fourth straight win. We hope the regular members of our team will be able to play. We surely missed them at Maplesville last Tuesday night. But the substitute players filled their places fine.

The entire faculty spent the holidays at their respective homes. Mr. Johnson at Jemison, Miss Cagle at Mitchell Dam, Miss Grant at Coopers and Miss Manning at Isabella. Each reports a highly pleasant period of rest and relaxation.

Mr. Tom Frank Teel, that towering young man who presented the "Red-Headed Country Boy" act when we staged our play a few days ago, has promised to bsing to our school a real classy comedy program consisting of jokes, gags, monologues, dialogues, crazy songs, buck dancing, fiddling and all that stuff that folks will go miles to hear and laugh at. You can wager your last coin that this program will be wortn any effort you may put forth to see it. Tom Frank is a genuine good stage entertainer and if you enjoy laugning 'til it hurts, just save your nickels and see this program. It will be pot on at oor school at a date between now and Christmas. Watch the Vermont News for the date and then be there. A dollar's worth of laughs for a few pennies.

Our P.-T. A. met last Wednesday, November 29. Sixty-eight were present. A number of distinguished visitors whom we were glad to welcome, were present. Among them were Mr. L. M. Chaney, director of the Educational Publicity Department of Forbes Piano Co., Birmingham; Mr. Earle Thomas, vocational instructor of Isabella High School and Miss Bertha Dennis, home ecomonic teacher from the same school. After the matter of routine business was settled, Miss Cagle, president, appointed the following as a committee to locate and purchase a piano: Mr. Geo. W. Sansom, Mr. Robt. B. Johnson and Mr. Homer Ratliff. This committee will go to Montevallo today to inspect and pass on one offered for sale. Should this one not be purchased they will go to Birmingham and possibly Montgomery. They simply mean that they are going to purchase a good serviceable piano for our school and at a bargain too.

Report cards were passed out this week. Most of us boys and girls could point with pride at the marks we made the second month. A few, we are sorry to say, felt just a little bit reluctant in passing them on to mother and dad. Let's hope they are a little more attentive and diligent towards their studies this third month.

Mr. Johnson and Miss Grant drove over to Mt. Pleasant Jr. High last Wednesday night and enjoyed a nice large chicken supper. Quite a pleasant trip for him to make back to his old teaching grounds, meeting and talking with a score of his friends and former pupils.

A few of the parents have been a little bit thoughtless regarding the school Desk Fund. Please remember that this is a just and legitimate obligation against the school and we need your cooperation and support in the matter. Please send your dues in at an early date. State Aid will not be forthcoming until we meet our part of the indebtedness.

Don't forget the ball game with Coopers Jr. High School next Friday, 2:30.

Allen-Taylor

A wedding around which much cordial interest centered was that of Miss Annie Lucille Taylor and William Walker Allen of Cooper, which took place Thursday morning, November 30, 1933, at 9:30 o'clock at the Chestnut Creek Baptist church. The Rev. J. W. Jones of Thorsby, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony.

The church was decorated with fern and yellow chrysanthemums. The altar was of pot fern and yellow chrysanthemums in tall baskets.

The bridal party entered to the strain of a wedding march played by Mrs. Charles Moore. The bridesmaids, Miss Jewel Taylor of Montgomery, and Miss Ruby Yates of Cooper, entered at the same time. They carried arm bouquets of fern and white chrysanthemums. Miss Taylor was dressed in a black ensemble while Miss Yates was dressed in a blue ensemble.

Mr. Orman Edgar of Birmingham entered next as matron of honor. Her dress was of flowered crepe with blue jacket and hat and she carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums.

The bride entered with her father, J. R. Taylor, by whom she was given in marriage. Her dress was of Royal blue crepe with silver buttons. Her close fitting turban was of midnight blue to which was fitted a small veil.

The groom was attended by his brother, Lane Allen, of Cooper as best man.

Immediately following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Allen left on a wedding trip to Athens, Alabama, after which they will be at home in Cooper, Ala.

The bride, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Taylor of Cooper, is a young woman of much charm and loveliness. After graduation from the Verbena High School she attended Livingston College after which she has taught school several years.

Both the bride and groom are great religious workers, and are very popular.

Mr. Herman Lecroy spent the week end at home.

Miss Dorothy Manning spent the week end with her parents.

Mrs. Denson Conaway is somewhat better. She was hit by a truck a few days back. Her many friends will be glad to know that she is on the road to recovery.

Mrs. Myron Calfee, a member of the Isabella faculty, has a severe cold and isn't able to be at school this week. Miss Ruth Oden is filling her place. We hope that Mrs. Calfee will be back at her regular place in a few days.

Mr. Neal Turner is improving after a serious case of tonsilitis.

The Isabella football boys went to Greensboro, Ala., last Wednesday and played the last game of the season. We were glad to know that the boys brought back a victory. The score was 21 to 13. The boys have shown some good work this year. They played eight games, winning four, tieing two, and lost two. The team only loses one of their men this year, Mr. Homer Morgan.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our friends for the kindness shown us during our recent bereavement due to the short illness and death of our beloved son and brother, Barney. We want to express our appreciation for the beautiful flowers.

Especially do we want to express our thanks for the kindness shown us by Dr. DuBose of Maplesville, Dr. Gragg and nurses of Central Alabama Hospital and Mr. Martin who had him in charge for burial. We wish to express our appreciation to the lady near Maplesville who was so kind to Barney after he was injured in the accident, also the man who carried him to the doctor. May God bless each and every one.

—Mr. and Mrs. Henry Patterson and Family.

YOU . . .

and your Shadow

Try as you wish, day or night, you cannot rid yourself of the shadow that is YOU. It is the silhouette of yourself. Unseen by you, it is YOUR SELF that casts the shadow, and makes the picture of YOU which is carried in the minds of those who see YOU.

Like a run-down heel soiled and wrinkled clothing is a symbol of shiftlessness. No matter how good your own mental picture of YOURSELF is, how clean-cut and well set up you know yourself to be, you are not appearing at your best unless your clothes and shoes are in order.

Now as never before your clothing demands the skilled dry cleaning that maintains the life and lustre of the cloth, and restores that fresh odor of newness your suit or dress had when you bought it. Let us serve you. Our charge is very reasonable, and service is prompt.

RIVER BRIDGE

through the Public Works Administration, provided the two counties will bear the remainder of the cost.

The building of this bridge, it was pointed out, would greatly aid both counties in many ways. Mail, freight and express facilities would be benefitted, due to the short distance from the paved Birmingham-Montgomery highway to Rockford, Sylacauga and other points, by this route.

In other words, it was stated, a bridge at the point stated would open a better traffic route from Coosa county to Birmingham, Mobile, Selma and points west.

The cost of the bridge, as figured out, would mean that annually the two counties would pay about $6,930 or $3,465 for each county per year for twenty-five years, with the United States government bearing thirty per cent of the cost.

It was suggested that perhaps making it a toll bridge of twenty-five cents per vehicle using it. By this method the length of time required to pay for the bridge would be a small item, and would be safer and more economical than the present system of crossing the river.

This highway, connecting Coosa and Chilton counties is already one of the main routes in the state, east and west, and it is believed that with a bridge over the river it would become a more important route, meaning a great deal to both counties.

It was also pointed out, on the matter of mail and freight facilities, that Rockford is only about twenty-three miles from the Louisville & Nashville railroad in Chilton county by this route, with several mail and freight trains each day.

AIRPORT

sum of money has been set aside by the federal government for the promotion of aviation, and these funds are available to Chilton county for the improvement of a flying field, he said, but the county must furnish the land.

Mr. Wyatt and Mr. Pitts joined Dr. Gragg in the advocation of immediate action on the part of the county in securing land for the project and making application for federal funds for its improvement, asserting that the failure to avail the county of this opportunity would be little less than tragic.

It was pointed out that Clanton is strategetically located, being half-way between Maxwell and Roberts Fields and also directly on the proposed airmail route between Nashville and Montgomery.

Several proposed sites were discussed. Recently Marshall C. Hoppin, government airport specialist, visited Clanton and spent some time studying various sites. Dr. Gragg read a letter from him recommending three sites near Clanton.

Members of the committee also declared that besides the use for aviation, the field might be utilized for a county fair ground, for county gatherings, or an athletic field.

The commissioners court together with the committee are to visit several of the sites Wednesday afternoon.

have registered with the local CWA employment office. Four hundred men were given employment two weeks ago on several projects over the county.

At a meeting of the local CWA Board Saturday, the following projects were outlined and were submitted to Thad Holt's office Monday.

Improvement ot road between Coopers and Adams Ferry; Enterprise to White City road; several school building improvements over the county; improvement on road from Verbena to Log Cabin Beach; seven miles of road from Thorsby to Mineral Springs, and several other projects.

Selection of the men from the list already compiled by the employment office is expected to be made by a federal employment office manager, who is expected to relieve C. Fenn Jones this week.

Mr. Jones, it is understood, has been offered a post in another county, but it is not known whether or not he intends to accept the proffered position.

J. B. ATKINSON

ments of Mr. Atkinson may be called most outstanding. He was born in Coosa County on a farm and received his early education in the schools of that county and worked his way through the agriculture school in Sylacauga.

Studying by lamp light, he went into the first principles of law, determined to become an attorney. He moved to Chilton County in June, 1915. He was permitted to practice law in 1913 and outside of eighteen months he served in the United States army during the World War, he has followed this profession.

During the World War he was in charge of the Provost Marshal General office, which handled cases of deserters and delinquents in Alabama. There his record stood out, and at the close, he was given an honorable discharge from his duties.

His record of service for the public good that is perhaps most outstanding in the minds of the people of Chilton County is during his administration as Mayor of Clanton, and as a member of the city council, the latter office he served in for ten years, being elected by the people.

His method of handling cases of law violation in the city of Clanton, demanded law and order with small effort during his administration. In that capacity he demonstrated his ability to cope with law violators, whether in small or large cases and even while his decisions were strict, he will be remembered by those who came under his jurisdiction as being merciful while stern.

Educational Interests

Mr. Atkinson's educational interests can seldom, if ever be equalled. He has always made a direct and firm stand for schools, and while Mayor of Clanton his efforts in behalf of the city school were met with hearty approval and success. One of the main items in his work at that time was to further the interest of the city school of Clanton.

Outstanding Mason

Among the titles he now holds is that of District Lecturer for the Masonic organization. He has been quite a student and observer in this work.

Along with this, Mr. Atkinson is at present a member of the State Democratic Committee, to which place he was elected by the people of the Fourth District. He was at one time chairman of the Chilton County Democratic Committee and is now one of the most staunch Democrats in the state. He has worked faithfully in behalf of his party.

It will also be remembered that in one election in the past, he was not a candidate, but approximately nine hundred voters of Chilton County wrote his name in on the ballots for representative in the Legislature.

Mr. Atkinson is a Shriner, takes an active part in the work of the Woodmen, and is an Odd Fellow. He was connected with the building committee of the beautiful Methodist church of Clanton, of which he is a devoted member.

Life's Ambition

In commenting on his candidacy, Mr. Atkinson repeated the statement he has made several times. "It has been my life ambition to serve the Nineteenth Circuit as judge. I am not running against anyone for this office," he stated.

A man who with the look Mr. Atkinson has when he tells of this ambition, deserves and should receive the consideration and support of his people whom he wishes to serve.

He is ideally and unusually fitted for the position he seeks which carries with it a great amount of dignity. He is a man of judicial poise and temperament.

150 WOMEN GIVEN JOBS BY CWA

CHILTON COUNTY POSSIBLE POLITICS

By Victor Norris

Things have been a bit dull around the courthouse this week. Two days without a commissioners court meeting, but the boys needed a rest after the strenuous time they had selecting a new county agent.

Never again can it be said that the commissioners are opposed to county agency work. So nervous were they over the possibility of the county being without an agent that they hired two at the same time and thus got themselves in a little deep water.

But it was compromised by hiring a third man; and it must be said to the commissioners credit that apparently they finally did a good job. J. W. Fant, of Eclectic, is the new agent. With eight and one-half years experience as a teacher of vocational agriculture in the Elmore County High School, and the resolution to carry to completion the program that Stapp has underway, the county may consider itself fortunate in securing the services of Mr. Fant.

Another thing that contributes to the quietude around the courthouse was the transfer of the CWA employment office from the courthouse to Mullins Building on the highway.

Under an entirely new regime the CWA organization set about this week to correct a few mistakes made by the old regime. Because of inadequate information on the applications filed with the office during the past two weeks, it was found necessary to recall most of the applicants for re-registration.

Too, rumour has it that local politics were creeping in. Anyway C. G. Stokes, of Clarke county, was sent to Clanton to relieve C. Fenn Jones, who was recently appointed manager of the local CWA re-employment office. However, it is understood that Mr. Jones was offered a post elsewhere.

Just how much there is to this idea that some people were getting all set to play a little politics with CWA money, we don't know, but on good authority it is understood that the rumour has reached Washington and already an investigation is being started.

The commissioners have two grand opportunities to show a little progressiveness: First, by purchasing land for an airport. The Government to spend approximately $15,000 improving it. Most intelligent people, if possible, would jump at the chance to buy a lot if someone would build them a fine house on it without cost to themselves. Whether the commissioners are an exception awaits to be seen.

Another big chance to demonstrate a wide awake spirit would be by taking steps with Coosa county to construct a bridge across the Coosa River, near Mitchell Dam. Through a federal appropriation funds can be secured for this purpose, it is understood. The two courts were to go to Montgomery Wednesday to take the matter up with the State highway department, but the results of the conference has not been learned at this time.

But from a personal point of view we believe the commissioners will favor both projects. Since most of the time they are either "up in the air", or in "deep water".

Politics in the county are becoming more and more complicated. First meeting of the newly organized Democratic Women's Club was held last Wednesday afternoon and the following officers were elected: Mrs. P. T. Hinkle, chairman; Mrs. Nora C. Wells, vice-chairman, and Mrs. Billy Smith, secretary-treasurer.

If our petition for an honorary membership in this new organization is honored, this column is expected to grow into at least a half-page.

COOSA RIVER BRIDGE IDEA SEEMS NEARER

The Commissioners Of Both Counties Show Interest In New Project

With a meeting scheduled Wednesday between members of the county commissioners court and state highway authorities, the possibilities of the construction of a $150,000 bridge, spanning the Coosa River at a point just below Mitchell Dam on the highway connecting Rockford and Clanton, seems a bit more favorable.

A joint meeting of the commissioners courts of Chilton and Coosa counties was held Friday, and the many advantages of a bridge connecting the two counties were recounted.

Especially would it aid in bringing the

But in this instance it's the school children who are on the verge of tasting revenge, and not the dogs.

STAPP EXPRESSES THANKS TO PEOPLE FOR COOPERATION AND SUPPORT

To the Editors of The Union-Banner and Chilton County News:

Please allow me space in your papers to express in my feeble way my appreciation for the many courtesies shown me during my stay in Chilton County.

I hardly know where and how to begin because I haven't the words to express myself, and too, I know that I will fail to say something that I want to say.

I wish to thank both the County papers for the many courtesies shown me, and for the wonderful way in which you have cooperated. My desire in Chilton County was to put over a real program of work and through same popularize county agency work. The county papers have played an important part in helping to bring to the attention of the people the value and need of county farm and home demonstration work in the county.

I realize that some people of the county do not appreciate the work, but I consider this existing condition is due to my failure to reach some and familiarize them with our program. Since getting into county agency work in 1919, or 14 years ago the 15th of November, I have realized that any man, woman or child, who was not interested in county agency work, either did not understand what it was all about, or that he or she was living for self alone and not a believer in the Golden Rule.

If I have attained any success in Chilton County, I wish to give credit to the people and organizations who have cooperated with me in such a splendid way. I could have done nothing alone I wish to mention my most faithful and efficient secretary, Mrs. Zora Guy Smith, the Home Demonstration Agent, the vocational and home economic agricultural teachers, Judge

ONLY NINE MORE SHOPPING DAYS UNTIL CHRISTMAS BELLS RING

A constant bang-bang of fire works is a sure indication that the Christmas holidays are here. Too, that smile of good cheer that binds people in a closer harmony; spreading the gospel of "Peace On Earth And Good Will Toward Men," which is more in evidence during Christmas season, wreathes the face of almost every passerby.

Old St. Nicholas with his reindeer team will soon be clattering into Clanton!

Clanton stores are scenes of Christmas gaiety. With perhaps the most varied and complete assortment of Christmas merchandise ever to be shown in Clanton, merchants are urging their customers to shop early and avoid the certain congestion that will exist during the final shopping days.

With less than two weeks left in which to purchase the dozens of items that will be needed to make a gift list complete, no time is to be lost.

Whatever the needs, they can be supplied in some of Clanton's up-to-date establishments. A tour of the several stores and an inspection of the show windows leaves no doubt of this assertion. On every hand is to be seen beautiful and worthwhile gifts.

Jewelry, silver, dishes, glass ware, rubber balls, kiddie cars, wagons, trains, automobiles tractors, bicycles, velocipedes, furniture, clothing, candies, smoking set, electrical equipment, and novelties are just a few of the hundreds of articles to select from.

Parent-Teacher Associations Urged To Become More Active In The Face Of School Crisis

With the possibility of another school crisis facing us, we must re-organize our Chilton County Council of Parent-Teacher Associations.

Has your school a parent-teacher association Is it a member of our State and National Congress of parents and teachers? United we stand, divided we fall. If you are not affiliated with them let me urge you to send in your dues at once.

Dues are fifteen cents (15c) a year for each enrolled member. Paid to Mrs. Walter D. Shepherd, State Treas., Narrow Lane Road, Montgomery, Ala. You will receive for your dues, one Alabama School Journal each month with planned programs for your meetings, also a course of study and community work for a period covering two school years, and other helpful suggestions.

Make your P.-T. A. a better one by uniting with us.

Watch the papers for an announcement of a county-wide meeting and be sure your P.-T. A. is represented at this meeting.

The Bankers Code

There is "something new under the sun" for those in Chilton County who do business with the banks of the county. It is the new Bankers Code which will go into effect January 1st, 1934.

Elsewhere in the News this week will be found an advertisement headed "Bankers Code" which sets out the provisions that the banks in Chilton County will go by, in cooperating with the East Central Alabama Clearing House Association. It will be worthwhile to acquaint yourself with these provisions and regulations if you do business with these banks. It will enable you to cooperate with them in carrying out this code.

HERE COMES CHARLIE

The play, "Here Comes Charlie" will be presented by the Seniors of Isabella High School Saturday night, December 23, at Maplesville Auditorium.

Admission 15c and 25c.

PEOPLE ARE URGED TO GIVE SUPPORT

Chilton county changed county farm agents this week when C. E. Stapp, who has served this county in this capacity for the past six years, left to assume the duties of county agent for Houston county; and J. W. Fant, vocational agricultural teacher in the Elmore County High School, at Eclectic, became agent for Chilton county.

Stapp was recently offered approximately $100 per month increase in salary to assume the Houston post. He

Entire County Regrets Loss Of Popular Couple Who Go To Dothan

Chilton county lost two of its most influential citizens this week, when Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Stapp removed to Dothan where Mr. Stapp has been engaged as county agent of Houston county.

Coming to Clanton and Chilton county in 1927, the Stapps have been of the greatest influence in every movement toward the upbuilding of the county In the history of Chilton county few persons have contributed so much to the growth and advancement of civilization within its boundaries as have these two energetic and progressive workers.

SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE SOON IN STATE

Will Address Big Gathering In Birmingham On Next Saturday

Alabamians are slated for a rare treat when Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace will address an audience of several thousand farmers and business men, Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock at the City Auditorium, in Birmingham.

Chilton County's quota of the hoped for audience of 6,000 has been set at 200, and for everyone who can possibly attend the meeting much benefit should be derived.

The following is taken from a letter just received from L. N. Duncan:

"We are very fortunate to have secured the Honorable Henry A. Wallace,

Cooke Players Will Be Here One Week

The popular and well known Cooke Players are coming to Clanton for one full week, beginning Monday, December 18th.

Chilton County and surroundings are familiar with the fine and clean shows these players present and are waiting for the opportunity to see them again. They will appear each night, with a different program, at the Wadesonian Theatre.

Find the announcement elsewhere in this issue of the News which carries the entire program for the week.

SINGING AT FRIENDSHIP NEXT SUNDAY AFTERNOON

There will be singing at Friendship church, one mile north of Clanton, next Sunday afternoon, December 17th. A supply of both books will be on hand, and the singers of the county are invited to participate.

The singers are also asked to bear in mind the singing at the court house the fifth Sunday afternoon in this month.

CLEAN UP AND HEALTH SURV'YS ON PROGRAMS

NEW MANAGER IS ON JOB IN CLANTON

Transferring the National Re-Employment offices of Chilton county from the courthouse into the Mullins Building, on the highway, and installing an entirely new regime work swung into speedy action this week in an effort to employ the county's present quota of CWA men and women on the several approved projects over the county.

Under the direction of R. L. Pittman, of Birmingham, county civil works administrator, and Cecil G. Stokes, of Clarke county, manager of the county re-employment offices, it is believed that the entire quota will be placed within a few days.

Although it was found necessary, because of inadequate information on former applications, to re-register most of the applicants who were registered during the past two weeks, Mr. Stokes stated that he hoped to have the county's quota ready to begin work almost immediately.

Jobs were made available Wednesday for approximately 150 of the 180 women allotted to Chilton county. With six projects approved the remainder of the quota is expected to be given work at an early date, it was stated.

The projects for the women include a Clean-up Survey; a Health Survey, CWA Clerical Projects; Community Clubhouse Survey; Sanitation Survey, and a program of Beautification of scenery along county and state roads and about public buildings

MRS. FRANCES COLLEY DIED IN MT. CREEK LAST TUESDAY

Funeral services for Mrs Frances A. Colley, widow of J. A. Colley, who died last Tuesday at the home of her daughter, Mrs Joseph A. Chambliss, at Mt. Creek, were conducted Thursday from the home. Burial was in the Verbena cemetery, with the Rev [illegible], pastor of the Verbena Methodist church, officiating.

Surviving are three daughters Mrs Chambliss, Mrs. P. E. McNeil, of Birmingham, and Mrs. W. E. Jordan, of Mt Creek, six sons, George A., of Mt. Creek, the Rev. J. O. Colley, superintendent of the Baptist Orphanage, at Troy, J. M., of Montgomery, A. B., of Prattville, H. H., of Ocala, Fla., and Dr. E. C. Colley of Tabaris, Fla.

Need for Trained Women

Although numerous applications have been filed and many women have been placed, there is still an urgent need for a number of women with special training, Mr. Stokes stated In making these several surveys, the requirements are that applicants have sufficient training and experience to intelligently deal with the public, he said.

WOMEN'S WORKERS REQUEST COOPERATION OF PEOPLE

Since most of the Women's Work under the CWA program consists of making surveys, we are asking the cooperation of the people over the county in giving information asked for.

The Best Answer To The Roosevelt Critics

What might easily be regarded as the most impressive endorsement of the Roosevelt administration during the past several months was contained in 20 words sent over the wires from Washington by The Associated Press in Friday's offering of news. The 20 words were as follows: "The treasury said today that subscriptions on its $950,000,000 one-year security issue exceeded that figure by nearly three times."

Announcements of that kind do not mix very well with the recent talk to the effect that Wall Street is out to get Mr. Roosevelt's number. It would be impossible to launch securities worth $950,000,000 without the strong support of the big financial interests of the nation.

If that powerful force which we call "Wall Street" felt that the expenditure of nearly $3,000,000,000 in government securities at this time would be justified, then there is not much cause for thinking that the Eastern bankers really believe that the credit structure of the United States is facing any immediate jeopardy.

According to The Associated Press, the offerings in the amount of nearly $1,000,000,000 drew about three times that sum in the form of bids. David Lawrence, who has been quite excited over the amount of the federal public works fund, should note with considerable care that the $3,300,000 of that fund was pretty nearly matched by the sum made available to the treasury in this December refinancing. In other words, Mr. Lawrence perhaps will now be compelled to admit that the magnitude of the public works money is hardly any greater than the magnitude of the public confidence which has just been recorded for the benefit of the Roosevelt program.

This remarkable oversubscription of the treasury securities is especially significant by reason of the fact that it has come so close upon the heels of the attacks upon the administration's monetary policies. Evidently the most astute and capable bankers of the East are perfectly willing to risk their reputations upon the value and soundness of what Al Smith so picturesquely termed "baloney" dollars. They have expressed this willingness in terms of some $3,000,000,000 worth of confidence.

That magnificent fact should still the beating hearts of those who feared that the fiscal stability of the United States might be on the verge of ruin because of slight recessions in a few of the listed securities of the government. These dollars which have been subscribed by the very interests which have been pictured as terribly full of fear as to the future of our federal securities should have a tremendous weight with the country. In this case, it is profoundly true that dollars are speaking louder than words.

Last Summer, when a similar offering of the federal treasury was oversubscribed several times, thoughtful Americans were deeply gratified. President Roosevelt himself did not hesitate to declare that nothing had pleased him so much since his inauguration. In the months which have passed since July, many criticisms have been hurled at the head of the president. The NRA and the gold-buying plan have been used as points of departure for many ringing assertions against the New Deal. Therefore, it may be seen that the current oversubscription of the latest federal securities is even more impressive than was the similar experience of the treasury last Summer.

It is enough to say that the response to the treasury's new $950,000,000 issue reflects a feeling of anxiety over the future of the securities of private corporations, and that the buyers are simply accepting the least hazardous risk available to them. There is no way of escaping the positive evidence that the 20 words with which The Associated Press began its article convey to friends of the New Deal the clearest possible indication that Mr. Roosevelt has retained the confidence of the strong financial interests of the country. — Birmingham News.

Yes --- Build Now!

How would this proposition strike you?

You are given a chance to purchase something you need—something that will be of permanent and increasing value to you and your family—for a fraction of what it will cost within a year or so. And, at the same time, by buying it you will be expediting recovery, putting men to work at good wages in a hundred industries, and stimulating businesses of all kinds in your town.

That's certainly an attractive proposition—and it's not fictional. The investment is construction. Individual home building and repairing is one of the most important factors in the recovery program. And, so far, the construction industry has shown less pickup than any business of comparable size.

During the present winter it will be possible to build well and build cheaply. You can obtain a house for a few thousand dollars that would have cost twice the price four years ago—and probably will again four years hence. The same thing is true of repairs of all kinds—from those rickety steps you've been vaguely meaning to have fixed for months, to that roof which has suddenly developed a leak. And—here is something to think about—one-third of the people on the relief rolls in the larger cities are normally engaged or supported by the construction industry. Sarting home-building on a national scale is all that will bring back their jobs.

Yes—build now! You'll never regret it. Get that bargain in homes that is being offered you—and have the satisfaction of knowing that you're doing your part to prevent privation and want during the coming winter.

What About Others?

Santa Claus is on his way. Eleven more days and his presence will have been felt in many, many homes. Thousands of little girls and boys will have awakened Christmas morning and rushed into the living rooms of their homes to "see what Santa Claus brought." Happy, lucky kids.

But what about others? What about those little tikes who know all about Santa Claus, and believe down deep in their innocent little hearts that he is a bringer of gifts and toys and happiness.

Santa Claus is on his way. Maybe so far as you are concerned his route is already mapped out to take in your home and your children, your friend and your neighbor. But his route is not mapped out to take in the homes where theer are several little girls and boys who are awaiting his visit.

But YOU can change his route and have Santa visit these homes. Not that you are to see after all of them. But pick out two, three or more homes where you know Santa will not visit unless someone fixes it. A few dollars from you will make many a little boy and girl happy.

A little time and a little money from you will save some little girl or boy a broken heart Christmas morning. Play Santa Claus this Christmas. It's worth it. A little fruit, a few toys—a great big smile and happiness.

Mr. And Mrs. Stapp

Dothan and Houston county have become richer this week. Richer not in money, nor necessarily in material things, but richer in the acquiring of two people who carry with them wherever they go, that atmosphere which makes friends, creates goodwill, and does good.

Dothan and Houston county should feel proud, boastful, that they will have Mr. and Mrs. Cohen E. Stapp as residents and will have Mr. Stapp as County Agent.

Chilton County is the loser. We have lost the privilege we have so long enjoyed. That of having Mr. and Mrs. Stapp in our midst.

We dare not attempt to form words into sentences to express our feelings of this loss. We will merely say, we are sincerely sorry that Houston county needed Mr. Stapp, and secured his services. But, if that county did need him, we feel perfectly safe in saying they will not be disappointed in their man.

A Christmas Present For You

This is the time of the year when most of us are thinking intently—and perhaps frantically—about the problem of Christmas gifts. And here's a good suggestion: Give yourself a present to yourself; not for entirely selfish reasons, but in order to help those to whom Christmas this year might be just one more day.

The kind of a gift that will accomplish this purpose is one that provides employment and entails the purchase of basic commodities. And nothing fills the bill more completely than property construction and betterment. Give yourself a new furnace or a roof or an electric kitchen or a garage or some new furniture. Better yet, if it's possible, give yourself a new home—you'll be getting it for next to nothing in comparison to what the best opinion forecasts it will cost in the near future, and you'll be spreading Christmas cheer among numerous families.

Your local contractor or dealer in building materials is competent to advise you. He can show you where you can make real savings—how you can make your dollars do Spartan duty. Talk it over with him. Think how much a wave of construction, even if on an individually small scale, would mean to the social and economic welfare of your community. And give yourself that Christmas present. You'll never regret it.

Seedless Watermelons

Reuben N. Davis, of Nauvoo, Route 1, a successful watermelon grower, has succeeded in growing seedless watermelons, which is not hard to do, he says. Pile some dirt on a vine before the melons come on, he says, and when roots form under the pile of dirt, cut the vine off on the side toward the original root and there will not be any seeds in a melon. That must be done before the melon comes on the vine, says The Jasper Mountain Eagle.

In the year, 1931, Mr. Davis produced and sold $165 worth of watermelons on one acre of land. He didn't grow any for the market in 1932 and 1933 because there wasn't any profit in melons in those years.

About three years ago Mr. Davis grew a 107-pound melon.

We wonder how many people will write to Mr. Davis and ask him for some of the seed from his seedless melons.—Greenville Advocate.

Relief For Agriculture

When Mr. Roosevelt, as a candidate for president a little more than a year ago, promised to do something for the relief of agriculture, the most hopeful could not realize how much that promise was to mean.

If nothing had been done to reduce the cotton crop, the yield this year would have been over 17,000,000 bales. With the immense carryover, cotton would not now be bringing 5 cents, if that much. Alabama's total crop would have brought about $31,000,000.

As it is, Alabama farmers received about $9,000,000 for the cotton they plowed up. They have received in loans under the government loan plan about $20,000,000. They are about to receive $4,500,000 more on cotton taken on option. The 400,000 bales already sold outright at an average price, say, of 9 cents brought in another $18,000,000. A total of approximately $51,000,000 for a crop that might have brought not more than $31,000,000.—Shelby County Reporter (Columbiana).

Unusual Tribute

Credit for the economic and diplomatic accomplishments of the administration of President Franklin D. Roosevelt has been widespread, but the most unusual tribute which has come to the attention of The Daily is that paid by a group of New York churchmen, who have raised a fund in recognition of the efforts of President Roosevelt to "introduce the principles of Christianity into the conduct of American business."

Anonymous donors have contributed $1,250 as the nucleus for the fund which will be administered by the Protestant Episcopal Church of New York City. The money raised will be invested in government bonds and the proceeds used for helping those in distress.—Decatur Daily.

Giving Advice

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., a tee-totaler, is trying to tell us how to sell, tax and use liquor. He probably got his idea from the old maids who give us all the advice about babies.—Slocomb Observer.

Economic Highlights

Happenings That Affect the Dinner Pails, Dividend Checks and Tax Bills of Every Individual. National and International Problems Inseparable From Local Welfare.

What might be termed the "battle of the bottles" got into full swing at Washington during the week before prohibition repeal became an actuality. The fight is between the Federal government and the liquor manufacturers. The distillers came forward with a code of their own making, saw it at once discarded. It was replaced with a code drawn up at the President's suggestion, which gave a very different slant to the picture than manufacturers had hoped. Under it a government corporation would be formed to handle the entire wholesale liquor business. Provisions include:

A Federal Alcohol Control Administration, with czar-like power over the industry, which would rule without liquor representation; complete control over production and distribution thru a quota system; authority to fix and regulate prices; no additions to existing distilling capacity could be built without a certificate of necessity from the Administration; an agreement with the Secretary of Agriculture to pay "partiy" prices, fixed by him, for raw materials used in distilling.

The liquor industry had anticipated some sort of Federal control, but they had not thought it would be so relentless as this. Particularly distasteful to them was the provision concerning plant additions—practically every major distiller is in the midst of expansion. Plants are partly finished, which may have to be scrapped if the code goes into effect. Their protests found small sympathy at Washington; it was intimated in some quarters that if they didn't like it they were liable to be met with a plan for a gigantic Federal sales system.

In the meantime, the states have been rushing plans to control sales within their borders. Influence of the Rockefeller report is seen in many bills; there is strong sentiment in favor of eliminating private profit so far as the sales end is concerned. Bulk of states which have definitely passed laws allow sales of beer and wine in restaurants and hotel dining rooms; about half allow all drinks to be sold in this manner. Minors and known drunkards are forbidden to buy or to be sold to. Drug, grocery stores and hotels and restaurants will be allowed to sell in bulk for the most part. Montana will operate its own liquor stores, and Oregon probably will do likewise. Nevada will permit local control; Reno will have the old-time saloon without closing hours. Most of the states have yet to make definite regulations, but this indicates the trend of thought on the matter.

Cost of liquor is a burning subject. The hope is expressed that it will be possible to sell legal whiskey and gin, of fair quality, for $1.50 or $2.00 a quart within a short time. If prices are much higher than this, it is believed that the bootlegger and the speakeasy will have little trouble in keeping their trade.

Director of the Budget Lewis doesn't often appear in the headlines. But no man knows so much about government income and outgo; none is so well qualified to speak on the financial state of the nation.

The other day he did speak, and it wasn't very cheery. In the fiscal year 1934, he forecast, the national debt will be substantially increased, because of the Public Works bill, the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, and similar new bodies. He didn't say how much the deficit would be, observed that he couldn't until certain governmental policies had become better defined.

The brighter side of taxation came out when he talked about 1935. He said that if industry is ten per cent recovered by then, 1935 income would be close to a billion in excess of expenses, barring additional extraordinary expenditures. General Johnson recently said that business was 25 per cent improved.

* * *

The business indicators, which have been showing a gradual let-down from the summer peak, are looking somewhat better. Most recent reports show: Coal production up. Heavy Construction contracts more than doubled in recent week. Lumber orders for a recent week were the heaviest since May, 1930. Steel production, after a long period of downward tendencies, showed an up flare, but is well below summer average. Commodity Prices are continuing their steady advance. Business Failures at a low point.

* * *

The wave of commodity buying, which followed the first flush of excitement over the NRA, has weakened, and retail outlets find business slower, with strong consumer opposition to higher prices. The volume of Christmas buying, on which reports will be available after the first of the year, will be an excellent indication of just how far recovery has advanced so far as the average citizen is concerned.

THE GOVERNOR

Editor, Chilton County News:

'I see Mr. Bibb Graves has recently been in town doing a little early campaigning. I guess he realized the fact that it is going to take a lot of early and late campaigning to give him a shadow of a chance to occupy the Governor's chair again. He is attempting to rise into office on the old worn out platform of education that every political aspirant of the state for the last twenty-five years has attempted to use. The people have been fooled so much with political promises for education that it has become a joke. We do not need to accept any political promises of Bibb Graves'. We have his record and that is sufficient. He tells you he paid the school teachers and will pay them again. Who is responsible for the teachers plight today, but Bibb Graves? He started this state on the road to bankruptcy and Miller has only finished it. He was at the head of our state during four years of the most prosperous times we have ever known and with the largest amount of taxes ever collected for the length of time, yet he created a $10,000,000.00 deficit, and that is the reason our teachers have seen so many payless pay-days. I can not believe many teachers will be fooled by his educational promises.

Now as to his lower tax promises, how can he convince us of his sincerity there when his last administration has gone down in history as the most extravagant one in the past?

Now he says he is in favor of making the convicts work. Now we can not believe that in the face of the fact that he tuned them out aborut as fast as the courts sent them there. If he were to promise us to save us a lot of money from the convict department I might believe him, as he could turn a few more out than he did before and close up the penitentiary for lack of inmates. When a political aspirant comes to us the second time for a place there is no need for him to make a lot of promises and it is a reflection upon our intelligence for him to assume that we will listen to his promises instead of looking at his record.

Now I was about to close without making reference to certain kinds of promises which are an exception to Mr. Graves' other promises. We feel sure Mr. Graves will keep his political promises to his friends. Of course the record will show that he did that before.

Another thing I was about to forget to tell you. He started the illegal practice of diverting school funds to the convict and road departments and that is one of the direct causes of our school troubles today. Our school funds were used for other purposes in violation of the law.

Here's hoping that we have some good man come out for Governor, who we can feel sure will be for economy at every turn and who will be able to redeem the credit of our state.

P. H. KNOX.

"BANKERS CODE"

In keeping with the spirit as well as the letter of the National recovery program, the East Central Alabama Clearing House Association, in compliance with the bankers N.R.A. Code, has adopted the following "Schedule of Service Charges."

1. Checking Accounts. (An active checking account shall be deemed to be an account against which one or more checks have been drawn within the month). Active checking accounts, the minimum balance of which falls below $50.00 during the month and against which more than 3 checks have been drawn within the month, shall be assessed a service charge of 50c, provided that not more than 5 checks have been drawn against such an account during the month. If more than 5 checks have been drawn against such an account during the month an additional charge of 3c each shall be made for all checks in excess of 5.

On accounts of average balances of $50.00 and over, one check will be allowed for each $10.00 of average balance during the month and a charge of 3c each will be made against all checks in excess of this amount.

2. Maintenance Charge. On all checking accounts, the average balances of which have been less than $25.00 for a period of 3 years preceding the charge and against which no service charge has been assessed by reason of inactivity or otherwise, shall be assessed a maintenance charge of 25c per month until the balance of such an account shall have been built up to $25.00 or more or, by reason of activity, said account shall come under the regular service charge.

3. Individuals, who are not customers of the bank, shall be assessed an exchange fee for cashing out-of-town checks of 15c per $100.00, with a minimum charge of 10c.

4. For all exchange checks, drafts, cashier's checks, etc., issued by the bank, there shall be a charge of 12½c per $100.00, with a minimum charge of 12c. This charge shall apply to customers and non-customers alike.

5. Travelers checks are to be charged for at the rate of 75c per $100.00 plus government tax, with a minimum charge of 40c plus tax.

6. There shall be a charge of 25c per $100.00, with a minimum charge of 12c, on all checks left for collection. This charge shall apply to customers or non-customers.

7. For all transactions executed specifically for non-customers or customers requiring special postage, registration fees, insurance charges, etc., all such costs shall be paid by the customer or non-customer.

8. Extra supplies for customers, such as endorsement stamps, special checks, overprinting of checks, ink pads, etc., shall be paid for by the customers at actual cost.

9. For every check returned through the mails on account of insufficient funds, the account against which the check was drawn shall be assessed with a charge of 25c for each such check.

10. The practice of overdrawing one's account shall not be permitted within the association.

11. All banks shall make a charge of 25c for making credit reports, except in the case of reports made for other banks.

12. Each bank may make a charge on notes allowed to run overdue without attention by the maker of 25c for the first overdue notice and 5c for each additional notice, plus the accrued interest on the note.

13. It is understood that the above service charge shall be considered the minimum that may be imposed by any member of this association and that any member so desiring may install a higher schedule of charges that it may choose, not in conflict with the spirit of the code.

14. The above "Schedule of Service Charges" to become effective December 1st, 1933. (Chilton County Banks, January 1, 1934).

INTEREST ON SAVINGS DEPOSITS

The rate of interest within the association on all savings deposits shall be at the rate of 3% per annum, payable January 1st and July 1st. The interest rate on Certificates of Deposit shall not be in excess of 3% per annum.

In compliance with a ruling of the Federal Reserve Board, based on the Banking Act of 1933, deposits on Savings Accounts made after the 1st day of the month will bear interest from the 1st day of the following month. All withdrawals during the interest periods will be deducted from the last deposit or deposits. Pass books shall accompany all withdrawals and deposits. No interest will be paid on deposits made and withdrawn within the interest period.

The above "Schedule of Service Charges" is subject to change by the Bankers N R.A. Code Committee.

H. B. Oliver Gives Masons Property

To The Worshipful Master, Wardens and Brethren of Verbena Lodge A. F. & A. M. No. 754.

Whereas, our most worthy and esteemed brother, Hiram Bentley Oliver, being moved by the noblest impulses with which mankind is endowed, has seen fit to confer a most needed and valuable benefit upon our Fraternity and likewise, upon our community, in that he has donated a permanent home and has made it the property of this Lodge by deed of gift, to-wit: the building and grounds upon which it stands and,

Whereas, we feel that we can not do less than to endeavor to show our appreciation by appropriate expression of our thanks and gratitude to him,

THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED:

First, that we thank him from the depth of our hearts and that we enjoin our brethren to endeavor to emulate the spirit he has so graciously manifested and thereby show to him and to the world that we, too, nurture and cherish a like spirit of brotherly love and that we, henceforth, make greater efforts to walk and act in a manner to demonstrate this spirit.

Second, that this resolution be read in open Lodge and a copy hereof be spread upon our minutes and a copy furnished our esteemed benefactor.

Respectfully submitted,
—R. L. Duffey, Q. C. Meroney, J. C. Pattillo, Committee.

ISABELLA 4-H CLUB

On Friday, December 8, the members of Isabella 4-H club held their regular meeting, with Miss Ruth Pardue in the Home Economics Department.

Our enrollment has increased greatly since the organization in October. We now have fifty-two members.

Since clothing is the phase of work we are now taking up, each girl has selected the garment that she will make.

By the next meeting, which will be on the first Thursday in January, each member is supposed to have her material and equipped sewing-box, which is required for the making of her garment, she has chosen to make.

The club is divided into four groups, and each group will make different garments.

News from Thorsby

Miss EDITH JOHNSON, Correspondent

A well known resident of Thorsby, Mr. John Henry Goddard, passed away last Sunday night at eleven o'clock, December 10, at hi shome after about a week's illness. A short time ago he was seriously ill, but recovered to the surprise of the community, and was able to walk around.

Mr. Goddard was born in Meigs County, Ohio, August 10, 1844, and died at the age of 89 years and four months, but leaves such a record behind him that will make him remembered by all for years to come. He served three and a half years in the Civil War. Twenty-seven years ago he and his wife moved to Alabama and sixteen years ago, they moved to Thorsby.

Those who survive him are his wife, two brothers, one son, nine grandchildren, eleven great-grandchildren and one great-great-grandson. Mr. Goddard belonged to the Masonic Lodge. For years he has been an active supporter of Thorsby Institute Board of Trustees and he has been a faithful member of the Congregational church.

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock at the Congregational church with Rev. J. E. Each in charge, assisted by Rev. J. W. Jones and Rev. E. W. Butler. Interment was made in the City cemetery, Martin & Sons of Clanton in charge.

Thursday, December 21, school closes for the Christmas vacation. It will reopen at 8:30 Wednesday, January 3.

On Tuesday morning at ten o'clock the Seniors planted their class tree on the campus in front of Helen Jenkins Hall. Each senior read a poem or verse concerning a tree or gave a talk when their turn came to put a shovel of soil around the tree. The class presented the school with a shovel to be used by the graduating class of each year in planting a tree. They suggested that the colors of the succeeding graduating classes be put on the spade.

Christmas for Mother and Dad

by Mary Jane Haller

"I DON'T know what's gotten into the children," said Mrs. Coles, "but they have cooked up some new scheme about Christmas."

Mr. Coles remarked, a trifle grumpily, that he hoped it wasn't an expensive scheme.

"No, something quite different. Such bustling and whispering I've never heard. They've been scurrying around like mice in the garret."

"Well, what about our starting to trim the tree and getting their stuff ready?"

"They say they don't want us to do a thing; not a thing."

"But here it is nine o'clock already! We'll be late if we don't begin soon, and you know how it is every Christmas Eve—all worn out before we've finished."

"Hush!" Mrs. Coles whispered. A boy stood in the living room door. He was very solemn. "Will Mr. and Mrs. Coles please come at once to the study?" he asked.

The older couple exchanged puzzled glances and followed; and when the study door was flung open with a great flourish, they both gave a cry of wonder. There on the desk stood a small tree hung with garlands of silver. Icicles dripped from the tips; gifts wrapped in bright papers were thick among the boughs. If the tree were slightly tipsy, if it seemed ready to tumble over at a breath, Mr. and Mrs. Coles were too surprised to notice it.

"For you . . . all for you!" shouted several voices. At once a pudgy Santa stepped out of the closet. In a deep voice he asked the guests to be seated. "I've come all the way from the North Pole tonight especially to give you a pleasant treat." Here he was interrupted by another voice which shouted, "We thought it was time fathers and mothers had a tree instead of the children. We've done it all ourselves; every bit."

"Please be quiet," rumbled Santa severely. Then he stepped to the tree, and reading the names on the packages, passed them ceremoniously to Mr. and Mrs. Coles. There wasn't a present for a child—not one.

"We wanted you to have all the Christmas this year. We told Santa (suppressed giggles) not to dare to bring us a thing. It's your Christmas from us. The children to their parents."

"Well, well, I must admit . . ." Mr. Coles blew his nose, more touched than he cared to reveal. Mrs. Coles frankly and happily wiped away a tear.

"We heard you say last night how tired you got trimming the tree, and doing things after we went to bed . . . so we decided to do the work and the giving. Isn't the tree perfectly beau-u-utiful?"

Both Mr. and Mrs. Coles declared several times it was the very best Christmas they remembered in all their lives. Afterwards Santa was roundly kissed and hugged.

"A very, very pleasant surprise," Mr. Coles kept saying. His wife beamed.

Christmas Presents for Millie

by Bertha Strother

"IT MUST be a little lonely for you here," said Mrs. Carter to Millie, who was cutting up raisins in a bowl.

"Oh, no, I like it."

"But you know so few people; even we are strangers to you. You've come from so far to help me, and it worries me. I want you to be happy and contented with us."

Millie flung her cloud of dark curls over her shoulder. "Worries you, Mrs. Carter?" She was round-eyed with astonishment. "I wouldn't know how to start worrying! I like it here, fine."

Mrs. Carter felt gently rebuked. That night she mentioned Millie to her husband. "Here she is, Charles; eighteen years old, no father, no mother, no money, no home, but where the State Commission chooses to send her, and she says, Charles, she wouldn't even know how to start worrying. Isn't it pathetic?"

"I don't see how it's in the least pathetic," said her husband briskly. "I think it's darn good philosophy. She doesn't use up her energy wondering what will happen to her; she works hard, looks forward, never backward, and always manages to squeeze fun out of the smallest things. I say, hooray for Millie!"

Her Basket Bulged and She Could Scarcely Speak.

"But it's Christmas time, Charles. We can give her so little; she needs so much. It worries me."

"There you go again, doing the very thing she doesn't even know about. Give her what you can and be sure she'll take it with gratitude and joy."

Millie fairly sparkled on Christmas Eve. She had baked bread and pudding and made three pies. She had scoured the house until it shone. She had even helped Mrs. Carter to wrap up gifts for the neighborhood. "Do let me take them. It's fun," she begged. "I love seeing how happy people are in their houses."

So Millie started out with a large basketful of gifts. "Poor little girl," sighed Mrs. Carter. "Everything for other people; none for herself."

At nine o'clock Millie was home again, cheeks red, hair blowing, looking, as Mr. Carter said, like one grand big time all by herself. Her basket bulged and she could scarcely speak for excitement. "Oh, Mrs. Carter, there must be some mistake . . . but everywhere I went they gave me a present . . . all these . . . I don't understand!" She appealed to her mistress to come look for herself. On every package was "For Millie."

"You see," explained a friend next day, "we simply could not resist giving her something. She looked so happy when she brought the things . . . we couldn't help ourselves, and I judge every one else felt the same way."

"Tut-tut for all your worry!" grinned Mr. Carter when informed of the miracle.

Begin Taking Cardui Today If You Suffer Like This Lady Did

"WHEN I was a girl, I began taking Cardui," writes Mrs. Maggie Stanfield, of Crandall, Ga. "I was very irregular for twelve months. Nothing did me very much good until my mother began to give me this medicine. Then I got all right, stout and well.

"After I was married, I was in bad health. I began taking Cardui again. I was troubled with my back a lot. Was awfully restless. I could not sleep well. I just weighed 90 pounds when I began taking Cardui. I improved rapidly. Before long I weighed 126 pounds. I felt fine. I was able to do a good day's work."

Cardui is sold by druggists here.

"Honesty is the best policy." This is an old saying, but it is a good one to shape your life by. If you live an honest life, people will never suspect you, and in times of theft, you will always be above suspicion.

This funny poem was written by a Sixth Grade boy:

My Bought Cat

One day in town I bought a cat,
He kicked, bit and scratched, 'till I told him scat.
He went away and never came back
Because I carried him away in a sack.
I saw him yesterday on the street.
He looked clean, pretty and very neat.
I followed him and found where he stayed,
'Twas in an underbrush house he'd made.
I went home then, but he followed me.
He went to my house just so he could see
If I had another cat as smart as he.
So they could travel away and happy be.
I called him near me and told him to stay,
He would not come, nor would he obey.
Finding no cat, away he went
On the trail that formerly he'd been sent.
Away he went into the deep wood.
I'd like to go with him if I possibly could,
But, no, I couldn't, I had to stay,
Because mother had scolded and sent him away.

—Starr Kenneth Thompson.

Christmas

Christmas comes only once a year,
Bringing glad tidings and good cheer.
Now, when from school we romp and play,
Our thoughts are all of Christmas Day.
When Santa comes into the house that night,
All the children are very quiet
Till baby sis begins to cry,
When she sees Santa's big bright eye.
We all pretend we're sound asleep,
By my, oh, my! how we do peep!
For a single glimpse of the wonderful toys
That Santa brings for our Christmas joys.
The clock strikes four in the early morn,
But look! Mother is holding the door.
"Wait," she says, "till all are ready,
For Santa said 'Wait for baby Betty."
At last we rush to see the toys,
Such laughing and romping for Christmas joys!
Even Mother and Dad laugh at the sight
Of the group of children so glad and bright.

4-H Club Boys Praise C. E. Stapp

The 4-H Club boys are sorry to hear that our leader and adviser who organized the 4-H Club in Chilton County, Mr. C. E. Stapp, is leaving us.

I can say for all the boys that we have enjoyed working with Mr. Stapp. He has shown us a good time on club camps, club rallies, and picnics. We have gained greater farming ability through the club projects we have carried, learned more about keeping records on projects.

Mr. Stapp has got pure-bred cattle started in this county. A number of the club boys have obtained pure-bred calves through Mr. Stapp. A Jersey Calf Club has been organized, and some of the boys in the club have won prizes on judging of cattle, also prizes on having the best calf.

Some pure-bred bulls have been placed in the county by Mr. Stapp. As 4-H Club members we believe that the commissioners of the county will not let the county be without a county agent to advise the farmers of the county. We have learned Mr. Stapp's ways and have learned to love him. If we get a new county agent this task will be to do over. We hope he will carry on the 4-H Club and others as Mr. Stapp has since he has been in the county.

CLIFFORD M. MANNING,
President of Boys 4-H Club.

BILLINGSLEY

The boys from the organization here attended the Royal Ambassador Conclave at Howard College the past week end, who were: Sidney Griffin, J. C. Gipson, Jr., Ralph and Phillip Mills, with their Councillor Mr. B. W. Thompson.

Mr. Bertram King from Holtville spent the week end with his home folks here.

Cecil Allen of Boothton is visiting his mother, Mrs. P. L. Donahoo.

Mesdames J. F. Baxter, C. B. Deramus and Charlie Donahoo spent Monday in Prattville on business.

Messrs. J. C. Hughes, Walter Whatley and Letcher Thompson were visitors in Montgomery Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Mary Lou Wonder has moved to Calera and will reside in the future with her daughter, Mrs. J. W. Simpson.

Please keep in mind the Tom Thumb Wedding which will be held at the high school auditorium Saturday evening. There will also be other features—music and readings. All come.

Baker School News

(Part of this was intended for last week).

The Thanksgiving program was a success last Thursday night. Our attendance was very good.

We noticed quite a number of parents present. This is very encouraging to the teachers. When the parents cooperate with the teachers, it improves the school spirit. We were so glad to have comfortable seats for our audience. The school is indebted to Liberty Hill church for this added convenience. We are very grateful to the church for the benches.

The P.-T. A. had a "call meeting" Tuesday p.m. The purpose of the meeting was to discuss buying a turkey to Don't you now is the time for all goo be sold. The money we get will be used for the benefit of the school. Our school is very anxious to get out of debt. Please cooperate with us and we shall be out of debt when school closes this time.

This Week's News

Last Friday afternoon the Baker boys and girls played the Thomas Jr. boys and girls in a basket ball game on the Baker court. We had two wonderful games. The scores were 24 to 6 in favor of Thomas Jr., girls and 28 to 14 in favor of the Thomas Jr. boys. Next Friday afternoon, December 15th, the Baker boys are going to play the Cooper boys on the Baker court. Come on, boys and girls, and let us boost our team, and try to win.

Announcement: Don't forget this date, December 22, 1933. The Liberty Hill Quartet will give their musical concert at our school. Everybody come and bring someone with you. The admission fee will be a nickel (5c) for the children from the third grade down, and a dime (10c) for everyone else, adults and all.

Our next P.-T. A. meeting will be on Thursday, December 21, 1933. Every member of the P.-T. A. be sure and come if you can, and all who are interested.

New Type Of Farm Credit Available

A new type of farm credit is to be available to Alabama farmers as they begin to pitch their crops for the 1934 season.

This was made clear this week in a meeting here of county farm demonstration agents and officials of the Production Credit Corporation of New Orleans.

The new credit service was made possible by the Farm Credit Act of 1933 under which the Production Credit Corporation was recently organized to serve farmers in Alabama, Mississippi, and Louisiana. The production credit institution is one unit of a new and complete credit system for agriculture which is being set up in each Federal Land Bank district.

Under the program farmers are to borrow money for crop and livestock production purposes through local cooperative production credit associations to be organized to serve areas where they are wanted and needed before February 1, 1935.

Borrowers will give a first mortgage on their crop and personal property as security for loans and it is indicated that full and adequate security will be necessary.

Speakers at the meeting here included Dr. L. N. Duncan, director of the extension service of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Jesse B. Hearin, former Alabamian, who is president of the New Orleans Credit Corporation and others.

Director Duncan stated that extension servce workers, especially county agents will assist farmers in an educational way in setting-up and operating the cooperative credit associations.

Charles Zerlinck of Chicago had 10 men arrested and fined for getting him drunk and cutting off his mustache.

To any one caring to pull them, Don Irving, farmer, of near Chambersburg, Ill., has offered free turnips.

Mrs. Mary L. Witgen o fChicago has reached her one hundreth birthday anniversary but hasn't any rules about how to live long.

Brief Rural Topics

Erosion from land planted in corn is 1,000 times greater than erosion from land, of similar slope, in pasture.

"Fewer planted acres to cotton should mean that we will have more food in pantries, smokehouses, and on tables. It should also mean that livestock will be better fed, and that we will give more attention to enriching our land."—Dr. L. N. Duncan.

Now is the time to terrace. A little later will be too late, because it will be time to start a crop and, in addition, much of the farm that should have been terraced will be in the Gulf of Mexico

Reduction of cotton acreage in Alabama should naturally lead to the production of more livestock and livestock products for home use by planting the adjusted acres to pasture, legume hays, and other necessary livestock feed, said F. W. Burns, extension animal husbandman, Auburn.

The raising of mules for sale should prove profitable to the general farmer who is a good judge of stock and understands their care and management, said Dr. R. S. Sugg, extension animal husbandman, Auburn.

IN MEMORY OF BARNEY PATTERSON

The lonely voice of evening
In silence still rings on,
The dear friend we shall remember
Is gone — forever gone.
The friend we'll miss
Has left the old homestead,
He's gone to dwell in safety
With loved ones on ahead.
Life's evening time is blending,
The shadows come and go,
And restless thus life floweth—
We wander to and fro.
When the weary days are over,
And the sun is sinking in the west,
Do not worry, father, mother, brother or sister,
For we know Barney is at rest.
Then again at sunny noon time
Comes a word of pure delight
From across Jordan River,
And it seems he's most in sight
Pray tell me why this life is lonely,
Why do friends once more forsake,
Why do shadows fill our pathway
That golden sunlight ought to break?

Everything seems to be moving along nicely around here these days. Sunday school and B. Y. P. U. are very good.

There are a few who are not enjoying health so very well. Mr. Zellus Woodley is very feeble. Mrs. Sam Woodley is back at home very much improved. Mrs. Jim Miskelley is on the sick list. Mrs. Herney Hodgens is real feeble. We hope for them all a speedy recovery. May God bless them.

Misses Dulcie and Delia Champion spent last Friday with Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Champion of Pate's Chapel community.

Mr. Major Foshee has moved back into our community. We welcome them back. They had as their guests Sunday Mr. Will Clements family, Mrs. Jimmie Franklin and children and Mrs. Isaac Waldrop and little daughter, Emma Gene.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Marcus and little son, Aldene, are spending a while with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Wright.

Mrs. Tom Childress spent Sunday in Thorsby with her sisters, Mrs. Carl Dawson.

Mr. Frank Davenport spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Enoch Davenport.

Misses Dulcie and Delia Champion spent a while with Mrs. Jim Miskelley Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Algie Compton had as her guest last week her brother, Mr. Lucas, of Enon community.

Dalton and Sanders Champion and Willard Franklin spent Sunday afternoon with Maurice Wright.

Mrs. Roxie Price, her sister, Mrs. Susan Mullins, son Grover, and daughters motored to Clanton Saturday; also Mr. and Mrs. Emmet Miskelley and Mrs. T. P. Franklin went to Clanton Saturday.

Elery Hansen of Lay Dam Has Uncanny Ability In Making Furniture, Buttons, Etc.

Elery L. Hansen

With a workshop that would delight any mechanically inclined youth, and fulfill the dreams of many boys or even grown-ups, with an inclination to "build something" or to "make something," Elery L. Hansen of Lay Dam has as a hobby the making of furniture from the smallest and simplest table to the most delicately carved radio cabinet.

A visit to Mr. Hansen's home and the privilege of having him show you his workshop out in his yard, is in itself a treat. But, when he points out the various types of saw, trimmers and other gadgets he has in the shop, and casually remarks, "I made that piece of machinery, myself," you will find yourself dumfounded. But it is true, Mr. Hansen has even made the machines which he uses. They are not crude, nor do they look as if they were made from scraps, but will give one the impression that they came right from the factory.

But let us tell you something of Mr. Hansen and his charming home, before we go into his uncanny ability to make things as a hobby.

Mr. Hansen is an employee of the Alabama Power Co., having resided at Lay Dam for several years and has a most charming young wife and home. He doesn't look like an electrician. He doesn't look like a carpenter nor a cabinet-maker. He is a very likable young fellow with good ideas which he carries out.

After you visit his workshop, which is in his yard, and find yourself amazed at his ability there, you will be still more amazed when you step into his home and find there beautiful tables in the living room. Of course you casually remark to yourself that he and Mrs. Hansen have good taste in furniture. But just inquire about it and you will learn that at odd times Mr. Hansen made those beautiful tables, photo frames, clock cabinet, bed room suite, radio cabinet, candle sticks and other items that make his home attractive, using his own ideas for patterns and designs.

Mr. Hansen says he does this work as a hobby during hours he is not busy at his regular job, and undoubtedly the news of his work has spread because he might casually mention a job he has done for this person or that person, and he does not confine it to making odds and ends or duplicating furniture, he even makes large wooden buttons for ladies wearing apparel, the new button idea in styles.

To him, it seems to be a small matter to step into his workshop and return with a beautiful table, but to anyone visiting his home and seeing these things, it is truly amazing.

WHAT NEGROES ARE DOING

By Benjamin Anderson
Teacher of Vocational Agriculture
Chilton County Training School

Big Rally Coming

When I came to Chilton county a school debt of three hundred and seventy-five dollars was inherited. I thought that this was only a small amount and that it would be easily paid in about twelve months. But Lady Luck, in the form of the depression, has dealt ingratefully with everybody since that time and it has been all that we could do to keep the interest paid up. To this time one hundred and fifty dollars, including interest and principal has been paid. The interest has recently been paid to February 25th at which time the balance of two hundred eighty dollars will be due.

Special efforts are being put forth to raise this entire sum. It can be done, if we will to do it. The trustees are asking every person in Chilton county to give one dollar at some time in the near future, representatives of the school will be calling upon you to do your part toward making this a success. Help put this job over.

Trip To Tuskegee

A group of farmers of Chilton county accompanied the teacher of agriculture to the forty-third annual Negro Farmers' Conference held at Tuskegee, December 3rd. More than four thousand men from all of the Southern states gathered at the confab. Upon their return many of them are working new plans in an effort to do some of those splendid things suggested to them at Tuskegee. It would be well for more of our people to attend these annual conferences, for it leads to better farms, better homes, better communities, better churches, and a better country in which to live.

These New Jobs

It's a fine thing to have a job, folks, but I want you farmers to be mighty careful. Do you know that lots of our folks lost their crops on the road working? Don't abandon your farm for the CWA. It's simply here for a season. Don't sign up just cause you can. If there is any way out without signing up, don't do it. Stay at home. Cut wood for the summer, repair those broken tools, repair that pasture fence, so your stock won't disturb your neighbor as they did last year; clean up that old bottom land and cut a ditch there to drain the water, break that land that isn't so bad about washing; fix up your gardens and get ready for early Spring gardens; fix that leak in the barn; make shelter for your stock; build a chicken house, terrace your land and stop those big washes that worried you so much during the summer, and you can't find time to sign up with the CWA.

NEW COTTON CONTRACT LEADS TO ADJUSTMENT

Cotton growers of Alabama and the South are studying the new acreage reduction contracts, which provide for reducing the 1934 and 1935 crops and continuing the fight to lower the burdensome cotton surplus. The sign-up campaign will be started at an early date.

Rental payments, based on the productivity of the acres rented to the Secretary of Agriculture under the contract, and parity payments of not less than one cent per pound on their farm allotments will be made to growers who take part in the program. The rate of rental for each acre will be 3½ cents per pound on the average yield of lint cotton per acre for the farm during the base period, 1928-32, with a maximum of $18 per acre.

The parity payments of "not less than one cent per pound" will be paid on the individual "farm allotment," which is 40 per cent of the average annual cotton production for the farm during the base period.

Producers who sign the contracts will agree to reduce the acreage they plant to cotton in 1934 to at least 35 per cent and to not more than 45 per cent under the base acreage. The retired or rented acres must represent, in productivity, a fair average of the cotton land on the farm.

The rental payments provided under the contract will be made in two equal installments, the first between March 1 and pril 30, 1934; and the second between August 1 and September 30, 1934, and Jan. 1, 1935. The program will be administered under the direction of the agricultural extension forces in the cotton states, each county agricultural agent being the representative of the Secretary of agriculture in his county.

DECEMBER 1 COTTON REPORT FOR STATE OF ALABAMA

Alabama produced this year 980,000 bales of cotton, compared with 947,000 last year, and 1,415.000 in 1931.

The yield per acre this year was 194 pounds, compared with 150 last year and a ten year average of 172 pounds.

There were planted to cotton this year 3,246,000 acres, of which 25½% was plowed up and abandoned, leaving 2,417,000 acres harvested. The abandonment amounted to about one-half of one per cent, leaving 25 per cent plowed up.

Without the plow up of acreage Alabama would have produced in the neighborhood of 1,300,000 bales.

There were ginned in Alabama, to December 1, 941,000 running bales, leaving about 32,000 bales of 500 pounds weight yet to be ginned.

The United States crop is estimated at 13,177,000 bales, compared with 13,002,000 last year. The average yield this year is 209.4 pounds, compared with 173.3 last year. There were planted this year 40,929,000 acres, of which 26.4 per cent was plowed up and abandoned, leaving 30,144,000 acres actually picked. Without any plow up this year there would have been harvested in the neighborhood of eighteen million bales.

CARD OF THANKS

To our many friends who in so many ways expressed their sympathies in the death of our mother, Mrs. F. A. Colley, we wish to express our deepest appreciation.

—The Family.

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA

To the Customers of
Alabama Power Company:

In our last letter, we touched upon the decline in sales of electricity during the depression. You will be interested in the trend of our gross revenues for the past four years, as shown by the following tabulation:

1929	$18,301,845
1930	17,865,473
1931	17,727,713
1932	15,564,976

Three main factors have contributed to a loss in gross income of $2,750,000 in 1932 as compared with 1929. These factors are the loss of 12,500 customers who were compelled to discontinue electric service, reduced use by the remaining customers, and rate reductions.

Our customers generally are not aware that rate reductions since 1929 have effected savings in the cost of the service approximating $1,400,000 each year. Residential and rural customers and other small-volume users, such as cotton gins, have been the chief beneficiaries of these reductions.

While loss of business has made it necessary to operate our plants far below their normal capacity, it has not brought corresponding reductions in our expenses. That is because the cost of operating a large utility system such as ours cannot be reduced below a certain minimum whether the hydro plants are running full time or only part time.

Yours very truly,

President,

A. A. Carmichael For Attorney General

A. A. CARMICHAEL

The announcement of Albert A. Carmichael for the position of Attorney General of Alabama is one of the important political events of the week. Mr. Carmichael has had much experience in legal work and has served the State in the past in many important positions.

He practiced law for 12 years after graduating from the University of Alabama. He was County Solicitor of Geneva County, was State Senator in the Legislature of 1923 and was a member of the Code Commission. For the past three years he has been assistant attorney general, in which position he has handled many of the State's important cases.

Carmichael is an ex-service man, having spent 18 months in service during the World War. He is still a member of the Reserve Corps and is a major in the National Guard. He has taken a prominent part in the work of the American Legion, and has held many official positions in both his local post and in the State Legion organization.

He is a member of the Methodist Church and is connected with many fraternal organizations, including Sigma Nu Fraternity, Knights of Pythias, Elks, and Masons: Blue Lodge, Royal Arch, Knights Templar and Shriner.

Mr. Carmichael's family has played an important part in the life of the State. His maternal grandfather, Dr. O. B. Bowen, practiced medicine in South Alabama for many years. His paternal grandfather, Jesse M. Carmichael, was a Confederate soldier, planter, editor and member of the legislature, and he held the offices of Probate Judge and of Circuit Judge.

Two of his uncles are lawyers. They are A. H. Carmichael, newly elected member of Congress, and Judge Malcolm S. Carmichael, Referee in Bankruptcy at Montgomery.

A. R. JONES SPOKE HERE IN BEHALF OF CANDIDACY

The first political gun of the coming campaign was fired in Clanton Saturday afternoon, when A. R. Jones, of Eclectic, candidate for state superintendent of education, delivered an address in the interest of his candidacy from the steps of the county courthouse.

Declaring that if elected it will be his policy to revolutionize the entire school system, branding the present administration an "educational ring", he avered that he favors the restoration of school control to the hands of local boards of trustees, elected by the patrons of the schools which they serve.

Another of his policies will be a reduction in the costs of textbooks, he said; and the practice of economy by making every school system live within its income.

Following his address in Clanton, he was scheduled to deliver another address in Maplesville Saturday night at 8 o'clock.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our many thanks to our neighbors and friends for their untiring efforts of service during the sickness and death of our dear father, F. W. Johnson, and for the flowers which showed that he had many friends. We want to thank Mr. Daniel and Mr. Boyett of the Spigener Funeral Home for their kindness showed us, and also we wish to thank Dr. Arthur Johnson for his services. May the Lord richly bless each and every one who helped us in any way is our prayer.

C. L. WILKINS AND WIFE.

QUICKER, BETTER RELIEF from use of Black-Draught

"I have taken Black-Draught, off and on when needed, for twenty-five years, for it is easy to take," writes Mr. George T. Wharton, of Petersburg, Va. "I take it for constipation and when I have that dull, tired feeling. I take it for colds and other complaints where a good laxative is needed, and I believe it gives me quicker and better relief than any other medicine I know. It certainly has been a help to me."

P. S.—If you have CHILDREN, give them the new, pleasant-tasting SYRUP of Thedford's Black-Draught.

INK DROPS FROM C. C. H. S.

By Dan Smith

Only eleven days until Christmas, one of the greatest and international holidays of the year. A very few of us know the origin of this sacred holiday. Christmas, the holiday commemorating the birth of Christ, originated in the early centuries of Christianity. At first the date of the celebration varied, but by the fifth century all Christian countries observed Christmas on December 25. The custom of presenting our loved ones with gifts sprang from the historical presentation of gifts to Christ, the babe, by the three wise men. The Yule log, the mistletoe and the holly are all relics of symbols used by the pagan Gauls, Germans and Britons. Now every human throughout this world takes part in some way in the observance of the birth of Christ, our Saviour. This is the reason that there is always a beautiful feeling and spirit of brotherhood in people during the Christmas season.

The members of the Senior Class feel as if they have never spent part of their time any more profitably than they did last Thursday night when they were the guests of the Clanton Kiwanis Club. Every Senior greatly enjoyed the big-brother atmosphere of the meeting, the purpose of which was to bring the youth closer to the experienced and learned men of the walks of life. The club urged that each member of the class have at least one heart to heart talk with some member of the club, on preparing for his life's vocation. We are sure that the speech made by Mr. Joe Lewis, of Selma, head of the Y. M. C. A. there and district governor of the Kiwanis was thoroughly enjoyed. He painted for us a true picture of what is facing us in the next thirty years and told us how we could be prepared to meet the obstacles of life.

It seems that the class enjoyed the magical feats with coins by Dr. O. E. Moseley, also of Selma and a guest of the club.

The Senior One home economics girls under the direction of Miss Bonnie Clyde Griffin were responsible for the delicious and bountiful plate served at the Kiwanis Club last Thursday. Every one had favorable comments to bestow on the manner of serving and on the delicious food.

Many of our boys will receive letters this year for their efforts in football. Those boys receiving letters in football are: Willis Baker, Emanuel Cooper, Carson Eiland, Capt. Jesse Frank Foshee, Jack Gillespie, Osmond Glenn, Carl Jones, Cecil Jones, Joe Moore, Grady Reynolds, Jr., Morgan Reynolds, Sidney Reynolds, D. H. Wilder, U. L. Baker, and James Tiffin. Dan Sanford was voted a letter by the team for his efficient service as manager.

The "C" Club, whose membership is made up of boys who have been awarded letters in athletics, initiated several new members last week. The final rites were performed last Tuesday night at the school house. Different steps in the initiation were carried out last week when the boys appeared at school in dresses, kid costumes and other humorous attire. The boys who have the honor of being made a member of the "C" Club this year are: D. H. Wylder, Melvin Powell, Jack Gillespie, Grady Reynolds, Jr., Osmond Glenn, Carson Eiland, U. L. Baker and Dan Sanford.

Regular basket ball practice began last Monday afternoon with about twenty boys reporting. All prospects point to a successful season for our basket ball team. This will be the first time Coach Searcy has coached a basket ball team here and every student is looking forward to being able to yell for a winning team.

A bulletin board has been hung in the Senior Class room and it is filled with valuable material on Shakespeare, suitable books to read and subjects of interest to English and Democracy classes. New articles will be posted as the term goes on and every Senior should watch this board closely for there is some helpful material on it.

Who am I? * * * * * * * * Am in the Senior High. Some boys think I am good looking and so do some girls. Have black hair. Sorta resemble a movie star. Am a member of the masculine group. Have no sweetheart. Played football. Live in town. Love to fool around with other boys ~~and~~ girls. Drive a car. And was told that I had lots of grit because of a statement I made once.

The Junior One Class has entered into the Christmas spirit already. Holly and other Christmas decorations can be seen adorning the walls of their session room.

Mr. J. T. Searcy, teacher in math and athletic director whose brief biography appears this week is a native Alabamian, having been born at Clayton, Ala. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Searcy. He was educated in the public schools of his home town, graduating from the high school there in 1922. Following this he entered the Troy Normal School at Troy and graduated from there in 1924. The next four years Mr. Searcy spent at the University of Alabama and was awarded his B. S. Degree in education in 1928. Here Mr. Searcy began his playing of football. He played two years of college football, basketball and baseball, therefore he has indeed much valuable experience in athletics. Before coming to C.C.H.S. he taught four years at Sulligent, Ala. Mr. Searcy assumed the duties as athletic director here when Mr. H. T. Walker entered government service at Fort McClellan during the middle of football season. Mr. Searcy has had ten years experience as an athletic coach and by the results of his work with the boys here we are assured that we have among us a real football coach. Besides success as a football coach, Mr Searcy has proven himself worthy of a place on our faculty by his school spirit and work as academic instructor, as well as by his successful coaching.

Just between friends—Wonder why a certain Senior Two stood a certain Senior Three up last Saturday night. * * * Yeah, that's the thing to do, get mad with your girl before Christmas, but make up after Christmas. * * Whats become of our new club? * * * That ship is still in the rival's harbor and the crew landed last Saturday night.

The entire student group is glad to learn that John Ezell will not leave us as his parents have decided to remain in Clanton. It was hoped that John would remain with his class anyway since three boys in that class have been together for the past eleven years, in school, during the vacations and will graduate together this year. John Ezell, Joe Moore, and the writer entered first grade together eleven years ago and have worked together, played together and had fights with each other, and have been close pals during that time. Perhaps there are other groups of students who have been together like this if so please give the writer your names.

Poplar Springs

Last Sunday afternoon, December 10, at 1:30 the singing was called to order by the chairman Mr. W. M. Devaughn, with two songs followed with a prayer by Mr. W. F. Gilliland. The directors were Mr. A. O. Boswell, L. D. Hughes, W. F. Gilliland, O. L. Devaughn, Raymond Gilliland, Floy Devaughn, Dewell Jones, J. B. Crew, Emmett Wilson, Jesse Jones, W. G. Culp, W. M. Devaughn. Several quartets were arranged by Jesse Jones. O. L. Devaughn sang the closing song and J. L. Smith dismissed with prayer.

The representation from Coopers was large, also from Clanton, and a number of other places. We appreciate your interest in helping us and invite you and everybody else back on the 4th Sunday. The class grows bigger and better every Sunday so we are expecting to put it over in a big way next time. We realize that we have some competition on the 4th Sunday, but let's try to divide up equally.

The Junior Three class displayed their poetic ability several weeks ago when they were called on to write a description of Autumn. Below is a poem that was chosen as one of the best submitted:

Autumn

When the harvest's all bee gathered
And the nuts are ripe and brown,
And the leaves are being scattered,
All around us on the ground.
When the earth is heavily carpeted
With the year's vast store of gold,
And the green and red are wedded
To the North Wind strong and bold,
When the leaves dançe in the wind,
As if they were ~~in a~~ tantrum
When our good times first begin,
This is the season called Autumn.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF MR. E. M. JONES "A GREAT LOSS"

On the night of December the 2nd
When things seemed all right,
God took one of our neighborly friends
In the coming of the night.
He is now taken away
But then may we all say with sad memory
We shall all remember
That in December one of our friends was taken home.
His home may now be sad
By the dear loss of their dad,
But God help them to bear
This sad and burdenly care,
And to always remember, that in place of dad, Jesus is there.
Protect this loving family
Through the coming years.
Touch their lonely hearts,
And dry their lonely tears,
Thus we all do hope and pray
On these sad and lonely days.
We shall all miss his gentle step,
And his broad and kindly smile,
Whch we saw day by day.
But this we know
Is a debt we all must pay.

—This poem is dedicated to Mrs. E. M. Jones and family by Miss Frances Smith and Pearl Bennett, "His Little Friends."

Local Young Man Writes On Camp Life

Carrabelle, Fla., Nov. 26, 1933.
Editor, Chilton County News:

I wish to have the following news published in your paper concerning our Civilian Conservation Camp. I am sending you a diagram of our camp life.

Each morning at 5:30 a.m. we are awakened by the sound of a bugle. Everyone starts jumping around trying to find their clothes to meet reveille in. Soon follows the Mess Call. After mess we go to our barracks and make up our bunks. At 8:00 a.m. we start to the forest on trucks. There we stay until 3:00 p.m. and return to the camp. After getting back to camp we use the spare time trying to wash our clothes and doing other little things until supper, which is at 5:30 p.m. After supper we lounge around the camp until taps which come at 9:00 p.m.

The camp life is great down here. We are located right on the Gulf of Mexico. There are many interesting things happening every day which are of interest to us. There are trucks going to town every day. Some of the boys go now and then. Most of the time they stay in camp and have a contest which is known down here as Bull Shooting. We have many experts in this sport. One of the most popular sports is eating. Everyone joins in at the respective time gladly. Our meals are very good. They must be because everyone is getting fat and doing well.

MISS VERA JONES GOES TO WASHINGTON FOR POSITION

Miss Vera Jones left Clanton for Washington this week, where she will take government examinations for a secretarial position in the hopes of securing employment there.

Miss Jones, who has been employed as secretary in the law offices of Percy M. Pitts for the past two years, went to Washington at the instigation of Congressman W. B. Oliver, who was favorably impressed with her work here.

A graduate of the Chilton County High School, Miss Jones is a member of Clanton's popular younger set and is prominently known throughout the county. For some time she has been interested in becoming a court reporter and has almost mastered this difficult art by sheer perseverance within a few months.

Her friends will join the News in wish her every success in her new undertaking, knowing that she is a person who deserves to succeed.

RE-ROOF for all time

DON'T take chances with an old roof when it is so easy to have Careystone applied right over it. Made of asbestos and cement formed into shingle-shaped units, these roofs have all the advantages of slate or tile without the heavy weight, high cost and tendency to crack.

Permanent and Fireproof

Careystone is a permanent roof—first cost is last cost. And it is as fireproof as stone.

Roof Beauty

Careystone is made in five attractive colors. And at no extra cost you can have the "Weather-Age" finish—made only by Carey.

Low Cost...Free Estimate

Careystone costs much less than many roofs which do not approach it in appearance or durability. Let us give you a free estimate on reroofing your home. Call, phone or write.

WARNING

to EXPECTANT MOTHERS

If you have ever been a patient in any hospital, you are probably familiar with the advantages of a liquid laxative.

All doctors know the value of the laxative whose dose can be measured, and whose action can be controlled.

The public, too, is fast returning to the use of liquid laxatives. People have now learned that a properly prepared liquid laxative brings a perfect movement without discomfort at the time, or after. Dr. Caldwell's long experience with mothers and babies, and his remarkable record of nearly three thousand births without the loss of one mother or child, should give anybody complete confidence in any prescription which he wrote!

But most important of all, a gentle liquid laxative does not cause bowel strain to the most delicate system, and this is of the utmost importance to expectant mothers and to every child.

Expectant mothers are urged to try gentle regulation of bowels with Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is a delightful tasting laxative of delightful action, made of fresh herbs, pure pepsin and active senna. Not a single mineral drug to be absorbed by the system, or irritate the kidneys.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is an approved preparation and kept ready for use by all druggists.

FROM CHESTNUT GROVE SCHOOL

We are having a nice Sunday school here. We enjoyed a good sermon here Sunday p.m. by Rev. Cavant of Wilton. We are glad to say we are having a nice B. Y. P. U. at this place. We are glad to see the young people take an interest in good work here.

We are sorry to state that Mr. J. C. Jones' baby is on the sick list.

Mr. Harry Nabors and wife visited his father and mother here Sunday.

We will have an entertainment Friday night, December 15th, at 6 p.m. for the benefit of the school. We will have a Fish Pond, a Box Supper, and a Cake for the prettiest girl. So, boys, you must come and see that the prettiest girl gets the cake, and buy your girls' box, and eat with her. We will have Mr. Luther E. Little to make an address for us at 6 p.m. So don't forget the date, December 15, at 6 p.m.

CENTER HILL

Health is fairly good at this writing We are glad to hear that Mrs. W. N. Thomas is improving.

The people of this community were shocked and grieved early last Thursday morning to hear of the death of little Kagene Childers during the night. She had been sick several days. She was the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernice Childers. Weep not, dear friends, little Kagene was just a beautiful flower budded on earth to bloom in Heaven. Burial was in Mars Hill cemetery Thursday p.m. at 3 o'clock.

Sunday school Sunday was good. Rev. Cost filled his regular appointment here Saturday night and at 11 a.m. Sunday with Rev. J. E. George concluding the 11 o'clock sermon with some wonderful thoughts.

Several from here attended the singing at Providence Sunday afternoon. They reported the singing some better than usual, but not as good as it should have been. If everybody would take hold and do their part,

B. Y. P. U. was good Sunday night, but best of all was the wonderful sermon Sunday night by Rev. Green of Jemison, to a just about full house. There were people from several of the adjoining communities. Come again.

Listen folks, next Sunday night after B. Y. P. U. Rev. Maurice Hodgens of Howard College will preach for us Everybody come that can. He is a Chilton county boy. He attended Jemison High School before entering Howard College. Let's encourage him all we can by our presence at church Sunday night. Would be glad for as many as can of his school mates to come out and hear him.

A wedding of much interest to their many friends was that of Mr. Earl Smitherman and Miss Nellie Cox of Dry Valley last Wednesday night at the home of Mr. B. L. Cobb.

Miss Gladys Moore of Randolph spent last week with Mr. and Mrs. Russell Scott

Miss Lelia George spent the week end with her sister, Mrs. Janie Jackson.

IN MEMORY OF FATHER— J. T. TURNER

Our hearts were saddened and a very serious thought came to us on December 1, 1933, of the death we must meet when God calls us, just as Mr. J. T. Turner did by answering his Lord's call. We want to join him, the angels and Christ in a land where sorrow never comes. With the same farewell unspoken we want to calmly enter into His mansions as Daddy did. We must not weep or wish him back with us because it was the Lord's will for him to leave this earth, but we must strive and work forward to the time when we can meet him.

Among Mr. J. T. Turner's friends six of them acted as pallbearers. They were: Messrs. Emanuel Cooper, Welby Cooper, Johnnie Chambers, Marvin Lowery, Hershal Lowery, and Hiram Littlejohn, all of the Liberty Hill community. All the beautiful flowers indicated the respect of Daddy's many friends. Let us not forget to give flowers on such an occasion, but also remember to give them to our friends while they are living and can enjoy them.

Mr. Turner leaves to mourn his death his wife, Mrs. Lizzie Turner, Clanton, five sons, Robert of Birmingham, Horace of Dallas, Texas, William, Elijah and Johnnie of Clanton; three daughters, Mrs. Zackie Lowery, Gladys and Juanita of Clanton; two brothers, Sam and Lee Turner of Pletcher; three sisters, Mrs. Ed Rainwater of Prattville, Mrs. Jake Williams of Billingsley, and Mrs. Mattie Weldon of Sylacauga; and a host of friends.

The remains were laid to rest in the Liberty Hill cemetery. Rev. J. H. Limbrick of near Billingsley conducted the funeral. The Clanton Quartet and Liberty Hill Choir were in charge of the singing.

Martin & Sons were in charge.

—Written by his daughter, Gladys Turner.

IN MEMORY OF OUR FATHER— MR. J. T. TURNER

Dear Daddy, you have left us and your smiles I see no more. My heart is filled with sadness for no time can heal the sore. More and more each day we miss you. Friends all think the wound has healed—that is our heart concealed. I often sit and think of you, dear Daddy, for memory is the only friend that grief can call its own. He wore the crown of patience through the years; he struggled on and those hands that made his home. Soft and bright the stars are spreading o'er a lonely grave where lies one I love so dearly, whom I tried so hard, but could not save.

—Written by his daughter, Gladys Turner.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank the ones who helped us at the time of the death of our husband and father. He was not sick and did not have to suffer. May the Lord bless and abide with each and everyone of you. Especially do we thank Rev. J. H. Limbrick and the ones who gave flowers.

—Mrs. J. T. Turner and Family.

IN MEMORY OF BARNEY PATTERSON

The death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Patterson, November 28, 1933, about 6:15 o'clock, Tuesday morning and carried away their darling son, Barney. If he had lived till March 14, 1934 he would have been eighteen years old. Barney was a kind and loving friend to everyone he met. He leaves to mourn his going a father, mother, two brothers, one sister and a host of relatives and friends. Funeral services were conducted by Dr. S. J. Ezell at Poplar Springs church Tuesday at 3:30 p.m. Arrangements were in charge of Martin. Pallbearers were J. P. Poole, Cecil and Carlos Bavar, Alton and Odean DeLoach and Quentin Henley.

It was only a few days ago, we can never forget the day, when came the Silent Reaepr, and took our dear Barney away

We shall miss him, Oh! We miss him, for our Saviour called him away. But we are praying to meet him in a better world some day. No more on earth we'll see his face. His voice we'll hear no more, but let us live to meet him on that bright and happy shore.

We all loved you dear Barney, no human tongue can tell. We say Good-bye for a little while, but we don't say Farewell. Oh! How loving, good and jolly, he was every day by day, all the sorrow that he gave us was the day he went away. He's not dead, just sweetly sleeping beneath the cold and silent clay.

Let us all pray to meet him in a better world some day.

—Written by a friend, Mitchlean Scott.

Post Office Exams Are Announced

The United States Civil Service Commission has announced that examinations for post masters at varioun places in Alabama are scheduled.

Among the places named are Thorsby and Columbiana. The dates of examinations were not given, but can be had on application.

To be eligible for the examination, an applicant must be a citizen of the United States, must reside within the delivery of the post office for which the examination is held, must have so resided for at least one year next preceding the date set for close of receipt of applications, must be in good physical condition, and within the prescribed age limits. The competition is open to both men and women.

Under the terms of the Executive order, the Civil Service Commission will certify to the Postmanter General the names of the highest three qualified eligibles, if as many as three are qualified, from which the Postmaster General may select one for nomination by the President. Confirmation by the Senate is the final action.

Applicants will be required to assemble in an examination room for scholastic tests, and will also be rated on their education and business experience and fitness. The Civil Service Commission will make inquiry among representative business and professional men and women of the community concerning the experience, ability, and character of each applicant, and the evidence thus secured will be considered in determining the ratings to be assigned to the applicants.

The Commission states that prenidential postmasters are not in the classified civil service and that it's duties in connection with appointments to such positions are to hold examinations and to certify the results to the Postmaster General. The Commission is not interested in the political, religious, or fraternal affiliations of any applicant.

Full information and application blanks may be obtained at the post office for which the examination is held, or from the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C.

STAPPS LEAVE

county has been served by Mr. Stapp in the capacity of county agent, and in almost every other capacity that tended toward progress. As county welfare superintendent, Mrs. Stapp endeared herself to thousands of citizens in the county in her tireless efforts to relieve distress during one of the most trying periods through which the county has ever passed.

Through the promotion of cover crops Mr. Stapp has enhanced the value of farm lands in this section manifold, it has been estimated. A stranger in 1927—he leaves Chilton county as its most popular citizen after a six-year sojourn. He has done outstanding work with the 4-H club boys of the county, introducing pure-bred cattle, better methods of farm management, etc. He was instrumental in getting the Kiwanis Club organized in Clanton, and has served his community and county in many other capacities.

Rated by Auburn as one of the best county agents in the entire state his organization has grown to be the most powerful in the county. When the information first reached the citizenship of the county that there was a possibility of Stapp leaving, several hundred farmers and business men of the county appeared before the commissioners court, petitioning that body to take action to prevent his departure.

L. A. Callaway Passes Here Following A Lingering Illness At Home

Lucian A. Callaway, 55, Clanton business man and former member of the Chilton County Board of Education, died last Thursday morning at 7:15 o'clock, at his home in Clanton after an illness of long duration.

A native of Chilton county, Mr. Callaway spent his entire life, except seven years when he lived in Florida, in the vicinity of Clanton; and was always closely connected with movements for the betterment of his community.

For 19 years he served as a member of the County Board of Education and was prominently known throughout the county. He was a member of the Clanton Baptist church and for many years had served on the Board of Deacons. Until his health failed he taught a Sunday School class at the Baptist church and was a constant force toward the upbuilding of the church.

The funeral was held Friday morning at 11 o'clock from the Clanton Baptist church, with Dr. S. J. Ezell, pastor, officiating. Following the church services the body was taken to Cooper where interment was in the Chestnut Creek Church cemetery.

Serving as active pallbearers were the following friends and business associates: H. S. Shaw, Jesse Jones, Chester Mims, Grover C. Harris, Sr., J. Watts Moore, D. A. Wingard.

Members of the Board of Deacons of the Baptist church of Clanton and Clanton physicians served as honorary pallbearers. Spigener undertakers were in charge of the burial services.

Surviving Mr. Callaway are his widow, Mrs. Dora Beatrice Callaway; two sons, Dr. Raymond R. Callaway, of Birmingham, and Dr. J. Lamar Callaway, of Durham, N. C.; one brother, Evan B. Callaway, of Navoo, Ala.; three sisters, Mrs. Betty Glenn, Mrs. Grady Harris, and Mrs. Dock Bryant, all of Clanton.

STAPP'S LETTER

L. H. Reynolds, the County Commissioners, the Farm Bureau officials, the 4-H Club boys, the bankers, merchants, the Kiwanis and Pilot Clubs, the teachers, preachers, churches and hundreds of individuals engaged in every walk of life in the county. I wish that I had space and time to mention the names of such men as old brothers Nelson and W. S. Cox, Messrs. L. G. Posey, J. N. Dennis, W. L. Popwell, W. M. Wyatt, H. S. Shaw, F. A. Gulledge, W. M Oden, C. J. Mitchell and such boys as Marvin Durbin, James Dennis, Quenton Kelly, Clyde Popwell (deceased), the Manning boys, and hundreds of other men and boys in this county who have inspired me from time to time to put forth my very best efforts to serve Chilton County.

At the meeting held recently at the Court House when some 150 men, coming from every beat in the county, thru the personal appeal of John Hollis, Sam Ezell, J. M. Culp, J. R. Mullins, W. L. Popwell, J. N. Dennis, B. Lawrence, Earle Thomas, W. M. Wyatt, L. E Diefenderfer, J. C. Page, F. J. Callen, Glenn Sessions, J. R. Robinson, P. M. Pitts, L. H. Reynolds, Marvin Durbin, E. H. Mims and others, and the vote of all, expressed to me their appreciation of my efforts in the county and asked the county Commissioners to raise the appropriation sufficiently to keep me, I could not keep the tears back. It was a great love "feast" and I shall never forget it. They tell me that some people come to Chilton County and leave but that most of them come back to live and die. That may be my course, but I am leaving here to undertake a most difficult but important job. If I am able to put over the program, then wish to return to Chilton County as others have, I trust that you will again receive me.

My successor, Mr. J. W. Fant, is a fine fellow, well-trained for the job here. He is a more highly technically trained man than I am, and I just know that if the people of the county will give him the same loyal cooperation they have given to me that he will be able to put over a much better program of work than I have. I beg that the people of Chilton County give to Mr. Fant their loyal support and cooperation.

Please further allow me to say to all the people of Chilton County that should they have occasion to come to or through Dothan to please take time to look for Mrs. Stapp and me. We will be so glad to see them.

C. E. STAPP,
Ex-County Agent, Chilton County.

WALLACE TO SPEAK

Secretary of Agriculture, for a meeting in the City Auditorium in Birmingham Saturday, December 16, at 1 P. M.

"Secretary Wallace will give a full explanation in his address of the New Deal for our farmers and especially as these plans may pertain to our cotton acreage adjustment for the new year.

"The City Auditorium in Birmingham will seat 6,000 people and we must fill this auditorium on this important occasion. To do less would reflect upon our leadership.

"We have made some careful estimates and have endeavored to make a fair apportionment of the number of farm men and women and other citizens from each county, and Chilton County's quota is 200."

If you cannot attend this important meeting, we will be glad for you to hand this invitation to some other leader in your community who may be able to go.

Yours very truly,
C. E. STAPP, County Agent.

Home Demonstration Agent.

COUNTY AGENT

came to Chilton county in 1927 and is said by Auburn authorities to be one of the best county agents in the entire State. It is estimated that he has saved the county hundreds of thousands of dollars in the promotion of cover crops in the county.

Fant comes highly recommended by Auburn, and by residents of the community where he has served Elmore county as vocational teacher for the past eight and one-half years. He is a graduate of Auburn and since he left school in 1925 has been connected with agricultural education, having served as a vocational teacher, and, too, as assistant county agent for Elmore county.

He was appointed by the commissioners court at a special meeting Saturday morning at the recommendation of Emmett Sizemore, of the Auburn staff. Fant is a native of Blount county.

In leaving Clanton Mr. Stapp urged that the people of the county give the same loyal support and cooperation to Mr. Fant that has always been shown him, declaring that he believes that the program can be continued without interruption.

Mr. Thomas is known for his interest and work in behalf of the young men, as future citizens, in this county. He is credited with having done a great deal to further farming, educational and other worthwhile interests in his community, and has considerable experience contacting the public.

Commenting on his platform, Mr. Thomas made a few statements among them those pertaining to automobile tags which he says should be lower in cost. He stated he believed in a low rate of tax on rural homes.

counties into closer harmony, it was pointed out, by the great reduction in distance. Although a ferry has been maintained at this point for several years much of the traffic between points in Chilton county and points in Coosa county takes the much longer route by-way of Wetumpka instead of making use of the ferry.

This would be rectified by the construction of the bridge, it is believed. Traffic from Selma and points west to Coosa and East Elmore counties would make use of the bridge. Too, freight and mail service would be greatly improved for both counties.

Interest was first aroused in the project when a group of citizens from both counties made investigation and learned that the federal government has appropriated a sum of money for the construction of like projects under the provisions of the PWA program, and it is possible to secure funds for this purpose from this appropriation in the form of a long term loan, with 30 per cent an outright grant.

CHILTON COUNTY POSSIBLE POLITICS

By Victor Norris

No longer can there exist a doubt that a political campaign is on. The day of reckoning is fast approaching. Once ever so often—election day—the average man becomes an important element in our governmental system.

The editorial on the front page of last week's issue of The Union-Banner successfully disposed of doubts concerning many things.

Interested in this editorial entirely from a psychological viewpoint, we enjoyed it immensely. It was beautifully written, and the psychology was almost perfect. That idea of hitching Judge L. H. Reynolds and President Franklin D. Roosevelt in the same team was a gem, but my sympathy went out to the publishers of the Banner—having read some of their sarcastic criticisms of the President and his program; sharing the praise with him must have gone terribly against the grain, but it was good psychology.

But their lack of information almost spoiled the entire effect of the elegy. When they dragged in Coosa county, that let the cat out of the bag. It is a well-known fact that Coosa county received its quota of men, based on population just as was Chilton's, without even asking for it—and has been in a quandary for more than a month trying to figure something for them to do.

So when the whole thing is boiled down, it becomes just an alibi; and like all alibis, it contained a flaw. Dragging in Coosa county made the story just a little too smooth.

Although conceived to help him, there was an element of unfairness to Judge Reynolds throughout the four columns. Rumours that have been going the rounds, charging politics in the CWA, were not directed entirely at Judge Reynolds, as stated by the Banner, but took in considerable territory. Thus the unfairness to the Judge in classifying him as the "hit dog." Allegations were made that the system was becoming "shady", so instead of trying to "justify", we believe the attitude of Judge Reynolds would be, and should be, to investigate and "rectify."

Via the grape vine comes the information that a formal announcement may be expected in January from J. Lee Smith, potential candidate for probate judge. J. R. Hardy, too, is expected to announce his candidacy for the sheriff's office shortly after the Christmas holidays.

A few weeks ago, the commissioners hired a county engineer, based on the impression that a county must have an engineer before it could receive CWA funds. A few days ago, a CWA engineer was sent to Chilton county to supervise CWA work in the county, and the county engineer is left out in the cold.

Thus is exposed another "rabbit foot" which was played on the gullible commissioners. However, as luck would have it, this happened to be a good rabbit foot. The county needed an engineer before the CWA came, and will need one after it has gone—so the commissioners are to be congratulated, as is the perpetrator of the rabbit foot, for employing a much needed county official.

Apparently Chilton county's opportunity to secure an airport was lost, Monday afternoon, when Com. C. D. Duke's motion to purchase the site for the proposed project failed to get a second. Commissioners Cobb and Atchison refused to express themselves in regard to the project, thus losing a chance to get $10,000 to $15,000 from the federal government for improvements, affording work for many skilled workmen—the title to the property to remain in the name of the county.

However, when half of the commissioners belong to the horse-back age, little show of progressiveness can be expected. One big trouble is that Cobb has a little pair of political scales in which he attempts to weigh everything, with idea of re-election paramount. From the gossip on the street-corners, that's already settled—he need not worry further about it.

COUNTY SAYS 'NO' TO AIRPORT FOR CHILTON

Only One Commissioner In Favor Of A Loan Of Small Amount

One of Chilton county's golden opportunities apparently sank into oblivion, Monday afternoon, when the commissioners court through lack of vision failed to take advantage of funds made available by the government for the construction and improvement of municipal and county-owned airports.

Clanton, being strategically located on the proposed air mail route from Nashville to Montgomery, was given preference by aeronautic authorities over several other places that have made application for the funds.

Under the provisions of the grant, the county would only be required to furnish the land and the government would improve it for an airport. The site selected by an airport expert could be bought for $2,300, and the county was assured that the government would expend between $10,000 and $15,000 improving it—and the title would remain in the name of the county, with only one requirement, that the project be used for five years as an airport.

When it was explained to the commissioners at a special meeting Monday by Dr. V. J. Gragg, who has been one

SHORT-TERM CROP LOANS COMING SOON

Organization Is Being Set Up In Alabama To Handle Matter

Short-term production loans will be made available to farmers of Chilton and Coosa counties in time for the next crop season, according to an announcement by Jesse B. Hearin, president of the Production Credit Corporation of New Orleans. Credit facilities will be assured with the preliminary organization within the next few days of the Montgomery Production Credit Association, to serve the counties of Chilton, Coosa, etc.

Alabama is being organized under a plan also affecting Mississippi and Louisiana, the three states comprising the district of the New Orleans corporation. There are 12 such districts throughout the country into which the activities of the Farm Credit Administration are divided, as provided by Congress.

"Within the next few days," Mr. Hearin stated, "the preliminary organization will be completed in Alabama for 10 production credit associations, or retail credit agencies, to be located at Ozark, Montgomery, Auburn, Talladega, Gadsden, Huntsville, Russellville, Tuscaloosa, Demopolis, and Bay Min-

Relief Programs and Politics

(AN EDITORIAL)

The News feels that it cannot pass up the first opportunity this week to say something in regard to the rather well written editorial appearing on the front page of The Union-Banner last week. It was an admirable piece of work of sentence construction and word framing, even though the author or authors, of it took it upon himself or themselves at various times to fling criticisms at the News in an attempt to reply to an editorial appearing in the News of November 30th.

The editorial under discussion which appeared in the News claimed that politics were being thrown into the giving of jobs of the CWA in this county and that certain Republicans were using these CWA funds and jobs to further their personal interests. The Union-Banner's reply last week was to the effect that the News was referring to L. H. Reynolds, even though no persons name was mentioned by the News at all.

It was brought out by the News that these accusations were coming from persons in various parts of the county, and not wholly from the News nor from any particular political party. Which is true.

The Union-Banner assumes that Reynolds is the man who is being accused of this, and they singled him out as the one for the "cap" to fit, and want to make it a "Reynolds issue" instead of the original subject. They say that Reynolds "has taken the lead from the very start in every movement to make possible and available to the people of Chilton County the fullest advantages of the relief and re-employment measures offered to them by the administration of President Roosevelt." The News admires the progressiveness of Reynolds in that respect.

Judge Reynolds is due credit and praise for whatever cooperation he has given the President and state officials in the relief program, and seeing that this county gets what is coming to it. It is not only good politics for him, but it is also his official duty as judge of probate to take advantage of these opportunities offered by a Democratic administration for the relief of the people. He would be criticised if he refused this help.

The News might also mention here, in behalf of Reynolds, that some unjust criticism is being given him in the matter of the selection of certain foreman in the county. We understand that it is charged he is selecting these men and recommending them to the government office. These men are supposed to be selected by the Commissioners Court, of which Reynolds is chairman, and are to be paid by the county, and not with CWA funds. This criticism is unjust. These particular foremen are employed by the county, it is understood.

The idea that the News will withhold credit from Reynolds when he is due credit, is ridiculous. The News is big enough to give credit where credit is due, and will give criticism where criticism is due.

Let us separate two relief measures, the RFC and the CWA funds, which have no connections. The Union-Banner referred to the RFC funds, the first relief funds coming here, and stated that Reynolds took the lead in this county to secure these funds. True, he did, and deserves credit for his quick action and judgment. He is to be congratulated for this. With the aid of several prominent men, such as C. E. Stapp, J. B. Atkinson, Percy M. Pitts, and others, who made several speeches over

LOCAL FUNERAL DIRECTOR GIVEN A HIGH PLACE IN ASSOCIATION

J. MELL MARTIN

J. Mell Martin, popular Clanton funeral director—and head of the Martin & Sons establishment, was recently appointed a member of the committee on legislation of the National Funeral Directors Association. He is one of nine men designated members of this committee to represent the funeral directors of the entire United States.

For many years Mr. Martin has been an outstanding member of his profession, having served as secretary of the State Funeral directors for the past five years, the longest period of time that any man has served in this capacity.

Having been a funeral director for 28 years, Mr. Martin is one of the most popular men in the county. A native of Coosa county, Mr. Martin removed to Clanton 13 years ago and established the firm of Martin & Sons.

He is also a popular leader in civic organizations, a member of the Clanton Kiwanis Club and is past president of this organization, and is at present a member of its board of directors; a member of the Clanton Masonic Lodge, a member of the Clanton Chapter 116 of Royal Masons, and past commander of the Clanton Commandry number 27 of the Knights Templars.

Mr. Martin is a real booster for Clanton and Chilton County, and is always found to be one of the leaders in any progressive movement.

PLAN TO GET GOVERNMENT TO MAKE LOANS

Building Would House The Fire Dept., Offices, Jail And Auditorium

EXTENSION OF WATER MAINS ALSO PLANNED

The probability of the construction of a new two-story brick City Hall for the Town of Clanton seems favorable, according to Mayor J. Lee Smith, who stated this week that plans are underway to make application through the Public Works Administration for a loan of approximately $30,000 for the purpose of constructing a City Hall and extending water mains into sections of the town that have inadequate fire protection.

No architectural plans have been made, but tentative plans of the proposed structure provide for a two-story brick building, outside dimensions of which would be approximately 50 by 65 feet, affording adequate space for all City offices, a court room, jail, fire house, library, and an auditorium with a seating capacity of from 300 to 400 persons.

Plans for the structure are to be drawn and application to the Public Works Administration for funds for its construction filed within the next few days, Mayor Smith stated. If the application is approved, he said, the citizenship of the Town will be given an opportunity to vote for, or against the proposal.

For many years, it was explained, Clanton has been in dire need of a City Hall, having had to rent space for city offices and use the county jail for its prisoners—with a two dollar turnkey fee for every prisoner going to the county. Rents on the several offices used will pay for the proposed building in a period of years, it was stated Although the storage building for the fire equipment is owned by the Town, it is not fire proof and insurance premiums are much higher than they would be on a new and fire proof building

Tentative plans for the structure provide the mayor's office, clerk's office, fire department headquarters, city attorney's office, court room, jail, and fire house on the first floor; the second floor will house a library, an ample waiting room, and an auditorium, which is to be used for the convenience of civic and religious organizations.

Clanton's Merry Xmas Signs

Hats off to somebody for the beautiful and timely electric signs on either end of the paved highway in Clanton saying "Merry Xmas" to all who enter our town.

Investigation disclosed that J. Mell Martin, Clanton's well known funeral director and Leonard Williams, local manager of the Alabama Power Co., are to be given credit for the original idea. Then our city officials joined in with other citizens and the Kiwanis Club. So, Clanton has something that will be the talk of hundreds, even thousands of visitors to our town. Yes, sir, it is splendid work and they'll be up there again next Christmas, we hope.

CHRISTMAS BUSINESS SHOWS BIG INCREASE OVER PAST YEAR

Clanton Merchants Express Themselves As Being Highly Pleased With Pick-Up; Stores Are Offering Many Bargains for Christmas

The spirit of "Peace on earth, goodwill toward men" permeates the world this Christmas. Throughout the land the future seems to hold a star of hope.

Business conditions are better than at any period for many years, signifying better times. Again today in the future is seen a glowing star, a star of hope! The World's population approaches another Christmas and the beginning of a new year with a lighter heart and a firmer tread. Millions of men and women have been given employment; in thousands of homes joy will reign this Christmas — children's faces will be wreathed with happy smiles, and an air of thanksgiving will permeate the world.

Clanton business men are elated over the holiday business, declaring their sales outstrip any record since the business slump in 1929.

With only two days left in which to complete Christmas shopping, Clanton merchants still have a myriad collection of beautiful, useful, and worthwhile articles from which to select your gifts.

DR. BARSON WILL BE HERE TUESDAY INSTEAD OF MOND'Y

Dr. S. A. Barson, optometrist of Montgomery, who fills his regular appointment in Clanton at the Exchange Hotel the last Monday in each month, will be here Tuesday, December 26th, instead of Monday this month.

Dr. Barson makes this change due to Christmas Day falling on Monday, his regular day here. This change is for this month only, and Dr. Barson stated he wished everyone a Merry Christmas.

NEW, COMPLETE GROCERY STORE AND MARKET OPENS IN CLANTON

Wade's Grocery & Market Opens On Main Street With A New Store, Modern Equipment, Large Stock And Experienced Corps Of Workers

Clanton has another new and modern grocery store and meat market. The Wade Grocery & Meat Market opened its doors this week and extends an invitation to everyone in this section to inspect their place of business.

The Wade Grocery & Market, owned by J. Q. Wade and his son, James Wade, is located on main street in the building formerly occupied by Broadhead's Market, across the street from the Southern Seed & Plant Co., and next door to the Alabama Power Co., office.

The building has been given a complete remodeling throughout. New floors, new paint, new shelves, and modern refrigerated show case for meats and vegetables and a new and large ice box for storage. In fact the entire lot of fixtures are new.

Those trading at Wade's will be assured of getting fresh stock also, as the stock of food they have is absolutely new and fresh. They will have efficient delivery service, managed by an efficient corps of clerks and meat cutters.

The Messrs. Wade are widely known throughout this section as operators of the Clanton Ice Company and other ice companies in various towns in the state.

Among those who will make up the personnel of this store are:

Among those who make up the personnel of this new store are, James Wade, manager, Joe VanDerveer and Ira Crowe. James is widely known and liked throughout this section. Joe and Ira are experienced grocery and market men, having been employed in other stors for sometime. It is understood that Mr. Crowe will be in charge of the meat department.

Christmas Day

Although the birth of Christ is the event which is supposed to be celebrated on Christmas, we are more and more inclined, as a recent writer suggests, to celebrate Santa Claus on December 25. Certainly in the minds of most persons the giving and receiving of gifts holds a larger place than the holy event which the day commemorates.

Christmas customs and symbolism are drawn from many sources, some of them of pagan origin. The date, December 25, approximates that of certain ancient festivals which were observed long before the Christian era, such as the Roman Saturnalia, the Scandinavian Yule, the winter festival of the heathen Britons, and later, the Roman festival of the sun-god Mithra. This date was not incorporated in the Christian calendar until about the fourth or fifth century.

The Christmas tree is believed to have been derived from the Egyptian use of a palm branch of 12 shoots to signify the completed year, but its present significance is thought to have originated in Germany. The use of evergreen decorations, particularly mistletoe, has been observed since tht time of the pagan Druids in Britain.

The sending of Christmas gifts may be traced back to ancient Rome. This custom is by no means universal, however, and is unknown in the Holy Land and among Asiatic Christians generally. Children of the Orient have no Santa Claus.

Interpretation of Divine Law

Failure of parents to teach their children the fundamentals of religion was blamed in large part for the lawlessness among American youth, in a recent address by George W. Wickersham, former Attorney General of the United States.

The speaker declared that young people no longer accept blindly what they are told and he is critical of the church as well as parents in placing responsibility for the situation.

What the former attorney general has to say along these lines will be difficult to minimize, the verity of the conclusions being quite obvious.

The gulf between theoretical and practical religion is enormous and too many churches and too many parents have been and are on the wrong side.

It is not enough to say to the young that so and so is prohibited. The young must be shown conclusively that violation of the law proclaimed by the church brings its inevitable penalties.

It must be shown that the rules of human conduct set forth in the Bible are not out-worn fallacies, but are living things that may not be defied without incurring penalties in ketping with the seriousness of the offense.

Moreover, it must be shown that the rules are not harsh but highly beneficient; that the "thou shalt not" is written not for the glory of religion but for the safety of the individual. In brief, divine law must be so translated to youth that it will be understood in its true light—an institution unfailing in its operations but designed for the promotion of all that makes for human happiness.

Tht view that the law proclaimed by the church is onerous must be dispelled and it must be presented in its true light as an instrumentality pointing the way to happiness and the truest form of success. It must be shown as a series of red lights, warning of perils that must be avoided if disaster is not to be encountered, the red lights being accompanied by white lights that show the way to peace and contentment and satisfaction.

In impressing interpretations of this nature, both the parents and the church sustain a great measure of responsibility and the responsibility is not being met as fully as it should be, as the record so clearly demonstrates.

Good Sportsmanship

People who are working part time or who have just recently become unemployed should not be inconsiderate of men in desperate circumstances who have been out of work for years. The CWA organization was originated to help men in distress.

The CWA committees of McComb and Pike county have approved several projects. Every possible effort is being expended to the end that the state organization may authorize these projects to the end that more men may be given employment.

In the meanwhile men who are not desperately in need should not harrass the CWA headquarters for employment until, at least, those people in greatest need are employed. The element of good sportsmanship should be revealed by individuals as wel las government.

Another Progressive Step For Clanton

Progressiveness is simply buzzing in Clanton and Chilton County. First it is swamp draining, a most needed and commendable project, and an airport. Then land beautifying projects. A continuation of the county agent's office and a lot of other steps.

Now our city officials are coming to the front with a pleasant surprise for the people of Clanton. Hats off to them for the idea they have in mind, that of building a city hall and extending the water mains of the town.

We don't know who to give the credit for the original ideas, but Mayor Smith is the first one we have heard tell about it, and while he hasn't let out much information, we can tell by his manner that he is giving these projects some serious consideration, and a lot of his time.

We are certainly pleased to see our city officials studying over these plans, and especially the extension of the city water mains to afford better water service to those already using it, to give the service to others and to afford better fire protection in those parts of town where there are no fire plugs. Yes, this is needed.

Mayor Smith tells us that the town has been laboring to clean up some old debts and believes now that they can afford to take more time and expense of making some progress that everyone can see, and be proud of without having to be told about it.

We hope that while they are thinking over these ideas that they will also give a little thought to the rough streets in the residential sections of Clanton and do a little smoothing here and there, or all over town.

We Are A Considerate People

We are a highly civilized and considerate people in America today. The money and thought spent to decrease infant mortality today is a far cry from the old Spartan policy of destroying all except healthy babies. The tender care and devotion we shower upon the aged and infirm, and the manner in which we take them into our homes with reverence for their gray hair is a long way along the road of progressing civilization from the Bedouin tribes of the Arabian desert who turn the faces of their aged parents toward the open spaces of drifting sand and give them their last marching orders. We shudder with horror when we read how prisoners were chained to the oars of ancient galleys, there to remain until the last breath was spent. We have abolished the fighting of duels. These, and hundreds of other humane customs, born out of our consideration for the other fellow, set us up as a highly civilized people. All of which is highly commendable.

We are thoughtful of other people. We are willing to make sacrifices to help a brother in need. We are graciously courteous with those about us, even in a crowd, we rarely jostle those in our way, but patiently wait until we can pass. All of which is largely true of most of us until we get behind a steering wheel. But then, if the record of those killed and maimed each year in automobile wrecks is true, we are like the knights of old—with our metal armor jingling we step on the gas and fare forth upon the highways to charge into whoever may be in our path.

Yes, we are a considerate people.

Action

We are an impatient people. Stop to think of it the present administration has been in office but nine months and consider the progress made.

Remember the closed banks of the nation? That seems centuries ago.

Remember when first the reforestation idea was mentioned? That was long ago, and the camps are full.

Remember the fight to balance the budget? That was just a few months ago, but so many things have happened, that it seems that years have passed by since the budget fight was on.

Remember when the NRA first started? And the Muscle Shoals decision? And the campaign to reduce cotton and wheat? And the vast Public Works Program? Events are flying by so rapidly that before our eyes we see history made in a condensed form.

President Roosevelt promised only action. And action we have. There is so much action we cannot keep up with what is going on.

Is It To Be Graves Vs. Miller?

It has been pointed out that no man who has held the office of governor since the present constitution was adopted has been able to come back. Comer tried to be elected governor after being out for a term and was defeated. Kilby tried twice to go to the Senate after serving a term as governor and was dtfeated. On the othtr hand every governor, except one, has taken a hand in trying to name his successors and everyone has failed. If Bibb Graves is elected this time he will have to break a precedent. If the administration candidate wins he must break a precedent. So this is bound to be a "record breaking" campaign. Even at this stagt of the campaign it is evident that the administration is certain to back a man that it thinks can defeat the former governor. The fight is going to be between the Miller administration and the Graves administration.

We certainly hope the contest will not be held down to any such narrow and artificial limitations. The people certainly are not going to be whipped into a fever of excitement over the respective merits or demerits of the Graves and Miller administrations. We would be much surprised if the public tempo should be found adoptable to such an outworn tune as that. The people we believe will be ready to rally behind the man, whoever he may be, who points the way to a better and sounder ordering of public life, fairer and juster taxation, constructive policies in the state affairs, and avoidance of the mis-spending of public money. They will give their allegiance and support we believe to a man of good character, sound intelligence and high conscientiousness, provided, of course, he can be found. They certainly are not going to allow themselves to be led down a red herring trail, featured by a recriminatory war between Governor Miller and ex-Governor Graves, and their noisy partisans.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

Many years ago two brothers sat on the floor at eventide and were requested to rmove their shoes. They had spent the day roving the hills and valleys and the strings to their shoes were in hard knots. Each boy started to tugging at the knotted strings. In a few moments the older boy set up a lamentation, "Mother, I can't untie this string." She left him to his task for a few more moments and then he began to fret and cry, "I just can't untie it." The mother stooped beside him and after much effort succeeded in untying the rawhide shoe string. The younger brother never said a word or made a sound, but went to his task with a determination to untie his string. When his mother had completed the untying of his brother's string, she bent over him asking, "Do you want mother to help you?" The youngster never took his eyes off of his string as he replied, "No, Mother, I can untie my own shoe strings." It took him a little longer, but he did it. I have always admired the boy who could untie his own shoe string and untangle his own kite line. Today those two brothers are wide apart in their positions in life and I am wondering if the attitude of those two boys toward a knotted shoe string did not reveal the cause of the wide distance in success in later years. Blessed is the boy who can untie his own shoe string. It learneth him how to untie the other knots of life.

When I was a lad on a farm we had great thrills playing war. In the early summer months when China berries were the right size for elder popguns, the boys of the community would meet and divide into two armies. We would throw up our breast-works and at a given signal the battle would begin. There was a lad in the community who was not specially endowed with mental capacity, or with family standing, but that youngster would go over the breast-works and lead a charge against the enemy with his popgun. We would follow him and would laud him as a hero. He did not have very much to hurl against an enemy, but he led the charge with what he had. Not many of us have more than a popgun in the battle of life, but all of us can lead a charge with what we have. Get into the fray and do your dead level best with what you have to do with.

In one of the Eastern states it was the custom on Sunday morning for the congregation in a certain church to take their coin in hand and walk down to the front and repeat a scripture verse as they dropped it into the collection plate. One member had suffered a stroke of paralysis and could not control his actions or his speech so very well, and when he dropped his coin into the plate he said, "The Lord gave and the Lord is taking it away, Boo-Hoo, Boo-Hoo." This emotional brother meant to be reverent in his gift but got his words and his sentiments mixed. We have seen many a giver who had not suffered a stroke, and yet showed the sentiment of the afflicted man. There are many church members who make all of us believe that they feel like this "The Lord hath given, and now the Lord is taking away, Boo-Hoo," when they give anything to the church.

One day I was riding along with a friend in his car and I discovered that he had a flat tire. I called his attention to it, and the fellow got mad with me. He balled me out as one, "Who always takes the joy out of life by calling attention to flat tires." One day I was preaching against a certain form of evil going on in the community, and a close friend of mine became offended and went out to say all kind of evil against me. It was just another case of a flat tire. I have always thought that any man who travels in a car, has the right to call attention to a flat tire.

There was great excitement in the home. The new born babe had just been weighed and it balanced the scales at forty-one pounds. Something was wrong and diligent search was made. His alarm all subsided when he saw that the babe had been weighed on his father's fishing scales. Exaggeration, thou bane of truth. Blessed is the man who can tell a fish story correctly.

Letters To The Editor

A. A. JACKSON FOR REPRESENTATIVE

Lomax, Ala., Dec. 17, 1933.

Chilton County News, Clanton, Ala.
Gentlemen:

Please allow me space in your columns for the following article:

If it were my duty to pick a man to represent Chilton County in the Legislature at Montgomery I can honestly say that I know of no one that would be more fitted for the job than Mr. A. A. Jackson of Lomax, Ala.

While the Alabama Power Company was reducing rates in the cities the rural districts of course took it for granted they would also get a reduction. But when bills were received it was very disheartening to note an increase of over 300%. What could we do? Who could dispute the Alabama Public Service Commission? They had authorized this raise, but was this in line with the NRA? One man didn't think so at least, and that was Mr. Jackson. And I might say right here that he was enough. However, Mr. Jackson first went to the chairman of the NRA of Chilton county who informed him that Mr. Walker was the NRA attorney and advised Mr. Jackson to take this matter up with him, which he did and what satisfaction do you think he got from Mr. Walker? Simply these words, "When the Power Company sends me a bill I just pay it and that is all I know to tell you to do. However," he continued, "I will write a letter for you if you want me to, to the State chairman of the NRA." (Please note how unconcerned Mr. Walker was). However, Mr. Jackson informed him that he had been blessed with enough education to write, so he walked out, but was he through? I'll admit things looked mighty dark, but did A. A. J. quit? No, he only laughed and then went to work for a reduction in rural rates and I want to tell Mr. Walker and all the rest that he got results, a saving of approximately $360,000 yearly was estimated when the new schedule became effective October 1st. Will Mr. Jackson take any credit for this? It is doubtful, but I for one know he never tired in his efforts until the rates were reduced.

Will he run for the Legislature? That is a question I can't answer. But if he does and is elected, the people of Chilton County will be well represented.

E. A. CROWDER,
Lomax, Ala.

THE GOVERNOR

Editor, Chilton County News:

I saw in the last week's issue of the News the letter from P. H. Knox condemning Hon. Bibb Graves. It seemed as if he is trying to mis-lead the people of Chilton county in his letter, and I can't understand why he is knocking Hon. Graves after as successful administration as he had unless he or some of his close friends were disappointed job-seekers and after reading this letter I feel almost sure this is true.

His letter says Hon. Graves had best do early and late campaigning to stand a shadow of a chance to fill the Governor's chair. I just want to say that Mr. Knox must not have talked to anyone outside of Clanton and few people in Clanton and Chilton county concerning this matter or he would not make any such statement.

He states that he is trying to rise to office on the old educational platform that has been used for 25 years. Mr. Knox stated that he wants a man to run on the economy platform. I am opposed to that because his friend, B. M. Miller, was elected on the economy platform and if he has been an economist, we dont need another one for governor. He says people have been fooled so much by political promises for education that it has become a joke. There is no joking in his promises of educational work. If you think so just investigate and find out how many nice school buildings were built in Alabama during Hon. Bibb Graves' past administration. Also investigate and see how many teachers failed to get their pay during his administration. He paid what he promised and he's going to do it again, and he did build more school buildings than any governor before him. His recall will prove what he has done for the upbuilding of Alabama. He accuses Hon. Bibb Graves of being responsible for the teachers plight of today. He is very badly mistaken. The record shows that the state owed less money when his term expired than it did when he went in office, so I can't see why he can be accused of being responsible. He made the statement that he didn't believe the teachers could be fooled by his educational promises. I am sure they won't be fooled for he didn't fool them before with the same promise. There are only 85% of the teachers of Alabama that will support Hon. Bibb Graves.

In regard to his low tax promise—if he promises to lower taxes he will do it for he fulfilled every promise in his last administration. Mr. Knox also mentions his being so extravagant. It is true he spent lots of money, but he has plenty to show for it, such as roads, bridges, school buildings and other public improvements. He also accuses Hon. Graves of pardoning so many convicts. He went into ofifce with prison doors barred and kept them that way. He pardoned less prisoners than the governor before him or the governor since him did. Those he did pardon were recommended to him and the pardon board by the solicitor, trial judge and in most cases the jury, then he turned lots of them down.

Mr. Knox also says that Hon. Bibb istration. Also nvestgate and see how funds for road and convict departments. This is not true. He did not violate such laws. There's no record to prove such. If he had these dis-appointed job-seekers such as Mr. Knox or his friends would have had him behind the bars now.

I think Hon. Graves made one of the best governors Alabama ever had and no doubt will be elected governor in the first primary by large enough majority that there won't even have to be any run-off.

Now, before I close I want to make one personal statement about what he promised to do in his platform, and did. He connected each county seat in the State of Alabama with a good highway. They are here to prove it. I think he did more for the State of Alabama than any other governor has ever done. He, as governor, is to be compared with Roosevelt as president.

OAK GROVE

We wish to thank our many friends for their splendid cooperation with the Oak Grove Dramatic Club in making our play "Yimmie Yonson's Yob," so great a success. We are well pleased with their attitude toward the play; $18.14 was collected at the door. We take pleasure in inviting everybody to come and let's share the benefit of our new song books. We are purchasing them to use and not to lie upon our church benches. Then take heed to our invitation and join us next Sunday night at 6:30 o'clock in a great B. Y. P. U. program.

Miss Lois Robinson of Collins Chapel was the week end guest of Miss Mary Jim Sutley.

Miss Estelle Lessley of Calera spent the week end as the guest of Miss Irene and Pauline Lessley.

Mrs. Sol Edwards of Birmingham is spending sometime with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Sutley.

Mr. Buman Cobb of South Alabama is visiting friends and relatives around Oak Grove.

We are arranging a Christmas program for Sunday night, December 24. We invite all the parents to come and bring their small children. Let's instill into their growing hearts the value of giving. "He gave His life a ransom for many." Then let's give our talents to the advancement of His cause.

We have been requested to announce the play, "The Antics of Andrew," to be given at the Newala school building, January 12, 1934. This play is to benefit Enon B. Y. P. U. They have certainly helped us down in Chilton, let's help them!

Miss Onzell Littleton spent Saturday night with Miss Mary Jim Sutley.

Miss Lois Robinson dined Sunday with Miss Gladys Satterwhite.

We wish everyone a bright and happy new year.

INK DROPS FROM C. C. H. S.

By Dan Smith

The jovial old Dutch settlers of New York brought with them the joyous observance of the Fatherhood. We of the new world owe our Santa Claus to them, for this jolly old saint is none other than St. Nicholas or Sans Necolaas, the patron saint of the children, as pronounced by the Dutch.

Every child observes Christmas in some form. The Dutch and French children put their wooden shoes in front of the door and Santa fills them. The children of the Baltic lands believe that the Christ-child himself brings the presents. Norwegian children have lots of fun hunting for their presents in unexpected places. In Italy the little children draw their presents from the "Uhn of Fate." While in America and England the kiddies hang up their stockings. Santa Claus used to ride around on a white horse, but later he changed to reindeer, now he has an airplane.

Christmas Day is only four days away. Several of the classes will have Christmas trees for themselves Friday. Each student will draw a name and give this person whose name he draws a present.

* * *

School closes its doors Friday and they will not swing open again to students until January 1, 1934. The first day of the new year will be spent in school. That's a good time for some resolutions on the students' part. Closer study, give more time to your school work, aim at higher grades, better conduct and other things which we should improve.

Our classes here are certainly not dormant. Last Thursday was Alabama Day. One hundred and fourteen years ago, December 14. Alabama was declared a state. The Junior One Class with Miss Josephine Martin as class sponsor observed this state holiday with a splendid program last Friday. The five flags that Alabama has been under were displayed and a brief history of Alabama while under those flags was given. Alabama's five different capitals were discussed and a brief account of Alabama's greatest men and women was given. Tht five flags that Alabama has been under are: French, English, Spanish, United States and the Confederacy. St. Stephens, Cahaba, Tuscaloosa, Huntsville and Montgomery are the places where the state capital has been.

Miss Bonnie Clyde Griffin's Senior One Home Economics class put another feather in their cap last Saturday night when they entertained the members of the football team and dates and members of the faculty at the annual football banquet at the high school. The delicious and lovely four-course dinner, along with the appropriate Christmas and football decorations, were the banquet themselves. The evening was full of toasts, speeches and jokes, with Lloyd Howard topping it off with his accordion. Master of ceremonies was Dan Smith. The letter men were officially recognized and will receive their letters in the near future. After the gaiety and fun, the banquet assumed a serious and thoughtful mood and next year's catpain of the Chilton Tigers was elected by the team. The captain who will take Captain Foshee's place and lead Chilton's brilliant team against its opponents next year will be Cecil Jones, end, and alternate captain is Sidney Reynolds, who takes James Tiffin's place.

Here's to a successful season of football for the 1934 Tigers, and their new captain, Cecil Jones, and their new alternate captain, Sidney Reynolds. Go to it.

* * *

A welcomed guest at the banquet was Lieut. T. H. Walker who was coach of our team for a short while at the beginning of the season, but left to assume duties as an officer at Fort McClellan. We were also glad to have Jarrell Burdette, graduate, and now a student at Howard and he is doing good work on that freshman team.

* * *

This week I suppose all students have learned by now is the fourth month test week. So don't let dreams of the oncoming holidays drift you away from school.

* * *

The Senior Three English class, with Miss Frances Gulledge as their teacher, is studying the life of Shakespeare closely and eagerly. They have begun one of his most famous tragedies, Macbeth. Notes, outside readings and reports, clippings and other information from Miss Gulledge assures the fact that those Seniors who are fortunate to go to college will, due to a good foundation, not find Shakespeare there such a hard fellow.

* * *

Everyone here can not fail to take on a real Christmas spirit with songs of the Yuletide Season being sung in chapel.

You were right, Morgan Reynolds was "Who Am I" last week. Now try this one: I am in the Senior High. Have sorta blonde hair, wear glasses sometimes. Boys like me. I am a good sport. Don't like people not to like me. Sire I'm a girl. Drive a car to school sometimes. I'm not fat. About five feet and nine inches tall. Wear dresses. Go to dances. Known for my New Year's Eve parties. Suck a lemon after yelling at a football game. You would like to know if I had a sweetheart wouldn't you. Well, perhaps I have. Almost forgot, I like to swim.

Winchell Says: Here's some more news about our two ships. Both were in the harbor last Friday night and both crews landed and it appeared received the same reception. * * * Queer, some girls suddenly became friendly with some others lately. I suppose it's because it is near Christmas. Anyway it was a good thing to do, don't see whv they haven't done it before. * * * Why is one certain first class football player not so popular with his teammates. Until recently he was popular, but now? * * * All right you gossip hounds, feast on this: What Senior Three boy was slapped by a charming young lady last Friday night and why. * * * Merry Christmas and A Happy New Year. See you next year with the holiday's scandal.

Remember those who would like to sing Christmas carols with the American Legion Auxiliary and the Epworth League be at the Methodist church Sunday night, after services at the churches are over.

Dr. S. J. Ezell and his father, who has reached the ripe old age of 83, were the guests of the school at chapel period Monday. Dr. Ezell gave us an inspirational talk on our chances and opportunities in life. His father also spoke a few words.

All the students are now proudly showing everyone their pictures which were taken here several days ago. Every student was photographed and all the teachers, too, in less than forty-five minutes.

Mr. J. B. Varnell, head of the science department, was born at Scottsboro, Alabama, the son of Rev. and Mrs. W. H. Varnell. Mr. Varnell finished his high school education at the Lincoln Memorial Academy at Harogate, Tenn., and entered the Lincoln Memorial University at Harrogate in 1924. He also studied at the State Normal School at Florence in 1925. Two years later Mr. Varnell entered Howard College and finished there in 1929 with his degree of Bachelor of Science. Not ceasing his educational pursuits here he has done graduate work at Howard College and the University of Alabama in 1931 and 1932 respectively. Mr. Varnell has come down from a line of teachers on both his mother's side and father's side. His twin brother is a prominent teacher in Knoxville. Before coming to Chilton County High School in 1930 he was coach at Woodville High School in 1925-26. In 1929 to 1930 he was coach at Addison High School in Winston County. This year is the fourth year as a teacher at Chilton County High School, a sure evidence of his ability as a high school teacher and his popularity with the people. During the summer of 1926 he worked with the United States Geological Survey. In the 1929 edition of Entre Nous, the annual of Howard College, the writer noticed that Mr. Varnell was the president of the Chi Sigma-Gamma there, a national fraternity. Here at Chilton High Mr. Varnell is probably teaching this year one of the richest courses in a high school, biology, physics and chemistry, three strong and valuable sciences. In his four years of conscientious and diligent teaching here Mr. Varnell has won many comments of praise which are undescribable with mere words.

Another Word From Student Winchell: Here's to the Unhoul Three, two brunettes and a blonde. Better disguise your handwriting next time. I'm a good detective.

Here's wishing you A Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year, everybody.

SHOULTS CLUB MEETING

Miss Ruth Pardue of Clanton, our Home Demonstration Agent, met with the members of Shoults community club last Thursday afternoon. About sixteen members were present and three new members were added to our membership.

A business session was held with our president, Mrs. Stella Shoults, in charge. Plans were discussed for a community club house, after which Miss Pardue took charge and gave a very helpful demonstration on "Keeping Our Hats Up-to-Date." Many hats were blocked and cleaned. We feel grateful for such a woman as Miss Pardue. We hope that she can be our Home Demonstration Agent for many years.

Very soon we hope to build a community club house

Many women are becoming interested each month.

News from Thorsby

Miss EDITH JOHNSON, Correspondent

The services at the Thorsby Baptist Church next Sunday will be in keeping with the Christmas spirit. The pastor, Rev. J. W. Jones, will preach both morning and evening. His subject for the eleven o'clock hour will be "God Is With Us." The evening subject will be "What Does Christmas Mean to You?" Special music will be furnished by the quartet and choir.

The early morning services, Yulotta, will begin at 5:30 as in other years at the Lutheran Church on Christmas morning. Rev. A. T. Fant will be in charge of the service. An English service will be held first for those who do not understand Swedish and the Swedish service will follow. Anyone wishing to attend may gladly do so.

There will be both English and Swedish services at the Lutheran church next Sunday morning. Services will begin at 10:30, the English coming first.

The Lutheran Sunday school is preparing a Christmas program to be given at the church, Christmas night, Monday. The public is cordially invited to attend the program.

Next Saturday night a Christmas program will be given at the Thorsby school by the school children.

The young girls sewing club will meet this week on Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Kenneth O'Barr.

The Girls Trio and the Boys Quartet of the Thorsby Institute had supper with Miss Mary Sue Porter at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Porter Saturday night. Those fortunate in being present were Misses Edith Foss, Verlon Goodgame, Mary Louise Bates, Messrs. C. B. Jean, Hal Broadhead, Phares Raybon, Leo Spivey and their director, Miss Helen Phillips.

Mrs. Lee Pate, Mrs. H. L. Walker and Mrs. A. A. Jackson motored to Montgomery Monday.

H. L. Collins is able to be back in school again after an illness.

Mr. James Kincaid of Birmingham is spending a few days in Thorsby with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Kincaid.

Miss Louise Robinson spent Sunday in Clanton with her friend, Miss Clara Smith.

Mr. Briggs Hodgens returned to his home West of Jemison last Wednesday. During his illness he has been with his sister, Mrs. T. C. Kincaid, in Thorsby.

Miss Ruby Connatser arrived in Thorsby Monday night from Atlantic City, New Jersey, to spend a while with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Connatser.

Mr. John F. Massey, Mrs. Martha Atchley, both of New Jersey and Mrs. Rena King of Knoxville, Tenn., arrived Monday in Thorsby to spend until after the holidays with their sister, Mrs. S. M. Connatser and family.

Mrs. J. E. Each is expected to return to Thorsby next Thursday after a six weeks stay in Oklahoma with her mother and other relatives.

Mrs. Carleton and granddaughter, Louise, of Dadeville, spent Sunday here with her daughter, Mrs. Frank Thompson.

Little Elizabeth Jean Collins is very ill at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Akins Collins.

Mr. and Mrs. N. Johnson spent Sunday at Isabella with their daughter, Mrs. Mabel Taylor, and friends.

Mr. B. M. Bean who is working in Sylacauga, Ala., spent the week end in Thorsby with his family.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Pate of Clanton spent Sunday in Thorsby with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Pate.

Many Thorsby people have been fortunate in receiving work from the CWA.

Miss Bertha Littleton of Birmingham spent the week end in Thorsby with her sister, Mrs. Emmett Billingsley.

Mrs. Charles Howard son, Lloyd, and Mrs. Hattie M. Gerald spent Friday in Birmingham. Miss Ella Howard returned with them to remain here until after the holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Franklin and daughter, Peggy Mims, and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Marcus motored to Greenville, Ala., Sunday.

A number of people from the Congregational church went to the County Alms House Sunday afternoon and gave a short musical program. Rev. J. E. Each also said a few words. A basket of fruit and a number of religious pictures were brought for the inmates.

Mr. Kenneth Eastburn of Birmingham is spending a few days in Thorsby.

Mrs. Ellery Hansen of Lay Dam visited Miss Lois Primm Sunday.

The Boys Basket ball team played Collins Chapel and Mineral Springs Friday night. Thorsby won both games. With Collins Chapel the score was 17 and 7, and with Mineral Springs the score was 27 and 7.

The town girls have organized a basket ball team and played the Institute team Tuesday afternoon.

Thorsby Institute News

Last Saturday night the Christmas program of the Helen Keller Literary Society took place—Dicken's Christmas Carol was presented very interestingly in play form with music relative to it sung by the Glee Club between the acts. At the conclusion there was a processional by the Girls' Chorus singing a Christmas carol and a recessional by both the Glee Club and Chorus singing, "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear."

Monday afternoon there was the tryout for the Declamatory Contest which will take place February 25. The four girls chosen are: Mary Louise Reinhardt, Ruth McKee, Lessie Rasco, and Mary Nell Pate. The boys are: Jack Eastburn, S. E. Maddox, Conway Thornburgh and Phares Raybon.

School will close at one o'clock on Thursday, December twenty-first. It will have one session instead of the usual two. It will reopen at eight-thirty Wednesday morning, January third.

All of the Dormitory teachers expect to be away for the vacation except Miss Klingelhoefer who plans to board in town. Miss Leech will visit Mrs. Norton a few days, then go to Birmingham to visit Miss Elizabeth Robinson, a former librarian at Thorsby Institute.

Mrs. Maddox was called recently to her home near Midland City on account of the serious illness of her brother, who makes his home with her mother.

The library will be open on Tuesday, December 26, and Friday, December 29, from nine to eleven. Miss Lois Primm will be in charge. Those who wish to get books are requested to come to the rear door of the school near the library door as the front door will not be open. All books which become due on other days may be held without fine until the next library day.

Sheriff Explains More About Letters Received

Editor, Chilton County News:

Please give me space in your paper to correct probably an error which seems to exist in the minds of some of the people in the County in regard to the announcement which I requested you to make in your paper last week in regard to anonymous or unsigned letters sent to me giving information of violations of the Law in the different parts of our County. I want to say that it was not my intention to convey the idea to the people that if a letter giving such information was not signed by the writer that such information would be cast aside captiously without being investigated by the Sheriff's Office, but to the contrary, I will say that it has always been my policy while trying to enforce the Laws to consider carefully all information received from whatever source and then try to make an honest investigation and get the very best results that I possibly could.

My only intention in asking the papers to make the statements in last weeks paper was to get the idea to the people that it was a lot easier to make an intelligent investigation of a violation of the law if the Officer can know the name and who the party is that is giving the information.

Now in conclusion I want to assure the public that any and all information together with the names of the informer will be confidentially and forever kept by the Sheriff's Office while I am your Sheriff here in Chilton County, and I want to appeal to all good citizens of our County to furnish such information of violations in the different parts f our county; for without your assistance and help I can not successfully enforce your laws as they should be enforced.

Respectfully,
W. H. GILLESPIE, Sheriff.

Comedy Entertainment At Vermont Junior Hi

At 8:00 o'clock next Saturday night, December 23rd, Tom Frank Teel and his gang of fun makers will present one and one-half hours of real laughable comedy at Vermont Jr. High School. This entertainment consists of comedy songs, accordion music, negro monologues and dialogues, buck and wing dancing, gags and jokes galore.

This entertainment is served for laughing purposes only—if you can digest a large volume of real spicy fun, flavored with clean comedy and genuine merriment, you can come to Vermont school on the above date and it will be dished out in generous proportions.

If you wish to get keyed up for a Merry Xmas, just breeze down and see these wise-crackers display their wares.

A large turkey will also be given away that night.

Admission will be 10c for all school children, and 20c for adults. Proceeds to be ustd for payment on piano for school. Those who never laugh any, beware if you come, for your cherished record may break down. Will see you at Vermont Saturday night.

Monday afternoon, the News received the following little letter in a handwriting that showed the writers are sincere. Yes, here's a job, and a good one, for Santa Claus:

Verbena, Ala., Dec. 18, 1933.

Dear Santa Claus:

I want you to come to see me and my sister. Our daddy got killed on a big truck in September, and mamma says she don't know whether you will think of us or not. Please bring us a big doll and just anything you can. We will be so glad.

Your little Friends,

A CHRISTMAS CALL THAT YOU WILL ENJOY

By T. E. Harris,
DISTRICT MANAGER

SOUTHERN BELL
Telephone and Telegraph Co.

Christmas, the glad holiday season, is near at hand. It will be a happy time for many, while others will feel saddened because they will be separated from loved ones and friends.

Families and friends do become scattered with the years and we miss their smiling faces and cheery voices, more especially at Christmas time. It is the season when happy memories flood our minds. The older folks recall the years when the children were young and Christmas was a time of joyous excitement for all. And the children, now grown up and living miles away with youngsters of their own, remember Mother and Dad and wish they could all be together again, if only for a few minutes.

To these folks we have a happy suggestion to make, one that many families are following. When the Yuletide rolls around this month, even though hundreds of miles separate you from your loved ones and friends, just remember your telephone. All you need to do is lift the receiver and tell "Long Distance" whom it is you want and almost at once the connection is made and you are talking with them just as though you were in the same room. It is the next best to being together in person.

A great many families make a practice of voice visiting by telephone at regular intervals throughout the year. Because your voice is you over the telephone, visiting this way has the personal charm of a face-to-face visit and is a convenient and inexpensive way to keep the ties of home and friendship alive. For example you can talk with folks 50 miles away for around 35 cents, and 100 miles for about 55 cents and greater or less distances at correspondingly low cost, by using station-to-station service.

NEW FORD V·8 for 1934

THE UNIVERSAL CAR

The New Ford V-8 for 1934 is now on display at the showrooms of Ford dealers. Surpassing even the great Ford of 1933 in economy, beauty and comfort, it is truly the car of this modern age—the culmination of thirty years Ford progress. It combines the proved performance of the V-8 cylinder engine with two important new features—Dual Carburetion and perfected Clear-vision Ventilation. See this car today and drive it at the first opportunity.

OUTSTANDING IMPROVEMENTS IN THE NEW FORD V.8

BETTER PERFORMANCE. Greater power, new speed, quicker acceleration, smoother performance, more miles per gallon especially at higher speeds, and quicker starting in cold weather—all these result from the new dual carburetor and dual intake manifold. New waterline thermostats enable the engine to warm up more quickly and to maintain an efficient operating temperature. Added engine refinements reduce oil consumption, further improve operating economy and reduce maintenance costs.

NEW VENTILATION SYSTEM permits clear vision, prevents drafts and provides desired amount of fresh air in any weather. Individual control for front and rear side windows. When ventilation is desired the window glass is raised to the top. Then the handle is given an additional half-turn. This slides the glass back horizontally to form a narrow slot. Through this slot air is drawn out by the forward motion of the car. This simple ventilation system maintains draft-free circulation, insures passenger comfort, prevents fogging windshield in cold or stormy weather. Both windshield and cowl ventilator can be opened to supply additional air needed for comfortable warm-weather driving.

DISTINCTIVE NEW APPEARANCE enhanced by the newly designed chromium-plated radiator shell and grille, new hood louvres, new hub caps. Interiors are attractive, with new tufted upholstery, new mouldings, new cove-type headlining, new instrument panel, new arm rests, new hardware. Swivel-type sun visors in De Luxe bodies prevent glare from front or side.

FENDERS IN COLOR. On De Luxe cars fenders are in color to harmonize with body colors—wheel colors optional. New enamel finish on all bodies and fenders has greater wearing quality and more enduring luster.

GREATER RIDING COMFORT results from increased spring flexibility. The spring leaves are newly designed for quieter and easier action. Shock absorbers are improved. Seat cushions are deeper, with new, softer springs. New type, individual bucket seats provide increased comfort for front-seat passengers in the Tudor Sedan. Adding to comfort is the new driving ease of the 15-to-1 steering gear ratio.

PRICES REMAIN LOW—Tudor Sedan, $535. Coupe, $515. Fordor Sedan, $585. De Luxe Tudor, $575. De Luxe Fordor, $625. De Luxe Coupe (5 windows), $555. De Luxe Coupe (3 windows), $555. De Luxe Roadster, $525. De Luxe Phaeton, $550. Cabriolet, $590. Victoria, $610. (All prices f. o. b. Detroit.)

The New 1934 Ford V-8 Model Announced

Refinements in the design of the radiator and hood and more luxurious interiors feature the appearance of the new Ford V-8 for 1934. The de luxe Tudor is shown above. A clear-vision body ventilation system is introduced in the new Fords, as is on display at Clanton Motors, local Ford dealers.

MAPLE SPRINGS

Everything seems to be moving along nicely around here lately. B. Y. P. U. and Sunday school are very good. A real good program was rendered Sunday night by group No. 2 Their subject was "The Future Life." If you were not present, ask someone about it who was.

Bro. Robinson filled his regular appointments here Saturday at 11 a.m., Saturday night at 6:00, and Sunday at 11 a.m. Everybody enjoyed the messages he brought to them. If we would only take them to heart.

We were very glad to have with us Sunday night the two visiting ministers, Bro. Durbin and our old pastor, Bro. Lockhart. We had people with us from adjoining communities. We were glad to have you. Come again.

Remember Sunday school next Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. B. Y. P. U. at 6:00. Everybody try to be on time.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Downs, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Wise and Miss Mamie Downs spent the day with Mrs. Anna Wise of Coopers Sunday

Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Mims had as their Saturday night guest, Rev. W. E. Robinson.

Misses Elsie Lera and Delene Glenn had as their Sunday dinner guests Misses Annie Ree and Elmer Rene Jones and Evelyn Wilson.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Downs, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Wise and Miss Mamie Downs spent the day with Mrs. Anna Wise Sunday at Coopers.

Messrs. Oliver Glenn and Audie Brown spent a while last Friday night with Mr. Elmer Rollan of Highland community.

Mr. W. F. Glenn had as his supper guest Friday night Mr. Wiley Jones.

Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Devaughn spent the day with Mr. and Mrs. Allen Brown Sunday.

Mrs. O. L. Devaughn visited her daughter, Mrs. Robert Davis, Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Mims had as their Sunday dinner guests Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Mims.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Glenn had as their Sunday dinner guests Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Wilson.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Parrish had as their Sunday dinner guest Miss Merle Kelley.

CHESTNUT GROVE

The health of the community is very good at present. We have a good Sunday school at this place.

We had an entertainment here last Friday night for the benefit of the school, and we are glad to state it was a success. We wish to thank the people for their cooperation.

We were glad to have Mr. Luther E. Little of Clanton and Mr. J. P. Montgomery of Jemison with us. We hope to have them here again.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Jones' baby died December 13, in a Clanton hospital. Their loss is Heaven's gain.

The school children are to have a Christmas tree at this place Friday, the 22nd, beginning at 1 p.m. sharp. We would be glad if all the patrons would be present, and all that wish to come. So don't forget the date, Dec. 22nd, at 1 p.m. The children will have some speeches to say at that time.

The B. Y. P. U. was rained out here Sunday night.

20 CHRISTMAS TREES

by Constance Withrow

IT IS the custom in a certain village near the sea for the men to go into the woods and bring out by ox sled many small spruce trees. These are ranged about the foundations of houses to keep them snug and warm for the winter. Even the poorest, meanest dwelling takes on a holiday aspect when surrounded by this hedge of fresh, vigorous green.

In a gray, weather-beaten cottage close to the shore lived a family whose hard luck was the talk of the village. The father was a fisherman, but now that the winter had set in, he could not go out in his dory; the summer had yielded a fair catch, but the prices were low. The mother was a cheerful, sensible woman who kept the house tidy and her husband and little girl, Sallie, well cared for. When Christmas time came, however, she was much troubled.

"Shall I write Santa I want a cart with red wheels?" asked Sallie one day, "and a teeny doll house I can keep my kitten in?"

"He has so many children to remember," said her mother. "I wouldn't be disappointed if just this once, Sallie, be kind of forgot."

Sallie's eyes grew round with amazement. "He can't forget, Mamma. He'd not be Santa, if he did!"

Mrs. Blake repeated Sallie's answer to her best friend, Mrs. Moore. And Mrs. Moore said, "Bless the child . . . well . . I never!"

Sallie listened with her fat little hands clasped behind her back. "I don't believe it!" she said stoutly. And nothing her mother said could change her convictions.

When they went to bed there wasn't a present in the house—not an orange, not a candy cane—but Sallie was sure about the morning

She woke when the dawn was gray. She pattered over to her window. The sea was like a still, flat sheet of metal, the air was chill Down below was the green hedge of little trees.

Sallie's eyes stuck out as she looked at them; she gave a high, delighted squeal On every tree at the tip-top, was a little package done up in bright paper and tied with colored string! A row of twenty Christmas trees, each bearing a gift!

"He did come, Mamma!" shrieked Sallie. "Santa trimmed twenty trees instead of one!"

Mrs Moore told Mrs. Blake that evening that village children had crept over in the night and each tied a present to a tree. "I don't suppose you had anything to do with it?" smiled Sallie's mother.

"Oh, well," said Mrs. Moore, "faith like Sallie's can't be disappointed."

County Agent Discusses Poultry

Invites Farmers To Visit Office And Talk Over Other Farm Problems

At this time of the year there are many problems with poultry. The feeding and housing are probably the most important at this time.

Hens should be housed in a comfortable house and a good laying mash kept before them at all times. Feed all the whole corn the hens will consume in twenty or thirty minutes just before they go to roost.

I am giving below a good home mixture for laying mash, principally of home grown feeds. Mix thoroughly the following:

65 pounds yellow corn meal, 25 pounds ground peanuts, 7 pounds bone meal, 1 pound salt.

Milk should be fed with the above mixture at the rate of two to two and one-half gallons per day per 100 hens.

This formula gave 60% production while other feeds gave about 50% production under similar conditions.

Ground soybeans, 20 lbs., cowpeas, 30 lbs., or cottonseed meal, 15 lbs., may be satisfactorily used to replace the ground peanuts in this laying ration.

Where plenty of green feed, like oats, rape, vetch or combinations of these or others that grow in winter is available, white corn meal may be substituted for the yellow.

There are several other combinations of home grown feeds that give good results.

When in Clanton call by the county agent's office and talk over your farm problems.

J. W. FANT, County Agent.

WAYS OF CRIMINALS

An interesting sidelight on the ways of professional criminals is given in a magazine article which declares that cities where these gentry habitually congregate to spend their loot are seldom the scene of their banditry.

The writer cites the case of Toledo, once known as being unusually free from underworld crime, yet all the time it was tht rendedvous for saft-crackers, hold-up men and other desperate crooks. It was an un-written law among them that no "jobs" were to be pulled off in Toledo, and although the police knew of their presence, they were not molested, because, as the chief said: "We never bother them, because they never bother us."

Finally a new police commissioner was appointed, and when he learned of the situation he ordered a clean-up. Then, to quote the article: "There were immediate retailations. Safes began to explode like firecracktrs on the Fourth. Hold-ups became as common as measles. Cops shot crooks and crooks shot cops. Today Toledo is no longer immune."

One difficulty said to be experienced in catching present-day criminals of the professional class is that many of their old underworld haunts which were formerly well-known to the police have been broken up. The crooks are scattered throughout the cities, often living in comparative security in high-class neighborhoods. Thus a new and serious complication of the criminal problem has arisen, for which no solution appears to be forthcoming.

Tornado Is Most Frequent Disaster; Causes Heavy Loss of Lives

What type of disaster occurs most frequently in the United States?

This question is answered from the relief annals of the American Red Cross which show over a period of years that the tornado, or cyclone as it is called in some sections, is the most frequent and claims a heavy toll of life. It swoops almost without warning, and in the terrific whirlpool of its fierce winds it destroys all in its path.

The Red Cross gave relief in 44 tornadoes in eighteen states last year. The tornadoes killed 326 persons, injured 2,755 and the Red Cross gave aid to 21,738 who were homeless, injured or otherwise victims of the storms.

Toll of the Earthquake

When a severe earthquake killed 95 persons; injured 4,911 and destroyed several thousand homes in Southern California last March, the Red Cross was first upon the ground with emergency relief. It required more than three months for the Red Cross to restore the needy to a self-sustaining basis. The organization expended a relief fund of $411,000.

Serves Under Five Presidents

John Barton Payne, a retired judge and lawyer of international reputation, is serving his twelfth year as chairman of the American Red Cross. His service is without pay, and his appointment is by the President of the United States. He has served by appointment in high public office under five presidents—Wilson, Harding, Coolidge, Hoover and Roosevelt.

IN MEMORY OF BARNEY PATTERSON

Our hearts were saddened and broken indeed when we received the message that our dear friend, Barney Patterson, had passed to his reward. All was done that loving hands could do, but all was in vain. We loved him, but Jesus loved him more. And He has called him to yonder shining shore, where the golden gates were open and he calmly entered home.

He leaves to mourn his going a loving father and mother, two brothers and one sister, a host of relatives and friends. Weep not, dear father and mother, brothers and sister, for the Lord giveth and the Lord taketh away. It is God's will that we must part, so let us look to Him who is able to soothe our troubles and heartaches. He's too wise to make a mistake and too great to be unkind.

Over yonder in the grave yard
Where the flowers gently wave,
Lies one we loved so dearly,
In his cold and silent grave.
As his loved ones, broken-hearted,
Stood aside to weep,
Safely in the arms of Jesus,
Dear Barney gently fell asleep.
He's gone, but not forgotten,
Never will his memory fade,
Loving thoughts forever linger
'Round the grave where he is laid.
A precious one from us is gone,
A voice we loved is stilled,
A place is vacant in our home
Which never can be filled.
Some day we'll meet him,
In that sinless summer land,
Where we can be with him
In that happy, shining land.

Vermont Jr. High School News

Tomorrow will bring us to the Xmas holidays. School will be dismissed until January 1. The school wishes everyone a very Merry Christmas, and a bright, pleasant New Year.

A clever little pageant will be presented by the primary pupils of Miss Manning's room Friday morning. Following this will be a Christmas Tree exercise. All pupils taking a part. Ole Santa is going to leave something for everyone in school.

We are all glad to see Miss Grant back in school. She was detained all last week on account of a slight attack of tonsilitis. Mr. John G. Johnson, a brother of our principal, supplied while she was absent.

Our P.-T. A. held its regular meeting on last Wednesday night. Forty-seven parents and a large number of the younger set were present. The meeting was called to order by the president. After a song and prayer, the roll was called. Several new members joined. The program committee then presented an interesting little program by several of the Jr. High girls. Followng this, Mr. John G. Johnson spoke twenty minutes on the Purpose and Value of a P.-T. A. Organization. He wove into his subject many illustrations which tended to point out just why such an organization is an asset to any school and community. He outlined in his talk the specific duties and responsibilities devolying upon each parent and teacher,—and just what course they must pursue in measuring up to this duty and responsibility. After this our principal spoke on the possibility and reason why we should affiliate ourselves with the State Parent-Teachers Association. We expect to have Mrs. Nora Wells at one of our later meetings to present in detail the method of approach in joining this state-wide organization. Mrs. Wells is chairman of the County Council of this district. Our next meeting will be held at 6:30 p.m. on January 4, 1934. Let's start the New Year right, with a large attendance. Refreshments will be served by the committee.

Last Friday afternoon saw our boys ball team suffer their worst defeat of the season when the crack little team of Red Warriors from Mt. Pleasant trimmed them to the tune of 20 to 11. This game was highly exciting, because both teams had a large group of supporters "whooping it up" on the sidelines. The Vermont boys were dazed the first quarter by a series of swift passes which left them far behind in the count. However, our boys did rally just after the third quarter opened and managed to pull up to within 3 points of the visitors, but this was short-lived as Burnett tore loose through our defense and netted 2 field goals and 1 foul goal for 5 points. This wide margin was too much for our team to overcome, especially against such air-tight defense set up against them. Our team, both boys and girls, go to Mt. Pleasant next Friday afternoon, Dec. 22, for a couple of games, at which time we hope to avenge our loss of last Friday.

It looks good to see our school and class mate T. J. Ratliff, back in school after a three weeks absence due to a severe attack of la grippe. We have been missing him on our ball team. T. J. plays the left forward position and is our most reliable man on crip shots.

The entire faculty attended the Christian Endeavor exercise over at Antioch church last Sunday night.

Remember the entertainment to be given at our school on next Saturday night, December 23, at 8 o'clock.

Mr. Johnson (to Jr. I Geog. Class): Lester, can you tell the class what isle is noted for its great internal improvements?

Lester (triumphantly): Castor-isle!

The school wishes at this time to extend their thanks to Mr. H. L. Traywick and his two sons, Bill and Robert, for feeding and caring for the school pig during the holidays and week ends.

Attendance for the third month has been far better than it was during the second.

The Liberty Hill Quartet will not be able to present their program until after the holidays. We have been delayed in placing the piano in our school, consequently, they have been set back in staging their program.

The school girls basket ball team won over a group of outside girls last Friday evening by the score of 10 to 1.

A group of men went to Jemison last Tuesday and brought back the piano. We are certainly proud the P.-T. A. is making this addition to our school. They have now set forth to equip the building with shades and maps. Three cheers for our P.-T. A.

The parents and friends of the school are cordially invited to attend the Christmas Program next Friday morning at 10 o'clock. This will be given in the place of the chapel exercises and just before Ole Santa comes in and distributes the toys, fire-crackers, etc., to the happy band of youngsters.

Don't forget the comedy program on next Saturday night. If the weather is cold and disagreeable, just come right on as we will have the auditorium warm and comfortable and you can fully enjoy the exercise.

GIFT from the PAST
Bernice
by Golben

HAROLD was practically speechless on Christmas morning over the present of an electric train from his uncle Dan. There were yards of track, a station, a signal tower, switches, even a tunnel and a turntable. The train whistled; it shot around curves with breath-taking speed, thundered through the tunnel, its wheels turning so fast they were round blurs of speed.

Never in his life had Harold known a gift so wonderful. The rest of the family abandoned all their presents to help set it up, to watch it, to exclaim over its miniature perfection. Harold could scarcely take time to eat his Christmas turkey. He had no appetite but for the marvels of Uncle Dan's gift.

"I can't thank you enough, sir," he said over and over.

The old gentleman beamed down at him. "Thought you'd enjoy it, boy," he said. "But look here, don't thank me . . . thank the hundred years behind it."

"What?" asked Harold.

"All pyramided, boy. We benefit by the brains of men long dead and gone. Ever think of that?"

No, Harold admitted, he hadn't thought of that.

"We take what they discovered, what they worked at, slaved at, were ridiculed about, and sometimes died for . . . add a bit of our own ideas . . . and pass it on to the next generation."

Harold, gazing down at the splendid electric engine, black and gleaming, said slowly, "By George, that's so, isn't it?" It was a brand new idea.

"We'd never get anywhere otherwise," continued Uncle Dan. "We are the present benefactors of the race."

Harold was frowning. "I suppose if engineers hadn't first worked out steam and all that, we wouldn't have an electric engine either," he admitted.

"That's it . . . that's it! It pays to think about it seriously. Makes you understand progress better . . . our duty to the past, as well as responsibility to the present. I don't want to talk like an old fogey." Uncle Dan lowered his voice to a confidential note, "but I've always felt strongly about this particular thing. If, Harold, we do accept the benefits which clever, hard-working men have given us, we don't deserve to be called civilized if we can't use these benefits intelligently, and try to add our bit . . . for the next lot. Get it?" He stared hard at Harold.

"Yes, I think I do . . . well, anyhow," the boy flashed him a smile, "I thank you for the electric train . . . and all the inventors, dead and alive, who made it possible!"

PLEASANT GROVE

Jemison

Everything seems to be moving along nicely around here. Most of the sick are improving.

Mrs. Laura Franklin went visiting Sunday with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George Spivey, and their son, Erchal, and daughter, Laureen, and Mr. James Rasco. They visited Mr. Charley Spivey of Thorsby.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Champion spent last Monday in Thorsby with Mr. and Mrs. Carl Dawson.

Miss Velma Price and Mrs. Dayton Chapman are on duty with the CWA.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Miskelley visited Mr. and Mrs. Carl Dawson of Thorsby Friday night.

Mr. J. M. Miskelley and Mr. Wess Gletty were visitors to Clanton last Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Champion, Mr. Grover Price and Misses Dulcie Champion and Velma Price went to Clanton last Tuesday.

The many friends of Mr. Bernie Davenport will be glad to know that he is doing fine in school. He is taking the 7th grade. Mr. Davenport has just received his report card for the past month (Bernie made an average of 78). He is expecting to come home the last of this week for Christmas holidays and will remain at home until the 1st of January. He asks all of his friends to come to see him while at home.

Mr. John Davenport is making another room to his house. He expects to have it finished by Christmas.

Mrs. Bowling has built a new house on her place.

Mr. Herbert Wright spent a few days last week in Clanton.

Mr. Wilson Clements is teaching an opportunity school here each Monday night. He is doing quite a bit of work on the farm here.

Mr. Clements is having a large attendance at his demonstrations.

Mr. Briggs Hodgens who has been ill so long at his sisters in Thorsby, went home Wednesday.

Mrs. Clower spent a while with the Misses Champion Saturday.

Messrs. G. W. Spivey son, Erchal, and J. B. Franklin carried a load of syrup to Birmingham last Monday, returning Tuesday morning.

Mr. Arrie Miskelley is at home now, getting along very well.

COTTON'S UPS AND DOWNS

Few basic commodities have shown such extreme fluctuations in price as has cotton, rainging from $1.90 a pound down to a fraction less than 5 cents.

The highest price paid for cotton since the World War was in 1920, when it brought 41 cents a pound. During the present depression it reached the lowest price in 100 years, about 4.95 cents.

The all-time high price was $1.90 in 1864, when the Civil War reduced the American crop to only 300,000 bales. The highest production was reached in the United States in 1926, approximately 18 million bales. The greatest return from any Amercan crop was received in 1919, when 11,420,763 bales were produced and sold for a little more than two billion dollars. In 1931 a 17-million bale crop brought only $485,611,000, or considerably less than one-fourth as much as the smaller crop in 1919.

An interesting experiment is the government's present policy of paying farmers to plow up a part of their cotton crop, and the renting of cotton land to keep it out of production. The heavy expense of this program, of course, must be borne by the general public through higher taxes and higher prices for cotton goods.

Brief Rural Topics

Holly, the most desirable of all the Christmas greens, is destined for extinction in the South unless conservation measures are taken. Even now in many sections it is difficult to find holly with red berries. This tree grows slowly and the berries take two years to develop.

Inflammable Yuletide decorations are responsible for some of the worst Christmas fires. One of the most serious fire hazards was the old-time Christmas tree lighted with candles. If electric lights are not available, trees may be attractively decorated with shining ornaments that catch and reflect the light of the room.

Thousands of Alabama farmers are utilizing damp winter days by mending fences, stopping washes on their land, and doing other necessary maintenance work for which they do not have time during other months of the year.

Rat-killing days on the farm are important to the farmers' pocketbook. Destruction of grain and other farm products by rats and mice cost Alabama farmers thousands upon thousands of dollars annually. Red squill is being used successfully in the extermination of rats. The U. S. Department of Agriculture has published a valuable bulletin on rat control which may be had for the asking.

6,000 Alabama Farmers Promise To Aid In National Agriculture Program

By L. O. Brackeen

Six thousand farmers and business men from every county in Alabama Saturday unanimously passed a resolution thanking President Roosevelt "for the courageous effort he is making to restore agriculture to a sound and profitable basis" and pledged their "unqualified cooperation and support" in helping him carry out his farm program.

They also went on record urging "the prompt passage of a law by Congress under which an allotment of bales will be made to each farm on a basis that will be fair and equitable to all cotton producers and that no cotton in excess of the allotment shall be ginned."

Approval was given the 1934-35 cotton acreage reduction plan. "We hereby approve and adopt the new cotton acreage adjustment plan for 1934 and 1935 and pledge ourselves to cooperate wholeheartedly in putting it into effect" they said in resolution. "We declare New Year's Day, Jan. 1, 1934, as the day on which to start the operation of the new plan."

These resolutions were passed in Birmingham, Saturday, by the 6,000 farmers and business men while assembled to hear Secretary Henry A. Wallace dis to hear Secretary Henry A. Wallace discuss the national farm program. "We express our full appreciation to Secretary Wallace for coming to Birmingham with his great message of information, inspiration and hope for our farm people."

Appreciation was also expressed to Senator Bankhead and others for helping pass the Agricultural Adjustment Act, and to the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, the Extension Service, county agents, farm bureau, department of agriculture, vocational teachers and others "in bringing to the farm people of Alabama the full benefits of the new deal for agriculture."

The full resolution asking that a law be passed placing cotton reduction on bales instead of acres follows:

WHEREAS, cotton producers of Alabama in mass meeting assembled at Birmingham recognize that the price of cotton cannot take its proper place in the normal price level of commodities until the existing depressing surplus has been suitably reduced, and

WHEREAS, we also recognize the great price benefits that will accrue to cotton producers if the annual supply of cotton can be adjusted to fit the effective demands for consumption, and

WHEREAS, the cooperating cotton producers desire protection from producers who seek selfish advantage by declining to cooperate with their fellow farmers in a balanced cotton production program, and

WHEREAS, we know that a reduction on a basis of bales is more effective than acreage reduction;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, That the cooperating cotton producers of Alabama request the prompt passage of a law by Congress under which an allotment of bales will be made to each farm on a basis that will be fair and equitable to all cotton producers and that no cotton in excess of the allotment shall be ginned.

1,000 School Teachers Will Be Employed

Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 9.— One thousand unemployed teachers of the state will be put to work by Monday morning by the Alabama Relief Administration under the direction of the State Department of Education, Frank L. Grove, Secretary of the Alabama Education Association, announced in Montgomery Saturday. At the close of Thursday 827 teachers had been assigned work, this official reported, and applications expected to be approved Friday and Saturday will extend the total to more than a thousand.

A minimum weekly salary of $12.00 is being designated in the contracts signed by the teachers, which amount, upon recommendation of the local relief worker and the county or city superintendent of education, may be increased to equal the salary usually paid for such work in the community served.

Money to the amount of $50.00 a month released by the federal government through the office of Thad Holt, Alabama Relief Administrator, is being used for the purpose. Funds for the employment of additional teachers who are eligible for the positions are urged to file applications immediately with their respective superintendents, who will submit such applications to Montgomery for approval.

More than 1,300 classes have already been organized on a six-weeks basis in illiteracy, home economics, agriculture, elementary schools subjects, physical education, and "general education". To date applications from 48 counties and 16 cities have been approved while applications from 6 counties and 2 cities are being held up awaiting adjustments. This gives a total of 54 of the 67 counties and 18 of the 47 cities that have requested relief work for teachers. The counties leading in the number of teachers so far assigned work are: Jefferson 42, Hale 35, Pickens 32, Marshall and Perry 31 each, and Montgomery 27.

Included in the $50,000 allotted monthly for teacher relief, a special monthly allotment of $2,000 is available for rehabilitation services. This amount may be used for the training of teachers to do rehabilitation work, for the purchase of necessary appliances, and for the traveling expenses of those served. Applicants for this special assistance must be over 16 years of age and must be unemployed.

Nelson Parrish Now Member Tau Beta Pi

The Phi Kappa Tau Fraternity.
Auburn, Ala., Dec. 6. 1933.
Chilton County News, Clanton, Ala.,
Gentlemen:

In a recent initiation, Nelson Parrish became a member of Tau Beta Pi. Tau Beta Pi is a national honorary fraternity for Engineers. The purpose of the fraternity is "To mark in a fitting manner those who have conferred honor upon their Alma Mater by a high grade of scholarship as undergraduates, or by their attainments as alumni; and to foster a spirit of liberal culture in the engineering schools of America. Besides scholastic requirements, such qualifications as character and leadership are taken into consideration in the election of new members to the organization.

He was one of the fifteen selected from the entire School of Engineering. This was the annual Senior election and the students selected are from the upper one-fourth of their class.

The present membership of the local Alpha chapter includes the names of many men who are prominent in engineering courses. Tht fraternity came to the campus in 1920. Since that time Tau Beta Pi has commanded a ranking position among the honor societies on the Auburn campus. Each year this group is responsible in bringing prominent engineers and lectures to Auburn, and in sponsoring Engineers' Day.

We are proud of the fact that he is a member Phi Kappa Tau social fraternity. He takes an active interest in campus activities, being also a member of Phi Delta Gamma, a national honorary forensic fraternity. He is a member of the Friendship Council of the Y. M. C. A. and also an active member of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers.

Trusting that you will publish this in his home town paper, we are,

—The Phi Kappa Tau Fraternity,
T. W. Briggs, Secretary.

ANTIOCH

The singing society met at this place Sunday, December 17th. with a large crowd. Everyone seemed to be in the singing spirit and the singing was fine. We especially want to make mention of the Little Quartet of four little girls whose names are: High tenor, L. E. Adams, low tenor, Mollie Bell White, high bass Mertis Owen, low bass, Fannie Mae Owen. The little girl which sang bass beat anything that we have witnessed lately. She isn't more than 7 or 8 years old. None of them were over twelve. The following directors sang two songs each: Mr. William Cox, Miss Inez McKee, Mr. John Hooks, Mr. Ezra Turner. Quartet was sung by Miss Inez McKee, Mrs. Zella Scott, Mr. S. A. Henley and Mr. William Cox. Next director was Mr. S. A. Henley, and then another quartet by Mr. Henley, Mr. and Mrs. William Cox, Mrs. Zella Scott. Mr. F. I. Popwell acted as chairman. He sang the opening and closing song, and dismissed with a short prayer.

Pneumatic Rail Tire Meets New Safety Test

Goodyear Equipment on Fast Railmobile Passes 'Shotgun' Trial

Akron, Ohio—Startling proof of the safety of the Goodyear pneumatic rail tire was demonstrated before railway executives in Chicago last week when one of the tires was purposely blown out at a speed of 70 miles per hour.

The demonstration was a part of the first public showing of the Fairbanks-Morse "Railmobile"—a rail car unit developed through co-operation of engineers of the Goodyear Tire & Rubbtr Co., the Fairbanks-Morse Co., and the Chrysler Corp. After 30 years of development of the automobile and truck chassis, the railmobile—the automobile or truck on rails—presents excellent opportunity for economies in railroad operations and equipment costs. Previous attempts have met with failure due to crystalization of axle and wheel parts because of excessive vibration—a problem solved by use of a rigid axle mounted on pneumatic rail tires.

A standard Chrysler sedan and a Dodge truck chassis with bus body and trailer were on exhibit. One of the tires of tht sedan was blown out by a shotgun mounted on the running board while traveling at high speed with no appreciable effect on operation of the unit other than a slight bump as an aluminum safety ring inside the casing took up the load as the tire was deflated.

The rail tire, expected to play an important part on railway rolling stock of the future is constructed in much the same manner as an automobile tire. In addition to the aluminum safety ring bolted to the rim inside the tire, allowing the wheel to drop but five-eighths of an inch in event of deflation, a steel guiding flange to keep the tire on the rail is provided. An especially designed tread allows front tires to squeegee water off the rails in wet weather so that the driving and braking wheels have a dry surface to work on.

Hear Lloyd Howard play his accordion, and Herman Lowery with his guitar in a program of fun at Vermont Jr. High School next Saturday night at eight o'clock.

Chilton's own comedian, Tom Frank Teel, will bring peals of laughter to the audience at Vermont Jr. School Saturday night, December 23, at 8 o'clock.

FAIRVIEW

We are very glad to report that the health of this community is very good. Mr. Delos Culp who has been sick with pneumonia is able to be out among his friends again He took up his school Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Boston Scott and little daughter, Myradine, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Headley Saturday night and Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Billingsley spent a while with Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Headley Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Esco Culp spent a while with Mr. and Mrs. J. William Cox Saturday night.

Mr. Samuel Lee Jones of the Jackson Chapel community was a pleasant visitor over the week end among his friends of this community.

Quite a number of the young people of this community and adjoining communities gave Mr. Clemon Henley a surprise party last Tuesday night, December 12th, which was his birthday. Those enjoying this were Messrs. Cecil McKee, Woodrow Marvin Durbin, Alton Culp, Wilson Atkinson, Henry Bates, Alfred and Howard Penton, Keith Dickerson, Don Owen, Jack Mims, Allen Foshee, Misses Jewell Foshee, Inez McKee, Lottie Henley, Mary Lois Culp, Louise Cox, Edna Durbin, Games were played until late and then we had some music by a string band. Then all went home wishing Clemon many more happy birthdays.

The singing at Mr. E. L. Henley's Friday night was enjoyed by a large crowd and we will meet at the home of Mr. J. D. Culp Thursday night of this week, which will be today, instead of Friday night. Everybody come and let's make this one of the best singings of the year.

Messrs. Wilson Atkinson, Woodrow Durbin, Clemon Henley, Henry Bates, dined with Mr. Cecil McKee Sunday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Patterson and sons, Herschell and Billie Frank. Miss Lottie Henley attended the Box Supper at Cane Creek Saturday night. Mrs. Patterson is the teacher at that place.

Miss Edna Durbin was the week end guest of Miss Lena Mae Deloach.

Messrs. J. T. Cox, V. C. McKee and several others from this place and near here went to Birmingham Saturday and heard Secretary Wallace speak.

Miss Ruth Williams was the guest of Mrs. Comer Durbin Friday night.

Again Tom Frank Teel will delight a Chilton county audience with his witty remarks and superb acting at Vermont School Saturday night, Dec. 23.

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA

To the Customers of
Alabama Power Company:

We did not escape the storm that broke in 1929. Just as with other industries and individuals by the fall of that year our earnings began to be affected. But hoping for a speedy recovery of business we kept on for some time building new lines and substations and finishing up projects then under way. The President of the United States asked us and all other utilities throughout the country to do this in order to keep men at work as long as possible. We gladly cooperated in this and every other wish of the President just as today we are members of NRA and cooperating with the President.

For ten years ending with 1929, this company spent an average of over $14,000,000 per year on the purchase of properties and the building of new power plants, substations, transmission and distribution lines to expand its service throughout the state. The annual amounts spent since 1929 have, of course, been very much smaller.

The 1933 original forecast called for an extension program of $874,469 but it looks at this time as if less than $500,000 will be spent.

As can be seen from the above expenditures this company's growth has been greatly affected by the stagnation of general business.

Yours very truly,

President.

REDUCED PASSENGER FARES
Between All Points on THE LOUISVILLE L&N & NASHVILLE R.R.
HAVE BEEN IN EFFECT SINCE LAST APRIL

This railroad, joined by several of the more progressive shorter lines in the southeastern territory, was the first major trunk line in America to materially reduce its fares over its entire system and to abolish the Pullman surcharge. Now, since similar reductions are being made by other railroads in the north, the south and the west, tickets can be sold to those sections of the country at greatly reduced fares. Generally, the basis is the same as on this railroad.

3¢ A MILE... for transportation one way in Pullmans with the addition of only the berth or seat cost and no surcharge. Not over...

2¢ A MILE... in coaches. Round trip tickets in Pullmans at from 2 to 2½¢ per mile traveled. Liberal return limits.

the county in behalf of securing these RFC funds and cooperated splendidly prior to the special election, Reynolds carried his idea and did some good work.

The commissioners are due credit for their broadmindedness in leaving the question up to the people to vote on, and see whether the people wanted those first funds from the RFC. Those people of the county who voted and expressed the wish for the county to secure the money, are to be commended for their actions in this. To them is due considerable credit for the securing of the RFC funds. The Union-Banner failed to mention this, but it might be a good idea to bring it out.

The national government which is under Democratic control and through whose efforts the RFC and CWA funds and jobs were made available, offered the RFC proposition to every county, and the people of Chilton County cast votes saying they wanted the money. Reynolds could have turned the proposition down cold, and deserves credit for not doing it.

The News unhesitatingly gives Reynolds credit for his splendid and untiring efforts to see that Chilton County was properly taken care of with the RFC funds offered by the Democratic government of the United States. He gave of his time and his money, it was his duty to his people whether he be a Democrat or Republican, and it would have been poor business for him and the people of the county, had he shirked that duty.

The News also acknowledges that Reynolds should be given credit for the splendid manner in which he is able to use his influence with officials of the State of Alabama in Montgomery, due to his personality and his support and efforts in behalf of the campaign of Gov. Miller when he was running for Governor of Alabama.

We give Reynolds and the Commissioners Court of Chilton County credit and congratulate them on their judgment and direction of projects being worked out with this government money. Reynolds deserves credit for his splendid directing of the Commissioners in their administration of county affairs. While there are times when the News believes they open themselves to criticism, there are plenty of times when they are to be congratulated for their thoughtfulness.

The Union-Banner made reference to Coosa County, and the fact that the publisher of the News owns and operates a newspaper in that county, The Rockford Chronicle. The Union-Banner wonders why Coosa County, a Democratic County, has not secured any of these relief funds. It asks if the county officials of Coosa County have tried to get this relief for their people. There are few people in Chilton county who do not know of the splendid character and integrity of the people of Coosa County.

We are pleased, as publishers of the Coosa County paper, to inform The Union-Banner and others that relief offices have been open and in operation in Coosa County for sometime and that offices of the CWA re-emplyment program are in operation there also, registering people for jobs, giving relief where it is found needed and with experienced workers in charge of the offices. The writer of the editorial in The Union-Banner should keep himself a little better posted.

Now that the News has made it plain to anyone interested that it has no intentions of being "contemptible and mean" as The Union-Banner puts it, and that it does not hesitate in giving Reynolds, or anyone else, full credit for interest in the county, since The Union-Banner wanted to make it a "Reynolds issue," and now that we have straightened them out on their deviation to Coosa County, we will get back to the original subject as stated in our editorial of November 30th, in which we claimed that an attempt was being made, and is possibly being made now, to have the people of Chilton county believe that the hundreds of jobs being given through the CWA in this county, are made possible by Republicans, and to attempt to keep from the people the fact that these re-employment funds were originally made available through the efforts of Democrats, and not until Democrats were elected to office did these funds show up, and these jobs offered to the over eight-hundred persons in Chilton County.

In other words, everyone who has been given a job in Chilton County and who is receiving their wages from the Treasury of the United States through the offices of the National Re-Employment program, can be assured that the Democrats who were elected and are now in office in Washington, are responsible for it.

Following is an excerpt from a statement made by a man who is in Washington and is in a position to know what is going on, and a man who believes in justice. This is part of a statement he made in regard to the CWA re-employment funds in Chilton County:

"Mr. Roosevelt is alone responsible for the release of this fund which Congress placed in his hands for an emergency like this and any one, who is on the payroll of the Government to administer the law, so that it will carry help to the unemployed, regardless of their political affiliation, religion or color, who, when rumors of this kind are brought to his attention, fails to correct the same as you have done, ought not to be continued in the service."

The Union-Banner, in an effort to prove that some Republicans had something to do with it, brought out the fact that there were at least one thousand Republican voters in Chilton county who voted for President Roosevelt, a Democrat. Hats off to those voters who were ready for that "New Deal" and cast their votes under the emblem of the party that recognizes the working man and works to his interests. The News congratulates those voters of Chilton County and the United States who voted for a Democratic President.

The News still believes that the accusations as stated above, coming from citizens of the county, have grounds, and that the attempts to keep the truth from the people are true.

Young Powell's neck was broken and he died instantly. Two other occupants of the car escaped injury. Powell was rushed to the Central Alabama Hospital, but Dr. V. J. Gragg, staff surgeon, expressed the opinion that he had been killed instantly.

Lawley was struck, while walking along the road near Stanton, by a car driven by Leslie Parnell, of Maplesville. He died en route to a Selma hospital.

Information given the News stated that two cars were meeting and the brilliance of the lights blinded Parnell, making it impossible for him to see Lawley, who was walking. No charges had been placed against Parnell late Monday, according to Sheriff W. H. Gillespie.

Chances are favorable for the recovery of Smith, according to information from hospital aides,

Surviving young Powell are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Powell, and one brother, Cecil Powell, all of the Walnut Creek community.

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon from the Walnut Creek church. Burial was in the churchyard cemetery, with Martin & Sons in charge.

At this writing it had not been learned when and where funeral services were conducted for Lawley.

years from a little hamlet into one of the most enterprising towns in the South. The construction of a City Hall will be another land mark in its progress. In next week's issue of the News will be carried a financial statement from the Town of Clanton, which will show its financial status to be much above that of the average Alabama town, or city.

Under the Public Works loans, it is understood that 30 per cent of funds secured for civic or public improvement is outright grant from the federal government and is not to be repaid. Clanton will be expected to repay only $21,000 of the $30,000 loan, it was explained by city officials.

of the foremost figures fighting for a county-owned airport, that even another day's delay might result in the funds not being available to Chilton county, Commissioner Duke made a motion that the county purchase the proposed tract of land and make application for its improvement, but Commissioners Cobb and Atchison refused to even express themselves.

A few months ago, it will be remembered, that the commissioners voted to appropriate several thousand dollars each month in order that R.F.C. funds would be available to the county, justifying this action with the assertion that it was to provide work for unemployed. The construction of an airport, besides being a worthwhile project, would furnish employment to several skilled workmen, and would not interfere with the present allocation of CWA funds to the county. Few of the CWA projects in the county call for skilled workmen.

Many persons are wondering how the two commissioners are going to justify their inconsistency in not taking advantage of this opportunity to furnish employment, when they enthusiastically appropriated a like percentage of county funds to have leaves raked from ditches, only to be washed back by the next rain.

The first organization meeting in the three states was held last week in New Orleans at which a board of directors for that local association was selected from among representatives of 17 parishes. Their first act was to apply to the governor of the Farm Credit Administration in Washington for a charter.

"These local associations will provide a source of credit to farmers who need to borrow for production purposes," Mr. Hearin explained. "The Production Credit Corporation of New Orleans was created to organize such credit facilities by furnishing most of the capital of the local associations and to supervise their operations.

"Each indiivdual borrower also subscribes to stock in the association thru which he borrows, in the amount of 5 per cent of his loan. In this way the associations can discount notes for their members amounting to about five times the paid-in capital. Stock of borrowers does not carry double liability.

"It is very necessary to effect the organization of production credit facilities speedily, and the farmers of Alabama may be assured that these facilities wil lbe available in time for the next crop season."

CLANTON YOUTH MAKES TRY TO END HIS LIFE

Stewart Armstrong Is Near Death After Firing Bullet Into Chest

Slight hopes are held for the recovery of Stewart Armstrong, 25, who fired a 38 calibre revolver bullet into his chest, early Tuesday morning, in an effort to end his own life, according to hospital aides at the Central Alabama Hospital, where he was taken for treatment.

Declaring that he did not care to live longer, the youth is said to have placed the muzzle of the pistol against his chest and pulled the trigger, amid the pleadings of his mother, to whom he had made known his intention to end his life.

Possible disappointment in love was given as a reason by some of his friends. For sometime, he has often made threats to kill himself, according to reports. Early Tuesday morning, he sought to borrow a gun from several parties in Clanton, declaring that he intended to shoot a dog.

After securing the gun he returned to his home and is said to have told his mother, Mrs. Will Armstrong, of his intention to shoot himself; and while she was trying to reconcile him—he placed the muzzle of the gun against his chest and pulled the trigger.

He was rushed to the Central Alabama Hospital in a Martin & Sons ambulance, where it was reported that the ball had struck his left lung, barely missing the heart. His father, Will Armstrong, for many years a rural mail carrier here, ended his life in the same manner several years ago.

AIRPORT FOR ROCKFORD IS A POSSIBILITY

Securing Of Tract Of Land Is Next Move To Be Made By Local Officials

Rockford, Ala., Dec. 24—Mayor A. L. Lecroy received a telegram Saturday from Thad Holt, State CWA administrator, that Rockford had been chosen as a location for an airport, since the Department of Commerce is desirous that the airport facilities of Alabama be increased and since CWA funds have been allocated to the Department for that purpose.

Sunday, a plane from Roberts Field circled the town and left more detailed instructions to the mayor concerning the requirements that must be complied with in order for his application to be approved.

A tract of land containing from about 60 to 160 acres or more will be needed.

An engineer from Montgomery was here Monday to assist Mayor LeCroy in securing the tract of land, but as we go to press, our information is that no location has been secured.

This project would give work to a great score of men, could it be put over, and this employment would be additional to the County's regular quota of men.

DRAINING OF SWAMPS GOES FORWARD HERE

Much Needed Work Made Possible Over County Through CWA

A much-needed improvement to Clanton and surrounding territory seems well underway. With more than 200 men busy digging ditches to drain surplus water from the hundreds of acres of swampland that surrounds Clanton, the chances of completion of the project within the next few months are favorable.

Long have these swamps, with their breeding places for mosquitoes, been a menace to health and beauty of the county seat of Chilton, and thus a handicap to the entire county. Under the provisions of the CWA, wonderful strides are being made toward the removal of these hazards.

County and city officials have shown a great deal of interest and loyalty in aiding in the promotion of this work. Individual owners of sections of the swamps, too, have cooperated wonderfully with officials in securing funds through the government emergency programs to protect the health of the residents of Clanton, and to add prestige to the county by beautifying its county seat.

Ditches, totalling more than five miles in length, are being opened through the two prongs of the swamp that entirely surrounds the town. With a twelve-foot opening at the top and tapering to eight feet at the bottom of the five foot ditch, it is believed by experienced engineers that adequate draining will be afforded. It was pointed out, however, that property owners can greatly aid in the success of the project by opening ditches through their property to connect with the main ditch.

OUR COMMISSIONERS ARE TO BE COMMENDED

The Commissioners of Chilton County are to be commended for their change of mind in the matter of aiding this county in securing an airport, after turning the proposition down last week.

They met again last Thursday afternoon and after a brief discussion, consented to allow the county to do its share so that the United States government could go forward with the work.

The News believes it a wise move, a progressive step, and commends the county commissioners for their good judgment. Now, Chilton County will be ranked along with other counties in boasting of a government-built airport, an investment which in a few years will mean almost as much as our highways and railroads do today.

A NEW YEAR WITH NEW HOPES

New Year's resolutions are made by many, some in fun, others seriously. The New Year, 1934, is upon us. Only a few days left of 1933, a year that has carried with it, many pages of history in the lives of men and our country.

Definite plans, not resolutions, are needed now. Plans to be carried out in the face of changing conditions. So often, during the past few years, one could hear the remark, "If I could only pull through this year." Those who have made that remark have more than pulled through, and now with 1934 facing us, have a new year with which to start, with new and brighter hopes and inspirations.

Two years ago, the News frankly stated that it believed business conditions would improve. No one can doubt that conditions have improved beyond imagination. Chilton County has before it one of the most important years it has seen in many, many moons. Important because business conditions are improving, not only in this county, but over the entire country.

So, now is the time for plans to be made—plans that will enable us to "pull through" in the future with nothing less than a bright outlook facing us—an outlook brighter than ever in the past few years.

We want to remind our farmers that the worst is over. Now at this off-season in farming is the time for planning a program of work for the next season. Don't forget your mistakes, and profit by them. Plan with the thought in mind that you have soil to produce food for your family and livestock, as well as soil that will produce products you hope to sell.

The News wants to take this opportunity to extend its sincere thanks and appreciation for the business given us during the year 1933. We can say frankly and without hesitancy that the year just closing has been a year of progress for the News, and we realize that we owe this to the people we serve.

When the New Year of 1934 rolls in, we will have in mind that the News hopes to continue serving the people of this section through its columns, only we hope to serve better. Each year during the past has brought to the News gladness and progress.

21 CARS ARE DERAILED IN TRAIN WRECK

Several Persons Injured In Worst Wreck In Many Years Near Here

The crushed and mangled body of one unidentified negro man was extricated late Tuesday night from the mass of debris and wreckage of the Louisville & Nashville freight No. 73, which left the track at the south-end of the Wadsworth switch, piling twenty-one cars into a mass of splintered wreckage, and injuring 13 persons.

Two wrecking crews worked frantically all night to ascertain the fate of two men and two women hoboes believed to be buried underneath a carload of slag, but early Wednesday morning their bodies had not been found.

The fast through freight from Louisville to New Orleans left the rails about three-quarters of a mile below Wadsworth shortly before noon Tuesday, and 21 cars tumbled from the track, some of them being pyramided to a depth of four cars.

It is under the pile of wreckage that the two men and two women were believed to be buried and their fate had not been learned. Hundreds of spectators during the afternoon gathered about the wreckage, listening intently for a human sound or cry, but heard none.

Mystery Surrounds Identity

Who they are and where they lived also is a mystery. They were riding in a box car between a coal car and a car of slag. The box car is buried under a heap of slag and coal, while for some distance on either end is piled the remaining 18 cars.

Conductor R. L. Bryant, of Montgomery, who escaped injury, told a representative of the News that he was sure the two women were on the train

"I had given them a quarter each with which to buy something to eat when they reached Montgomery," he said. "This was only a short while before the wreck occurred."

All of those injured, except the fireman, were "hoboes" it was reported. Some were taken to Clanton, but most of them were taken to Montgomery. None was seriously injured.

Those in the Clanton hospital are: Bill Powell, 1630 Eleventh Avenue, So., Birmingham; Homer Martin, 1108 Avenue G, Birmingham; and Lewis Jackson, negro, Realford, Ala.

Those in the Montgomery hospital are: Clifford Snipes, Hurtsboro; Dan and Coy Richway, Gadsden; J. B. Anderson, Elkston, Tenn.; M.W. Williams, Cincinnati; Calvin Gamble, 218 Powell Street, Atlanta; Will Loftin, negro fireman, 1818 Cahaba Street, Birmingham; Joe Davis, negro, Birmingham; Johnny Jemison, negro, Birmingham; Ernest Lacy, negro, Mobile.

The time of the wreck was fixed at 11:52 a.m. The engine, it was unofficially reported, struck a piece of wood that had fallen or had been placed upon the rail. This derailed the "pony" trucks, or the trucks under the pilot.

This was about one mile north from the sceen of the crash.

'Something Wrong'

"I knew something was wrong," Will Loftin, negro fireman, told a representative of the News. "I tapped the engineer on the shoulder and told him to stop. He said he was trying to stop. Then she left the rails and we were buried under coal."

Engineer E. G. Lovell, of Birmingham, was extricated from beneath the coal and was uninjured. Fireman Loftin was only slightly injured.

The block of wood was found, it was reported, and is in possession of railroad officials.

Some of those injured were hurt by

COMMISSIONERS CHANGE MINDS FOR AIRPORT

Project Will Go Through; Work Is Expected To Start Soon

Work is expected to begin immediately on the Chilton County Airport, at Clanton, according to information from R. L. Pittman, county director of CWA work.

Final approval of the site selected by an airport expert and purchased by the county was made Tuesday afternoon by Lieut. S. S. Tatum, CWA airport engineer for Alabama, who declared, Tuesday night, in a conversation with a News reporter that between $15,000 and $20,000 will likely be expended in the improvement of the field. Declaring that Clanton is strategically located on the proposed airmail route from Nashville to Montgomery, Lieutenant Tatum stated that aeronautic authorities are intensely interested in an adequate landing field in Clanton

Local aviation enthusiastists have been working for sometime in an effort to interest county officials in the proposed project; and recently when an appropriation for the promotion of aviation was made, immediate efforts were made to secure a part of the fund for Chilton county. Members of the county commissioners court appropriated county funds at a meeting last Thursday to purchase the sixty-acre site

Mr. Pittman stated that he believes active work will be begun on the field shortly after the first of the year.

COUNTY AGENT TELLS ABOUT COTTON PLAN

New Era For Chilton County Cotton Farmer Comes With New Year

New Year's Day is the beginning of a New Era for the Chilton County Cotton Farmer. January 1 has been set as the day to start the "Sign-up" campaign of the 1934-1935 cotton production adjustment contracts, according to J. W. Fant, County Agent.

"This Campaign," says Mr. Fant, "is to cover the sixteen cotton producing states and Chilton County will share with the other counties of Alabama and with the other southern states in the rentals to be paid by the Government to the individual farmers, who cooperate in this campaign, which has as its purpose the returning to a 'parity' or 'fair-share' price for cotton. In other words," says the County Agent, "it hopes to give a bale of cotton the buying power of a pre-war bale of cotton.

"The Government," he explains, "will pay rent at the rate of 3½c per pound for the average yield of lint cotton per acre during the years 1928-1932 inclusive, with a maximum rental payment of $18 per acre to be paid in two equal installments, the first to be made between March 1 and April 30, 1934 approximately, and the second between August 1 and September 30, 1934.

"A parity payment," he adds, "of not less than 1c per pound lint cotton shall be made to the producer between December 1, 1934 and January 1, 1935 approximately, on the 'Farm Allotment.' (The "Farm Allotment" is 40% of the average production during the years 1928-1932 inclusive.-

"The Government," he further explains, "will not rent less than 35% and not more than 45% of the average acreage planted in cotton during the years 1928-1932 inclusive."

No producer who signs a rental contract will be allowed to increase his cotton acreage above what he planted in cotton in 1932 or 1933, concluded Mr. Fant.

Recovery's Worst Enemy

"Taxation can become so oppressive that it defeats the very purpose for which it was levied," said Alfred E. Smith recently. "And what becomes of it? It is charged as a debt against the very people it was designed to help."

That is especially applicable in times of stress, when government—federal, state and local—is making laudable efforts to stimulate recovery. Bills are passed designed to raise the public's purchasing power—and then the danger appears that the cost of putting their provisions into action will in itself be a major detriment to purchasing and spending. Acts seeking to put men to work become part of the law and it is possible, if they are based on faulty premises, for them to destroy jobs through taxation, instead of creating more.

There is a growing feeling on the part of business men, large and small, that the next essential step on the road toward normalcy should be definite reductions in the cost of government. The tax collector has closed thousands of commercial concerns, foreclosed on a multitude of farms, deprived workers of their jobs and homes. He is the best friend hard times has. He's recovery's worst enemy.

More efficient and economical government, all the way from Washington to the smallest county seat—that's the need of the hour.

Winter Building --- A Tonic For Business

The Administration's objective to place 4,000,000 additional men at work this winter, insofar as construction is concerned, is entirely in keeping with engineering possibilities, according to Edward J. Mehren, President of the Portland Cement Association.

"Building in winter is definitely practicable," said Mr. Mehren. "Some years ago construction engineers and builders exploded the centuries old myth that construction, like the bear, should go into hiding with the first nip of frost. Methods have been in common use for years which permit of building in winter with rapidity and safety.

"A survey recently conducted by the Construction League of the United States revealed that normally one of every ten workers in the country has a job in construction or in an industry dependent upon construction. Further, one of every five loaded railroad cars contains materials or equipment for construction. Therefore, when construction hits a snag such as winter, all industry and business, and practically all people, suffer a drop in income and many workers get no income at all."

The Federal government and many of the states, are doing all that is in their power to live up to the pledge that there shall not be another winter like the last. To produce the greatest results their efforts must have the cooperation of the private citizen. By building and repairing this winter he will get bargains in construction values—and he will be demonstrating his faith in the axiom that investment and employment are better and cheaper than charity.

Getting It In The Neck

When the gasoline tax first became popular, shortly following the war, it had an excellent argument to recommend it: That the motorist should pay a fair share of the cost of building and maintaining the highways over which he drives.

That's still an excellent argument for a reasonable gas tax. But the motorist has been getting it in the neck to a constantly increasing degree. He's buying highways he never gets. He's maintaining others that don't exist.

In 1932, according to recently published figures, the tax revenue from gasoline and automobiles in one state was 271 per cent of all moneys spent for roads. In some states it was 150 per cent. For the nation as a whole, it was above 100 per cent. Yet other sources of revenue had to be drawn upon to keep up road building and maintenance. Why? Because only 70 per cent of the income from these special additional road taxes was actually used for roads—the rest going for other purposes.

The other purposes, needless to say, didn't fall within the province of motoring. They may have been necessary and desirable, but they should have been paid for out of general funds, contributed by all taxpayers. As it was, the motorist was and is suffering the most unjust kind of class taxation. He pays twice where others pay once—first through his general taxes, then through special automobile taxes. He is, in common parlance, the guy who takes it.

There are signs that worm motorist is turning. He's learned that so long as he keeps quiet he's going to be in for more and more unjust discrimination. And he'd better turn fast if he is to keep the cost of running his car from becoming even more prohibitive than it is at present.

President Roosevelt --- A Real Santa Claus

The News asks to be pardoned for alluding to Christmas and Santa Claus, now that Christmas has just passed and it is a year before it comes again. But while we were enjoying our modest Christmas dinner and having enjoyed meeting old friends and extending Yuletide greetings, we were also thinking of the many men and women in Chilton County, and elsewhere, who probably had a much better and happier Christmas this year than last. Why? Because they had a job and were earning a decent wage.

President Roosevelt certainly has carried out his statement that, "We will not go through another winter like he last." And in doing his, he made it possible for many, many fathers and mothers to give their children a little Christmas joy, which every child deserves.

That human feeling which our great Democratic President injects into his program for his people is becoming more and more evident. He is not too big to know us little fellows, even if he is the Chief Executive of the United States. That human feeling of his reached out this year and touched the purses, flattened in years past, making them feel the clink of money; it reached out and touched the hearts of many persons and gave them back their pride with joy and happiness combined.

We hope that the people of Chilton County will not forget what Christmas 1931 and Christmas 1932 were, because then there will remain in their minds the pleasant memories of Christmas 1933 when a man seated in the chair of the President of the United States brought joy to countless thousands of hearts.

NRA Prefers "Orderly" Persons

The more caustic critics of NRA have managed to convince the country that their fulminations in behalf of both consumers and industry are at once tardy and premature. Described by the Philadelphia Record as "elderly gentlemen who should be on their guard against high blood pressure, rapidly approaching the apoplectic stage over NRA", usually unbiased editorial comment reflects the view that their attacks are peculiarly inopportune. It is pointed out that if the National Industrial Recovery Act merited the risk of hardening their arteries, the people should have been warned before an overwhelming majority of employers signed the President's Reemployment Agreement and a preponderant proportion of consumers had signified in writing their purpose to patronize only those firms which support the Blue Eagle.

More than four million men and women had been restored to regular gainful employment before the country was admonished to beware of state socialism and informed that industry prefers "the more orderly process of voluntary presentation of codes." There is truth in this latter assertion. The great steel industry's code, which became effective in August for a 3-month trial period, was not accepted by the industry with alacrity. But the recent resolutions of the American Iron and Steel Institute, the code authority for steel, had a genuine ring of sincerity in declaring the code eminently satisfactory and requesting its extension. Agreement on the many codes submitted for the soft coal industry was a stupenduous task. Yet that long suffering trade has never enjoyed such a period of peace and progress. The same experience and present condition applies to lumber and other industries operating under codes, whose approval by the President was delayed until the members of the industry were indeed "orderly" and the public interest was thoroughly protected.

An Epochal Speech

In view of subsequent events, students of the New Deal era are inclined to rank the address made by Franklin D. Roosevelt before the Commonwealth club in San Francisco last September as not only the most important of the campaign, but as marking the end of one economic era and the beginning of another. Mr. Ernest K. Lindley, Roosevelt biographer and author of the important new volume, "The Roosevelt Revolution," so classifies the San Francisco utterance. The address was shot through with the sentiments which have since manifested themselves so abundantly as factors of the New Deal administration. Here is an example of the general tone of that notable speech:

> Every man has a right to life; and this means that he has also a right to a comfortable living. He may by sloth or crime decline to exercise that right, but it may not be denied him.
> We have no actual famine or dearth; our industrial and agricultural mechanism can produce enough to spare.
>
> Our government, formal and informal, political and economic, owes to everyone an avenue to possess himself of a portion of that plenty sufficient for his needs, through his own work.
> But if every man has a right by his efforts to acquire his share of the nation's abundance, he also has a right to have his accumulations adequately protected and safeguarded. In the words of Mr. Roosevelt at San Francisco:
>
> Every man has a right to his own property; which means a right to be assured, to the fullest extent attainable, in the safety of his savings.
> By no other means can men carry the burdens of those parts of life which, in the nature of things, afford no chance of labor: childhood, sickness, old age.
> In all thought of property, this right is paramount; all other property rights must yield to it.
> If, in accord with this principle, we must restrict the operations of the speculator, the manipulaor, even the financier, I believe we must accept the restriction as needful, not to hamper individualism, but to protect it.

Certainly throughout the New Deal program can be seen the evidence of the administration's effort to make the government assure and safeguard every man's right to life and through work to a share of the products of our industrial and agricultural mechanism. The administration has also moved to make the government responsible for safeguarding every man's savings against the demands of the periods of life when earnings are not possible, such as childhood, sickness and old age.

The carrying out of the proposals made at San Francisco has had the effect of centering attention upon the epochal character of the San Francisco campaign speech.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

And it came to pass that a preacher asked another minister to help him in a revival meeting and he met with a refusal. The meeting was to be held in the community where the minister lived and that was his excuse for not assisting his comrade in the gospel. Later on this preacher has pointed out to him a "Shanty" built near this minister's home and was told that the licensed preacher would have fits of pouting with his wife and family and would go to this provided shanty and stay alone and pout for a week. He had provided a cot, a rocking chair and cooking pots and pans to make his pouting easy for himself. When his week of pouting was over he would come home to his family like a saint of God. Verily, verily I say unto you this man lost his influence in the community where he lived and his preaching was vain. The loudest preaching ever delivered is in the way the preacher lives, and not in his power of speech.

I was standing by the wire fence that enclosed a lot covered over with second hand cars when a drunk man staggered up to me and greeted me in these words, "Hello, Mr. Buick Car." I turned and looked at him in astonishment and said, "Partner, what is eating on you, I am no car." Then he replied, "I thought that you were a Buick car and I would ride you home." He went on his way down the sidewalk staggering from side to side and muttering, "I beg your pardon sir, it was my mistake, I thought sure you were a car." It would have been bad for me if I had been a Buick car and allowed that drunk fool to sit at the wheel. If I had been what he thought I was a car would have been wrecked, doubtless innocent people would have been injured and the drunk man himself mangled. The new model cars are having added almost everything that you can mention, except sense enough to prevent a drunken fool from sitting at the wheel. When I get out a new model car I am going to put something under the driver's seat that will explode when he turns fool, whether he be sober or drunk, and blow him through the top of the car.

Recently I passed a store door in which sat a young woman. She seemed to be guarding a collection of Gypsy merchandise. This human covered over with colors, held a cigarette between her fingers, while the smoke curled from her lips. I was not shocked, for the woman fit into her manners beautifully. It was normal to expect that anyone with her environment and ideals would be brazen enough to sit in a store door and smoke cigarettes. Allow me to tell you when I am shocked. It is when I see a beautiful white girl, or woman—one who has been trained in a Christian home, one who has been brought up under the roof of a church, one who has culture and refinement, with a cigarette between her fingers and with cigarette smoke curling from her lips. We just naturally expect better things of white women and girls. When I see a white woman smoking cigarettes I am reminded of a large Blue-Bottle Blow fly sitting in the cream that covers a helping of strawberries.

There was a day when a preacher traveled his circuit in a buggy. One night in those good old days I rode up to a country home after dark, and hitching my horse I quietly walked up the steps. On reaching the gallery I could see in the family room, and there sitting by the fireside I looked upon the aged mother of the home. The daughters were out looking after the duties of the home, but that saintly mother was sitting there in the dim light, rocking to and fro, and dreaming. I lifted my hat and stood for many moments looking on and wondering. I knew the family well and I knew what that mother was thinking about. She had sons who were far away, she had daughters who had married and lived in other states. She was dreaming of those children far away. I saw her as she lifted her hand to her eyes and wiped away the tears. I could not read her thoughts and I could hear no sounds, but I knew what was in the mind of that mother and I knew what sounds were in her ears. She was just dreaming and I felt mean to break the revelry of her soul. Let those grand old mothers of ours sit and dream, it is food for the soul. Let them live in the past for that is the time when they really lived.

TIRE INFLATION

Tests recently made indicate that by keeping automobile tires inflated at the standard gauge recommended by the manufacturers from 25 to 30 per cent more mileage may be obtained.

Soft tires not only wear out quicker, but they damage the highway by their suction, which picks up the road surface.

Jamming on brakes unnecessarily is also a cause of tire waste, as the treads are thereby ground into the road. A survey for road-builders in the state of New York is said to have shown that on main-traveled roads the surface would assay about 8 per cent rubber after a few years of use.

Frequent testing of tire pressure takes little time, and proper inflation saves both tires and roadways.

Letters To The Editor

"DISILLUSIONMENT"

Editor, Chilton County News:

President Roosevelt, in an effort to revive employment and start the flow of money through the channels of trade, has launched the greatest campaign of reemployment this country has ever known, and is spending hundreds of millions of dollars of public money as an artificial stimulus to business. It has been advertised far and wide as having two objects in view. To relieve hunger and distress, and to increase buying power. We believed that this large amount of money spent in the way we had been led to believe it would be spent would be very beneficial to us, even though the real value of the it was spent on were of doubtful value. The people are going to be sadly disappointed when they fully realize how politics and favoritism has crept into the administration of this huge sum of the people's money, and see how those in need were barred from its benefits. The manner in which this campaign is being conducted will greatly reduce its beneficial effects by putting the money into the hands of the wrong class of citizens. Many of our citizens of wealth and influence, with their wives, daughters and sons have been the first to receive its benefits. The foregoing is based upon my personal interview with the employment agent of Chilton county, Mr. Stokes. I am a Spanish War veteran, sixty years old, with dependents, and in need of work. I have 15 years of experience in general business, bookkeeping and salesmanship, with a fair education rounded out by much reading and travel, and yet I could not qualify for the simple work of interviewing people and taking their application for a job. When I called Mr. Stokes' attention to the fact that the office was filled with boys and girls he said I could not give him the speed of the younger people, and when I called his attention to the fact that many of them were sons and daughters of wealthy parents, he said the fact of need did not enter into the qualifications. Now I am sorry that this manner of administering the program bars me and many others in my position from its benefits, and I am sorry that a great amount of this money is being paid out to people who do not need and who will not spend it, but will store it away with their other savings, where it is failing to do its part towards relief and recovery.

Our President, through the influence of the economy league, first cuts the old grey haired Spanish War veterans off the pension rolls in the name of economy to save a few million dollars, and then proceeds to spend billions of dollars on the CCC and CWA from which the Spanish veteran is barred, and is not even allowed the crumbs that fall from the table. There is something wrong, boys. Dogs get a better deal than that.

BAPTISM AS IT IS

Baptism requires water, Acts. 10:47; much water, Jno. 3:21; coming to water, and going down into the water, Acts 8:36-38; a burial, Rom. 6:3-6; a resurrection, Col. 2:12; and a coming up out of the water, Acts 8:39.

Baptism is referred to as "The washing of regeneration" Titus 3:5; "That He might sanctify and cleanse (the church) it by the washing of water by the word, Eph. 5:23-26; "Bodies washed with pure water," Heb. 10:22-23; "Born of water," Jno. 3:5; "There are three that bear witness in earth, the spirit, and the water, and the blood, I Jno. 5:8.

The Holy Spirit said that baptism is for the remission of sins, Acts 2:38. In other places it is referred to in such manner. Christ said, "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved," Mark 16:15-16. "Be baptized and wash away thy sins," Acts 22:16. "Baptized the same hour of the night . . . rejoiced, having believed, Acts. 16:33-34. "Baptized and went on his way rejoicing" Acts 8:39. "Commanded them to be baptized," Acts 10:48. "Buried with him by baptism into death . . . obeyed from the heart that form of doctrine . . . being then made free from sin," Rom. 6:3-18. "For as many of you as have been baptized into Christ have put on Christ," Gal. 3:27. "Baptism doth also now save us," I Pt. 3:21.

We all understand that baptism is only one of God's requirements. It is not the only thing He requires of us, but it is a positive command of God. To be scripturally baptized one must first believe, repent, confess Christ before he is ready for baptism. Also one may be ducked and not be baptized, but one cannot be baptized without being buried.

THE HIT DOG HOWLS THEY SAY

Editor, Chilton County News:

I am very much gratified at the response to my article on the Bibb Graves candidacy. I am pleased to have the compliments of my friends who see as I do, but the greater compliment is the howls of the enemy, as noted by the letter of a Mr. Steel of Rockford and it convinces me that I made a bulls eye hit. I do not care to enter into any controversy with Mr. Steel as he seems to be a mind reader and I could not hold my own with a mind reader, as I am not one, still my guess might be as good. Now he certainly is a mind reader, or how else could he tell so well that I was a disappointed job seeker? How else could he tell that exactly 85% of our school teachers were going to vote for Mr. Graves? How else could he be so sure of Mr. Graves election? How else but by his mind reading could he be so positive that there were no diversions of func under the Graves administration and that he left no deficit, when the records show otherwise? Mr. Graves said there was no deficit and Miller believed it until he saw the record. Now, Mr. Steel mentions the great number of school buildings and good roads Mr. Graves built. That is all if he could have done that without starting the state on the road to bankrupcy. I wonder if Mr. Steel is aware of the fact that our schools could run a little longer this year if it were not for the $600,000.00 school building bonds that have to be cared for out of the present school funds. No, Mr. Steel, the teachers are not so easily fooled.

I fully believe our people would r er have seven months school in an ordinary building than to have three and one-half months in a fine building. Now, Mr. Steel seems to think I have not been around much, but he is mistaken. I went to the city of Rockford o and I must say I found a fine bunch of people, though I am a little disappointed in them if they all vote for M Graves as Mr. Steel seems to thin they will.

Now, I take one more shot and if I can hit the bulls eye again. people would like to know where Graves was in '28. He could not be found in the firing line.

Now as to job seeking I will leave it to the people to judge who is the job seeker. I will close with the best of personal good wishes for Mr. Steel.

UPWARD TREND CONTINUES IN ALL LINES OF BUSINESS

Washington.—Marked improvement in retail and wholesale trade is displayed in Government reports and private reporting agencies without exception. An emphatic change in sentiment is noticeable in financial circles toward all phases of the President's recovery program and particularly in the case of NRA, which financiers had criticized severely for many weeks. Many of them are now being quoted in the financial sections of newspapers as being convinced that NRA is "getting somewhere."

Last week's business comparisons reported to the Federal Reserve showed that business in dollars as shown by the number of checks cashed all over the country was 15.6 percent of the same period last year. The Department of Labor reports employment as "steady, with a gain of 23.5 percent over a year ago, which wages have advanced in the period 34.3 percent", and the trend in reemployment is declared to be gradually upward in all branches of industry and trade.

The Industrial Conference Board reports the cost of living up 2.5 percent compared with early December 1932. Wholesale prices are up 18 percent and agricultural prices 25 percent. Dun & Bradstreet reports that business failures are 40 percent lower than a year ago at this time. Bond prices are 6.3 percent higher than in December 1932, stock prices 53 percent, and stock-market volume 11.6 percent. Favorable dividend changes during the past week totaled 43, the largest number in any single week in the past 2 years. Five payments were increased, 17 resumed, 8 initial payments were made, and 13 extra dividends also declared. The fact that the recent United States Treasury subscriptions for the current issue of $950,000,000 of 2¼-percent one-year certificates were more than three times oversubscribed impressed financiers everywhere.

The American Steel and Iron Institute reports steel production for mid-December at 31.5 percent of capacity, against 28.3 December 1 and 26 in mid-November. Evans Products Co.'s earnings for the third quarter this year were $208,356, against net loss of $69,080 in similar 1932 period. Reports for October and November show that Remington Rand's earnings were greater than for the 3 months ending September 30, although seasonally sales in November average 4 percent under those of October. For the current quarter the company's net profits were $203,656 after charges, compared with a net loss of $617,580 for the corresponding quarter last year.

Completed statements to the Interstate Commerce Commission show that 150 class 1 steam railways had an aggregate net income of $16,791,298 for September after taxes and charges, compared with $6,637,459 for September 1932. Their net loss of $39,296,496 for the 9 months ending September 1933 compared with net loss of $164,283,471 for the first 9 months of 1932. All of the gain is recorded since July, when the NRA got in motion. As a result, some of the railroads, in agricultural as well as industrial regions, have shown exceptional gains. The Chicago, Burlington & Quincy estimated earnings for the first 11 months of 1933 at $4,812,463, against $1,547,034. Net income of the New York Central in October was $201,209, against $45,716 in October 1932.

Chain-store sales for November, on the basis of complete reports from 23 companies, showed a gain of 13.5 percent over November 1932. Sales of the same companies in October 1933 were 8.5 percent over October 1932.

In Memoriam

Whereas, it has pleased Almighty God, in His inscrutable providence, to remove from our midst Brother M. C. Childress, who for many years was a faithful member of Lodge No. 411 and has been actively engaged in diversified farming in this county, and

Whereas, he has left an idelible imprint upon his numerous friends and acquaintances of this county by his untiring efforts and self-denial, by precept and example, and

Whereas, as a citizen he has left his community better as a result of his high standards of living and Christian character,

Therefore, Be It Resolved:

That we, members of the Masonic Lodge No. 411, hereby express our appreciation for the services and influence Brother Childress rendered, and

That he will be missed by this Lodge and by his friends and neighbors, and

That we express to the bereaved family our heartfelt sympathy, and

That a copy of these resolutions be spread on the minutes of the Masonic Lodge, a copy sent to the family, and to the county papers.

CITIZENSHIP RESTORED TO 1,500 PERSONS JAILED IN WORLD WAR

Washington, Dec. 24. — President Roosevelt restored their citizenship to 1,500 persons convicted of publicly opposing United States participation in the World War or evading the draft, today in a Christmas proclamation.

Those who were deemed to have completed their sentences were covered by the proclamation. Persons, like Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, the Philadelphia draft evader who has been an expatriate since the war, were not included.

The statement by the President that accompanied his official proclamation said:

"During the World War, a large number of persons were convicted under the espionage act and the selective service act of giving utterance to sentiments adverse to the prosecution of the war and to the enforcement of the draft: They have paid the penalty that the law imposed on them. The emergency that made it necessary to punish them has long expired. Fifteen years have elapsed since the end of the war.

"Accordingly I have issued a Christmas amnesty proclamation extending a full pardon to all persons who were convicted of such war-time offenses, and who have complied with the sentences imposed on them. The effect of this proclamation is to restore to such persons their full civil rights.

"The benefit of the proclamation extends to all persons who were convicted of violations of Section 3 of Title 1 of the espionage act or of a conspiracy to violate the same; r of a conspiracy to violate Section 5 of the selective service act; provided that they carried out the terms of the senences which the courts inflicted. The former statute relates to the publication of seditious literature and the making of seditious speeches; the latter provision covers conspiracy to obstruct or interfere with the enforcement of the draft.

"The proclamation expressly provides that the pardon does not extend to any other offenses than those specifically enumerated, whether committed before or after such offenses."

Justice Department officials who have checked the records of those convicted under the espionage and selective draft acts, two of the most rigorous ever enacted in the United States, said that about 1,500 persons would be affected by the presidential proclamation.

Most of those were convicted of either making or publishing speeches opposing the war.

Probably the most famous of these was Eugene V. Debs, the late Socialist leader. After being sent to jail for his opposition to the United States taking part in the World War, he was pardoned by President Harding in 1921 and died five years later.

Victor Berger, another vigorous opponent of the war who at one time was convicted of violating the act, also died several years ago. Berger, however, subsequently served in Congress. None of the persons affected by today's proclamation are still in jail, their sentences having been finished long ago.

Restoration of their rights of citizenship will allow them to vote and fully participate in the privileges that are accorded citizens of the country.

This was the third time in the history of the republic that general amnesty proclamations have been issued; George Washington and John Adams issued similar proclamations in the early days of the republic restoring citizenship to persons who had taken part in Pennsylvania's whisky rebellion.

On Christmas Day of of 1868, President Andrew Johnson in a proclamation granted a full pardon to those who had taken part in the War Between the States.

WHAT NEGROES ARE DOING

By G. E. K.

I think we as a race should feel very grateful toward Prof. Anderson and students of the Chilton County Training School, for their efforts put forth to indulge the Christmas Spirit; by rendering beautiful selections in a very calm hour of the "night."

In reality they were trying to make everybody happy and give to them a wonderful spirit for the following day. We always think of Christmas morn as being very sentimental and harmonious.

"Here you stand at the parting of the ways," some road you are to take; and you stand here, consider and know how it is that you intend to live. Carry no bad habits, no corrupting associations, no enmities and strifes into the New Year. Leave these behind, and let the Dead past bury its Dead; leave them behind and thank God that you are able to leave them."

Mrs. Grace I. Brown, Norfolk, Va., sued her divorced husband for $10,000 heart balm because he refused to marry her again.

Twelve friends attending a wake for Arthur Ternes, Albion, Neb., fell ill in the house where he died mysteriously.

The day after Mrs. Anna Cummings, Chicago, won a carving set she used the knife to stab to death her estranged husband.

FINANCIAL STATEMENT

Of The

Town of Clanton, Ala.

To The Citizens of the Town of Clanton:

At this time the Mayor and Council wish to submit to its citizens a financial statement of the Town of Clanon, Alabama, as of September 30, 1933. Under the law the Town is required each year to have an audit made of the Town's affairs by a competent auditor and this year the services of Joseph E. Miller, Public Accountant of Montgomery, Alabama, was procured in making this audit.

For your information we wish to call your attention to the financial condition of the Town as of October 6th, 1930, which was published in the local papers and the present financial condition of the Town. You will note that during the past three years the Town has operated within its income, having contracted no new obligations which could not be met within the year, and has paid on old obligations such as notes and open accounts about 30,000 Dollars. On account of the financial condition of the country at large the Town's revenues have been reduced materially and we have had to adjust our budget accordingly. Our aim has been to operate the affairs of the Town as economically as possible and at the same time serve the Town as progressively as we deemed advisable.

ORATORIO TO BE REPEATED AT FOURSQUARE CHURCH

The Sacred Oratorio, "Regem Adorate" composed by Aimee Semple McPherson, is to be repeated at the Clanton church of the Foursquare Gospel, Friday, December 29, 1933, at 7:00 p.m.

The Oratorio was presented to a capacity audience Christmas Eve, and at the request of many who attended and many who could not be present, Rev. Harry B. Miller, the pastor of the church, says he will repeat the Oratorio.

The entire Oratorio is not presented, but will be presented to the Clanton people in the near future. Because of the lack of equipment and singers the entire Oratorio could not be presented at present.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our appreciation to our many friends who remembered us during Christmas with a gift, each of the four churches we are serving sent Christmas greetings with gifts. The Eastview church gave us an offering, nine beautiful cakes, and many presents.

The Mt. Springs church gave an offering and many nice presents. The Eclectic church gave an offering, some boxes of nice things to eat, and the Seman church gave an offering.

We cannot find words that would really express our heartfelt appreciation to our friends for those kind and loving favors that made Christmas more real and merry to us.

Also we wish to express to those friends who have been so willing to lend a helping hand during the long illness of Mrs. Nelson, our highest appreciation. We shall never forget them.

MOVE BEGUN FOR PAVING IN ROCKFORD

Application For Aid In Project Has Been Made To CWA Official

Rockford, Ala., Dec. 24.—A. L. Lecroy, Mayor of Rockford, made application Saturday to Mr. Benjamin Gross, civil works administrator, for aid in the paving of the main street side walks, inside incorporated limits.

It is estimated that there would be 1,676 lineal yards or 2,095 square yards of this sidewalk, and the project would furnish work to a great number of men.

The papers were mailed to Montgomery for approval and if they are approved, work would probably be begun on this project at an early date.

PLEASANT GROVE

Jemison

A very merry Christmas to everybody!

Sunday was our regular preaching day. There was a large attendance Sunday night. Our pastor, Rev. J. C. Miller, resigned as pastor. We regret very much to give him up. He has given us a little more than three years of the most faithful service that our church has ever had from any pastor. May God bless him in his work elsewhere.

There was a very sad accident happened at the home of the Champion sisters last Wednesday at 12:30 o'clock. Crawford Reed (colored) was cleaning out a well for them and a can of mud fell more than 50 feet and hit him on the head and killed him instantly. "Uncle" Crawford was well known over this county. He had been digging wells for 30 years. He was 64 years old.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Champion and Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Champion spent last Tuesday with the Misses Champion, also Mrs. Clover and Mrs. Jimmie Franklin paid them a visit Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Miskelley and little brother, Leo Miskelley, have gone to Cleveland, Ala., to spend Christmas with her mother, Mrs. Belenger.

Mr. Phillip Franklin and relatives, Mr and Mrs. Johnson of Siluria, went to Pensacola, Fla., to stay until Thursday.

Burnie Davenport is at home from Talladega where he has been in school. He is to return back to school the first of the year.

Murice Hodgens, one of our very good boys, who is a ministerial student of Howard College, is spending the holidays at home. Briggs Hodgens, who has been ill so long, was at church Sunday and Sunday night. We are sure glad to see him able to be going about again.

Miss Bertha Lee Price is on the sick list.

Misses Rubie Wright and Dulcie Champion visited Mrs. Laura Franklin and Mrs. Geo. Spivey Saturday p.m.

Cyrel Baggett visited his sister, Mrs. Vasteen Davenport Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Vasteen Davenport spent Saturday night with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Davenport, also the Davenports are having as their guests this Christmas their daughters, Mrs. Newton Peoples and children and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Davenport and children.

Mrs. Phillip Franklin and two little cousins dined with Mr. and Mrs. Tom Zouber Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Dawson and his mother, Mrs. Dovie Dawson, are spending Christmas with Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Franklin.

Rev. Miller and Mr. Jasper Smitherman, also Mr. and Mrs. Frank Davenport and Miss Edith Champion took dinner with the Misses Champion Sunday.

Quite a number dined with the Prices Sunday, among whom were Messrs. Maurice Hodgens and Briggs Hodgens.

Overcome Pains
this better way

WOMEN who get into a weak, run-down condition can hardly expect to be free from troublesome "small symptoms."

Where the trouble is due to weakness, Cardui helps women to get stronger and thus makes it easier for nature to take its orderly course. Painful, nagging symptoms disappear as nourishment of the body is improved with the assistance of Cardui.

Instead of depending on temporary pain pills during the time of suffering, take Cardui to build up your resistance to womanly ailments.

Thousands of women have found relief by taking CARDUI.

To Processors of Hogs

Effective November 5th, 1933, there is a processing tax on hogs. The rate of tax is as follows:

From Nov. 5, 1933 to Dec. 1, 1933, 50c per hundred lbs.

From Dec. 1, 1933 to Jan. 1, 1934, $1.00 per hundred lbs.

From Jan. 1, 1934 to Feb. 1, 1934, $1.50 per hundred lbs.

On and after February 1st, 1934, $2.00 per hundred lbs.

The tax is based on the live weight of the hog at the time of processing, (slaughtering).

Every person who slaughters hogs is subject to this tax, except that farmers who raise their own hogs and slaughter them for the use of their own household or employees, and sell none of the products therefrom, are exempt. Farmers who slaughter hogs and sell any part thereof, are subject to the tax at the above rates.

Operators of abbatoirs or public slaughter houses will likewise be subject to the tax. Markets who buy hogs on foot and slaughter them, are also subject to the tax, but the tax on dressed hogs which they buy, is to be paid by the person who slaughters the hogs.

All processors of hogs will be required to render monthly reports, and pay the tax to this office, such reports and payments to be made within the next month following the month in which the processing is done.

Blanks for your use will be mailed as soon as received from the printer.

Respectfully,
HARWELL G. DAVIS,

Letters To The Editor

REDUCTION IN RATES OF ELECTRIC SERVICE

Editor, Chilton County News:

Will you please give me space in your valuable paper to say a few words in regard to the construction The Union-Banner put on Mr. E. A. Crowder's letter that appeared in both The Union-Banner and the Chilton County News of last week, in which Mr. Crowder gave a little sketch of some experience I had with the chairman of the NRA of Chilton county, Mr. Grover Walker, Alabama Power Company and the Public Service Commission of Alabama.

The Union-Banner said a man who can stride single handed [illegible] over Marvin Gore, Grover Walker, the Public Service Commission, and the Alabama Power Company ought not to have his abilities limited to the office of a mere representative in the legislature, he ought to be governor. Mr Crowder said nothing about scraping or striding over anyone. I would be glad The Union-Banner would tell its readers just why he put such a sarcastic construction on Mr. Crowder's letter. I think if he would be fair with Mr Crowder, Mr. Grover Walker, the Alabama Power Company and the Alabama Public Service Commission, he would explain why he pinned on such a head and tail to Mr. Crowder's letter.

If our good editor of the Chilton County News will publish the two following letters of the Public Service Commission and a clipping from the Birmingham Post I think The Union-Banner will see that I did no scraping or striding and also who is due credit. Here are some letters in regard to this:

Montgomery, Oct. 16, 1933.

Mr. A. A. Jackson
Lomax, Alabama
Dear Sir:

We greatly appreciate your letter of October 14th, relative to the change in your rates made by Alabama Power Company

We are making an investigation of this matter and will write you again in the next few days.

Very truly yours,
A. M. DUNSTAN
Assistant Engineer.

Montgomery, Nov. 14 1933.

Mr. A. A. Jackson
Lomax, Alabama.
Dear Sir:

With further reference to your letter of October 14th to the Commission, we are enclosing copy of the Commission's Order of November 10th in Docket 6483, making further revisions in the residential and rural rates of Alabama Power Company.

During the twelve months ending with September, 1933, your average consumption was 17 kwh per month. Under the order which is enclosed herewith, customers served from experimental rural lines will be classed under Group "A" c[illegible] classification "E-1" instead of under Group "B", as was provided in the Commission's order of September 2nd. When this is done the charge for the first 5 kwh will be $1.25 per month instead of $2.00 per month. Based on your average consumption of 17 kwh per month, your net monthly bill will be approximately $1.85 as compared with $2.00 in the past, or a reduction of 15c per month.

We hope that this change which has been made by the Commission will be satisfactory to you. If we can be of any further service at any time, please let us know.

Very truly yours,
A. M. DUNSTAN,
Assistant Engineer

Let the people have the truth.
Respectfully,
A. A. JACKSON.

FAIRVIEW DEMONSTRATION CLUB

Miss Pardue, our Home Demonstration Agent, met with the members of the Fairview Demonstration Club last Tuesday afternoon. Most every member was present and ten new members were added to the roll which we were very proud to have.

A business session was held with our president, Miss Jewell Foshee, in charge. Plans were discussed for a community club house. After the club house discussion Miss Pardue took charge and gave a very helpful demonstration on "Keeping our hats up-to-date." A number of hats were cleaned and blocked, some were remodelled. Plans have not yet been set on just what we will do at our next meeting. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Ola Edwards, on January 16. We hope every member will be present and bring someone with them.

Parity Prices Real Cotton Plan Goal

Return to a "parity" or "fair share" price for cotton is the real goal of the national cotton production adjustment program.

Parity price means a price which will give a bale of cotton the same buying power it had in the pre-war period, 1910-14. In other words, a price which will make it possible to buy as much with a bale of cotton as a farmer could buy with a bale of cotton before the war.

Just what this price will be at any given time will depend upon the price levels of the things a cotton grower has to buy. If the price of shoes and tools and other retail goods is up, the price of cotton will have to be correspondingly high in order to bring the cotton grower "parity".

The relationship between the price of cotton and the price levels of other commodities is what counts. To bring back this fair buying power relationship for cotton is the basic purpose of the Government cotton program.

The cotton plan makes it possible for the growers of the county to cut down their production, in order to lower existing surpluses and work back toward "parity" price levels. And the rental and benefit payments make it possible for them to reduce production without loss of immediate income.

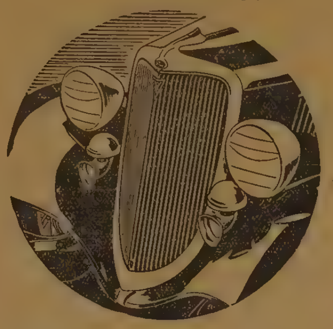
Let the car speak for itself



HUNDREDS of thousands of people now own and drive Ford V-8 cars. Some neighbor or friend of yours has one. If we told you what we think of the car, you might say we are prejudiced, so we let the car and its owner tell you.

Economy of operation is one of the first points they will emphasize—the owner will boast of it and the car will prove it.

The 1934 car is even better than the 1933—and that was our best car up to its time. The new car is more beautiful—faster—more powerful—gives more miles to the gallon—better oil economy—is easier riding—cheaper to own and operate than any car we ever built.

You owe it to yourself and your pocketbook to ask our Ford Dealer to let you see this car, and let you drive it for yourself. At the wheel of the car you will be sure to reach a right decision. The Ford V-8 will tell you its own story.

Brief Rural Topics

The cotton acreage reduction program means the growing of more food and feed for home use and the growing of more soil improving and erosion preventing crops.

Government estimates indicate three billion tons of soil are washed from fields and pastures in the United States each year.

Rock phosphate, the chief source of phosphoric acid in fertilizers, occurs in immense deposits in Tennessee, Florida, and in several of the western states.

The soybean is the most nearly perfect substitute for meat that is grown. It contains 40 per cent of protein, 20 per cent of fat, and vitamins A, B, and D.

Of the animals whose milk is commonly used for food, the cow alone secretes milk containing a colored fat. Milk from the goat, ewe, camel, and water buffalo is practically colorless.

Soybean oil is used in making paints, varnishes, linoleum, soaps, glycerin and lecithin. It is especially useful in the manufacture of automobile top dressings, water-proofings, and in linoleum manufacture because in drying it does not tend to crack.

PASSION PLAY FROM FRIEBURG, IN B'HAM DECEMBER 27TH-28TH

The world famous Passion Play from Freiburg, Germany, will be presented in the Phillips High School Auditorium in Birmingham at matinee and evening performances, Wednesday and Thursday, Dec. 27th and 28th.

The German cast will present the play in English as translated by Dr. Alfred E. Wolf. Post No. 1, American Legion is sponsoring it.

This is the same play with the same cast of characters which thousands of people have paid from $2.00 to $15.00 each to see. It was given in Amarillo last year, and in other cities all over the United States during the past five years that the cast has been in America.

Matinees will begin at 2:30 o'clock and the evening performances will begin at 7:45 o'clock. School children will be admitted for 25 cents in the afternoon; seats for the evening performances will range from $1.00 to 50 cents. Wednesday afternoon has been designated as a special time for school children who will be admitted for 25 cents.

The Passion Play as it will be presented in Birmingham is probably the finest example of the play which has passed through all the stages of change and expansion, and which now after more than 800 years is still being given.

The play is very similar to the Passion Play of Oberammergau, which is perhaps better known because of the publicity given it by Cook's travel agency of England and Europe.

The Ober Ammergau play, which is only presented every ten years, has never been given except in its native city, and it never will be because it is against the religious convictions of the people.

Characters in the Passion Play live the history of the New Testament days. The text of the play is little changed from that presented in front of the Cathedral at Freiburg in 1264, long before Columbus discovered America.

The common people in that era of feudalism were cramped between the vast power of ecclesiastical autocracy and the nobility; they were sunk in ignorance hardly understandable in this day and age. The most fantastic superstitions were accepted as truths.

They had few forms of entertainment; so it was they who turned eagerly to such spectacles as the Passion Play. In Europe, in the Middle Ages, there was no entertainment to compare with it. With the purest form of the Passion Play in its day of glory, history and legend credited it with being the outstanding example of medieval magnificence.

In the present production, no expense has been spared to make it the most beautiful and elaborate spectacle ever presented to an American audience. Hundreds of costumes are carried by the company for the large list of extra people used in the play; angels, water carriers, virgins, followers of the Master, etc. A great non-descript crowd of men, women, and children are dressed in the period of the time. The players convey the atmosphere of this sacred drama to the hearts of both portrayers and hearers.

Here are some of the Rules for Life: Make few promises. Always speak the truth. Never speak evil of anyone. Keep good company or none. Drink no intoxicating liquors. Good character is above everything else. Be honest if you would be happy. When you speak to a person look into his eyes. Spend less than you earn. Live within your income. Never run into debt unless you see your way out. Good company and good conduct are the essentials of virtue. Good character can be injured only by your own acts. If evil is spoken of you let your life refute the falsehood. If your hands cannot be employed, attend to the cultivation of your mind. Read the above carefully and thoughtfull.

220 PEOPLE ARE NOW BUSY ON CWA IN COOSA

Believed That Entire Quota Will Be Placed On Jobs This Week

Rockford, Ala., Dec. 24.—With 220 people employed and hundreds of others renewing their applications with the National Re-employment Service, work swung into speedy action this week on the Several CWA projects which have been approved over Coosa County.

Under the direction of Benjamin Gross, Civil Works Administrator, and Winston Sheenan, Manager of the county re-employment offices, it is believed that the entire quota will be placed this week.

A number of the projects are to keep the county's quota working and as the different community projects are completed and additional projects approved, it gives other people a chance to be employed.

Some of the projects and the number of people they are giving employment are:

NRS Office—7 people.
ERS Office—5 people.
CWA Office—5 people.
Goodwater Water Works Project — 24 men.
Goodwater High School Project — 10 men.
State Maintenance—22 people.
Sanitation Survey—3 women.
Dist. 1 Road Work—15 men.
Dist. 2 Road Work—16 men.
Dist. 3 Road Work—16 men.
Dist. 4 Road Work—16 men.
Goodwater Sign Painting Project—11 people.
Weogufka High School Project—14 people.
Hanover, Bradford and Fishpond Community Houses Project—18 women.
Drainage Project, Dist 1—7 negroes.

Additionals to be put to work on these projects this week number ten more persons.

Also 5 people will be given employment on the tree planting project in Rockford and 7 will be given work on the Rockford Elementary school project, this week.

NRA PROCEEDING AGAINST WILFUL CODE VIOLATORS

Washington.—NRA is moving swiftly and vigorously against violations of codes of fair competition and the President's Reemployment Agreement. Announcement was made that approximately 100 cases of violations of the price schedule adopted by an overwhelming majority of the members of the cleaning and dyeing industry will be turned over to the Federal Trade Commission for prosecution. These are located in 27 different States. About 150 others who also were called before NRA for hearings agreed to abide by the prices their industry had adopted.

The first instance of an alleged violator of the lumber code was W. E. Belcher, of Centerville, Ala., for failure to comply with minimum-wage and maximum-hour provisions. In a memorandum to the Department of Justice it was pointed out that subdivisional authorities had "exhausted their powers" in efforts to bring about voluntary compliance, hence the matter was placed in the hands of the Attorney General. Affidavits supported claims of laborers that their hours were unlimited and their pay 10 cents an hour.

Sixteen employers in 12 States were summarily ordered by telegraph to surrender their Blue Eagles and not again use them without written consent from Washington. More than half of the alleged violators of the Presidential Agreement are proprietors of restaurants, a Chinese among them. Others conduct beauty shops, a livestock auction, a paint contractor, and a bakery. All had been admonished and warned by local compliance boards to comply with their voluntary agreements as to labor conditions, and had refused or ignored both personal and formal notices.

Mrs. Ethel Ponchard of Duluth was fined for thrashing her father-in-law when he interfered in a quarrel between her and her husband.

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA

To the Customers of
Alabama Power Company:

A citizen of Birmingham, who is an electric consumer, recently wrote a letter to the Editor of the News containing this:

"As a utility customer, I have been very much interested in what municipal ownership would do to me; and I have investigated carefully just exactly what municipal ownership is now doing for 14 cities in this State where the electric utilities are operated by the city governments. I have no connection with either the Alabama Power Company or the Birmingham Electric Company.

"Those proposing municipal ownership of utilities for Birmingham [illegible] of quoting electric rates at Tacoma, Washington, Canada and other far away places. They overlook the fact that here in [illegible], we have 14 cities [illegible] electric distribution systems. [illegible] these Alabama cities [illegible] owned [illegible] I find [illegible]: the rates [illegible] Company and the [illegible] Company, [illegible] municipally-operated [illegible] per cent to 75 per cent higher. [illegible] ownership [illegible] why have not the [illegible] in these 14 Alabama cities [illegible]

"Tacoma, Washington, [illegible] example of municipal ownership. It should be known, however, that the [illegible] rate in Tacoma is [illegible], as compared with $3.60 in Birmingham. It [illegible] a good deal of city taxes to keep the Tacoma plant going."

That letter of the Birmingham citizen expresses more clearly than we can write the real facts about municipal ownership of electric utilities in Alabama.

Yours very truly,

President.

Letter No. 10

Sign-Up To Start New Year's Day

Celebration of "New Year's Day" [illegible] Alabama farm people this year will include the beginning of the "sign up" of cotton acreage reduction contracts for 1934-35.

The new cotton campaign will begin [illegible] New Year [illegible] Alabama [illegible] other 15 cotton producing states.

The goal is to restrict cotton planting in the South in 1934 to 25,000,000 acres, or to about 60 per cent of the 1928-32 average. Farmers will sign contracts agreeing to cut their individual plantings to 35 to 40 per cent of the five-year average for 1928-32.

"Early reports from county agents indicate that producers in Alabama realize the great need for restricted production and that they will respond to the program almost unanimously," Dr. Duncan said. County Agents and county beat committeemen are charged with responsibility of administering the program in the counties.

Growers who sign and carry out contracts will receive rental payments of 3½ cents per pound on the average yield of lint cotton per acre on the rented acres for the years 1928-32, inclusive. The maximum payment per acre will be $18. In addition a parity payment of not less than one cent per pound will be paid each farmer on his "farm allotment." By farm allotment is meant the proportion of his crop that was consumed domestically in the years 1928-32, that is 40 per cent.

The program is expected to result in the distribution of about $125,000,000 to farmers of the South.

CENTER HILL

(Intended for Last Week)

Oh, Gee! What rainy weather and muddy roads.

Sunday school was fairly good Sunday. Was glad to see Mrs. Francis Hudman able to come to Sunday school and take charge of her class again. Also was glad to have so many visitors. Come again.

Center Hill was well represented at the singing at Mars Hill Sunday afternoon.

Sorry it was raining Sunday night so that there wasn't a large crowd out to hear Bro. Maurice Hodgens. Those who did go sure enjoyed his sermon. Maybe he will preach for us again real soon.

Mrs. Russell Scott has returned home after spending the first part of last week in Birmingham with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Thormbro.

Mr. Leo and Miss Addie Collum [illegible] Miss [illegible] Northcutt near [illegible] spent Wednesday night with their cousin [illegible] school house.

Mr. and Mrs. [illegible] Cobb, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Cobb spent Saturday in Clanton visiting Mr. and Mrs. [illegible]

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Miller spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Miller.

Miss Arzella Wright of Jemison spent the week end with Miss [illegible]

Mr. and Mrs. I. E. Cobb and son, Raymond, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Cobb.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Scott spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Holsomback, of Mars Hill.

Mrs. Louis Gillespie and sons [illegible] and Berney Wayne, [illegible] visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. [illegible] Cobb.

Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Miller of Pleasant Grove are visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Miller.

Miss Mable Cobb was the [illegible] guest of Miss [illegible]

Miss Addie Collum [illegible] a party Saturday night in honor of her guest, Miss Arzella Wright.

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Atkinson of Jemison visited at the home of their daughter, Mrs. J. W. Collum, Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Collum are gone to Birmingham to day (Tuesday).

Mr. V. Miller spent part of last week in Birmingham.

Remember, next Sunday afternoon is singing evening here.

Dr. and Mrs. V. J. Gragg of Clanton were in this community Sunday afternoon. They stopped by to see little Miss Imogene Cobb, who has been sick and crippled for about sixteen months and spent some time in the hospital in Clanton last spring. Dr. Gragg and the nurses of the Central Alabama Hospital have done a wonderful work to get this child to where she can walk again without crutches.

Rev. J. E. George spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Cobb.

Thirteen years after they obtained a license to wed, Walter Meyer and Vesta Jones, Detroit, were married recently.

POPLAR SPRINGS

The Yuletide greetings were with everybody that went to Poplar Springs last Sunday, December 24. Everyone seemed to have the Christmas spirit, which made the singing better. The house was well filled.

The following directed: A. O. Boswell, Emmitt Wilson, J. Z. Mims, O. L. Devaughn, Aiken Collins, L. T. Grant, Dewey Hughes, Ralph Grant, J. B. Crew, Ira Grant, W. F. Gilliland, Dewell Jones, Master Robinson. The Frisky Four quartet from Cooper sang two songs, also a number of other quartets were arranged from the class. A duet was sung by Lena Mae Devaughn and Ralph Grant. Mr. W. M. Devaughn sung the closing song and we were dismissed by our pastor, Bro. Lowery.

Poplar Springs wants to thank each and everyone that helped us spend such a glorious day, giving thanks to the Lord. We also enjoyed the fine talks and words of encouragement that were given Sunday. Let's don't forget the next singing day here the second Sunday in January, 1934, at 1:30. We invite everybody to come and help us start the New Year off right.

—Secretary.
